RICHMOND, Aug. 18.—The situation has been quiet here since the terrible riot of Friday. Gov. Ross arrived yesterday with the Brenham Light Guard. It is thought the military will not be needed, as the sheriff has been killed and his deputy wounded. No arrests have been made, nor has any inquest been held. It is thought all will be left to the grand jury for settlement.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by purifying and enriching the blood, improves the appetite, aids the assimilative process, strengthens the nerves, and invigorates the system. It is, therefore, the best and most thoroughly reliable alterative that can be found for old and young.

Hi Temper.

is more rapidly improved by relief from physical suffering than in any other way. Step on your friend's corn, and the impulse to strike is strongest. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, by quickly and painlessly removing them, insues good nature. Fifty imitations prove its value. Beware of substutes. "Putnam's," sure, safe, painless.

Help Wanted

BY all who suffer from dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, jaundice, liver complaint, rheumatism, dropsy, etc. Lose no time in procuring Burdock Blood Bitters, nature's regulator and tonic. It is a prompt and permanent cure for all diseases of the blood, liver, kidneys, bowels and stomach.

An Old Favorite

THAT has been popular with the people for thirty years is Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for all varieties of summer complaints of children or adults. It seldom or ever fails to cure cholera, morbus, diarrhœa and dysentery. 2w31d

Mystic Words.

I CAN recommend Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for chronic diarrhœa, as I have used it for two years and can get nothing else that helps me like it. JANE TAYLOR, Mystic, P. Q. This medicine cures all summer complaints. 2w31d

TO THE DEAF.—A person cured of deafness and noises in the head of 23 years' standing by a simple remedy, will send a description of it FREE to any person who applies to NICHOLSON, 30 St. John street, Montreal.

As a TONIC and relief to sufferers from Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, loss of appetite and general debility Dyers quinine and Iron wine is highly recommended. W. A. Dyer & Co. Montreal. 6d43

For Toilet Use.

Ayer's Hair Vigor keeps the hair soft and pliant, imparts to it the lustre and freshness of youth, causes it to grow luxuriantly, eradicates Dandruff, cures all scalp diseases, and is the most cleanly of all hair preparations.

AYER'S Hair Vigor has given me perfect satisfaction. I was nearly bald for six years, during which time I used many hair preparations, but without success. Indeed, what little hair I had, was growing thinner, until I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor. I used two bottles of the Vigor, and my head is now well covered with a new growth of hair. —Judson B. Chapel, Peabody, Mass.

HAIR that has become weak, gray, and faded, may have new life and color restored to it by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. "My hair was thin, faded, and dry, and fell out in large quantities. Ayer's Hair Vigor stopped the falling, and restored my hair to its original color. As a dressing for the hair, this preparation has no equal.—Mary N. Hammond, Stillwater, Minn.

VIGOR, youth, and beauty, in the appearance of the hair, may be preserved for an indefinite period by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. "A disease of the scalp caused my hair to become harsh and dry, and to fall out freely. Nothing I tried seemed to do any good until I commenced using Ayer's Hair Vigor. Three bottles of this preparation restored my hair to a healthy condition, and it is now soft and pliant. My scalp is cured, and it is also free from dandruff.—Mrs. E. R. Foss, Milwaukee, Wis.

Sold by Druggists and Perfumers.

PERFECT SAFETY, prompt action, and wonderful curative properties, easily place Ayer's Pills at the head of the list of popular remedies for Sick and Nervous Headaches, Constipation, and all ailments originating in a disordered Liver.

I have been a great sufferer from Headache, and Ayer's Cathartic Pills are the only medicine that has ever given me relief. One dose of these Pills will quickly move my bowels, and free my head from pain.—William L. Page, Richmond Va.

in the western part of the Town, and offer it in lots as per plan annexed. This affords a splendid opportunity to secure a location for your home in a rapidly improving and in every respect the best part of the town. The properties are situated on Cedar and Hatton streets and within a stone's throw of the West Ward School and a short distance of the principal Churches and the Hamilton Co'y. Works.

"ERIN COTTAGE," late the residence of Mr. Elias Thompson, is situated in the centre of the block. This property is for sale or can be had at a bargain. It is a desirable suburban residence.

The lots have good frontages on streets of the standard width and are splendidly located. From the upper lots is afforded one of the best views of the town with ample facilities for drainage.

Several fine dwellings are already contracted for to be built on these lots during this season.

Tradesmen and merchants should inspect this property as it offers the best sites available and convenient to the business part of the town.

Don't fail to call. 340 George street, Opera House Block.

Campers Supplies.

A large assortment of canned meats, fish, vegetables and fruit. Lowry's smoked and spiced meats. The finest brands of ginger ale's, sodas, lager's, ale's, wines, clarets, champagnes, in fact everything you need to be supplied with in camp. The largest stock in Peterborough and best assortment at the Palace Grocery. Elliott & Tierney, George street, Peterborough.

A Boon to Campers.

T. W. Robinson, of the Metropolitan Grocery has opened out a branch shop at Ice House Point on Juniper Island, Stoney Lake, for the convenience of campers and tourists. His stock will be found well assorted in staple groceries, canned fruit, meats, &c, and will be sold at town prices. This opportunity to obtain first class groceries and provisions, immediately in the vicinity of this popular summer resort, should be hailed with delight by all those interested. d

We Go One Better.

Other grocers are greatly excited about the prices of some of their goods. But Geo. Carton keeps quite cool, and goes one better every time. See the crushing value he is offering:—8½ lbs. Rice, for 25c. 8 bars of Electric Soap, for 25c. 8 lbs. of Tea, for $1. Push right through to Geo. Carton's red tea store, where you can carry away more goods for a $2 bill than you can get for $3 in other stores. Corner George and Charlotte streets. dw

Choice, Fresh and Cheap.

Another supply of choice, fresh and cheap groceries, provisions, etc., with a few special lines of teas at unusually low prices now being received and offered for sale at R. H. Green's grocery and provision store, corner Hunter and Aylmer streets, Peterborough. Also fresh butter and eggs, with apples, potatoes and other farmers' produce always on hand, which will be sold at the lowest market prices and delivered to any part of the town. tulw

Fishing in the North.

The Port Arthur daily Sentinel says: Messrs. Mock, Cameron, Irwin and McIntyre, who have been camping out at Carp River for ten days, returned yesterday evening in Kemmerson's steam tug Minnehaha. They appear to have had a most enjoyable time and to have been successful in their fishing. Yesterday morning three of the party—Mr. Emmerson, Dr. Emmerson and Mr. Irwin succeeded in about an hour in capturing over 20 lbs. of choicest brook trout. Four of Mr. Kemmerson's fish netted over nine lbs., and the other gentlemen did about as well.

Free Circus Tickets.

Of course everybody will want to go to the Barnum & Bailey circus on Sept. 3rd, and here is a plan for securing free tickets. Any and every person buying five pounds of tea at Hawley Bros' tea store will be presented with a circus ticket in the shape of a saving in price equal to the price of a ticket. That is, every purchaser of five pounds of Hawley Bros prime tea will get them for fifty cents less than the same quality of goods could be got at any other shop. Call early and don't wait till circus day when there will be a rush at Hawley Bros. for their choice teas, fragrant coffees and elegant glassware.

Good Fishing.

One of the most successful fishermen of the season was Mr. H. H. Wheeler, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Mr. Wheeler and wife have been stopping at the Burleigh Falls hotel for a couple of week, and arrived in town on their way home last evening. During his fortnight's outing Mr. Wheeler caught 32 lunge and 196 fine bass—a remarkably good record. Both Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler speak in the highest terms of our back lakes as a most picturesque and pleasant stretch of water upon which to spend the summer months. They are particularly pleased with the fishing resources of Stony and Lovesick lakes. Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler left this morning for their home in Brooklyn, N. Y. No doubt they will return again next year to wile away the holidays in the vicinity of Burleigh.

—A team of junior lacrosse players went

Willow and Wicket.

An Easy Win for Peterborough by an Innings and 84 Runs.

The Peterborough cricketers have been disappointed in five consecutive home matches, and it says very little for Ontario cricket that a team from another province should be the first to break the spell of luck attending the home matches. The so called "Premier" club of Ontario can send a team to Halifax and St. John, but when it comes to playing little country clubs we are politely informed that the members play cricket for their own amusement only, and that country cricket can go to——well, smash in. If a certain good bowler or a certain good bat is not available some teams stay at home on that pretext,—for reason it cannot be called, and it is therefore with all the greater pleasure that we chronicle the of fact that notwithstanding the inability two of their leading men, Holliday and Turner, the Victoria Rifles, who at the present time are the leading exponents of Montreal cricket, turned up safely at the Oriental on Monday morning. But as their captain says, if he has only himself and six lame men, they have got to come. With this preface we give the following run of the game.

Victoria batted first and scored only 29, Attewell's off breaks and Stratton's leg curves being algebra to the visitors. When the Peterborough's went to bat the "cracks" of the team hit the ball with the back of the bat and got caught. Macdonnell and Rogers (how the latter gets his runs in such safe form with so little practice we can't imagine), make a grand stand and brought down a grand stand, Macdonnel's cricket being especially admired for the beauty of its execution and the efficacy of its result, (one 4 and five 3.'s.) But the cap-sheaf was put on when Hamilton and Rutherford got together. Hamilton contented himself by keeping up his wicket and playing the good balls, while Rutherford whose eye was perhaps sharpened by a succession of small scores, smote the bowling indiscriminately, his 58 having been made in three quarters of an hour, by free hitting, but withal by genuine cricket. One of "Tom's" big hits went over the top of the big tree without touching a twig—one of the biggest hits ever recorded on these grounds.

Hamilton, however, played, perhaps, the finest innings of the day, his defence being magnificent, and the value of his innings can hardly be over estimated. We look regret things from him in the future and for petitions from time to time of the score of 37, not out, will be acceptable except in matches between the Colts and Veterans.

Sailsbury, who, although he has no very large scores to pile up his average generally manages to come to the front in a tight place scored, 15, and the total innings amounted to 194.

Going in again the Montreal boys scored 81. Space will not allow us to give a long account of the innings but it may be said that Mackie played a rattling good innings for 30, and C. Ramsay for 14.

The following is the score:—

NOTES.

Browning the Victoria captain made the largest individual score on this continent something over 200 in a match, Montreal vs. Ottawa, 1880. The fielding of the Montreal men was decidedly the best point although their bowlers bowled a great number of maiden overs until the "Veteran" came in when he quietly spoiled some good analyses.

Business College Notes.

Mr. M. Nesbitt, of Sutton West, county York, entered the College Monday for a complete finance course.

Miss Nellie Sperry and Miss Martha Sperry, town, entered the College this week for a course in shorthand and typewriting.

Miss Mamie Tully, of Midland, enters the College this week for a course in shorthand and typewriting.

Messrs. Bean & Rooney purpose commencing their night classes the first Monday of October, and will continue them throughout the winter months. There have been a number of applicants for these classes already.

Personal.

Miss Clarke of Peterborough is the guest of Mr. George Copeland at the Tabernacle parsonage, Belleville, and accompanied the family to the Islands.

Dr. K. W. Bell, Grand Master of the I.O. O.F., and Mr. Thos. Workman, D.D.G.M., are in Rochester attending the annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of Oddfellows of New York State.

Mr. R. H. Green and Mrs. Green returned home last night from a two months' tour in the American and Canadian Northwest. They kept pretty well on the move, having, in eight weeks, travelled over 4000 miles. Mr. Green reports dry weather in Dakota and better weather in Manitoba. Both are much improved in health as the result of their trip.

Mr. Mowbray Nesbitt, son of the Rev. G. Nesbitt, rector of St. James church, Sutton West, county York, entered the Peterborough Business College this week to take the finance course of the College. This is another token of the popularity of this institution; Mr. Nesbitt choosing this College after a judicious enquiry into the management of the best business colleges in Ontario.

Keene.

From Our Own Correspondent.

It is with deep regret that we chronicle the sudden demise of the late John L. Gillespie, who passed away quietly on Monday, Aug. 12th. Mr. Gillespie had been ill for about three months, during which time he has suffered very much. The deceased has been the leader in the Presbyterian church choir for a great many years, where he will be missed very much. He leaves a wife and large family. The bereaved family and friends have the sincere sympathy of all the people.

The third grand annual excursion of the Presbyterian church choir will be held on Tuesday, Aug. 27th, per Grand Trunk regular morning train to Hastings, where they will be met by the steamer "Daisy" and palace scow, and proceed to Healey's Falls, one of the finest sceneries in Ontario, where they will be allowed three hours to enjoy themselves, etc. They will return to Hastings in time to catch the evening train to Peterborough, 6.45. Fare for round trip: Peterborough, $1; Drummond's, 95c.; Keene, 85c.; Blezard's, 80c.; Hastings, 50c.; Trent Bridge, 25c. Come all and have a jolly time.

Willow and Wicket.

Lakefield vs. Victoria Rifles, was on the slate at the cricket grounds this morning. The Rifles went to the bat and knocked out 54. Lakefield followed and paid a delicate compliment to the Rifles by compiling the same score the latter did yesterday in their first innings—29. The game is not finished at 3.30 o'clock.

An Owner Wanted.

Yesterday afternoon a gentleman picked up a number of articles on the street, and handed them over to Chief Rossel, who will hold them until claimed by the person who lost them. The articles found were a lady's satchel, containing a sum of money, a parcel and a purchase bill.

DURING the dull months of May and June the output of the old established G. M. Weber piano factory, Kingston, will be sold at wholesale prices for cash, from elegantly finished pianos to the cheapest styles, all

NEW NICHOLL'S HOSPITAL.

Beautiful Architectural Embodiment of a Noble Benefaction.

The New Hospital Building—Its Situation and External Appearance—Magnificent Grounds—Description of the Interior—Pen and Ink Replica of the Architect's Plans—Convenience and Elegance—Sanitary Arrangements of the most Modern Approved Character—Plumbing, Heating and Ventilation the Best that can Be Introduced.

Now that the new Nicholl's Hospital is nearing completion, a little reference to the new structure, may not be out of place. Everybody will remember that in the spring of 1885, Mrs. Charlotte J. Nicholls tendered the town, as a memorial of her late husband, who died the previous autumn, the Moira Hall residence for the purposes of a hospital, the gift being accompanied with an endowment of $15,000. The public will also gratefully recollect, how successful the Nicholl's Hospital has been in the fulfilment of the benevolent intentions of the foundress, and that in the fall of 1887, the fact that the Moira Hall for several reasons, was unsuitable for the purposes of a hospital, coming to Mrs. Nicholl's knowledge, she generously offered to give $25,000, a sufficient sum for a new site and a new hospital building. The site selected and procured is situated north of Argyle street, an with an environment of ample breathing space supplying the conditions of abundance of pure, fresh air, and cheerful outlook in every direction.

The building is a handsome structure of 2½ stories in height, the main edifice 40 x 104 feet in area, with a rear wing 32 x 50 and a one story annex for the various offices, 18 x 66 and another structure at right angles to this, 18 x 40. The building is of

THE QUEEN ANN STYLE.

The stone foundations rise four feet above the level of the lawn and above them the red brick work, beautifully tuck pointed, rises gracefully with its cut freestone dressings—window sills and caps and string courses. The central portion of the facade is recessed about seven feet and the verandah and balconies that extend between the flanking portions, as well as the gables that surmount the latter, agreeably break the monotony which a plain expanse of front would present. An effective feature of the brickwork is the panels in rock face brick work beneath the gable windows. From the middle of the front a pointed tower, with hooded dormers on its four sides, ascends. There are two entrances to the grounds of the hospital. One is at the foot of the slope which is, however not a slope but a succession of terraces about fifteen feet in height each. This drive proceeds along the base northward, and at the further end of the grounds takes an ascending sweep to the level of the lawn and upper grounds, passes in front of the hospital and terminates at the top of the hill, where it joins Argyle street. From the drive in front several broad steps lead to

THE MAIN ENTRANCE.

Passing through a vestibule, 8 x 14 feet with a seat on the right, the principal hall, fourteen feet in width, is reached. From this hall on the left opens the office and beyond it the lady superintendent's sitting room, the latter with an open fire place and a French window opening upon the verandah. At right angles to the hall a corridor extends eight feet in width from end to end of the building. From this corridor, in the front range of apartments on the right of the main hall open the reception room and two large wards at either end of the building, each 23 x 25 feet.

On the opposite side of this corridor on the left of the main hall on this floor is the dispensary, composed of a waiting room and private apartment. The waiting room gives on to a verandah formed by a recess, which provides an entrance distinct from the main one. At each end of this corridor on this side are bath rooms and flush closets. At the middle of this side of the corridor and opposite the main entrance is placed that leads to the next floor. However before ascending, one follows the hall rearward to its termination in a corridor, which admits on the right to the dining hall for the nurses and patients, connected by an archway. Accessory to this are pantries, etc. This corridor, which is in the rear annex, has an outer door, leading to a verandah ten feet wide extending the whole length of the annex—fifty feet. A passage extends rearward to the spacious kitchen. On the right side of this passage is a pantry containing the hoist for elevating the food prepared for patients. The hoist extends to the upper story, the well enclosing it having openings on all the floors. On the left of this passage is the back staircase. Off the kitchen is a large pantry, with sinks and every conceivable convenience. In the one story annex are successively a second kitchen and the laundry a most important part of the hospital. This is provided with stationary tubs of slate, one side of which is a wash board, the corrugations chiseled out of the slate. These are provided with hot and cold water. A special boiler and stove are among the complete equipments of this department. Next comes also completely equipped for its purposes. Along the whole front of this one story wing runs a broad verandah which terminates at the woodshed, store room, etc., etc.

THE DISINFECTING APARTMENT,

These compose the accommodations of the first floor. Returning and reascending the stairs one reaches the second floor with hall and corridors, corresponding in size and use to the first. In the middle of the front range of rooms is a sort of ante-chamber to a private ward on the left and giving access also to the second floor balcony. On this side side of the corridor there is also one other private ward and two large general wards, the counterparts of the floor below. On the other side of the corridor to the left of the stairs is with excellent light and all the necessary appliances. At each end are also two bath rooms and flush closets. There are also another private ward and broom rooms, and balconies corresponding to the verandahs in the recesses of the first story.

The landing of the principal stairs is a corridor, leading on the left to a balcony 10x 30 feet. On the right of a passage leading to the maternity ward, are linen closet and pantry provided with sink for washing the dishes, used by patients, before they are sent below on the hoist which passes through this room. On the left of this passage is the matron's pantry and the back stairs to the third floor. The maternity ward is a large airy room opening on the large south balcony.

The third floor of the main building contains a central room opening on a balcony, two large general wards, private wards and the sleeping rooms of nurses and servants.

The third floor of the annex contains the termination of the hoist and sleeping rooms for nurses, etc.

THE TANKS FOR HOT AND COLD WATER ARE also in the third story. The hot water tanks are heated by a separate tubular boiler in the basement, and the cold water tanks are for storage in case of a temporary interruption of water supply.

There are altogether accommodations for about 70 patients—ten private wards and six general wards with ten beds each, not to mention the large maternity ward in the annex. All the wards both general and private are spacious, and well lighted while special attention has been devoted to securing the best sanitary conditions.

With this object in view, the hot water system of heating has been adopted. It has many advantages—there is no danger from fire—the heat is more evenly distributed—there can be no explosion as sometimes occurs when steam is used—the air is not vitiated and desiccated by overheating.

The Gurney hot water system is the one in use. In the basement are situated two of Gurney's largest hot water boilers, and radiators are placed in all the rooms—sufficiently large to give a heat of

SEVENTY DEGREES IN THE COLDEST WEATHER.

Mr. McAndrew, a former townsman, now of Toronto, superintended for the Messrs. Gurney, the putting in of the heating apparatus.

In connection with the heating the Gurney gold pin radiator is used for indirect heating. Fresh cold air from the outside enters a box of coils in the basement and the warm air heated to about 70 is conveyed to the halls into which it passes through registers and finds its way into the rooms. The means for supplying pure air are the best and cheapest in all the rooms and wards cold air is admitted through large metal pipes controlled by a valve. This pure cold air enters the room near the ceiling and mixes with the warm air. In addition, all the rooms have open fireplaces, as much for ventilation as for warmth. And they are no tiny, toy tinman's firepots set in the wall, either, but the largest grates procurable have been used.

But the most attention has been given to the most important matter in a sanitary sense, that is the plumbing. There is no tile drain whatever inside the building, the soil pipes being of iron six feet outside the foundation walls, and these are outside the building. The system of soil pipe passes up through the several floors, taking the waste from the different fixtures, and passes out through the roof. A smaller iron pipe passes up alongside it its whole course and this is used to ventilate all the traps and prevents all syphoning and back pressure in them. This is a feature generally overlooked in all work of this kind done here. The soil pipe is of cast iron with lead joints. These as well as the lead pipes are of specified weight and the latter have "wiped" joints—something only used in first class work. The lead pipes are connected to iron soil pipes by brass ferules and all pipes are exposed, easy of access in case of need. They are painted to correspond with the paint of the room.

All the fixtures have standing wastes (removable for cleaning), in place of the old style of overflow pipe. This admits of cleaning the parts and an avoidance of

A FRUITFUL SOURCE OF FOUL SMELLS.

All the water closets are flush closets—the latest style, and each closet has its own flush tank. The traps to all the fixtures are the "Sanitas" trap which holds a large quantity of water, thus obviating the danger caused by evaporation, and every trap is thoroughly ventilated. There are altogether five flush closets and seven marble wash basins and ten sinks—copper and enamelled iron. The baths, five in number, are of enamelled iron, without any casing. All the fixtures are supplied with hot and cold water, a special tubular boiler in the basement being used for hot water. Each stack of soil pipes has its own tank to supply water in case of failure of waterworks, temporarily. All the plumbing has been done to the specifications of the architect, Mr. W. Blackwell, according to the plumbing by-law of the city of Toronto, and in this, as in all other respects, he has been most assiduous in his efforts to see that none but the best work in every department has been done, That he has succeeded, there is little room for doubt.

PROTECTION FROM FIRE.

The most ample provisions has been made for protection from the consequences of fire. Centrally placed, on every floor, are hydrants with fifty feet of hose, coiled ready for use in case of need. From the highest balcony iron fire escapes from one to another descend, till the ground is reached. There are five of these at different points.

The floors throughout are of maple laid in planks of narrow width. The wood work is painted in cheerful neutral tints, and one peculiarity of all the wards and rooms is the abundance of facilities for securing direct light, and for gaining access to the outer air in suitable weather by means of balconies and verandahs. From all these, and from the front and end windows a magnificent view of the town and country is obtained, and especially from the attic room windows in the main tower. In the foreground is the river running rapidly and beyond green, wooded hill and dale and crop-clad slope. Nor is the picture all still life. There is the traffic on George street visible and in different directions the view obtainable of the rushing trains on the railways, serves to break the monotony of the confinement in a sick room.

A SPLENDID STRETCH OF DIVERSIFIED SCENERY,

Water is supplied the hospital and grounds from the waterworks mains.

In the rear of the grounds are the brick stable and coach house with stabling for horses and cows. Here is also the ice house, a wooden building. In rear of all is the morgue, a brick building with concrete floor and lighted from the roof, a circumstance which admits of its being used for post mortem operations, if necessary. A careful survey of the new hospital building reveals the fact that it is in solidly and substantially built. Not only have the structural conditions been carefully supervised, but in every respect the arrangements tend to secure comfort of patients, the convenience of attendants, the most desirable temperature and the

MOST PERFECT POSSIBLE SANITARY CONDITIONS

In these respects the plumbing and heating play an important part and they have been well done. In fact all those connected with the building operations have performed their part satisfactorily. Mr. W. Blackwell is the architect, Mr. A. Rutherford contractor, and the sub-contractors were as follows:—stone masonry, Mr. J. H. Sherwood; brick work, Mr. P. J. McNamara; plastering, Mr. W. Whitehair; painting, M. Carton. Besides there were separate contracts for the hot water heating, Messrs. E. & C. Gurney, Toronto, plumbing, Adam Hall, and Mr. A. Blade, the grading, terracing and sodding of the ground.

The new Nicholl's Hospital, will, it is anticipated, be ready for occupation some time towards the end of October, at which time further reference will be made to it in these columns.

Good Prices for Cheese.

All the First Half of August Cheese Sold at a Good Figure—Spirited Bidding.

The regular meeting of the cheese board was held to-day. There was a large attendance of buyers and salesmen. The following cheese was boarded:—

PETERBOROUGH.

Keene	201	Warminster	175
Sheaver	210	North Smith	300
Central Smith	100	Cherry Grove	150
Missing Link	100	Warsaw	77
Westwood	175	Norwood	200
Melrose Abbey	90	S. Dummer	180
Pine Grove	101	Otonabee Union	64
Maple Leaf	73

VICTORIA.

Reaboro	175	Bobcaygeon	100
Scotch Line	120	Fenelon Falls	80
Mariposa	75	Downerville	230

Reaboro and Downerville included 75 and 125 boxes respectively of July cheese.

Liverpool quotations were 44 shillings.

The salesmen have reason to be satisfied with the bidding. It was spirited from the start and no time was wasted. Mr. Cook started the bidding with 8½ for the board. Mr. Fitzgerald followed with 8¾ and Mr. Wrighton a sixteenth more. Mr. Fitzgerald advanced to ¾ and Mr. Cluxton 9c for the Peterborough board. Mr. Wrighton then offered 9⅛ for selections and Mr. Fitzgerall 9⅛ also for selections. There being no further advance, he took Keene at that figure. Mr. Fitzgerald again bid 9 3/16 for further selections, and Mr. Cook advanced to 9¼, taking Shearer and Missing Link only. Mr. Flavelle then offered 9⅛ for selections, Mr. Cook bidding a sixteenth better and Mr. Wrighton advancing to 9¼. He took Warminster and Central Smith. Fitzgerald, Cook and Wrighton each offered a sixteenth less for further selections, and while they were settling the question as to who bid first, Mr. Flavelle offered the quarter. He took North Smith factory. Mr. Fitzgerald then offered a sixteenth less for further selections, and again Mr. Cook advanced to the quarter, taking Norwood, Cherry Grove, Westwood, Melrose Abbey and South Dummer. Mr. Flavelle offered 9c. for the balance of the Peterborough boards. Mr. Fitzgerald advanced a sixteenth and Mr. Cook to the eighth. Warsaw refused an offer of 9 3/16 from Mr. Cook, Otonabee Union accepting that figure. Mr. Wrighton's offer of 9¼ for the other factories was accepted only by Maple Leaf.

Then the Lindsay section was disposed of. Mr. Fitzgerald bidding 9 3/10 for Bobcaygeon, on which Mr. Wrighton advanced to the quarter and was accepted. Mr. Cook offered the same and got Mariposa and Fenelon Falls. His bid of 9¼ for the remaining factories (August make) was accepted only by Reaboro. Pine Grove sold to Mr. Fitzgerald for 9 3/16. Mr. Flavelle offered 9¼ for the July cheese on the board, Mr. Cook advancing to 9⅜ and Mr. Flavelle reaching the three quarters, Downerville and Reaboro (July) both sold. Mr. Flavelle offered 9 3/16 for the balance of the Victoria board, and Scotch Line and Downerville, the only remaining factories, accepted.

There being only one unsold factory in the Peterborough section, Warsaw, Mr. Cook took it at 9½.

This cleared off the whole board of 2,578 boxes.

ATTRACTION
TURNBULL'S

It has been our aim for years to print store news that would be universally read. Our methods being right, have succeeded. Fresh items and true statements have won and held ready constituency, which goes to prove that in this age, as well as in the past, that what people want is not fiction but facts. Therefore, when we say we are showing twenty-five new patterns of American Table Oil Cloths, people come for them and find them. We were toomodest in our praise of these Goods last week. The patterns are very new and pretty. As for the Cloth, you will say honesty and durability are stamped on the face of it. They roll up like a piece of paper and do not crack.

Black Dress Goods in high weight are on the move now. We show a new cloth called the Viole, which has a ready demand. It is light, fine and looks well made up. We are showing Black Grenadine Stripes and Brocades. We have about one thousand yards of grey Cotton in ends of from 10 to 30 yards that are 10 per cent. under value. They are all prices, and ten per cent. is worth saving.

Jerseys at $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $2.00, $2.50 that have been from $1.00 to $5.00 Bargains like these go quickly. Plenty of other points of special interest.

Good Evening!

"Had any photos taken yet?"
"No."
"Why don't you? Everybody is taking advantage of the present low prices."
"Oh, well, you don't get good pictures for a dollar a dozen."
"Yes you do. Just look at this one! What better would you want than that?"
"That is good. Who took it?"
"Mr. Sproule. I got a dozen just as good as that for a dollar.
"Why, that's as well taken as the cabinets they used to charge us $3.00 a dozen for."
"Every bit. Oh, Mr. Sproule has woke up the town. You see his new instruments are so perfect that one sitting is all that he requires from you now, so that he makes them over so much quicker.

THE FROLICS OF A FIRE.

A KEG OF POWDER EXPLODES AND SCATTERS THE SPECTATORS.

Gallant Rescue of the Children and Family of Rector Robinet at Tecumseh — An Ice House Blaze at Bradford.

WINDSOR, Aug. 20.—Last night fire broke out in the kitchen of Rector Robinet's house, near the Grand Trunk depot, at Tecumseh. Mr. Robinet was awakened by the smoke about the time alarm was given from the outside, and groping to the kitchen he opened the door. A sheet of smoke and flame blew into his face, driving him backward and singeing and burning his face and head. He ran up-stairs and threw his three children out of the window to neighbors who had gathered around. Some of the crowd rushed into the building and dragged out Mrs. Robinet, who was lying unconscious near the window, a hired man, and Mr. Robinet's father-in-law. The flames next seized upon a wine-house and a carriage-shop adjoining.

The cry went up that there was a keg of powder in the former, and almost as soon as this was announced and while 300 or 400 persons were standing in the road in front of the house the wine-house blew upward and outward, scattering the bricks in all directions.

The people then devoted their attention to other houses in the vicinity, which they saved after two hours' hard work. Dr. Reaume of this place was sent for to take care of the injured. He found Mrs. Robinet badly burned about the right hand and arm. She had also inhaled so much smoke that it took six hours to resuscitate her. Renaud, the father-in-law, was not badly injured, but Mosseau, the hired man, will probably not live. The children escaped with some slight burns. The property loss will be about $8000. Robinet says he does not know what started the fire.

A Cold Day for Brantford's Ice Supply.

BRANTFORD, Aug. 20.—Joseph Waddington's ice house in West Brantford was destroyed by fire last night. The building was insured for $600, contents $900. Loss not known; cause of fire unknown.

Blazes Across The Border.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 20.—Fire broke out in the drying room of the Fall River laundry this afternoon. Fifteen minutes after the roof fell in the building was gutted. The employes narrowly escaped. The laundry was the largest in New England. Loss $25,000.

TONAWANDA, N.Y., Aug. 20.—Early this morning the yard of the big Michigan lumber firm, B. & J. Godkin, was invaded by fire for the second time, and $40,000 to $50,000 damage was done. The yard is half a mile from the nearest hydrant.

EASTERN MILLERS GETTING IN LINE.

They Hold an Organization Meeting and Will Look After Their Interests.

BROCKVILLE, Aug. 20.—A meeting of the millers of the eastern district was held at Brockville to-day. A good representation from the counties of Leeds, Grenville, Lanark, Dundas and Glengarry were present. M. F. Beach of Iroquois was elected president, and J. M. Brown of Carleton Place Sec-Treas.

It was resolved to recommend that all wheat in future be bought from the farmers and also by the carload subject to the tester. Mr. D. Plewes, Secretary of the Dominion Millers' Association, gave an address on the evils and the abilities of the millers and farmers in the Dominion owing to the defferential duties at present in force between wheat and flour. It was resolved to make an unanimous effort to induce the Government to remedy the same. The association will meet in Smith's Falls, Sept. 17, at 4 p.m.

The Misfortunes of Two Fishermen.

HALIFAX, Aug. 20.—Word was received in the city to-day that Charles R. Lantz of Mahons Bay and William R. Langille of Sadcook Island, fishermen, belonging to the schooner White Cloud, who lost their vessel in a fog a few days ago, have been landed at Guyon Island. While setting their trawls on the banks last week a heavy fog set in, preventing the men from seeing their ship. After rowing round for a considerable time the men gave up the task of trying to find the vessel. After drifting about for three days and two nights with no water to drink or anything to eat with the exception of a little piece of raw codfish, they were rescued by a passing vessel and landed on Guyon Island. When rescued the men were in a very exhausted condition.

The Austr an warship Salda arrived here to-day from Portland, Me. It is many years since an Austrian warship visited Halifax.

THE COLOSSAL CARNIVAL.

THE MERCHANTS' CONVENTION THE FEATURE OF THE DAY.

The Great Gathering of Business Men—Discussing Trade Topics—A Gala Night of Illuminations.

HAMILTON, Aug. 10.—Every citizen in even this proud city is satisfied with the graceful way in which Hamilton bowed her welcomes to the thousands of people who poured into town yesterday and to-day. Visitors are talking about the splendor and ingeniousness of the illuminations, and citizens own to each other with a touch of patriotic pride that they never saw the Ambitious City look so wooing as she does this evening. The illuminations are without doubt the finest that ever lit the city. The streets, even to the outskirts, are a mass of gaily glinting lights, and the Gore and the Beach were filled with far-reflecting glory.

People arrived from all quarters in large numbers to-day.

The event of to-day was the opening of the merchants' convention, the most important gathering of mercantile men ever held in Ontario. The first business session was opened in the Opera House at 10.30 this forenoon. Chairman Knox occupied the chair and Mayor Doran, on behalf of the city, delivered a welcome address. Mayor Doran said he was glad that the first convention of business men held in Ontario or in Canada was convened in the Ambitious City. [Applause.] He bade them all a hearty welcome, and trusted that while they reaped profit from their discussions they would enjoy the amusement provided for Carnival week. Speaking as an old commercial traveler he said that an important thing to be done was the establishing of closer relations between buyer and seller, and if they brought this about they would have accomplished much.

Among the merchants from out of town at the convention are: G. A. Sanderson, Bosworth; H. Davis, Midland; H. T. Barker, Stratford; H. B. Ostrasser, Caltus; S. Jones, Col. Skinner, G. C. McFarlane, W. Dolan, D. McMurtrie, W. E. Vernon, E. J. Fenwick, city; J. Scott, Woodstock; R. Rinker, Kincardine; L. Cleghorn, Toronto; J. Boyle, Toronto; S. Wodehouse, Blenheim; W. H. Wodehouse, Stony Creek; C. Mitchell, Cayuga; R. Montgomery, Paris; G. A. McGuire, Springford; D. B. Palmer, Simcoe; J. H. Jackson, Georgetown; J. Smith, Chatham; W. F. H. Hooper, Toronto; N. F. Yoe, London; F. J. Wilkins, Orangeville; F. Richards, Woodstock; G. Goods, J. Brownell, Seaforth; J. Boulson, Hagersville; William Ivey, Jarvis; R. McCleary, Toronto; G. Martin, Hespeler; R. E. Lesseur, R. T. Maxwell, Sarnia; J. Clegg, Moorefield; J. W. Husband, Hagersville; J. R. Gross, Milverton; W. McCarthy, Rockwood; J. H. Burkham, Peterboro; R. Pattullo, Woodstock; C. G. Torrance, J. F. Egan, Montreal; G. W. Scott, Point Edward.

President Bruce of the Board of Trade extended a welcoming hand on behalf of the body he represented. They were not here to pass complimentary resolutions but to talk business. He hoped the outcome of the convention would be more than satisfactory.

Chairman Knox addressed the meeting. The convention, he said, was called for the purpose of correcting abuses, and the subjects to be discussed were chosen after correspondence with a large number of the leading merchants of the Province. If they deemed it wise to form an association to carry out the decisions of the convention, legislation might be influenced in the interests of the business men, reasonable freight rates might be secured, equitable insurance rates and settlements might be arranged for, and the credit business, the root of most trouble, might be restricted and curtailed, and the standard of business men and business methods improved. He hoped that their deliberations might conduce to the protection of retailers and wholesalers alike. Leading retailers were the ones who could exert a strong influence in shortening credits. He considered the retailer and his situation. Many after 40 years' work possessed no greater competency than a house, store and perhaps $2000 or $3000. The reason for this unsatisfactory result was found in evil business methods, such as slaughtering bankrupt stocks, unjust compromises, overloading. Failures had increased steadily from 1873 to 1879. Then there was a lull, but they continued to increase afterwards till the greatest number in this province was reached in 1887—493. In proportion to the failures were the bankrupt stocks. He held that the large number of failures were due to reductions in value of all commodities, the credit system, and want of perception among merchants as to changed business conditions. The cheapness of credits, also, was a great evil. Credit runs too cheap, and the banks, in their anxiety to place loans, were to blame for a good deal of it.

Mr. R. J. McLaughlin, Wallaceburg, presented a paper on "Bankrupt Stocks and Long Credits." In it he deprecated the evil of slaughtering bankrupt stocks in competition with the honest trader. As to credits he held that farmers should give their notes for goods bought instead of being granted a year's credit. He held also that irresponsible parties should get no credits at all. He thought that some scheme of returning goods to wholesale merchants should be thought out in order to do away with the "bankrupt stock" evil.

Mr. Wiseman of Kippen read a paper on bankrupt stocks. He urged that care must be taken not to treat an effect leaving the disease still in existence. He compared bankrupt stocks to an internal cancer, and ridiculed the search for cure among external remedies. He thought the analogy held good. It was the causes that should be sought out. Incompetence, overtrading, overstocking, forward dating, etc., were among the causes detailed. The causes should be treated, the results would then be right. Some of our systems were at fault.

(1). The system of commercial travelers. It was not calculated to work as it did. It was like the N.P., not intended to foster combines, but it turns out that they have become a part of it. A traveler often thought he could see a chance for payment of one bill, but when many such travelers saw as he did the evil was done and thus bankrupt st cks multiplied.

(2). The wholesaler had not the same chance to know his customer and could only have a report at second hand, and not at all like that of personal contact.

(3). The credit system. Good in its place, this credit system was responsible for much of the evil. It gave incompetent men a chance to get stocks and to start out on a "5 per cent. advance on cash" basis. (Laughter.) Unfortunately the credit system had recently been extended, instead of contracted, and the result was the longer credit the wholesaler gave the longer the retailer was forced to give. Incompetent men cannot be prevented from entering into business, but men without resources would be shut out and the wholesaler's duty was to do so. Travelers should not urge weak men to overbuy; the wholesaler ought to know his customer; the stocks of bankrupts should not be sacrificed, and men who habitually cut below living rates should be refused credit.

A long discussion followed, and the subject was finally referred to a committee composed of wholesale men and retailers.

The convention will be resumed to-morrow.

Carnival Chaff.

The Josie Mills Dramatic Company occupy the boards at the Grand Opera House during the week.

A naval battle took place on the Bay to-night.

The Knights of the Golden Eagle of Philadelphia are coming to the carnival.

The 13th of Brooklyn are also en route. Will reach the city Friday afternoon.

The great societies parade will take place to-morrow.

This evening's Times says that the carnival advertises admirably, boosts business, circulates currency, dissipates depression, enlivens energy, fosters fortune, gains gold, helps hope, inflates industry, justifies joy, kindles kindness, lightens labor, multiplies manufactures, narrows nothing, obliterates obscurity, promotes prosperity, quenches quibblers, rattles railers, scouts sceptics, triumphantly takes, universally useful, vindicates vanity, works worthily, excites xpectancy, yells youthfully, seals zealously.

HIS END WAS SUDDEN.

Collingwood Loses Andrew Melville, One of Its Most Known Citizens.

COLLINGWOOD, Aug. 20.—Mr. Andrew Melville of this town died suddenly at 1 o'clock this morning. He went to bed in his usual health, and about midnight a noise in his room aroused the household. Mrs. Melville entered the room only to find her husband breathing his last. The news has greatly shocked the community. Mr. Melville having been a resident of this section since about 1850, when he came to Collingwood. During his life deceased was largely interested in milling and commercial industries both in Collingwood and Nottawa, and at the time of his death was connected with the lumber and grain trade in this town, at Owen Sound and other points. Mr. Melville was a native of Scotland and had nearly attained his 70th year. He was a firm and liberal member of the Presbyterian Church, a large employer of labor and a man of excellent character. He is survived by his widow, two sons and five daughters. The funeral takes place Thursday afternoon.

THE HEALTH OFFICERS SESSION.

They Are Having a Good Time and a Good Meeting at Brockville.

BROCKVILLE, Aug. 20.—The annual meeting of Executive Health Officers of Ontario was held here to-day and was largely attended by leading sanitarians from all parts of the province. Dr. Burrows of Lindsay, president of the association, was in the chair. Col. Jackson, D. W. Downey, Judge McDonald, George A. Dans and Dr. Veux, on behalf of the citizens of Brockville, extended a hearty welcome to the delegates. Suitable acknowledgments were made by Col. Deacon of Lindsay, Dr. Macdonald of Hamilton and Dr. Ray of Oshawa.

A paper was read by Willis Chipman, C.E., Brockville, on the separate system of sewerage. This elicited a lengthy discussion.

When the convention adjourned at noon the members were driven to various points to inspect the Brockville system of sewerage, with which they expressed themselves much pleased.

At the afternoon session papers were read by Dr. Yeomans of Mount Forest, on methods of and facilities for investigation of causes of disease in Ontario; by Dr. Cassidy of Toronto, on carbonic oxide poisoning from stoves; by Dr. Playter, Ottawa, on sanitary legislation; federal, provincial and municipal. A paper by Dr. McLellan of Trenton on a favorite habitat of diphtheria was also read. The papers were all able efforts and called forth spirited and interesting discussions.

This evening the citizens' meeting was held and was largely attended. President Burrows delivered his annual address. An address of welcome for the citizens was delivered by Mayor Derbyshire and responded to by several leading members of the association. Dr. Bryce of Toronto, the able secretary, delivered an address on dangers of our school children, and Judge Reynolds read a paper on legal rights of citizens to sanitary protection.

The proceedings were enlivened by excellent vocal and instrumental music.

The meeting will be continued to-morrow.

THE FATAL EMERY WHEEL.

A Brantford Workman Killed by a Bursting Circle of His Own Name.

BRANTFORD, Aug. 20.—A serious accident occurred to-day at the agricultural works of A. Harris & Co. Henry Emery and Samuel Priddle were employed at one table running emery wheels. The wheel which Emery was running burst, one of the pieces striking him in the head, from the effects of which he died in half an hour. Samuel Priddle was struck by a piece in the abdomen and badly hurt, but it is thought not seriously. Emery leaves a wife and child.

The End Not Yet.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 20.—The end of the alleged vitriol-throwing is not yet. A charge of being accessory to an assault has been prepared against Diamond by Howe and the trial will take place to-morrow.

Madam Tourgis of this city was thrown from a buggy outside the town yesterday and received a severe fracture of the right leg. Mrs. W. D. Fuller and two children, who were also in the buggy, were uninjured.

A regular meeting of the Belleville Cheese Board was held this afternoon, the attendance being fair. Mr. McLaren, President, occupied the chair. The cable was quoted at 44s. There were boarded 405 boxes of white and 360 boxes of colored, making a total of 765 boxes. Sales—R. Thompson, 45 boxes at 9 1-2c.; J. T. & F. H. Warrington, 60 boxes at 9 7-8c.; J. R. Brower, 160 boxes at 9 1-2c. Total sales 265 boxes.

An Ontario Merchant Arrested at Montreal.

MONTREAL, Aug. 20.—J. A. Renard, a merchant of Drummondville, Ont., was arrested to-day on a charge of obtaining goods under false pretences. He represented to Letang & Co. that he owned property free from encumbrance and obtained goods from them to the extent of $200 on the strength of the assertion.

The Thief Escaped to Canada.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Aug. 20.—While at dinner yesterday at his residence, Capt. Hursley of the steam barge Mentor was robbed of $350 from his safe on the boat. The thief proved to be the cook, who crossed to Canada, and although pursued escaped into the woods.

The A.O.U.W. Have a Big Time.

PICTON, Aug. 20.—The A.O.U.W. of Picton had a big rally of the order here to-day. Lodges from Belleville, Trenton, Napanee and Kingston turned out in large numbers. Five steamers brought large excursions. The grounds of the Prince Edward Agricultural Society were utilized to accommodate the immense crowds. Speeches were made by Rev. Mr. Green, J. J. B. Flint of Belleville, Dr. Herald of Kingston, Dr. Platt, M.P., of Picton, and W. J. Porte, D.G.M.W. The chair was occupied by Robert Dobson, M.W., of Picton. There were four bands in the procession, among them being "B" Battery Band of Kingston.

THE CABLE'S DAILY GRIST.

THE INTERCOLONIAL CONFERENCE NOT TO MEET TILL SPRING.

The Canadian Pacific China-Japan Service—Mr. Matthews Still Has Quandary About Mrs. Maybrick's Case.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Cable advices received here from Australia regarding the intercolonial conference state that as the various colonial legislatures now sitting feared that the premier of each colony would be unable to leave his duties, the conference would, therefore, probably be deferred until the spring. Hon. J. J. C. Abbott returns to Canada shortly. Little doubt is felt here that the conference should lead to important results.

The Canadian Pacific China-Japan mail contract, having passed the House of Commons with far less opposition than was expected, measures are being taken to expedite the beginning of the service. Meanwhile a discussion is in progress in The Times regarding the respective benefits of the Canadian and Suez routes to the East. The Peninsular and Oriental Company declare that the attempt to establish a 20-knot service on the Canadian route must result in financial disaster, The Canadian Pacific people reply that they have no intention of being left behind, but look forward to a friendly competition with the Suez route and hope together to establish a splendid round-the-world route under the British flag. Sir George Baden-Powell also writes that trade in and around the Pacific has so increased as to create a positive need for an alternative route. The contract seems to meet almost universal approval.

In a Quandary About Mrs. Maybrick.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The Herald says that there is a great body of scientific opinion which is working in behalf of Mrs. Maybrick, to this extent, that there is fair room for doubt whether she administered the arsenic of which her husband died. This opinion, proceeding from very eminent sources, holds that there is equally grave doubt as to Mrs. Maybrick's innocence, but the element of uncertainty is such as to justify the interference of the Home Secretary. There would then at least be time left for the production of any new facts which might tend to clear up the mystery of Mr. Maybrick's death. These views are undoubtedly having their influence with Mr. Matthews, whose position throughout has been of a very anxious and unenviable kind. But that the duty of deciding so dreadful a question should fall upon him is one of the greatest drawbacks of an office which is seldom a bed of roses. The abuse which has been heaped upon him is wholly undeserved, for he has given a most conscientious consideration to all the facts of the case, with the sole desire of seeing that justice is done. Unless some new phase of the case should occur adverse to Mrs. Maybrick, which is scarcely probable, her life is nearly certain to be spared.

At the same time it is felt by very many who have taken no active part in this agitation that the institution of trial by jury, supposed to be "the palladium of British liberties," will have received another severe blow by the reversal of the verdict found at the Liverpool trial. Success in this case will inevitably lead to similar agitations whenever a prisoner is convicted of murder who was not actually seen to strike the fatal blow or mix the deadly draught.

Politicians in the French Army.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—At a meeting of the ministerial council to-day Minister of War De Freycinet stated that out of 20,000 officers of the active army 59 had been found guilty of participating in political agitation and had been dealt with according to the gravity of their offences. He said also that 21 non-coms had been cashiered.

Bombs and Dynamite.

ROME, Aug. 20.—Last evening a spherical bomb ten centimetres in diameter was thrown from the rear of the Chamber of Deputies into the Piazza Colonna during the progress of a concert. The bomb exploded, wounding seriously six gendarmes and a child. A panic ensued, which was, however, soon quelled, and the injured persons were removed to a hospital.

PESTH, Aug. 20.—A dynamite cartridge exploded yesterday in a coal mine at Doman. Five persons were killed and a number of others injured.

Malieton Back on His Native Heath.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Advices from Apia report the return to Samoa of ex-King Malietoa and other exiles. The ex-king was very warmly welcomed by the natives and his own flag was hoisted. King Mataafa also greeted Malietoa with cordiality. The German Consul informed Malieton that he was at liberty to do as he pleased.

THE WALL BREAKING DOWN.

CHINA'S trade with the outside world is increasing. Her customs duties says the Hamilton Times amounted to $26,638,600 in 1888, against $23,622,150 in 1887. Of the imports, cotton goods represent $51,103,700, being 35 per cent. of the total imports. Gray and white shirtings absorb one-third; cotton yarn, one-third; cloths, jeans, drills, sheetings, and cotton lastings, the balance. Woolen goods are expensive and not adapted to Chinese use. In 1888 the imports amounted to $5,862,700. In metals, $8,020,050 represents the value of imports. Of this sum, iron gets $2,512,760; tin, $2,455,250; lead, $1,117,000. A great portion of this iron was railroad, bar and old iron. Tin is exported from China; 2,062,000 pounds were exported in 1888. Of fish, the importation was $3,073,960; matches, $1,162,000; kerosene oil, $2,551,850; rice, $11,077,950. Matches are manufactured in China. Tea and silk made up two-thirds of the export trade. The estimated value of tea, including tea dust, exported in 1888 was $34,836,950, and of silk in its various forms, $36,915,000. As compared with the tea trade of 1887, this statement shows that the trade has not decreased. Besides the quantities stated, large amounts were conveyed overland from Hankow to Russia. Of leaf tea, the value conveyed was $4,005,750, and of brick tea, $53,400. The export of silk shows a falling off in quantity, but the value shows an increase of $561,500. Raw silk fell off 266,667 pounds in 1888, and refuse silk 700,202 pounds, but silk piece goods increased 286,667 pounds. The export of straw braid has fallen off one-half—from 20,126,933 pounds in 1887 to 10,651,456 pounds in 1888. The reason of this decline is said to be the dishonesty of native dealers, who cheated buyers abroad by shipping as of uniform quality bales in the centre of which they had put worthless braid.

IN England women are beginning to take an active part in political and public affairs, which is attributable in a large measure to the existence of the two opposing political organizations which recognise women's right to actively participate in political struggles. We notice that Lady Dilke, wife of Sir Charles Dilke, has been invited to Dundee during the Trade Union Congress to address the Unions as the representative of the Women's Trade Union Provident League. She will also pay a visit to Glasgow, where the trade union organizers have placed her on the list of their Council.

THE statistics of the American Iron and Steel Association shows that the New England mills produced 170,877 tons of rolled iron and steel in 1880, and only 102,711 tons in 1887, a decline of 40 per cent. The production of the Massachusetts mills declined steadily from 114,250 tons in 1880 to 45,853 in 1887. Iron and steel are among the most heavily protected of the industries of the United States, as they are in Canada. The Halifax Chronicle, commenting on these figures, says:—

What the New England iron manufacturers want to remedy is the unfortunate position in which they find themselves in the removal of the duties upon coal, iron ore, crude iron and coke. This they have petitioned Congress to grant, and it should be the prayer of every intelligent Nova Scotian that Congress lend a willing ear to the petition. Nothing else could give such a boom to the mining industries of this Province as the free admission of our coal and iron ores to the New England market.

THE LIFE OF A CHEVALIER.

The Remarkable Career of the Canadian Painter Drowned at Florence

QUEBEC, Aug. 18.—The tragic death of the Chevalier Antoine Falardieu, the Canadian painter, at Florence, by drowning, has created a deep impression among his numerous friends here. Born at Cape Santé, Quebec, of poor parents, in 1842, he forced his way ahead through any number of trials and vicissitudes of all kinds. He was first employed as a clerk in a grocery store owned by Mr. Vesey, who was burned to death in 1855. Shortly after this, having a great taste for painting, he entered the employ of Mr. Fossio, a miniature painter, and subsequently he studied under Plamondon and Hamel. Then he went to Italy and settled at Florence, where he married an Italian heiress of noble birth. All Canadians who visited that city were hospitably entertained by him. Several of his paintings are to be seen at Laval University in Quebec and in the collection of the late Hon. J. B. Renaud. He was created a Chevalier by the Duke of Parma, to whom he had presented a valuable painting which Don Carlos had tried in vain to secure.

A New Judge for British Columbia.

OTTAWA, Aug. 19.—M. W. T. Drake, Q.C., of Victoria has been appointed a judge of the Supreme Court of British Columbia, vice Mr. Justice Gray, deceased. The new judge is of English birth, and was admitted as a solicitor and attorney-at-law to the Supreme Courts in England in 1851. He was called to the bar of British Columbia in 1877 and appointed a Q.C. in September, 1883. He has been a prominent figure in British Columbia politics for some years, having been a member of the Government and president of that body from January, 1883, to October, 1884.

Men-of-War at Quebec.

QUEBEC, Aug. 19.—H.M.S. Bellerophon and the Pylades, from Halifax, arrived in port this morning. The following is a list of the staff of the flagship: Vice-Admiral, G. W. Watson; Flag Lieutenant, E. T. Trowbridge; Captain, C. C. Drury; Commander, G. A. Callaghan; Lieutenant, Hon. W. G. Stafford. The Admiral and officers landed at 3 o'clock this afternoon and proceeded to the Citadel to pay their respects to the Governor-General. The Admiral was saluted by the Citadel guns and received by the band and a guard of honor from B Battery.

Many Distinguished Prelates Will be There.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 19.—The answers to the invitations to the centennial of the Catholic hierarchy to be held in Baltimore Nov. 10 and succeeding days indicate a very large attendance. Fifty bishops of the United States will be present. Cardinal Taschereau of Quebec sent a cordial acceptance and a large number of Canadian archbishops and bishops will doubtless do likewise. An unprecedented feature of the occasion will be the probable attendance of a delegation from Rome, headed by a prelate holding high rank in the propaganda.

How to Select a Wife.

Good health, good morals, good sense and good temper, are the four essentials for a good wife. These are the indispensables. After them comes the minor advantages of good heirs, accomplishments, family position, etc. With the first four, married life will be comfortable and happy. Lacking either, it will be in more or less degree a failure. Upon good health depends largely good temper and good looks, and to some extent good sense also, as the best mind must be affected more or less by the weaknesses and whims attendant on frail health. Young man, if your wife is falling into a state of invalidism, first of all things try to restore her health. If she is troubled with debilitating female weaknesses, buy Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It will cure her. b

Further Great Cures of Skin Diseases by the Cuticura Remedies.

Boy one year and a half old. Face and body in a terrible condition, being covered with sores. Sulphur springs fail. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

I have used your CUTICURA REMEDIES in two cases where it proved to be success-ful. The first was in the case of a boy a year and a half old. His face and body were in a terrible condition, the former being completely covered with sores. I took him to the Manwaka Sulphur Springs, but he did not improve any. I was then advised to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES, which I did. He took one and one half bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, when his skin was as smooth as could be, and is to-day. I used the CUTICURA in his sores and the CUTICURA SOAP in washing him. He is now five years of age and all right. The other case was a disease of the scalp, which was cured by washing with the CUTICURA SOAP and rubbing in the CUTICURA, one bottle of CUTICURA RESOLVENT being used. They have proved successful in every case where I have advised the use of them. It is surprising how rapidly a child will improve under their treatment. I recommend them for any disease of the skin as being the best in the world. This is my experience, and I am ready to stand by my statement. JOHN R. BERO,

An Unbearable Skin Disease Cured.

I have been afflicted since last March with a skin disease the doctors called Eczema. My face was covered with scabs and sores, and the itching and burning were almost unbearable. Seeing your CUTICURA REMEDIES so highly recommended I concluded to give them a trial, using the CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and RESOLVENT internally for four months. I call myself cured, in gratitude for which I make this public statement.

POTT'S DISEASE.

A Bad Curvature Reduced and Entirely Out of Danger.

CHAS CLUTHE, Esq.,
DEAR SIR—This is to state that my boy, aged seven years, was prostrated with Pott's disease of the spine, with very little hopes of recovery. I procured one of your appliances, which was duly fitted, gave great support, and enabled him to run about and play. He is so much improved as to be almost entirely out of danger
Yours truly, S. O. HOWELL,
Innerkip, Ontario.

A Postmaster Well Pleased.

CHAS. CLUTHE, Esq., Toronto, Ontario.
DEAR SIR—Having met with an accident and requiring a Truss, I obtained three different kinds without securing what I wanted. On the recommendation of one of our leading medical men, I got your Spiral Spring Truss, and I would heartily recommend it to any party requiring such an article. It is a splendid thing

MUNCASTER'S.

The Tomphins Mare.

Not much built fur style, but then
You orter see her go.
Along the country roads hitched 'fore
A milk-cart she's my show.
Holds her head too high in air?
Too measly round the flanks?
Jest notice that thar action that's
Kid in them limber shanks.

You wouldn't put yer dust upon
A scarecrow built that way?
You think she h'ain't got any show
To win the race to-day?
She's humble, an' she h'ain't got style—
But you bet she'll git thar!
An' that's the reason why I put
The bull farm on the mar.'

Them "Dragonfly" and "Shootin'star"
Thar on the board's put down
As favorites to win the race—
But Tomphins takes the crown!
So if yer wise you'll lay yer dust
Upon the field to win;
Fur this fine-ribbed critter's bound
To rake them ducats in.

Bid by a boy who brings the cows?
Why, yes, in course; why not?
He knows the mar' an' she knows him,
An' both will scoop the pot.
Five thousand is the dicker I
Have put upon the mar'
You think I'm crazy? Jest you wait
An' see the hoss git thar!

Thar they go! No; all called back
To start the thing once more.
You noticed how the Tomphins mar'
Was hindmost at the score?
That is her way, she's modest-like—
They're off! HURRAY! HURRAY!!!
The Tomphins mar' she stays behind—
Because she's built that way!

Lord! stranger, what a dusty pace!
Thar, "Shootin'star's" ahead!
You laugh, haw, haw! because the mar'
Is draggin on like lead.
The half-mile post is passed an' she
Is still too fur behind.
You snort, an' say the farm is gone
An' I've been crazy blind?

The race h'ain't done it's jest commenced.
The mar' will find hur grit;
She allers does it on the stretch
That leads hur hum—then wait!
Great Scott! the pace is killin' hot!
Them favorites is fast,
But when they come on with the string
The old mar' won't be last

Got got! old mar'!!! The boy has done
What I told him before,
He's whispered in the old mar's ear.
"That's corn upon the floor!
A rush! they come—a whirlwind sweeps
The humps herself down thar!
The farm is safe an' I have won
My pile on Tomphin's mar

H. S. Keller, in Judge.

Lem Hill's Funeral.

Another of the queer characters in White Horse camp was a man known as Lem Hill. He was as mild as buttermilk and as dull as a hoe, and no one ever thought of asking his advice or interesting themselves in his affairs. One day he took sick, and after a period lasting about three weeks it was seen that he must die. It was deemed best that some one should break the news to him, and so "Judge" Kelso dropped in and said:

JUDGE KELSO. "Lem, you are going to turn up your toes before another sunrise."

The judge didn't mean to be sudden or unfeeling, but that was his way.

"I guess I am," quietly replied Lem.

"Well, that p'int being settled and no exceptions taken, what last requests hev ye got to make? We want to do the fair thing, you know, although it's a busy time."

"Kin I hev a funeral?" queried Lem.

"You kin."

"Reg'lar procession?"

"Yes."

"I don't expect any coffin, of course, but I'd like to hev the affair pulled off reasonably decent. You kin plant me on the hill beside the Frenchman. I guess we won't quarrel."

"Yes, we'll do that, though it's purty hard digging up thar."

"Needn't mind going over a couple of feet," said Lem, "and the fellers with the body had better take the left-hand path as they go up; it's easier to climb."

"Got any wealth?" asked the judge, after a moment's silence.

"A couple of ounces, mebbe."

"Mighty slim show for a big spread on that, but we can't help it. Well, Lem, it's my busy day you know, and I must cut this short. Hope you won't take offense."

"Oh, certainly not. Don't neglect work on my account. Sunthin' said at the grave?"

"Just a few words, Lem, and I'll say 'em myself. I'll practice up this afternoon and git some whisky to clear my throat. I want to make a decent job of it."

"What'll you say?"

"Why, that you died happy—hev left an aching void—we shall all miss you—cut down in your prime. I'll lay it on purty thick."

"Well, I'm sure I couldn't ask for more, and perhaps it's better than I could expect. So long, judge. Go back to your work, and I'll go on with my dying."

And the judge left the shanty whistling as was his wont, and Lem had been dead over an hour before word came to us down in the gulch. The funeral came off the next morning, and it has always been a pleasant remembrance with me that the judge did considerably better than he agreed to. He gave two eulogies in place of one, and after the burial he licked one of the men who wouldn't knock off work to attend.—New York

Long Distance Telephoning.

CHICAGO, Aug.—18.—The operation of the first long distance telephoning system west of New York state was successfully inaugurated here to-day, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company long distance telephone company), formally opening the lines between Chicago and Milwaukee. The boats made were of a character to illustrate the great improvements that have been made in the art of telephony, particularly the utilization of complete metallic circuits. A whisper could easily be heard between Chicago and Milwaukee over the metallic circuit.

Montana's Big Forest Fires.

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 19.—The forest fires, which have been raging all over Montana for three weeks and have destroyed hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of timber, have reached alarming proportions. A gentleman from Northern Montana reports that on the ranges in Chasteen county, which heretofore have escaped and on which cattlemen were depending to keep their stock this winter, thousands of cattle are being burned to death. The big companies have over 300 men out trying to subdue the fire, but the small streams are dried up and the flames leap over them as quickly as if traveling on an open prairie. In two days the fire traveled over a section 60 miles wide and 100 long. Georgetown is surrounded by fire, and the strong wind has brought the flames within five miles of Phillipsburg.

In the Yellowstone pineries fire covers an area of eight miles and is rapidly spreading. Ranges in that section have been almost entirely destroyed.

Liberated on $6000 Bail.

KINGSTON, Aug. 19.—Marshall C. Twitchell, who has been in jail since July 26 for burglariously entering the premises of Mrs. Martin, was brought up before Judge Price to-day to elect if he would be tried before the judge without a jury or await the assizes in October next and be tried by a jury. He elected to be tried by a judge. He was then indicted by the county attorney and pleaded "not guilty." Mr. McIntyre, acting for Twitchell, applied for bail, which was granted until Sept. 16, when the trial will take place. The bail was fixed at $6000, Twitchel in $3000 and William Harty and Peter R. Henderson in $1500 each. Twitchell was liberated from custody.

Ill Temper.

Is more rapidly improved by relief from physical suffering than in any other way. Step on your friend's corn, and the impulse to strike is strongest. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, by quickly and painlessly removing them, insures good nature. Fifty imitations prove its value. Beware of substitutes. "Putnam's," sure, safe, painless.

Ayer's Hair Vigor keeps the hair soft and pliant, imparts to it the lustre and freshness of youth, causes it to grow luxuriantly, eradicates Dandruff, cures all scalp diseases, and is the most cleanly of all hair preparations.

AYER'S Hair Vigor has given me perfect satisfaction. I was nearly bald for six years, during which time I used many hair preparations, but without success. Indeed, what little hair I had, was growing thinner, until I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor. I used two bottles of the Vigor, and my head is now well covered with a new growth of hair. —Judson B. Chapel, Peabody, Mass.

HAIR that has become weak, gray, dry, and faded, may have new life and color restored to it by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. "My hair was thin, faded, and dry, and fell out in large quantities. Ayer's Hair Vigor stopped the falling, and restored my hair to its original color. As a dressing for the hair, this preparation has no equal.—Mary N. Hammond, Stillwater, Minn.

VIGOR, youth, and beauty, in the appearance of the hair, may be preserved for an indefinite period by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. "A disease of the scalp caused my hair to become harsh and dry, and to fall out freely. Nothing I tried seemed to do any good until I commenced using Ayer's Hair Vigor. Three bottles of this preparation restored my hair to a healthy condition, and it is now soft and pliant. My scalp is cured, and it is also free from dandruff.—Mrs. E. R. Foss, Milwaukee, Wis.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

Sold by Druggists and Perfumers.

PERFECT SAFETY, prompt action, and wonderful curative properties, easily place Ayer's Pills at the head of the list of popular remedies for Sick and Nervous Headaches, Constipation, and all ailments originating in a disordered Liver.

I have been a great sufferer from Headache, and Ayer's Cathartic Pills are the only medicine that has ever given me relief. One dose of these Pills will quickly move my bowels, and free my head from pain.—William L. Page, Richmond Va.

SPLENDID BUILDING SITES

I have placed on the market

That Desirable and Well Situated Property

in the western part of the Town, and offer it in lots as per plan annexed. This affords a splendid opportunity to secure a location for your home in a rapidly improving and in every respect the best part of the town. The properties are situated on Cedar and Hatton streets and within a stone's throw of the West Ward School and a short distance of the principal Churches and the Hamilton C.O.T. Works.

"ERIN COTTAGE," late the residence of Mr. Elias Thompson, is situated in the centre of the block. This property is for sale or can be had as a bargain. It is a desirable suburban residence.

The lots have good frontages on streets of the standard width and are splendidly located. From the upper lots is afforded one of the best views of the town with ample facilities for drainage.

Several fine dwellings are already contracted for to be built on these lots during this season.

Tradesmen and merchants should inspect this property as it offers the best sites available and convenient to the business part of the town.

Free Circus Tickets.

Of course everybody will want to go to the Barnum & Bailey circus on Sept. 3rd, and here is a plan for securing free tickets. Any and every person buying five pounds of tea at Hawley Bros' tea store will be presented with a circus ticket in the shape of a saving in price equal to the price of a ticket. That is, every purchaser of five pounds of Hawley Bros prime tea will get them for fifty cents less than the same quality of goods could be got at any other shop. Call early and don't wait till circus day when there will be a rush at Hawley Bros. for their choice teas, fragrant coffees and elegant glassware.

Great Scottish Gathering in Toronto.

Mr. Chas. Cameron, President of the St. Andrew's Society, leaves to-morrow morning as local delegate to attend the grand gathering of the clans to be held in Toronto during the three following days of this week. This will be the greatest Scottish gathering that has ever taken place in the Dominion. Representative Scotchmen from all parts of the United States and Canada will be present, and none but an ardent Scotchman can form any idea of the great interest centred in such a fraternal assemblage. The programme for the three days is such as to stir the blood of every sanlous son of the heather, and "gar their hearts loup wi' glee." Mr. Cameron also received a complimentary invitation to be present as Peterborough's representative at a magnificent banquet to be tendered the visiting delegates by the Toronto Caledonian Society. Our local St. Andrew's Society feel highly pleased by the honor done their worthy President, and all who know him can assume that the Cameron clan will have no more devoted son present than their representative from Peterborough.

Police Court.

Four Disorderly Cases—More Trouble over the Sawdust in the River.

Four young men were fined $2 each on a charge of being disorderly on the night of August 14th.

Messrs. T. G. Hazlitt and J. M. Irwin were each charged with violating the Fisheries Act by allowing sawdust to run into the river on August 17th. The defendants conducted their own cases. Mr. A. Stevenson appeared for Inspector Gilchrist, the prosecutor.

Mr. Hazlitt's case was first heard. He stated as before, that the sawdust that got into the river was from the upright saws. All the other refuse was disposed of. It was impossible Mr. Hazlitt said to keep out any more than they were keeping out now.

Mr. Hazlitt asked to see Inspector Gilchrist's instructions. They were produced, and read that "according to representations it was evident that the mill-owners on the Otonabee were violating the law," etc., and instructing the Inspector to continue prosecuting. Mr. Hazlitt enquired what were the representations in the Inspector's report referred too. The magistrate said he did not think it proper for Mr. Gilchrist to disclose his communications to the government. The defendants could apply directly to the department if they wanted the information.

Mr. Hazlitt demurred, and said he would like to see the report so that they could know what they were charged with

Mr. Irwin's case was then taken up. The Inspector stated that he saw sawdust in the river, coming from the pitman hole in the Nassau mill. The sawdust came from the gang saw. To Mr. Irwin the Inspector stated one of the men had told him sawdust was coming down the river from above the mill, but he did not see for himself if it was so.

Mr. Alex. Hamilton, the foreman, stated that they had a track built expressly for carrying away the refuse to the fire. All the sawdust from the circular saws went to the pile, but the sawdust from the upright gates about three-fourths of the whole cut, went into the river. This could not be avoided, as the second floor was too low to admit of barriers being built to run it off.

This closed the evidence. The magistrate asked, Why have any more informations? They might better get the opinions of some skilled men as to the practicability of altering the mills.

Mr. Irwin stated that the mills on the Ottawa river were the same as theirs, and there the sawdust was let into the river. They had the evidence of some of the best millwrights in Canada about the Ottawa mills; what more was wanted, when the defendant's mills were situated the same?

Mr. Dumble—Mr. Gilchrist says Mr. Hilliard and Mr. Strickland have changed their mills to meet requirements. Why cannot you?

Mr. Irwin replied that they had the evidence of some of the best engineers, Mr. J. G. Macklin and others, that everything practicable was done to keep sawdust out of the river Mr. Irwin thought the magistrate was wrong in not recognizing the agreement of 1886, which was, he claimed, carried out to the letter.

Mr. Dumble said if this thing continued they might be fined every day. They ought to repair their mills.

Mr. Irwin asked the magistrate to suspend judgment until the decision of the department was heard.

Mr. Dumble said he was not bound to the department in any way, but he proposed that they go direct to the government and settle the question as to whether their mills were capable of the required alteration or not.

Mr. Hazlitt replied that their mills would have to be shut down if they were compelled to keep every bit of sawdust out of the river. He thought it a hardship, after having the opinion of experts on the question, that they should have to shut down their mills or spend a lot of money in experimenting to please any man. The Inspector's first instructions were, that the mill-owners were "exceeding the compact of 1886." Mr. Hazlitt claimed they were not, and said the Inspector never tried to ascertain if they were following out the agreement or not.

Mr. Gilchrist—I know one thing, the sawdust is going in now as bad as it was when I first came here.

Mr. Hazlitt—I can bring twenty men to prove that is not so.

Mr. Gilchrist—I can prove it by the magistrate himself.

Mr. Dumble—I suppose if a spoonful of sawdust goes into the river it is contrary to law.

Mr. Hazlitt—Yes, that's just it. I admit we have been violating the law in the letter, but not in spirit.

The Magistrate said he would give decision on all these cases to-morrow.

Junior Lacrosse.

The Peterborough Juniors Defeat Their Millbrook Opponents.

An exciting game of lacrosse was played at Millbrook yesterday afternoon between the Peterborough and Millbrook junior teams. The Peterboroughs were composed exclusively of lads between the ages of eleven and sixteen years, while their opponents were strengthened by three men from the senior twelve. However, the boys buckled down to their work and defeated the Millbrooks by three goals to two. The teams lined up as follows:—

Millbrook.	Peterborough.
Bruce Morrow ..... goal ..... L. King
C. Richardson ..... point ..... G. Stenson
G. Carvell ..... cover point ..... F. White
Wm. Wilgar ..... 1st defense ..... H. Hughes
G. Leach ..... 2nd defense ..... A. Harrette
Wm. Eakins ..... 3rd defense ..... D. C. King
B. Strain ..... centre ..... W. Galley
W. Crossley ..... 3rd home ..... K. Howell
Ed. Chambers ..... 2nd home ..... E. Brown
Fred Coombe ..... 1st home ..... A. Elliott
W. Coombe ..... outside home ..... G. Trew
A. Chambers ..... inside home ..... W. Phelan field captain ..... D. Smith umpire ..... R. Tierney

This match was quite evenly contested. The Peterboroughs played a good all round game, but special mention might be made of the fine work of Fred White, Howard Hughes, Willie Galley, Ed. Howell, Art. Elliott, Walter Phelan and D. C. King. Trew and Stenson also did some splendid throwing. For Millbrook Richardson, Carveth and A. Chambers, the three seniors, and W. Coombe, the latter in particular, played well. The games were won as follows:—

Game.	Won by.	Scored by.	Time.
First	Millbrook	A Chambers	35 min.
Second	Peterborough	W Phelan	30 min.
Third	Millbrook	A Chambers	17 min.
Fourth	Peterborough	G Trew	15 min.
Fifth	Peterborough	W Phelan	8 min.

The boys are elated over their victory, and good reason they have to be so. A return match will be played in about three weeks.

Walter Phelan was dubbed "the little man" by the Millbrook boys. What's the matter with the "little man"? He's all right.

This was they song the sang:—
We went to Millbrook to play lacrosse.
Good bye, my lover, good bye,
You bet we made them jolly cross.
Good bye, my lover, good bye.

The Millbrook's "nuked" their one and two.—
Three times we rushed the rubber through,
And that's the way we generally do,
Good bye, my lover, good bye.

Harvey.

Council Meeting.

The Harvey council met at Scott's Mills Aug. 12th, 1889, pursuant to adjournment. Members all present.

A by-law was passed to assess and levy the rates and taxes for 1889. The county levy is $754.47; for township purposes, $1,036; school section No. 1, $250; No. 2, $240; No. 3, $250; No. 4, $218.07; No. 5, $230; No. 6, $210; No. 7, $230; No. 8, no application yet. The council made a grant of $20 extra to school section No. 7. A by-law was passed re-appointing Wm. Irwin, Esq., as collector of taxes for 1889.

Orders drawn on the treasurer to pay the following named parties for work done on roads and bridges:—M. Pluard, $10; John Smith, $10; James Weir, $10; R. Telford, $9.50; A. Johnston, $5; Charles McIlmoyle and to pay others, $36: Wm. Irwin, $7; James Tate, $10.

The council adjourned to meet October 9th at the Clerks office.

A Police Court Wedding.

A Romantic Episode at This Morning's Session—The Happy Outcome of a Criminal Prosecution.

The charge of attempted child murder against Martha Glenney had a happy termination at this morning's session of the police court. The young woman was wedded to Wm. Watson, the acknowledged parent of the unfortunate baby, in the presence of the magistrate, court officials and reporters, and afterwards discharged from custody, the prosecution being dropped. The young woman appeared in court with the child in her arms. It conducted itself decorously until near the close of the session, when it began crying just as the wedding was about to take place.

Mr. E. B. Stone appeared for the prisoner, and as the trial was about to be opened the court room was cleared of all but those interested in the case. The prisoner's counsel made a statement to the magistrate to the effect that the two parties were prepared to be married. In fact the license had been procured yesterday and a clergyman, accompanied by the prospective groom, went to the gaol for the purpose of having the ceremony performed last night, but the Crown Attorney had interfered and prevented the marriage. He asked that an adjournment be made till two o'clock to allow the parties to be married, and asked also that the prosecution be dropped. He thought the law had been already sufficiently vindicated, and out of regard for the future of the child and the feelings of the father and mother, he did not think the charge should be pressed.

The adjournment was granted, and while the wedding arrangements were being discussed, it was proposed that the ceremony take place in the presence of the magistrate. This was agreed to, and everything being ready Rev. Father Ruddkins was telephoned for. In the meantime a bridesmaid and groomsman was hunted up. Miss Sophie Udy, a fellow-employ of Martha Glenney at the Grand Central hotel, and Mr. J. X. Gallino, of the City hotel, acting in the capacity of assistants. The clergyman having arrived, the parties were called up and in a few minutes Wm. Watson and Martha Glenny were made man and wife. The customary ring and gay wedding attire were dispensed with, the whole proceeding being conducted with the economy and business-like despatch characteristic of the police court. During the reading of the ceremony and taking of the vows the mother had a rather troublesome time with her baby, which did not evidently appreciate the importance and significance of a rite involving the establishment on its behalf of orthodox parental and social status, but gave way to the wayward impulsiveness of human nature, or more probably the undue postponement of its lactial luncheon, and squirmed and whimpered in a most disturbing and unbecoming manner. The wedding was "none of its funeral," and it had no hesitation in giving audible expression to this nonchalant sentiment.

After the wedding the magistrate called up the young woman, and read over the charge to her. He had previously been in consultation with the County Crown Attorney, Mr. R. E. Wood, and the result of their conference was then made known.

"You say that what has occurred was the result of an accident," was asked the girl.

"Yes, sir," she replied.

"Well, we will give you the benefit of your statement. The prosecution will not be pressed, and I therefore discharge you. I wish you and your husband a happy life."

With a smile and "thank you," Mrs. Watson rose, and left the room with the others of her party.

Thus amicably, and it is to be hoped satisfactorily, terminated an issue which might have realted far less pleasantly had any other course been pursued.

A Decisive Victory for the Montrealers—Playing Again To-day

The "Vics" scored a decisive victory over Lakefield yesterday. The game was rather uninteresting. The score shows who did the heavy hitting.

Last night the "Vics" were entertained at the beautiful residence of Hon. R. Hamilton. They are a jolly set of young fellows, and appear to be enjoying their visit here. After to-day's match they go to Napanee.

TO-DAY'S GAME.

To-day the Montrealers are playing a combined team representing the counties of Victoria and Peterborough. At luncheon time the counties had made 89 runs for the first innings and the Vics 37 for five wickets down. For the counties W. A. Stratton made 30, C. Attewell 19, and Wm. Hamilton 12. Mr. J. A. Barron unfortunately went out for nothing.

At the A. C. A. Camp.

The following contributed by Retaw to the Monteral Witness gives an insight into the way the merry hours pass at the A. C. A. Camp, Stave Island:

"Bobcaygeon has sent a very strong delegation of daring sailors, and last evening they proved themselves stayers by out-pulling the tug-of-war team of the Torontos in the "big tent." This big tent is nothing less than a three-pole circus tent. A rough floor has been put into it, and the Gananoque band has been coming over for three evenings to give the A.C.A. a concert. The other evening the "Peterborough's," with the aid of two banjos, provided the music for as tumultuous a country dance as ever was. With the exception of the first cruise of the A. C. A., which took place on Tuesday last, the camp has done nothing collectively but assemble about the camp fires or in the big tent. The cruise was a tremendous success, although Landing's Bay, its objective point, was so choked with weeds as to be hardly canoeable. Between 30 and 40 paddling canoes, including the Toronto's big fellow with an unwritable name, went up under Commodore Roger's lead, and about twelve sailors went up under command of Vice-Commodore Tyson in the old, the famous, the mighty "Isabel." There is one feature of the camp that cannot be omitted even in so fragmentary and incomplete a screed as this, and that is the admirable way in which it is managed. Commodore Rogers has his eye on everything, quietly remedied all wrongs and is the leader in all legitimate sport. Mr. Hatton, the secretary, is everything that a secretary should be, and the "officers of the day" are always on hand and are always only too anxious to make headquarters attractive. There is a camp carpenter here who is a perfect artist in the matter of tent floors and docks; a plentiful supply of lumber, a good camp store and a very good general mess. This year, however, a great majority of the men and nearly all the ladies are attached to a private mess."

A Burleigh Falls Fish Story.

Another Yankee Fishery Outrage.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—Mr. H. H. Wheeler, of Brooklyn, N.Y., who, with his wife has been stopping for the past two weeks at the Burleigh Falls hotel, has been quite successful in his capture of the finny tribe—having taken during his stay 187 black bass, largest seven pounds, and 32 maskinonge, largest 28½ pounds. Mr. Wheeler tells one remarkable story which Jack Holmes says requires verification. One morning last week while trawling in Lovesick Lake—paddled by his Indian guide, Wm. McCue—a maskinonge was hooked, and after fifteen minutes struggle taken into the canoe, and a pair of scales being handy, immediately weighed, tipping the beam at 28½ pounds. The monster was laid on the fish box, but while the lines were being re-adjusted, evidently not appreciating the situation, flopped over the side of the canoe and disappeared. Mr. Young, the aged lockmaster at Burleigh, upon hearing a recital of the adventure, asked at what time in the day it occurred, and upon being told, remarked, dryly, that at that particular moment he noticed a sudden falling of the water in the lake and a few moments after it rose again. Said he, "that must have been when that lunge was taken out and when he jumped back." But anyone who knows Mr. Wheeler will not dispute the accuracy of any statement he may make.

Yours, etc.

A Genuine Holiday.

When Children take Delight and Adults are Astonished — Barnum-Bailey's Great New Parade.

This year again Barnum and Bailey have entirely refitted their vast show with everything new, consequently the tremendous free street parade of the Barnum-London 15 New United Shows will be absolutely new throughout. Its features and objects are of such a magnificent and costly kind that when it was exhibited in New York it attracted, at one time, fully 500,000 persons upon the streets, and it is safe to say our streets and and avenues will be thronged with delighted and astonished people also. At no time in the history of the world were there ever so many costly objects, such wonderful vehicles or such elegant costumes publicly shown as those that will be seen here on Tuesday, Sept. 3rd. The immense number of new chariots alone are worth coming miles to see, and among them are the golden chariot of Cinderella, marine chariot of Sindbad the Sailor, The Sleeping Beauty of the Wood, Robinson Crusoe, Blue beard, Mother Goose, Santa Claus, and others, some of which cost as much as $5,000. There are 30 golden chariots, 7 open dens of wild beasts with trainers in each, 2 droves of camels, and a herd of elephants, many of which are harnessed to chariots. There are zebras drawing fancy chariots of novel designs, giraffes, ostriches, llamas, guanocas, sacred cattle, white mules, ponies, deer, moose, trotting steers, and other animals in leash, cages of birds, beasts, and reptiles, 380 Norman draught horses, 12 different kinds of music, a Wild Moorish Caravan, with slaves, dancing girls, Arabian horses, Moors and Algerians with their war weapons, etc.; Japanese, Zulus, and other strange people; there are also knights in full armor, charming lady jockeys, Paris Olympia Hippodrome riders, Roman racing chariots, thoroughbred racing horses, performing horses, trick stallions, mechanical automatic steam musical chariots, chimes, bells, etc.; all kinds of curious trained animals, mammals, seals, and other amphibious creatures, an army of foreign performers arrayed in the most costly and magnificent costumes, several full military bands in the most expensive uniforms ever made, and altogether really the most wonderful display of rich and costly objects ever seen together at one time in any country on earth. The parade will stretch over a mile of ground, and its cost is placed at $1,500,000, and it will take place at 9 o'clock a.m., rain or shine, on the morning of the Show's arrival.

Ashburnham Brevities.

Mr. and Mr. John Wood left this morning for Paisley, county Bruce, for a few week's holidays.

The Rev. Mr. McClary, who has been for the past couple of years in charge of an important church in Detroit, has been appointed to take charge of St. Luke's church, in the absence of the Rector, the Rev. W. C. Bradshaw. Mr. McClray was for a number of years Incumbent of the important parish of Duntroon, in which place he was very popular.

At present there does not seem to be much fear but the new town hall will be self-supporting, two of the shops being already spoke for.

At the trustee meeting to-day there seemed to be more interest than usual manifested—the attendance being very good. The only candidate nominated was Mr. J. J. Rooney, and after the lapse of an hour he was declared elected by the chairman, Mr. A. Ingram.

London Electric Soap is only made by D. Richards, Woodstock. Trade mark registered.

DURING the dull months of May and June the output of the old established G. M. Weber piano factory, Kingston, will be sold at wholesale prices for cash, from elegantly finished pianos to the cheapest styles, all guaranteed. It will pay richly to write for prices. 3aw

It is Pleasant.

For a firm to meet with the decided success W. J. Morrow has met with in the past through his advertising cheap and good quality goods and such confidence has the public placed in him that they at once rush for a good large supply of goods at low prices. Don't fail to call. 340 George street, Opera House Block.

Choice, Fresh and Cheap.

Another supply of choice, fresh and cheap groceries, provisions, etc., with a few special lines of teas at unusually low prices now being received and offered for sale at R. H. Green's grocery and provision store, corner Hunter and Aylmer streets, Peterborough. Also fresh butter and eggs, with apples, potatoes and other farmers' produce always on hand, which will be sold at the lowest market prices and delivered to any part of the town. tufw

Port Hope Exhibition.

The magnificent driving park in Port Hope, with natural grand stand, capable of seating 50,000 spectators, is to be the scene of a grand Exhibition on Sept. 3rd, 4th and 5th. Over $5,000 in prizes. First day, baseball tournament, prizes $100; second and third day, horse racing for purses amounting to $1,000. Also a large display of exhibits from all parts of the Midland District. The monument of the late Col. Williams will be unveiled Sept. 4th, by Sir John Macdonald. Prize lists sent on application. Entries for the Fair to be made to R. DICKSON, Secretary.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

CLEVELAND BROTHERS, ALBANY, N. Y.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This Powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kind and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low cost, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in Cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER, No 106 Wall street N Y

BYAM'S Improved "Common Sense" SASH BALANCE. LOCKS AND LIFTS.

The only practical substitute for weights invented. The most durable, the cheapest and the best for all ordinary windows. Balances when in position are entirely out of sight. No pivots, bolts or screws are used in putting it together so that nothing can get out of order or need regulating. No cutting, boring or marring of the sash, as the Balances can be let into the frame. Especially valuable for repairing old buildings as they can be put in at a trifling expense, as easily put in old buildings as new ones. Sash can be removed from frame in a moment for cleaning or repairing broken glass. Can be used when it is inconvenient to use weights or other fixtures. No unsightly cord wearing paint off sides of frame. No rattling of sash as pressure against sash prevents it. No rattling of weights or pulleys when Sash is raised or lowered. No sticking of weights in frame. No cords to rust off, wear out and break. No rubber rollers to become flattened by standing in one position for some time. No fancy fitting or delicate mechanism to break, wear out or get out of order. Its simplicity of construction and operation is the wonder of all.

Byam's Automatic Sash Locks (self fastening) and Sash Lifts for upper and lower sash are the best and cheapest in the market.

It has been our aim for years to print store news that would be universally read. Our methods being right, have succeeded. Fresh items and true statements have won and held ready constituency, which goes to prove that in this age, as well as in the past, that what people want is not fiction but facts. Therefore, when we say we are showing twenty-five new patterns of American Table Oil Cloths, people come for them and find them. We were too modest in our praise of these Goods last week. The patterns are very new and pretty. As for the Cloth, you will say honesty and durability are stamped on the face of it. They roll up like a piece of paper and do not crack.

Black Dress Goods in high weight are on the move now. We show a new cloth called the Viole, which has a ready demand. It is light, fine and looks well made up. We are showing Black Grenadine Stripes and Brocades. We have about one thousand yards of grey Cotton in ends of from 10 to 30 yards that are 10 per cent. under value. They are all prices, and ten per cent. is worth saving.

Jerseys at $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $2.00, $2.50 that have been from $1.00 to $5.00 Bargains like these go quickly. Plenty of other points of special interest.

"No."
"Why don't you? Everybody is taking advantage of the present low prices."
"Oh, well, you don't get good pictures for a dollar a dozen."
"Yes you do. Just look at this one! What better would you want than that?"
"That is good. Who took it?"
"Mr. Sproule. I got a dozen just as good as that for a dollar."
"Why, that's as well taken as the cabinets they used to charge us $3.00 a dozen for."
"Every bit. Oh, Mr. Sproule has woke up the town. You see his new instruments are so perfect that one sitting is all that he requires from you now, so that he makes them ever so much quicker."

IT'S NO JOKE.
Don't crow over your neighbor because her Baby Carriage cost her just half as much more than yours did. She could have got just as good a bargain as you did, if she had taken your advice and gone to Routley's for her baby's coach.
Don't flatter yourself because all your rooms look so much nicer, with less expense, than your neighbor's. Because you had sense enough to buy your Wall Paper, Blinds and Poles, at Routley's, that's no reason why you should show off.
Don't laugh when you go out visiting and find that some of your friends have paid two prices for their Trunks, Valises and Travelling bags. Their baggage would not have cost any more than yours if they had bought them at Routley's Fancy Goods Store, George street, Peterborough.

REMNANTS

At this time of the year, we find as the result of the season's trading (which by the way, has been the largest in the history of our business here). Remnants in very useful and valuable lengths in the different departments.

These oddments have been gathered together, and placed on a table in the centre of the store, and the prices have been reduced in some cases as low as 60 per cent.

We are also offering at great bargains, short ends of Carpets and Oilcloths.

We would suggest an early inspection of the above, and at the same time we can show you many New Lines for Fall which have commenced to arrive already—a peep into the future, as it were.

If you want to Save Money.
HAVE you any money in a Saving's Bank or other investment paying you from 3 to 6 per cent. interest? Yes, well that may be a safe way of making money but will you not die of old age before it will amount to any considerable sum. The great majority of rich men in all parts of the world are extensive owners of Real Estate, consequently a wise investment in such must be a step in the right direction. I claim to be a good judge of the value of property and I can truthfully say that I have a great variety of property for sale, several parcels of which is offered very much under value. The man who has $25.00 can buy a $100 lot and pay the balance at the rate of $25.00 per year, and before he has it paid it will sell for $200 larger properties in same proportion. Visit my office, examine my properties, and you must acknowledge the correctness of my statements. Those bargains open until 20th inst.

A BIG BLOW AT PITTSBURG

FATAL EXPLOSION IN MARTIN'S LARGE REFINERY.

Many Thousands of Barrels of Oil Destroyed—The Engineer Missing—The Plant Valued at $225,000.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 21.—At 3 o'clock this morning an explosion occurred in the refinery of A. D. [illegible] Alleghany City. Thornton Miller, engineer of the establishment, is missing. The devouring element swept all before it. Starting from the gasoline still, which was the cause of the explosion, the flames spread in all directions.

The tank of water-white oil was the first to ignite, but was soon followed by a large receptacle of ordinary brand, and 25,000 barrels were ablaze at once. Near the corner of Preble-avenue and Adams-street stood a cooper shop, a long brick building, stored with empty barrels and with rows of them standing on the outside. The latter were soon on fire, and it seemed to be but a question of a few minutes when those inside must follow.

Within fifteen minutes the entire square except a narrow strip along Preble-avenue was one mass of flames. At 5.30 o'clock the fire was under control so far as confining the flames within the original limits were concerned. The destruction of the refinery is practically total. The plant was valued at $225,000. The insurance, if any, is light.

Other Disasters and Fires in the States.

SONOMA, Cal., Aug. 21.—Fire broke out at 11 o'clock last night in a saloon. A large part of the business section of the town was burned. The [illegible], Masonic Hall and many other buildings were destroyed. F. Duhring, a prominent merchant, dropped dead from excitement.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 21.—The storm which prevailed yesterday was one of the most severe ever experienced here. At 2.30 a.m. it amounted almost to a hurricane. Two inches of water fell between 2 and 5 o'clock, and the lightning furnished a constant and vivid illumination. The storm was general throughout this section.

The Race Troubles in the South.

RICHMOND, Tex., Aug. 21.—The two opposing political factions here having agreed upon Ira Aten of the State rangers for sheriff, the County Commissioners yesterday elected him to that office. The new sheriff has taken charge of the Gibson boys and will hold them until the preliminary trial takes place. They are charged with assault with intent to murder. The people now have confidence in the administration being able to keep order. The County Judge will resign in a few days and leave the county. Other prominent Woodpeckers will do the same, and claim they do it for the safety of their lives. All the wounded are doing well.

SELMA, Ala., Aug. 21.—Selma is stirred up on account of race trouble. Warrants of arrest were issued yesterday for Bryant, Clark and Jones of The Independent, for inciting race animosities by incendiary articles in the paper, but they could not be found here. Four colored persons were arrested last evening for obstructing the service of process by the sheriff. The military is kept in readiness for an emergency.

LIGHT AT LAST.

A Clue That May Lead to Solving the Dunville Murder Mystery.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—An important clue has just been discovered, which may lead to the conviction of the Dunville murderer. On Nov. 1 last, a respectably-dressed man appeared on the streets of Dunville, in a disreputable quarter known as Slabtown. Then he disappeared, the only record of a murder having taken place being a shriek on the midnight air and the sound of a body falling into the canal. Nine days afterward the waters gave up their dead. Suspicion fastened on a desperate character, with the barber cut of the penitentiary still upon his head, named Clemo, and on a pal of his named Smith. These men were arrested, but the evidence against them was incomplete, the murdered man having worn an overcoat, but no such garment being on the corpse.

Provincial Detective Murray has spent no little time in searching for this missing link in the chain which he has been weaving around the prisoners. He learned that Clemo had sold an overcoat to a sailor. He learned that the name of the boat in which this sailor sailed was the Alsora, and following up this clue he on Saturday found his man and the overcoat in the Village of Port Burwell. Fred O'Reilly, a respectable young man of the village, was the man who had bought the coat, paying $4 for it to a man whom he describes as a villainous-looking character. Detective Murray considers that he has a strong case against the prisoners.

Warden Noonan Insane.

KINGSTON, Aug. 21.—James Noonan, reeve of the township of Bathurst and warden of the county of Lanark, has been adjudged insane. This afternoon he arrived over the Kingston and Pembroke Railway and was transferred to Rockwood asylum. He was a large dealer in cattle for many years, and it is said lost considerable money in his speculations, which caused his mind to be affected. He is under the impression that a conspiracy to murder him has been arranged by his friends. He believes firmly in the delusion. He is sane on other subjects. His many friends are hopeful that a short sojourn at Rockwood Asylum will help him to regain his usual health and strength.

Gold in North Ontario.

COOPER'S FALLS, Aug. 21.—Gold is the main topic of conversation here. Thomas Heys of West Toronto made an assay of some surface rock from Mr. Kehoe, who lives in this neighborhood, which would pan out $4.80 to the ton. This find is about ten miles from Washago station, on the Muskoka branch of the Northern Railway. The assayist also found traces of silver. This is not a salted mine, as the same material as that sent to Toronto is to be seen at the mine. There has been no blasting done. The find is on the Dalton

STILL THE GAY CARNIVAL

A GREAT DAY AMONG THE SOCIETIES AND WHEELMEN.

A Procession That Was the Admiration of Thousands of Spectators—The Merchants Continue Their Convention.

HAMILTON, Aug. 21.—The tide of celebration still runs high. A deluge of visitors is pouring in and out of the city day by day. Everybody is elated—citizens are elated over the magnificent success of the first three days of this great carnival, visitors are elated at the unexpected splendor of the sight, hotel men are elated, merchants are elated, and as for the elation of the rising generation it is simply a state of glorious hilarity.

The streets to-day were given up to the invading army of bicyclists and societies; and while these threaded the thoroughfares in gay pageantry the merchants' convention and St. George's Union carried on grave deliberations inside the walls of their meeting houses.

The merchants' convention re-assembled at 9.30 this morning, President Knox in the chair. The attendance was considerably larger than that of yesterday.

Mr. Parkinson, Exeter, was the first speaker. He discussed the bankrupt stock question. The evil, he said, was a growing one, and if something was not done to remedy it it would soon be impossible for an honest trader to live. An intelligent effort should be made to get over the difficulty offered by bankrupt stocks and unjust compromises.

Perhaps the difficulty was the too large credits and dating ahead. Almost any one can get credit. Credit is good in its place, but there were men who abused it and there were inducements to dishonesty. Travelers went out in the spring and sold goods which could not be delivered till June or July, and they were dated at say October 1st. This was a plan now largely adopted. A man ordered his winter goods in May and got them in June, giving a note dated October 1st. This enabled dishonest traders to make money out of a shipwreck in business, and then the less real estate he had the better. Do what he would the wholesaler had no right to interfere till the paper was due. The dealer might slaughter the goods, pocket a few thousand dollars and make an assignment. Fault might be found and dishonesty suggested, but he could stand that. He could then compromise and get the balance of the goods by paying more than would be got at a bankrupt sale, and yet not pay more than 25 per cent. of his liabilities. A bank required security for a loan. Why should not wholesale houses? Too many wholesalers advanced to compromise evil. As for him he would not buy from a house granting compromises to "slashers." [Applause.] He advocated shortening of credits and the closing out of bad debtors.

The committee appointed yesterday to report on "The best mode for the disposal of bankrupt stocks so as to cause the least irritation," reported to the convention that in their opinion the most satisfactory way to stay the evils of bankrupt stocks is by the formation of Business Men's Associations in every county in Ontario, by which said association could buy in these bankrupt stocks and dispose of them to the best advantage.

Within fifteen minutes the entire square except a narrow strip along Preble-avenue was one mass of flames. At 5.30 o'clock the fire was under control so far as confining the flames within the original limits were concerned. The destruction of the refinery is practically total. The plant was valued at $225,000. The insurance, if any, is light.

Mr. Turnbull of Stroud read a paper on "Inadequate Profits." He said that it should be an axiom that business was for profit. Owing to several causes, however, it was not. Adventurers in business and inexperienced traders were the great disturbers in business. They should be closed up as soon as it was known that they were selling without profit. There were three reasons for not selling goods below a fair profit. Customers will be just as well pleased if a fair profit and reliable goods sold. Customers avoid "bargain" places and expect poor goods there. Those who cry "cheap" are rarely looked upon as furnishing good, fresh, reliable stock, and could not live and sell as they pretend to if they did.

Mr. George D. Griffin is the author of a work on "Banking Exchange, Currency, etc., He read a paper on "The Origin of Bankruptcies." The causes of bankruptcies were summarized as "Shoddy and Fraudulent Goods," 20 per cent. of imports being, in his estimate, of that character. Thus, he estimated the people of Canada had since 1850 been robbed of $800,000,000 by foreign nations. Government should prevent this robbery. "Over Importations" was another evil in his view. "Inadequate Currency" was the third evil, and this scarcity was ascribed to our importations. Scarcity of money, he said, made money dear and injured business. The United States' experience as to currency was brought forward as an illustration of the writer's views. "Our Debt Currency" was next in the array of evils. He contended our note currency was founded upon borrowed money held to redeem it, the interest on which eats up the face value. The people pay interest to Britain and at the same time they pay interest on the bank debts, or notes, founded upon an actual debt. "The Excessive Cost of Government" was another evil mentioned. He went largely into statistics based on a statement published in The Mail on the 19th inst., holding that not less than $71 a family was required to pay the cost of government each year. He advocated a national currency and claimed a saving of $120,000,000 could be effected if we had it and a law to prevent over-importation and the sale of shoddy and fraudulent goods. Canadians would only own Canada when they ceased this excessive importing and paying interest on the enormous sums borrowed from abroad.

Mr. J. Turnbull, cashier of the Bank of Hamilton, read a paper on unjust compromises. Compromises at any time were misfortunes. Sometimes they were just and honest, and in such cases the trader was usually treated leniently. Many times the debtor does the best he can for his creditors. Many times, too, compromises were unjust and fraudulent. One of the great factors is the indifference of the creditors; insolvent meetings were too often slimly attended and without interest, and the debtor got too much his own way. This ought not to be. The way of the transgressor ought to be made hard. Principals should attend, and if the debtor wished, let him have a solicitor, but let the debtor be on hand anyway. Too often the debtor had reason to feel that an easy bed would be made for him. Creditors should be careful about appointing inspectors. Too often the debtor and inspectors became on terms of close intimacy. One of the inspectors should be a good business man with leisure to attend to the work, and he should be paid for his work. The duties should be fully defined, and the matter should be brought to the notice of the Government at its next session. Better laws should be made for the change of assignees. The assignee should be appointed by the creditors, and he should not be a public officer, as they have very often proved very inefficient. He did not favor the plan of assigning to an employe of one of the creditor. Efforts should be made to get a bill throwing on the wife of an insolvent the burden of proof as to ownership of property claimed by her. There would be no hardship in this, and it would be justice to the creditors. He opposed the maintenance of a wife's dower in real estate, and in all cases of alienation of property of an insolvent proof of purchase should be on the grantee. The Mowat act is a good one and intended to save creditors, but it did not go far enough. Moreover its constitutionality was doubted, and what was wanted was a well-devised insolvent law. That law should not provide that any creditor should be compelled to give a discharge against his will, or take against his will less than his just due. Creditors should give no compromise if a man has been reckless, incompetent or dishonest.

The societies' parade moved in the line of march from the Gore at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Chief McKinnon with a platoon of mounted police led off, followed by Grand Marshal F. R. Hutton, J. B. Boustingham, aide; J. C. Bolger, bugler, and the 12th Batt. band. Representatives of the Ancient Order of Foresters and the Canadian Order of Foresters completed the first division.

The marshal of the 2nd division, Charles Vesper, had charge of Chas McKenzie, the Catholic Benevolent Union and the Ancient Order of United Workmen. This division was led by the Independent Fife and Drum Band.

The third division was led by the Pioneer Fife and Drum Band and marshalled by Mr. Thomas Bradley. The Pioneer Drill Corps, Sons of England Lodges, Young Britons and Orange Lodges 770 and 148 marched in it.

Division No. 4 was marshaled by A. S. Baltcher and headed by the Waterloo County Band. The German Society followed, with President A. H. Otto, in a carriage, at its head. Temperance lodges and Knight Templars followed.

The 5th division was led by the Knights of the Golden Eagle Band and marshalled by J. Noble. The Canadian Order of Oddfellows, Knights of Maccabees and Independent Order of Foresters had places in this division.

The bicycle procession was imposing. It was composed of about 300 well-mounted, neatly-uniformed wheelmen. The order was as follows:

Queen's Own Band, Toronto.
Niagara.
Toronto Bicycle Club.
The Wanderers, Toronto.
St. Catharines.
The Rovers of Hamilton.
Unattached Riders.
Woodstock.
Paris.
Winnipeg.
Montreal.
Brantford.
Hamilton.

The procession was formed at the Gore and the principal streets were traversed by the grand pageant.

This evening the city was again brilliantly illuminated. Fireworks were set off in Dundurn Park and the visiting bicyclists appeared in a grand illuminated parade. Among other attractions was the 13th Battalion band open air concert at the Gore, and "ye old time concert" in the Crystal Palace.

THE MERRY MEN OF ST. GEORGE.

The 14th Annual Session of the North American Union.

HAMILTON, Aug. 21.—The fourteenth annual convention of the St. George's Union of North America opened in St. George's Hall this morning. These are the officers of the union for 1888-9:

President—W. H. Gillard, Hamilton.
Vice-Presidents—James M. Smith, Boston; Edward Trevvett, Utica.
Treasurer—Daniel Batcheler, Utica.
Chaplain—Rev. Dr. Stone, Philadelphia.
Executive—W. H. Bertram, London; G. W. Longstaff, Bridgeport.
Grand Secretary—Thomas Y. Yeates, Washington.
Cor. Secretary—B. Winnifrith, Hamilton.

The Union originated in 1873. The St. George's Society of Onondaga, N.Y., called at Syracuse, N.Y., in the autumn of 1872, a conference of representatives of several St. George's societies for "mutual recognition and to advise on subjects of general interest." It was there decided to call a general convention of delegates to meet at the same place Feb. 21, 1873. The first convention met at that date and organized the North American St. George's Union. The fourth convention was held in this city Sept. 5, 1876, comprising at that time 39 delegates from 16 societies. The affiliated societies of 1888-9 are located at Auburn, N.Y.; Baltimore, Barrie, Bay City, Mich.; Boston, Bridgeport, Conn.; Buffalo, Chicago, Cohoes, N.Y.; Guelph, Halifax, Hamilton, Kingston, London, Montreal, Omaha, Philadelphia, Quebec, Springfield, Ill.; Toronto, Utica, Washington, Windsor, Oswego, Ottawa, Winnipeg.

The following are the officers of the Hamilton St. George's Society who are the hosts, so to speak, of the convention: President, Thomas Mason; vice-presidents, Richard Ellicott, H. H. Kittson; Secretary-Treasurer, C. D. Blachford.

The General and Corresponding Secretaries reported the following persons present as visitors or duly verified members of the convention: Past Presidents, Samuel Lees and J. H. Mason; President, W. H. Gillard; Vice-Presidents, J. M. Smith and Edward Trevvett; Treasurer, Daniel Batcheler; Secretaries, B. Winnifrith and T. Y. Yeates; Member of Executive, William H. Bartram; Chaplain, Rev. Dr. Stone; Boston, James F. Smith and James M. Smith; Chicago, John Dunn; Guelph, James Hewer, R. Higham, G. W. Field, J. F. Kidner; Hamilton, H. N. Kittson, C. G. Booker, Dr. Baugh, James Garland, A. T. Freed, S. Thorne; Windsor, J. C. Ponting, G. Burford; Philadelphia, Edward Darby, Joseph Lees, William Underdown, W. S. Norton, J. V. Mawbey, W. Humphrey, W. H. Lucas, William Waterall, Samuel Lucas, George Dixon, John Lucas, P. T. Perrins, William Perrin, William Hemmingway; Toronto, Harry Symons, J. E. Pell, J. H. Mason; Utica, Daniel Batcheler; Washington, P. L. Bennett; Kingston, Charles F. Smith, E. A. Smythe; Barrie, F. J. Brown, F. J. Lower, L. S. Sanders; Brampton, Robert Smith; Allandale, C. E. Fisher; Auburn, E. J. Wride.

President W. H. Gillard delivered his annual address. Beginning with a warm expression of welcome, the address went on to deal with the matter of charitable assistance, offering a number of valuable suggestions as to the proper treatment of the deserving poor, the genus tramp, and the duplicate assistance hunter who manages to feed upon several societies at the same time.

General Secretary Yeates read the report of the Executive Committee, which contained the following: Membership represented, 3610; amount received during the year, $17,000; amount paid for relief, $9900; sum invested (reserve), $143,000.

The delegates drove around the city in the afternoon and took in the carnival sights. The convention will be resumed to-morrow.

Death of the Indiana Faster.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 21.—Robert Mervel, after fasting 67 days, died yesterday, aged 85. On June 13 Mr. Marvel ate his last "square meal." For 36 days he took absolutely nothing into his stomach. On the thirty-eighth he bit off a piece of pie, but did not eat it. On the thirty-ninth day he drank a little milk, and at irregular periods continued to do so. All told, he drank not exceeding one gallon of milk in the 67 days of his fast. He was reduced to a living shadow. After fasting a full month he one day arose from bed, and seizing a pan of water, drank some of it. After that milk and water were left near him, and occasionally, he would rise and drink a little. During the last week Marvel was bed-fast, except at times when he would spring up and wander about the house and porch. Sores came upon him by reason of his long confinement. His fast is the longest on record so far as known. His trouble began with apoplexy and paralysis.

A Schooner Runs Near Fisher's Landing.

CLAYTON, N.Y., Aug. 16.—The 3-masted schooner A. E. Vickery, with 21,000 bushels of corn, from Chicago for Prescott, struck on a shoal near the Rock Island lighthouse at 10.15 last night and filled and sank quickly. The crew escaped in the small boats. The boat was owned by J. T. Vickery of Chicago and was valued at $12,000, partly insured. The cargo was fully insured.

Attempted Train Wrecking.

CAMBRIDGE, Md., Aug. 16.—An attempt was made to wreck the excursion train from Harlock's Camp last night by placing ties across the track. The train was running at slow speed and the engineer reversed his engine just in time to prevent the loss of many lives.

A Memorial to Lord Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 21.—Cardinal Gibbons has started a movement towards the erection of a memorial to Cecilius Calvert, second Lord Baltimore, the pioneer of civil and religious liberty in America. The Cardinal proposes to appoint committees for collecting funds to erect such memorial.

Locking Up Austrian Socialists.

VIENNA, Aug. 21.—Two Russian students, a French professor and two others have been arrested here in connection with the case of the son of the Russian General Dages and the editor of a Lemberg paper, who were arrested at Lemberg on the charge of promoting socialism in Austria.

SARAH HILL'S STAGE LIFE.

THE WIDOW TERRY HAS LIVED A SPECTACULAR DRAMA.

She Was Studying Tragedy When Circumstances Over Which She Had No Control Led Her to Abandon Art.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21.—It was once Sarah Althea Hill-Sharon-Terry's ambition to go on the stage. Her own life would furnish material for a most sensational drama. The killing of Judge Terry by Deputy Marshal Nagle, if represented on the stage, would make a great climax for a play.

Sarah Althea's tempestuous career began in Cape Girardeau, Mo. She was born there thirty-nine years ago, and grew to womanhood in the old French town. Her relatives still live there. Both her parents died when she was young, and freed from parental restraint she became rather wild in her ways, but scandal was never connected with her until after her advent in California.

It was in 1870 that she, with her brother Hiram, turned her face toward the Golden Gate. The brother married a wealthy woman and Sarah Althea's position in society was assured. At this time she was a beautiful woman. Of medium height, well-developed, with a lithe trim figure, she gave one at first sight the impression of a woman who was abundantly able to care for herself.

Much of this beauty she retains. Her features are regular, her face oval; she is neither blonde nor brunette. Her dark hair is allowed to fall in graceful waves over her full round forehead. Her most attractive features are the full brown eyes, betraying a large amount of imagination, with the heavy drooping lids, which add so much to their expressiveness. Her nose is clear cut, and her mouth is also resolute in the habitual compression of the lips, but this is somewhat belied by a slight droop at the corners, as though an originally fine will had been overlaid by a strain of voluptuousness which weakened and coarsened it. Her whole manner shows intense nervousness and vitality.

It was in 1880 that Sarah Althea's acquaintance with Senator Sharon began. She says she went to him to get a "point" on some stocks, having $7500 which she desired to invest. He fell in love with her and tried to make her his mistress. Failing in this, she drew up a marriage contract, which he signed and returned to her, stipulating that the marriage was to be kept secret for two years.

She claims that she fulfilled all the functions of a wife till just before she instituted her suit against him. She often demanded recognition as a wife, but failing in this appealed to the courts. Her sole reliance was the marriage contract, which some of the best experts in chirography pronounced genuine.

Sharon's case, in brief, was this: That he met the woman, was smitten with her charms, made her his mistress, finally tired of her and paid her $7500 as a quit claim. He swore that the marriage contract was a forgery and he produced half a score of experts to demonstrate that it was spurious.

The litigation lasted five years. The State Courts found in her favor, but when the case was transferred to the United States Courts the decisions were against her. Sarah Althea summoned dressmakers, soothsayers, clairvoyants, negro midwives, and near and distant acquaintances to prove her story.

Sharon introduced an equally miscellaneous lot of witnesses. Nothing more absurd was ever revealed in a court room than the steps which Sarah Althea took to secure the love of her ancient Adonis. She ransacked Chinatown in San Francisco and the haunts of clairvoyants to secure potent charms for this purpose. She wore a pair of the Senator's socks and a bit of his undershirt next her skin in the hope of making him love her, and she capped the climax of her exploits by putting some pieces of his undergarments in a new-made grave—the charm which she had obtained from one of her advisers.

The weakness of her case, outside of the marriage contract, lay in the shabby character of her witnesses. A long trail of perjury was over most of them. Several of her chief witnesses abandoned her during the trial and went over to the Sharon side. The money required to carry on her case was loaned by a wealthy old colored woman called "Mammy Pleasant," who had a grudge against Sharon.

One of her counsel was ex-Judge Terry, who has just been killed. He fell under the baneful influence of her charms, and after the death of his first wife married the adventuress.

When it was announced that Senator Sharon was dying, Sarah Althea manifested great sorrow, wringing her hands and storming up and down the room because she could not be with him. She lived comfortably in a house by herself and had been busy preparing for her appearance on the stage.

Her preparation for the stage had been made on the most elaborate scale and in utter defiance of all precedent. In her arrangements all else had been subordinated to the exhibition of herself as the claimant for the Sharon millions. The play in which she was to appear, "The Merchant of Venice," had been re-written in order to bring a hundred or more local "gags," and in one or two places scenes from the famous divorce trial had been introduced. Besides this she had determined to appear in the red velvet dress which she wore at the wedding of Sharon's daughter Flora to Sir Thomas Hesketh of England, a garment which was the gift of the Senator himself.

Most persons were surprised at the amount of property Sharon died possessed of. It had been supposed that his estate was pretty well run down, but it appeared from the schedules which were placed on record that he was worth at least $15,000,000. The great country place at Belmont fell into his hands at the time of the failure and death of its original owner, Ralston.

Ralston furnished the house without regard to expense. Wherever solid silver could be used it was employed in ornamentation, and from top to bottom the mansion is fairly lined with the costliest of mirrors. It stands to-day in about the same condition in which Ralston left it. In the days of its original owner Belmont was the place for the entertainment of distinguished visitors to the coast. Hundreds of prominent men of both hemispheres have partaken of its hospitality.

Since it fell into Sharon's possession only one great fete has occurred there—that on the occasion of the marriage of his daughter to Sir Thomas Hesketh.

No money was spared to make this entertainment as brilliant as any that ever took place on the Coast. It was at this function that Sarah Ashes figured so conspicuously and was made mistress of ceremonies. She had only a little while before formed the acquaintance of Sharon, and he purchased an outfit for her. In the splendidly decorated rooms and in her brilliant attire she cut a pretty big figure.

She exacted liberal attention from the master of the place, and, besides being introduced by him to many of the most prominent people present, it was on his arm that she leaned when she went forward to congratulate the groom and kiss the bride.

Many of Sharon's friends felt little sympathy for him, during the divorce trial, when they discovered that Sarah Alth

THE IRREPRESSIBLE SAWDUST QUESTION.

The sawdust question, like Banquo's ghost will "not" down. The millowners have, through the zeal of a government servant, had to face the police magistrate on the bench again, and as judgment, published in another column above, have again been mulcted in a substantial sum. We do not wish to be understood as transversing the proceedings of the magistrate; he has to administer the letter of the law in relation to the charge brought before him, but it does seem plain that the government is breaking faith with the millowners. It appears that the latter are, on their part, observing the compact entered into by them and the government, while the latter in the past and present prosecutions, are deliberately ignoring that agreement. The agreement of 1886, as is well known, permits the millowners to operate their mills in spite of the fact that sawdust from the pitman of the upright saws must necessarily enter the river, and the specific understanding with the government was that so long as this agreement was, in good faith, observed by the millowners, the latter would be considered as complying with the law. The government recognized this agreement and, the deputy-minister of marine and Fisheries personally visited the mills, on behalf of the government and, in their name, approved of the means adopted by the mill owners, to enable them to observe the agreement. There is nothing to show that the relations of the mill owners and government have altered in respect of the agreement, yet we find the government in the person of its officer, disregarding it and exacting, as regards the Peterborough millowners, a rigid compliance with the letter of the law, and we find millowners brought no less than four times to the police court to answer for a technical breach of the law, which the government by solemn compact, agreed as a fair measure of equity, to ignore. Under these circumstances it is not unjustifiable to regard prosecution and persecution as convertible terms. If the government has reason to suspect that the millowners are disregarding the conditions of the agreement of '86 why should not the deputy-minister again make a personal inspection to ascertain if that be the fact or not, before assuming that it is a fact and acting on that assumption, to the great detriment loss and annoyance of the millowners? The latter claim that they are keeping the agreement and complying with the spirit of the statute. In all the charges heretofore investigated, the agreement of 1886 has been ignored by the prosecution. If the inspector is acting under instructions from the government in this course of action, it is only fair to assume that the latter take this round-about way of saying that they do not recognize the agreement of '86, and that the millowners, without intimation, other than a police court summons, must cease to regard the agreement as a protection to them in the prosecution of their business—that they must keep the letter of the law—that they must be fined to the uttermost farthing if so much as a pint of sawdust finds its way from their mills to the river. If the government wish to repudiate the agreement, it would be nothing less than honourable on their part to give the millowners fair notice, and if they intend to begin the policy of insisting upon the literal observance of the law let them be reminded that justice should, like charity, begin at home, and let them try their "preatice hand" on the Ottawa millowners who are in the matter of river pollution by refuse from their saw mills, sinners above the Peterborough men, as Satan is a sinner above a slightly weak-kneed saint.

In connection with this subject we understand that negotiations are now in progress and almost completed by which the Dickson Company will have the lumber of the Scott's limits manufactured out of Peterborough. The town can ill afford to submit to the loss which this arrangement, if finally carried out, will involve. It will practically mean the removal of the present mills from Peterborough and this means the withdrawal of an industry which gives an amount of employment representing a pay roll of over $50,000 per year, not including the other large amounts of expenditure required in prosecuting so extensive a business. It is understood that the present prosecutions for infringement of the Fisheries Act in regard to sawdust entering the river, are a factor in leading the Company to entertain this determination. The removal of the mills would be nothing short of a calamity, in a commercial sense, to Peterborough, and it is a point worth considering whether the limited fishing interests of the river, are to be considered paramount to the continued existence of the lumber manufacturing establishments, which have been and continue to be the chief factor in the development and prosperity of the town.

Sunday at the Gaol.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I went up to the gaol two weeks ago last Sunday upon an invitation from a member of the Layman's Evangelical Association, for the purpose of addressing the inmates of the gaol on spiritual matters. The turnkey and Mr. John Best met me at the door, and I hadn't stood long before I was asked what church I belonged to. I replied I belonged to no church in particular, though my name was on the Methodist roll. Mr. Best then said that no one was allowed in but the Laymen, and the turnkey asked Mr. Best what he thought about letting me in. Mr. Best replied that he would leave it to the jailer to do as he liked. The jailer then repeated to me Mr. Best's words, that no one was admitted but Laymen. Now, sir, I was not aware that the Laymen had a monopoly of the gaol on Sunday. Who gave the jailer authority to admit no persons but Laymen? I would like to know why any Christian people cannot get into the gaol on Sunday as well as members of this self-constituted Laymen's Evangelical Association.

Yours truly,
WM. CUMMINS, Enniamore.

A Canadian Insurance Company.

Going to put up a Fine Building on Notre Dame Street—Good for the Sun Life.

Another handsome addition is about to be made to the public buildings in the city. The Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada has just bought from the Larocque estate the entire block situate at the corner of Notre Dame street, Alexis and Hospital streets, adjoining the Waddell building, at a cost of $25,000, and the price is regarded by real estate agents as remarkably low, considering the site.

The rapid development of the company's business has rendered some substantial addition of office accommodation absolutely imperative, and on the new site the directors propose to erect a very handsome stone building chiefly for the Company's own occupation. The new building will not be a mammoth structure of unwieldy proportions, but a block which will not only do credit to the city and the well directed enterprise of the Company, but will, it is believed, largely increase the value of land in that busy neighborhood. It is estimated that the building and land together will cost about $100,000.

The style of architecture has not yet been determined; the plans will be thrown open to competition among the city architects. The elevation will be bold and imposing, and the building will have the exceptional advantage of being lighted from three separate streets on all the flats. It will be built of stone, but not Montreal stone.

The new site is at present occupied by a saloon and some smaller houses; but the lease terminates on the 1st of May next, and work will then be begun.—Montreal Witness.

ROYAL DANDELION COFFEE

Some drink because they are hungry.
And some because they're dry,
Some drink to keep them in good health,
And some that they may thrive.

Some drink because they are too hot,
And some because they're too cold,
Some drink to strengthen them when young
And some when they are old.

Some drink to keep them wide awake,
And some that they may sleep,
Some drink because they merry are,
And some because they weep.

Some drink when they do money gain,
And some because of loss;
Some drink when they are pleased,
And some when they are cross.

Some drink when they are hard at work,
And some when they do play;
Some think it right to drink at night,
While others drink by day.

Some drink for sake of company,
While others drink on the sly;
And many drink but never think,
About the reason why.

Some say they drink for pleasure,
And some they drink for pain,
Some say 'tis good, some very bad,
But never once refrain.

Yet all must own the proverb true:
"When in a hot to strike it"—
I've just found out the reason why—
All drink because they like it!

THE GLASS OF FASHION.

The Birth and Death of the Bustle—Is It Dead, or Does It Only Sleep?

Is the bustle dead, or does it only sleep to be revived in the distant or near future? This question does not agitate the fashion feminine mind, for at present no really fashionable woman wears even the faintest approach to the protuberance which of late years has decorated, without adorning, the feminine back. The spinal column of the gentle sex is for the nonce restored to its normal outline, straight, or gracefully describing Hogarth's least accentuated line of beauty. When fashion and good taste go hand in hand woman ought to be happy, or as happy as mere æstheticism can make humanity. The present in dress will long be remembered by artists who appreciate the absolute school of truth and nature as applied to the feminine toilet. It would be difficult for the caricaturist to find subjects for his pencil among the vagaries of fashion as seen at the moment. The misapplication of a style, its misuse by a very stout or a very slim, a very tall or a very short woman, is all that a Du Maurier or a Nast could possibly utilize in the creation of a comic dress cartoon. Look at the first picture in our glass of fashion to-day. Do you not recognize its fidelity to the outlines of the female form divine, as seen in the prettiest, best formed, most fashionable, chic, and elegant girls that you see at Saratoga, Newport, Lenox, Bar Harbor, Tuxedo, and in "gay little Orange?" "Those girls wear no bustles" is the legend that is written without the pen of a ready writer, only by the artist's pencil, all over the illustration. Whether really fashionable woman walks about with or without a wrap her back is as flat as those depicted above.

All women, however, are not fashionable. In fact the majority of women follow fashions slowly. Hence the bewilderment in the minds of men who sometimes read fashion reports and fashion articles, in which the assertion is made that the bustle is dead, that fashionable women don't wear bustles, that skirts are no longer draped and similar enunciations. They read them, look out of the window and see more than half the women in the street or on the lawn with well rounded protuberances on their backs jutting out more or less from the waist line, and falling over the same the familiar draperies, only slightly modified, that have been in vogue for several years past.

To meet this demand for a bustle that can be transformed in a moment into "no bustle at all," a correspondent of the Press suggests one made after a model shown in the next cut. The simple spring, the inventor tells us, which forms the bustle in its extended form, is capable of being drawn up by the ribbon attached to the lower part of it, so that it disappears entirely—is, in fact, flattened out, or in, when the two ends of the ribbon, which are passed through two slits in the belt, are pulled taut and tied in a bow in front. None of these "now-you-see-and-now-you-don't" kind of bustles, are as yet found in the markets of fashion. In fact, the inventor does not even claim that he or she has even a working model, or has applied for a patent of the invention. When the bustle is revived, if it ever is, the inventor may make a fortune out of his idea, but not now. The bustle is dead, and will soon be gone. Not buried, but vanished, perhaps translated.

When a fashion is started there is no telling where it will end. From 1840 to 1847 the bustle made its mark on feminine attire. The outlines of the little crescent shaped roll were finally lost in the huge, voluminous, full-gathered, undraped skirts that were worn from 1845 to 1847. The belles of that period emulated one another in the number of starched petticoats that they were under the many breadths of their skirts. Finally, in 1846 and 1847 the belle of the ball-room or the "picnic"—they were not called lawn fetes or garden parties in those days—looked not unlike the one seen in this picture. By this time the bustle was extinct. It was merged into the petticoat. Every fashionable girl wore from five to seven underskirts, all starched, and every one made with from four to five breadths of cambric.

The exaggeration of a fashion invariably leads to its extinction. Suddenly these huge skirts were abandoned, only to be revived about the time of our great American war, in the form of small hoops at first, but gradually growing larger and larger, until their extinction came, culminating in the plastic period inaugurated by the admirers of Mr. Oscar Wilde's æsthetics of dress.

The excess of realistic treatment in the direction of plastic æstheticism was the underlying cause of the last revival of the bustle. The fashion journals and dressmakers seized upon the clinging draperies manufactured by the "æsthetics" and evolved out of what was really artistic and beautiful those kid-glove fitting [illegible] with "pull back" and bridled skirts that were actually indecent in their revelations. Then came the revolt against this, first in a pouf under the postillion backs of polonaises, basques, and jackets, then a small cushion of hair was sewed in at the waist line in the back. Then came the horse-hair bustle, followed by the one of crinoline or wire, which was gradually increased until the comic artists of Puck and Punch, of the Harper's Bazar and Harper's Weekly, and other journals vied with one another in the production of illustrations similar in spirit, and some of them actually like the picture shown above. Exaggeration and ridicule combined to bring about the much desired result, namely, the death of the bustle or a quietus equal to its death. Soon it will be only a memory. It will not probably be resuscitated until exaggeration in another direction leads to its revival. Let us hope this may never come to pass.

Ill Temper.

Is more rapidly improved by relief from physical suffering than in any other way. Step on your friend's corn, and the impulse to strike is strongest. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, by quickly and painlessly removing them, insures good nature. Fifty imitations prove its value. Beware of substitutes. "Putnam's," sure, safe, painless.

The Oklahoma Boom

FORMS an instance of a wild rush for an uncertainty, which is just the opposite of the steady boom enjoyed by Burdock Blood Bitters. Buyers of this medecine get a certainty—an unequalled remedy for all diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels, kidneys and the blood. 2w34d

Timely Wisdom.

Ayer's Hair Vigor keeps the hair soft and pliant, imparts to it the lustre and freshness of youth, causes it to grow luxuriantly, eradicates Dandruff, cures all scalp diseases, and is the most cleanly of all hair preparations.

AYER'S Hair Vigor has given me perfect satisfaction. I was nearly bald for six years, during which time I used many hair preparations, but without success. Indeed, what little hair I had, was growing thinner, until I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor. I used two bottles of the Vigor, and my head is now well covered with a new growth of hair. —Judson B. Chapel, Peabody, Mass.

HAIR that has become weak, gray, and faded, may have new life and color restored to it by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. "My hair was thin, faded, and dry, and fell out in large quantities. Ayer's Hair Vigor stopped the falling, and restored my hair to its original color. As a dressing for the hair, this preparation has no equal.—Mary N. Hammond, Stillwater, Minn.

VIGOR, youth, and beauty, in the appearance of the hair, may be preserved for an indefinite period by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. "A disease of the scalp caused my hair to become harsh and dry, and to fall out freely. Nothing I tried seemed to do any good until I commenced using Ayer's Hair Vigor. Three bottles of this preparation restored my hair to a healthy condition, and it is now soft and pliant. My scalp is cured, and it is also free from dandruff.—Mrs. E. R. Foss, Milwaukee, Wis.

SPLENDID BUILDING SITES

I have placed on the market

That Desirable and Well Situated Property

in the western part of the Town, and offer it in lots as per plan annexed. This affords a splendid opportunity to secure a location for your home in a rapidly improving and in every respect the best part of the town. The properties are situated on Cedar and Hatton streets and within a stone's throw of the West Ward School and a short distance of the principal Churches and the Hamilton Co'y. Works.

"ERIN COTTAGE," late the residence of Mr. Elias Thompson, is situated in the centre of the block. This property is for sale or can be had at a bargain. It is a desirable suburban residence.

The lots have good frontages on streets of the standard width and are splendidly located. From the upper lots is afforded one of the best views of the town with ample facilities for drainage.

Several fine dwellings are already contracted for to be built on these lots during this season.

Tradesmen and merchandize should inspect the property as it offers the best sites available and convenient to the business part of the town.

The Late William Bradburn.

The EXAMINER records with regret the death of Mr. William Bradburn, which took place this morning after a rather brief illness. Mr. Bradburn, who had reached the age of fifty-nine years, has been for many years a well known resident of the town. The many friends of the family sympathize with them in their bereavement. The funeral will take place from the family residence, 292 London street, on Saturday, August 24th, at 2.30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Free Circus Tickets.

Of course everybody will want to go to the Barnum & Bailey circus on Sept. 3rd, and here is a plan for securing free tickets. Any and every person buying five pounds of tea at Hawley Bros' tea store will be presented with a circus ticket in the shape of a saving in price equal to the price of a ticket. That is, every purchaser of five pounds of Hawley Bros prime tea will get them for fifty cents less than the same quality of goods could be got at any other shop. Call early and don't wait till circus day when there will be a rush at Hawley Bros. for their choice teas, fragrant coffees and elegant glassware.

Canoeists in Camp.

To-morrow Night's Concert.

The public are reminded of the benefit entertainment in St. Leonard's grounds, Ashburnham, to-morrow (Friday) evening. The proceeds will be presented to Mr. Thos. McNaughton, who is in very feeble health not recover. The young men managing the affair wish to tender him some practical token of their appreciation of his kindnesses in the past. When in his health he was ever willing to assist at social entertainments of any kind, and many an audience has been delighted with his scientific club swinging. The band and orchestra will be present, and a concert of vocal and instrumental music will be given by local talent. The public should patronize this entertainment. It is deserving of every encouragement.

Chemong Boating Club.

A meeting of the stockholders of this club was held in the Oriental Hotel parlours Wednesday evening. Mr. A. V. R. Young occupied the chair. The draft of constitution and bylaws was submitted by Mr. L. M. Hayes, chairman of the committee charged with their preparation. These after slight amendments were endorsed and the printing of a hundred copies ordered. The architect's plan for the club house, as amended, was accepted and the building committee were directed to proceed with the immediate erection of the building—the limit of cost being placed at $700. Mr. H. LeBrun was elected second vice president of the club, and the name of Mr. William Hamilton, jr., was substituted on the executive committee for that of Mr. LeBrun. It is expected that the clubhouse building will be completed ready for occupancy within a fortnight.

A Long Canoe Trip.

Messrs. W. H. and J. R. Diogle, W. A. Mason and F. J. Wesley returned from a sixteen days canoe voyage on the back lakes yesterday noon. They had a very pleasant outing, and affirm that the trip is a splendid one for persons who are fond of paddling. They travelled 138 miles direct, irrispective of the distance covered fishing and other short expeditions. Their first stretch was from Lindsay to Fenelon Falls, through Cameron Lake to Rosedale, via Balsam Lake to Coboconk, thence through Big Turtle and Little Turtle Lakes. Then they returned over the same route to Sturgeon Point, thence to Bobcaygeon, through Pigeon, Buckhorn and Lovesick lakes to Burleigh, and into Stoney Lake. After a week's camping at this pleasant resort they returned to town via Young's Point and Lakefield running the Otonabee rapids to the Otonabee Canoe Club boat house. The run down the river rapids was the most interesting part of the whole voyage, though some of the fun was knocked off by the frequent portages. On their trip the "Big Four" made no less than seventeen portages, passed through eleven lakes, and camped on eleven different grounds. Their biggest days paddle was 22 miles, from Lindsay to Rosedale. They had in their two canoes over 300 lbs of baggage, but met with no mishap, barring Mr. W. H. Diogle's fall into the water at Stony Lake.

A Good Sign.

Since Mr. Dumble put out his posters announcing the sale of Block B a number of gentlemen have offered to buy lots on Aylmer street north. Mr. Dumble wisely declines to sell by private sale, that all may have a fair chance at the auction. We are glad to see property so active in Peterborough. The town has had a steady onward progress and never were its prospects better than to-day. Immense additions are being put to the Bridge Works. The Wm. Hamilton foundry is erecting a great moulding shop and making other great additions to enable them to keep pace with the orders that are pouring in from the Atlantic to the Pacific for its greatly celebrated machinery. It is quietly whispered amongst the knowing men that the Trent Valley Canal Commission will in all probability report in favor of the link between Lakefield and Peterborough. This means the expenditure of nearly two millions of dollars. Everything points to a period of rapid growth and development of our great natural advantages. Peterborough is destined to be the Lowell of Ontario. Nothing can now stay her onward progress. We rejoice in her prosperity and intend not only to do our part in helping our good town, but we intend to put our hand on a bit of her soil, that when the full boom strikes we will "be thar."

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

We are now perfecting our plans for fall and winter months. We hope to present to our members and patrons many attractions which we feel assured will be of great benefit, morally, mentally and physically to the young men of our town. So far we have completed arrangements so those who are members may be taught penmanship and arithmetic without extra cost; also classes in mechanical drawing, vocal music, and "help at hand" will be formed provided we receive a sufficient number willing to take up these very important subjects. The general secretary will be pleased to receive names. We propose holding a member's monthly reception, when the different churches, with their pastors, will be asked to provide an attractive programme and enable the young men to get acquainted with the good people of our town, which will be mutually beneficial.

Interesting, instructive and helpful talks are being arranged for on electricity, chemistry, etc.

We hope to provide a star course of six entertainments from the best talent in the United States and Canada, if we can get a sufficient number of subscribers. The cost will be within the reach of all, and we see no reason why we should not have the benefit of these treats as well as those who reside in the cities. We hope to see it taken up heartily. Our Ladies Auxiliary purpose refurnishing our rooms and are determined to make them homelike and so attractive, that our young men will delight to spend their evenings there. We shall soon begin a class for social Bible study on Tuesday evening. Several of our pastors have offered to assist in this work, which will be of great profit to us all. We shall shortly resume work for our boys. We ask the hearty co-operation of parents in this great work. We trust our young men will show their appreciation of the kind efforts being put forth for their special benefit by uniting with the Association and by their personal efforts help on the great work for young men. It only costs one dollar, and it will be the best investment any young man could make. All are invited to call at the rooms and make the acquaintance of the general secretary. He will be pleased to meet with any one, especially strangers in our town.

We return thanks to Mrs. B. Earle and Miss Dunlop for cut flowers for our rooms. We would be pleased to receive some pictures and gospel texts, for they would add greatly to the appearance of our room.

Our President, Mr. G. M. Roger, tells us the attendance was good at the Gospel services held at Stony Lake on Sabbath last by our Mr. T. S. Cole.

Those Sawdust Cases.

Judgment in Two of the Charges—The Defendants Fined $50 and Costs Each.

At the police court this morning Police Magistrate Dumble delivered judgment in the two mawdust cases against Messrs. J. M. Irwin and T. G. Hazlitt. Neither of the defendants were present. Mr. Dumble's remarks were written and were as follows:—

GILCHRIST VS. IRWIN.

The complainant herein is the Fishery Inspector of this district. He lays the information by direction of the Dominion Government. On the 12th of August last the defendant was complained of under sub. sec. 2 of sec. 15, cap. 95, Revised Statutes of Canada.

This Act provides that every one who throws or allows to drift into any stream frequented by fish, sawdust or mill rubbish shall incur a penalty not exceeding one hundred dollars.

The evidence showed that vast quantities of sawdust escaped from the defendant's mill into the Otonabee river. This river contains valuable fish and is navigable for steamers. It is well known that the mill rubbish from the Peterborough mills for the last forty years was freely emptied into the river until the beautiful Little Lake, of which Peterborough was once so proud, has been in many parts filled with slabs and sawdust, so that what was a charm and a delight was fast becoming what was little better than a bog and a source of disease rather than of health. For twenty miles below the town the banks of the river were lined with accummulations of sawdust, and at the debouchment into Rice Lake the mouths were all but closed with banks of sawdust. It appears that numerous complaints were made to the government respecting the nuisance, and in 1884, informations having been laid under the statute, the mill owners were fined. The milling interests were so important and the influence of the millers so great that the government appear to have compromised with the mill owners, by stipulating that they should regulate their mills so as to prevent as much mill refuse as possible getting into the river. The millers accordingly made some changes in their mills, those near the town finding a market for much of their mill offal, sold it for firewood. The sawdust was to some extent controlled and removed from the mills, some mills making much more conscientious efforts than others to keep the law. The vigilance of the Inspector being withdrawn, the efforts of the mill owners relaxed, and accordingly new complaints going in, these fresh informations are laid.

The defendants' mill has four uprights—two gangs and two slabbers, besides circulars of various kinds.

Under the upright gangs are large openings through which the sawdust, bark, etc, drops into the river, no attempt being made to control it. In fact the openings are made large and are freely used for the disposal of rubbish, the employes being found in the act of shoving the sawdust down these holes.

The defendant asserts that most of the sawdust from the circulars is removed by carriers to trucks, which convey it and the slabs to the burner, but admits that all the sawdust from the uprights enters the river, and claims that his mill is so constructed that he cannot control the sawdust at the pitman holes.

I find that several large mills have, since these complaints were laid, so fixed the mills that the most of the sawdust from the pitman is controlled and removed from the mill.

The hearing of this case was enlarged for two weeks to give the defendant an opportunity to meet the difficulty, but he has made no effort, and persists in his right to put his sawdust in the river, so for as relates to that coming from the gangs.

I am simply a judge trying a complaint, having no discretion. The question is not whether the industry is of such importance that I am allowed to decide as to whether the benefits from the industry are greater than the injury from the nuisance. It is simply a question of guilty or not guilty.

I am aware of the difficulty of dealing with this matter. I know that much sawdust must unavoidably pass into the river; but I think the circumstances warrant the government in insisting that every reasonable effort must be made to prevent it. Since these informations were law Mr. Hilliard has improved his mill, and now removes ten large wagon loads a day from his small mill. The Strickland's have also reduced the sawdust escape to a minimum. I do not find that the defendant has made such reasonable efforts as the gravity of the offence demands, nor since the first complaints were made this year, any new effort whatever in that direction. It is said the persistent laying of complaints will drive the mills off the river. It may be so, or it may be that when the pressure is strong enough more perfect machinery will be used to cope with the difficulty. I have nothing to do with the result; I have before me the law and the evidence; I cannot say the defendant does not deposit mill refuse in the river. On the contrary I find that he puts in three quarters of the sawdust from the manufacture of twelve millions of lumber yearly. On the evidence I find him guilty, and I adjudge that he do pay a fine of $50 and costs, and in default of payment distress, and in default of distress imprisonment for twenty days.

D. W. DUMBLE.

August 21st 1889.

GILCHRIST VS. HAZLITT.

Though I find Mr. Hazlitt has taken great pains to collect the sawdust and keep it out of the river, yet he admits that from the gang saws it all goes down the pitman hole into the water, but that his mill being built on the old style, with low under story, he is unable to control what comes from the gangs. This then is a plea of guilty; and as the question of removal of the sawdust is only a quation of money, I have no discretion but to impose a fine. If the government intends to compel him to rebuild his mill, that is a matter the responsibility for which rests with the government. I have no discretion, and must deal with the matter as if the intention was that the law regarding mill rubbish, like all other laws, should be enforced.

I adjudge that the defendant do pay a fine of $50 and costs, and in default of payment distress, and in default of distress imprisonment for twenty days.

D. W. DUMBLE.

MAX STRAKOSCH DYING.

The Well-Known Impresario in a Home for Incurables Near New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Manager Max Strakosch, the well-known impresario, is lying at the point of death in the Home for Incurables at Fordham.

Mr. Strakosch was taken to the Fordham Asylum on Thursday afternoon. His wife accompanied him and stayed with him during the night. She watched at his bedside all day yesterday and did not leave her husband till long after visiting hours.

Mr. Strakosch's sickness is described as paralysis by Dr. Todd. He had a stroke—the third within two years—on Wednesday last and his condition at once became alarming. He is perfectly conscious, but can at present move none of his limbs. In Mr. Strakosch's case the paralysis was brought on by excessive study and other mental fatigue.

Strakosch has of late dropped out of public notice altogether. For the last two years he has been unable to attend to business affairs, and his friends have seen but little of him. Shortly after the death of his brother Maurice in Paris the papers reported Max in a dying condition. He has two grown-up sons from a first marriage and four small children by his marriage with Miss Nilsson.

Max Strakosch was born at Brunn, Austria, in 1836, of Jewish parents. He came to America in 1853, in response to an invitation of his brother Maurice, who was then conducting musical enterprises in the United States. In 1855 he managed his first season of Italian opera at the old Academy of Music. Teresa Parodi was then his prima donna, and his brother Maurice the musical conductor.

In 1859 Max Strakosch became the agent of Adelina Patti, accompanying her on her tour to New Orleans and Havana. In 1861 the young manager brought out Carlotta Patti. His concert troupe then comprised such artists as Mlle. Cordier, Brignoli, Carlo Patti, the great pianist Gottschalk and others.

Four years later, after parting from Jacob Grau, Max formed his first Italian opera company. Ghioni, Caniana, Errani, Maccaferri, Parepa and Brignoli were members of the troupe. Francesca Rosa was the conductor. In 1868 he introduced Clara Louise Kellogg to the American public.

Since 1878 Mr. Strakosch's ventures have not been very successful.

Willow and Wicket.

Victoria Rifles vs. Peterborough and Victoria Counties.

A very pleasant visit was brought to a close yesterday by one of the most exciting matches ever witnessed on the P.A.A.A. grounds. The title of the match was a misnomer, as with one exception, Mr. Barron, of Lindsay, all the players for the counties were from the town of Peterborough, and even then some of the "Colts" had to be impressed into the service.

The home team batted first; and Attewell and Stratton made a fine start, 33 being the total before the first wicket—Attewell's—fell for a well played 19. Stratton played a very fine innings for his 30; but with the exception of Hamilton, who scored a dozen in fine form, the rest did little, and the innings closed for 89.

The "Vics." then batted; and it seemed at luncheon time as if the home team had the game in their own hands, 5 wickets being down for 35 runs, of which Mackie contributed a steady 11. On the resumption of play three wickets fell for very few runs; but Austin and Gordon played cool and steady cricket at a very critical time and the eighth wicket did not fall, till 81 had been recorded, when Gordon was caught for well played 31. The ninth wicket fell with three more runs on, and the excitement was kept up for three consecutive maiden overs, when a snick for three gave the winning hit. The pressure being now relieved, the batsmen played more freely, and the innings closed for 106, 17 ahead. Austin and Hodgson deserve great credit for their coolness and judgement at a time when the "shakers" would be on most players; their runs were got by good steady cricket.

The counties went in again to play out time, and scored 130, to which Stratton and Hamilton together contributed no fewer than 99. When these two got together, five wickets had fallen for 25 runs, of which Rogers got 13; and it was not until the score had reached 126, that Stratton, who played in his very best form for 54 runs, was caught by long stop. Hamilton did not stay much longer, being "yorked" after having played in very fine form for his 45.

The Victorias, not having a ground of their own in Montreal, get very little practice. Their three days' play here developed a marked improvement in form, as was to be noticed in the last match of the series.

The following was the score:

The visitors left for Napanee by the nine o'clock train last night. Their visit has been very pleasant indeed to the home players, and they express themselves as highly delighted with the way in which they have been entertained.

A large crowd assembled at the station last night to bid them good bye. While waiting for the train, the time was spent in rendering college songs, and in breaking the leading players to a "bounce," Stratton, Hamilton, Browning and others being the recipient of this honor.

The Precious Metals.

In answer to the question, "What becomes of all the old gold?" a Boston dealer in that commodity: "It goes into the ground," meaning that it was used for filling teeth, and was finally interred in the graveyards. The mines, however, must give a great deal more of new gold than the graveyards take of old gold. What becomes of the silver, a metal much more plentiful than gold? Well, a great many tons of it must be stored in the United States treasury, in the form of dollars which are not required for circulation. Then Asia is a great sinkhole for the world's silver. Since the demonetization of silver by so many European countries, the exportation of the metal to Asia has been greater than ever, for it is a rule of commerce to export what is cheapest at home. One bimetallist authority computes the loss to France by the depreciation of its silver in circulation at a millard and a half of francs. The official organ of the Marseilles Chamber of Commerce holds that the export trade in goods is seriously affected by the European policy with regard to silver, which has not lost its value in China and India, where it is eagerly sought for in exchange for agricultural and manufactured products. In order to obtain European silver, which she needs, Asia has only to send back her merchandise, and naturally she sends it as copiously as possible. Now, the present depreciation of silver in Europe (or, in other words, the appreciation of gold) amounts to 27 per cent., and it constitutes a premium of 27 per cent. on Asiatic exportation and a disadvantage of an equal percentage on European export commerce to Asia. It should be remembered, moreover, that the peoples with whom Europe is under this detestable disadvantage comprise seven-twelfths of the inhabitats of the globe. The demonetization of silver which has taken place in the countries of the Latin Union thus constitutes for India and the other countries with the monometallic silver standard a protective duty against importations from Europe. European products sold in Asia are paid for in silver, and, since silver now loses 27 per cent., European exporters are obliged to increase by that proportion their export prices in order to realize the same profits that they obtain upon goods sold at home. But at these exaggerated prices they find no purchasers, and the double result of the monetary revolution accomplished in 1873 have been to flood European markets with foreign products at prices which defy home competition. "Wheat, cotton, oleaginous grains, sugar, wool, raw silks, corn and manufactured goods from Asia, and wool, tallow and hides from South America, are poured in upon us in ever-increasing quantities, while their markets are practically closed to us by this fatal disadvantage of exchange. It is therefore of the first importance to re-establish the equilibrium arbitrarily broken in the monetary circulation, and to end the trouble which paralyzes commercial relations and overrides import tariffs by suppressing the abnormal advantages now enjoyed by the countries whose standard of currency is silver."

How to Select a Wife.

Good health, good morals, good sense and good temper, are the four essentials for a good wife. These are the indispensables. After them come the minor advantages of good looks, accomplishments, family position, etc. With the first four, married life will be comfortable and happy. Lacking either, it will be in more or less degree a failure. Upon good health depends largely good temper and good looks, and to some extent good sense also, as the best mind must be affected more or less by the weaknesses and whims attendant on frail health. Young man, if your wife is falling into a state of invalidism, first of all things try to restore her health. If she is troubled with debilitating female weaknesses, buy Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It will cure her. b

MANY KILLED AND MAIMED

A TERRIBLE RAILWAY DISASTER IN TENNESSEE.

Three Prominent Citizens of Knoxville Slaughtered and 41 Bruised and Broken —What Happened a Trial Trip Train.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 22.—A horrible wreck occurred on the Knoxville, Cumberland Gap and Louisville Railroad at Flat Gap Creek, 22 miles from here, at 10.30 this morning. The train was the first to go over the new road and carried a select excursion of the City Councils, the Board of Public Works, representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and the very flower of the business and professional men of Knoxville. The train of two cars left the track at a crossing and the rear car went down a trestle. Only one man was uninjured.

It was impossible to obtain medical aid for a long time and until 4.30 p.m., when the train reached Knoxville, scanty attention was rendered.

Many had to be brought back on flat cars and the last part of the journey was made in a driving rain. Three men died from their injuries and others cannot live. The dead are:

JUDGE GEORGE ANDREWS, the most prominent lawyer in East Tennessee.

S. T. PEYTON, a leading merchant and former president of the East Tennessee Fire Insurance Company.

ALEXANDER REEDER, a leading politician.

The injured are: Alexander A. Arthur, President of the Chamber of Commerce.

Isham Young, president, and Peter Kern, member of Board of Public Works.

John T. Hearn, editor of The Sentinal.

W. Woodruff, a leading wholesale merchant.

Charles Seymour, attorney.

Alexander Wilson, assistant chief engineer of the Knoxville, Cumberland Gap and Louisville road.

County Judge Maloney.

Aldermen Barry and Hockings.

Gen. H. Schubert of the Governor's staff.

A. J. Alberts, a wholesale merchant.

Rev. R. J. Cook, Professor of U.S. Grant University.

City Physician West.

Judge H. H. Ingersoll, H. B. Wetsell, W. D. Samuels, C. Abbey, Captain H. H. Tayler, S. McKelder, Ed Barker, R. Schmidt, J. F. Kinsolla, W. A. Park and one of the train crew, J. B. Hall, Phillip Samuels, aged 10.

Out of 56 persons on the train 41 were injured.

The most intense excitement and sadness are apparent here to-night.

Another Railroad Disaster.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Aug. 22.—A freight train on the Philadelphia and Reading railroad broke through a culvert near here to-day. The engine and twenty cars were wrecked. Involving heavy loss. Several train men were slightly injured.

TOPICS FROM TORONTO.

The American Catedonian Association in Session—Diamond as Home.

TORONTO, Aug. 24.—The 20th annual meeting of the North American United Caledonian Association was held in this city yesterday. There was a large gathering of delegates. Mayor Clarke welcomed the visitors to the city. Thomas Morgan, the President, was not in attendance, but he sent a flattering report. The association is generally prosperous. The delegates attended a grand banquet at the Walker House in the evening and will also attend the annual games of the Toronto association to-day. These officers for the ensuing year were elected:

President—James Moir.

Vice-Presidents—W. D. McIntosh, Toronto; John Pettie, Detroit.

Secretary—W. B. Smith, Philadelphia.

Treasurer—D. A. Morrison, Buffalo.

Assistant-Secretary—A. McLaren, Newark, N. J.

Chaplain—Rev. J. F. Dickie, Detroit.

Mr. Rutherford, Montreal, and Mr. Tallock, Philadelphia, were elected to act with the committee on management.

The next meeting will be held at Detroit.

A Blaze this Morning at Petrolia.

PETROLIA, Ont., Aug. 23.—About 12.30 this morning a fire was discovered in a barn in the rear of Richmond's livery stables. The fire destroyed three dwelling-houses and four barns, also one horse.

Angling for Speckled Beauties.

BURK'S FALLS, Aug. 22.—Speckled trout fishing in this vicinity is losing none of its wonted enthusiasm and each day brings its quota of strangers to thin out the lakes and streams. Tuesday last a party consisting of James A. Montgomery and F. M. McWilliams of New York, H. C. Montgomery, Woodstock, and J. H. McLean, Brantford, with Dan Starrat as guide, basketed 112 of the spotted beauties from Starrat's Creek, south of here. Fred Brasher of the Clifton House, with George Higgins, another local sport, secured 53 on Monday, four of which weighed over two pounds each.

But by far the choicest general selection found their way to the copious baskets of John Bowman, hardware merchant of London, and T. D. Ellis of Toronto. Though they took only 42 from Loan Lake, where Arthur Ward guided them, the size and weight fully made up for the deficiency in numbers, their gross weight being 39 lbs. So pleased were they with their afternoon's luck that they had the whole catch photographed in order that they might convince their city friends that this was no ordinary fish story but an unvarnished account of the quality and numbers of these finny fish with which the waters of this district abound, waiting to be caught by those who know how.

THE GALLOWS IS FOILED.

MRS. MAYBRICK WILL SPEND ALL HER DAYS IN PENAL SERVITUDE.

It Took Home Secretary Matthew's a Long Time to Decide the Matter—No Further Clemency Will be Shown.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The official announcement was made this evening that the death sentence of Mrs. Maybrick had been commuted to penal servitude for life.

The decision was based upon the conflict of medical testimony as to whether the poison found in deceased's stomach was sufficient to produce death.

After a prolonged consultation between eminent lawyers and Home Secretary Matthews, the unanimous opinion was arrived at that Mrs. Maybrick had administered poison to her husband with intent to kill.

No further appeal either for a release from prison or for mitigation of the sentence to life imprisonment will be entertained.

Mrs. Maybrick is sinking and her appearance is greatly changed. Even the news of her reprieve did not seem to brighten her up very much.

Canadian Affairs in England.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The Times' editorial warmly approves of the Canadian Pacific China-Japan contract and says: "The Canadian Pacific railroad is a work for which the Canadians alone found the money. To grudge them the benefits arising from a government subsidy argues a peculiarly parochial spirit. They have placed within our reach a grand opportunity of binding together the eastern and western ends of the empire by a truly Imperial work. It would be utterly unworthy the imperial ministers to decline to assume an interest in so great an undertaking, with all its strategic advantages. There is no reason why the Peninsular and Oriental Company should be jealous. There is plenty of work for both in their own interests and in the interests of the Empire."

The Canadian Gazette announces that the debenture holders of the Ontario Investment Association have accepted, in discharge of all claims, 25 per cent. cash down and 75 per cent. by three instalments, one year, 18 and 24 months. It has grounds to assume that the instalments will be duly met.

Utter Contempt for the Court.

DUBLIN, Aug. 22.—The trial of William O'Brien and James Gilhooly, M.P.s from County Cork, on a charge of holding a Nationalist meeting which had been proclaimed under the Crimes Act, was begun to-day at Clonakilty. The defendants refused to recognize the authority of the court and declined to cross-examine the witnesses for the prosecution or to present any testimony.

The Dock Laborers' Strike.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—A deputation from the striking dock laborers was received to-day by the directors of the Commercial Company. They submitted proposals looking to an amicable settlement of the strike. Forty thousand of the strikers again paraded through the city to-day.

Fealty for the Kaiser.

STRASBURG, Aug. 22.—A sham fight took place here to-day and was personally directed by the Kaiser, whose martial bearing created intense enthusiasm among the garrison. The populace thronged the approaches to the Palace, singing "Die Wacht au Rhein." The Kaiser came out on a balcony and waved his acknowledgments, his appearance being the signal for renewed demonstrations.

A state banquet was given this evening at which 190 covers were laid. The Emperor had the Empress on his left and Prince von Hohenlohe on his right. The Emperor's toast was, "I drink to the health of my loyal Reichsland."

A Subject of Diplomacy.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—Sir James Fergusson, Under Foreign Secretary, informed Mr. Gourley in the House of Commons this evening that communications are passing between the British and United States Governments in regard to the seizure of sealers in Behring Sea.

GENERAL FOREIGN FLASHES.

Mr. Parnell is Coming to America—A Sham Fight at Strasburg.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—It is reported that Mr. Parnell will shortly make a tour of America for his health.

A sensation has been caused by the professors at the Bonn Asylum pronouncing Prince Suitovsky sane. This removes control of his estates from his wife, who has been squandering his fortune.

Terrific gales prevail on the English coast. Much damage has been done.

TITLIS, Aug. 22.—The Porte has sent a secret letter to the governors-general of all the Armenian villages ordering them to cherish their privileges and avoid offending the Kurds, whose services may be needed in the event of war. It is feared the note will prom to outrages upon Christians.

ATHENS, Aug. 22.—Bloody affrays are still reported in Crete.

PARIS, Aug. 22.—Count Courten, a Swiss, confessedly a spy in behalf of Germany, has been arrested at Aran.

ROME, Aug. 22.—While England has entered into no engagement with the triple alliance she has come to an agreement with Italy regarding the balance of power in the Mediterranean.

SOFIA, Aug. 22.—Reports from Belgrade say a boat load of arms has arrived there and other military preparations are being made. The anti-Bulgarian articles in the semi-official press cause anxiety here.

BERLIN, Aug. 22.—The meeting between the Kaiser and Czar has been arranged to take place at Potsdam. Bismarck will be present.

The Bronze Medal of Bravery.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 22.—Harry Corby, M.P., to-day received a letter from Sir Charles Tupper saying that the Royal Humane Society would present the bronze medal to H. W. Bell, who, on March 18 last, at the risk of his own life, save from drowning a little boy 6 years of age, son of Mr. H. McKnight. The deed was an heroic one.

A Hamilton P.O. Clerk's Promotion.

OTTAWA, Aug. 22.—George Ross of the Hamilton postoffice has been appointed assistant postmaster at Kingston. Mr. Ross has been occupying the position of second class clerk in the Hamilton postoffice.

Elixir Successes in Michigan.

ISHPEMING, Mich., Aug. 22.—Dr. B. D. Harrison and Dr. William Richardson, leading physicians of Sault Ste Marie, and Dr. J. L. Fryer of the Kansas City Medical School have been experimenting with the Brown-Sequard elixir. Pancrobilin was added to the elixir for the first time to render assimilation easier. Tests were made on Solomon Hay, aged 91, and Thomas Moffatt, aged 76. The improvement in Moffatt's lameness was marked. He was stone blind but after a hypodermic injection he claimed he could distinguish light and darkness. Solomon was blind of one eye and nearly so in the other. He had walked with crutches with difficulty for years. Fifteen minutes after the injection of 20 drops of the elixir he walked to the window without crutches, and said he could see objects at some distance. Both men are now as well as immediately after the injection of the elixir.

The President Was There.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 22.—The cornerstone of the Indiana soldiers' and sailors' monument was laid this afternoon with imposing ceremonies in the presence of the President of the United States. Many prominent men and thousands of veteran soldiers and sailors were present.

A MASONIC SENSATION.

Resignation of Past M. G. Commander William H. Peckham.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Masonic circles yesterday had a genuine sensation in the resignation of Past M. G. Commander William H. Peckham, 33d degree, as a member of Cerneau Consistory No. 1, 33d degree of this city. By this action Mr. Peckham severs his connection with Scottish Rite Masonry. This is the most important event in Masonic history that has occurred for many years, and adds new interest to the internecine strife between the adherents of Albert Pike and Ferdinand Gorgas. Every adherent of the latter is by recent masonic proclamation in danger of expulsion from the Blue Lodge of Masonry, and the resignation of Mr. Peckham will, it is said by prominent masons, be followed by many others.

Mr. Peckham was for many years prominent among Cerneau Rite Masons, and for several years held the highest rank in the body—Grand Commander of the Supreme Council of the Scottish Rite for the United States. About three years ago he resigned and was succeeded by F. S. J. Gorgas of Baltimore. Mr. Peckham now withdraws from the position of Past M. G. Commander.

His resignation was declared to be on account of the alleged affiliation of the Supreme Council of the body with the Grand Orient of France, which does not recognize the existence of a personal God. Following is Mr. Peckham's letter of resignation:

To the Masonic Fraternity throughout the World:

For forty years I have been an active member of the Masonic Order as founded in London, England, by Anderson and Desaguliers in 1717. During these four decades my full belief and allegiance thereto have never been doubted, while I have at no time permitted a shadow to darken its fair and hallowed name, and have always been found in the front ranks to extend the sphere of its usefulness and to defend it against any or all irregularities and assaults, holding the belief that there exists no institution founded by man outside our loved and venerable order wherein or whereby God's creatures on earth can find lessons which teach peace and good will to all. Its dogmas and ethics are inspirations emanating from "Our father who art in heaven."

All Masons, wherever found, express their belief in His divinity and all-ruling power. It is the corner-stone on which the Masonic Temple is erected. But the Grand Orient of France, from its foundation in 1725, through all its schisms and changes, after faithfully adhering to the aforesaid doctrine, in 1878 eliminated the name of God from its constitution and ritual, thereby compelling every symbolic Grand Lodge throughout the world to denounce the act and sever all relations of amity and correspondence therewith; and yet, in spite of this well-known fact, Brother F. J. S. Gorgas, the present Grand Commander of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of the Thirty-third and last degree of Freemasonry, as established in these United States by Joseph Cerneau in New York in 1807, during a visit by him to Paris, France, in 1868, did visit and meet with the "Council of the Order," and did appoint one of the obedients of the said Grand Orient a representative thereto, as a guarantee of amity on behalf of the body over which he, said Gorgas, presides.

"Subsequently events confirm this fact, and painful as it is to me, I am constrained to publish it." As a proof that the said Council of Rites (which he contends is a distinct body from that of the Grand Orient), is but a component part thereof, I publish herewith the names of the officers and members of the Grand Orient of France in whose bosom is the Council of the Order, viz.: President of the Grand Orient, Callayrn; Vice-President, Thulle et Caubet; Secretaries, Poulle and Amiable; members of the Council of the Order, Amiable, Barbe, Barre, Blatus, Burgues, Cabade, Caubet, Calfayru, Constans, Planeon, Fontaines, Foussier, Gravey, Guimbaud, Heopin, Lafargve, Legache, Legache-Saint-Jest, Lecuerre, Maynard, Masse, Michaud, Milsan, Monivier, Pallot, Peau, Poulle, Prost, Sejournant, Tenier, Thulle, Viguer, while the officers of the Grand College of Rites consist of Sovereign Grand Commander, Poulle, First Lieutenant Grand Commander, Masse; Second Lieutenant Grand Commander, Fontalnas; Grand Orator, Amiable; Grand Chancellor, Viguer; Grand Treasurer, Dalesce; Grand Hospitaller, Ormieres; Grand Master of Ceremonies, Caudelot; Grand Captain of the Guard, Burgues.

The members of said Council of Rites are Amiable, Burgues, Caudelot, Chazand, Debace, Fontaines, Masse, Ormieres, Poulle and Viguer, showing beyond controversy that they are members of and owe allegiance to the Grand Orient, and consequently are under the ban of non-Masonic intercourse, and that no true symbolic Mason can ignore the edict of his Grand Lodge which interdicts his doing so.

Looking at the matter in all its bearings, I find myself, as a loyal member of symbolic masonry, constrained to sever my connection with Scottish Rite Masonry and the Cerneau Consistory No. 1, 33d Degree, of this city, and leave my action to the judgment of all conscientious Masons wheresoever dispersed.

WILLIAM H. PECKHAM, 33d Degree,
Past M. P. Gr. Commander.
State of New York, Aug. 20, 1889.

Both His Legs Cut Off.

OTTAWA, Aug. 22.—A horrible accident occurred on the Canada Atlantic Railway this afternoon, when John, the 11-year-old son of Conductor Leon O'Leary of the Canadian Pacific Railway, had both his legs cut off by a train. Young O'Leary, it seems, was on the rails when the train was approaching and not noticing it was run down and pinned by the wheels, losing both limbs. The unfortunate boy was carried into the station and died half an hour later.

INDIAN WHEAT CROP.

Increased Future Yields—Impurities in Indian Wheats.

LONDON, Eng., Aug. 23.—The following particulars of the wheat crop of India of 1888-9 are taken from a final report issued by the Revenue and Agricultural Department of the Government of India, under date of July 11. The season was, on the whole, unfavorable to wheat cultivation, the rainfall being untimely and unevenly distributed. The effect of this was evidenced in a greater reduction in the outturn than in acreage planted. The decreased acreage, compared with the preceding year, was 126,235 acres, or 49 per cent. decrease, and the outturn less by 694,341 tons, or a falling off of 9.64 per cent. (The "average" or "normal" area and outturn of previous forecast have been revised since last year by the light of later returns.) The falling off in yield was in the principal wheat growing districts, the Northwestern Provinces, the Central Provinces and Bombay. The native states showed a large increase in acreage, but not a proportionate increase in yield. The food stocks at the end of the year 1888-89 were not large and in a few places reported insufficient for home use, whilst prices on an average were higher throughout India. By reason of this it is not anticipated that export during 1888-90 will exceed those of 1888-9 —namely, 881,000 tons, even with Punjaub this season yielding an increase computed as 395,000 tons over last season. The memorandum states that the past three seasons have been more or less unfavorable to the cultivation and export of wheat from India. An examination recently made in the Department of Agriculture of the agricultural statistics and estimates of outturns submitted by the provincial authorities proves, however, that this depression is only temporary. There is no doubt of the fact of the expansion of wheat cultivation during the last 15 years, or of the probability of its continued expansion, especially in the Punjaub, where canal irrigation is being assiduously extended in the Central Provinces, where large areas are available and likely to be developed by the new railway, and in Bombay (Karnasak) owing to the increased railway communication.

On the question of impurities in Indian wheat, the Government report has the following: "During the past season the improvement in quality and purity of Indian wheat has been made the subject of considerable attention. The commercial chambers in this country have urged on the home chambers the necessity of lowering the percentage of refraction, and while it is a matter for congratulation that the Liverpool Association has consented to lower the refraction to 2 per cent. it is to be regretted that the co-operation of the London Commercial Trade Association has been refused. In India efforts to promote cleanliness will not be wanting if met with a satisfactory response abroad. The Marshall steam-thresher, adapted to Indian conditions, has been pushed by a company in the Punjaub, and was used with marked success on the experimental farm in Bombay. Measures for the purification of the Indian grain are not likely to be related if only a better rate is obtainable in foreign markets for the cleaner article. But so long as the same price is given for wheat with a 4 per cent. as with a 2 per cent. refraction, there is no incentive to reduce the proportion of dirt in consignments to London."

SHOT HIS WIFE.

A Buffalo Husband's Crime—He is Under Arrest.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Aug. 22.—Late tonight Michael Kelly, a ship carpenter, walked into the house where his wife has been living for some time aloof from him. He stepped in front of her as she sat at the kitchen table and fired three shots into her body, one in each side and one in the back, passing through her lungs. He was arrested. Mrs. Kelly was removed to a hospital. She has little chance of recovery.

THE CARNIVAL GOES ON AND HAMILTON IS CORRESPONDINGLY HAPPY AND CHIRPY.

The Merchants Still Wrestling With the Mysteries of Trade—St. George's Ball—Elects Its Officers.

HAMILTON, Aug. 22.—The bone and muscle of Hamilton came out and exhibited itself on the streets to-day. Upwards of 2000 manufacturing and mercantile firms were represented in a procession which took an hour to pass a given point. The manufacturers vied with each other in turning out novel carvans. Hendrie & Co. had over 100 horses in the procession. It commenced to form into line at noon, but it was two o'clock before Hendrie & Co.'s horses led the long representation of industry through the streets.

The Merchants' Convention continued its sessions to-day. A resolution advocating a provincial business men's association was read by the chairman and a committee was appointed to consider it.

Mr. William Ince of the firm of Perkins, Ince & Co., the well known wholesale grocers of Toronto, went exhaustively into the subject of the evils of credits. He believed that the scarcity shown by many merchants to sell goods to sacrifice them rather than keep them on their shelves, and to do a big business even if to do so they were compelled to pile up book debts, caused more injury to business than all the bankrupt stocks in the country. The credit system he referred to as one of the great evils of the business fabric. Retailers and wholesalers should work together for its abolition.

Mr. Fred Wyld, of the wholesale dry-goods firm of Wyld, Grassett & Darling brought up the question of insurance, confined to a few practical hints—such as had suggested themselves to him in his business. The necessity for having the policy embrace proper specification of the building with additions and improvements thereto; the advisability of taking stock regularly, of having pails of water set freely through the building as a precautionary measure. Over 60 per cent. of the fires reported had occurred from preventible causes. He closed by referring to the fire ordinance passed in Atlanta, Ga., and suggested it being brought before the city for consideration.

The meeting then adjourned.

The St. George's Union of North America resumed session at 10 o'clock this morning.

The committee on the President's address reported, endorsing all the recommendations except that of placing funds of the various societies in a common treasury.

These officers were elected:

President—John Lucas, Philadelphia.

First Vice-President—E. H. Smythe, LL.D., Q.C., Kingston.

Second Vice-President—Edward Trevrett, Utica, N.Y.

Treasurer—Daniel Batchelor, Utica, N.Y.

General Secretary—Thomas T. Yeates, Washington, D.C.

Chaplain—Rev. J. S. Stone, D.D., Philadelphia, Pa.

Executive Committee—H. Symons, Toronto; John Dunn, Chicago.

The selection of a place of meeting for next year and the election of a corresponding secretary was left with the Executive Committee.

The affiliated societies were then called upon to report progress. Auburn, N.Y., recorded an increase of 26 members and a reserve fund of $2500. Barrie is doing good work and has a balance of $100. Boston with a membership of 400 has a permanent fund of $9000. During the past year $800 was distributed in charity. Chicago showed a membership of 300 and a reserve fund of $6000. Last year a bureau of labor was established and maintained at a cost of $2000 per year, obtained by a special subscription. Guelph reported steady progress and a balance of $280. Hamilton has a membership of 400 and a cash balance of $1470. Last Christmas 800 families received relief and the expenditure amounted to $700. Kingston society is holding its own in membership and has an invested fund of $400. London has a membership of 400 and a fund of $800. The society has been in existence about seventeen years. Philadelphia reported great prosperity and with a view to increasing the membership social meetings are held. The membership is 347 and the expenditure during the year was 3606. Toronto's membership is 700 and about 1200 applicants are relieved yearly.

Mr. A. T. Freed read a paper on "The St. George's Society in Hamilton," giving a sketch of its 46 years' history.

Dr. Baugh described "The Englishmen in Canada."

The delegates attended a magnificent banquet at the Royal Hotel to-night.

This evening a grand display of fireworks was given in the Gore Park and also an open air concert by the 13th Battalion band.

To-morrow will be military day. The 13th Regiment of Brooklyn, accompanied by the 65th Battalion band of New York, and a number of Canadian regiments will take part in the parade.

COBOURG IN FINE FEATHER.

Thousands Attend the Opening of the Civic Tournament.

COBOURG, Aug. 22.—Over 6000 people attended the civic tournament here to-day. The new waterworks, just completed by Moffett, Hodgkins & Clark of Watertown, were subjected to a severe test, which resulted most successfully for the contractors.

The firemen's parade was an imposing spectacle. The Extinguisher Hose Company of Port Hope won first prize, a handsome silver trumpet donated by the Gutta Percha and Rubber Manufacturing Company of Toronto to the best-uniformed fire company in the procession. The good marching of the Oshawa brigade was greatly admired. The fire departments of Port Hope, Cobourg and Millbrook made a creditable appearance.

Great interest centred in the competition for non-professional bands having less than 25 members. The judges made the following awards: First prize, $150, Carlton Band (near Toronto); 2d prize, $100, Deseronto Band; 3d prize, $50, Millbrook Band. The cornet contest resulted: 1st prize, gold-plated cornet, valued at $105, donated by Whaley, Royce & Co., Toronto, won by Thomas Baugh, Toronto. Prof. Ansell of Cobourg came out second and Prof. Crowley of Bowmanville third.

The snare drum contest was won by Mr. Vet of Toronto. In both the horse race and trail race Oshawa was victorious. The trotting horse race was won by Croft's Livery Maid. Newcastle carried off the base ball trophy, defeating the Arlington Hotel club of Cobourg in the final match after an exciting game.

The harbor is full of yachts, which will take part in the sailing regatta to-morrow.

Children of the Desert Not Wanted.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Forty-eight Arabs of both sexes arrived here to-day by the steamer Veendam. Six were allowed to land, as they had funds, but the rest were detained.

The County Master in the Coal Swim.

OTTAWA, Aug. 22.—The contracts for the annual supply of coal to Government buildings throughout Canada have at last been awarded. The contract for the supply in Ottawa, the largest of any, has been divided between Mr. McCulloch and G. F. Thompson. The contract in Toronto has been given to Whiteside & Bell.

A FALSE AND UNFAIR BUSINESS PRINCIPLE.

The large posters announcing the Midland Central Exhibition, at Kingston, bear the imprint of a Buffalo, U.S., printing establishment. This is significant of a sad lack of patriotism on the part of the directors, and is moreover a false and unfair principle to put into practice. The monopoly of ignoring the claims of home manufacturers and business men might well be left to the Dominion Government, which seems to be fond of patronizing Yankee in preference to home producers. The work of printing can as well be done in Canada, and it is from Canadians that the Kingston people expect to get the patronage which will make their exhibition a success. Buy from those who buy from you is a motto which passes current for soundness in the commercial world, and the Kingston people are to be denounced for disregarding it. But the Kingston people are not the only offenders. We find persons in this town who forget that such a motto should apply. We see, for instance, an itinerant vendor of writing pens invading professional and business offices and finding ready sale at a dollar a box for pens, which can be bought in any stationer's shop in the town at 40 cents a box. And we find hawkers of pass books, note books, etc, raiding the town and finding gullible purchasers for their wares at double prices, to the loss of respectable establishments who have to pay the taxes and who by there presence, and enterprise make it possible for the parties, who give local dealers the go-by in favour of peddlers, to make a living. To the public,—don't be dishonest, patronize those who patronize you. If you make your money in Peterborough and from Peterborough citizens spend it here. Don't try to figure as a one horse absentee Irish landlord. Speak well of and put a plank when needed in the bridge that carries you safely over the stream—buy from those who buy from you. This is the only fair way; it is the only wise way, too, that will pay in the end. People who make their money in Peterborough, out of Peterborough people, and who spend it outside the town are soon found out and the public are not slow to apply the principle of the motto, buy from those who buy from you.

KEEP BOOKS WITH YOURSELF

The road to wealth is not over the highway paved with the amount earned, but over that covered with the amount saved. There are thousands in the receipt of good incomes, to the last cent of which they live up. It is a wonder to many of them where the money goes, and that so much money is expended with so little to show for it. A great deal of this mystery arises from the neglect of keeping a strict account, or indeed keeping any at all. It is surprising to them how fast money melts away, but the surprise would cease to exist if an account were kept, and it could be seen what foolish expenditures, which seemed all right at the time have absorbed the current income. Moralists and preachers tell us that it is a good and wholesome thing to do, to make a retrospect of our acts, and strike a balance. Without doing so we fail to concentrate sufficient attention on our errors in life, and we continue to go on making the same mistakes. If we have an account of our expenditures to refer to and reflect over, we should see where we have made extravagant or injudicious expenditures, and also see where there is a possibility of retrenchment. This would furnish an incentive to economy and retrenchment, which would not exist in the absence of a cold explicit record of our expenditures staring us in the face. A writer on economic subjects remarks that if all men in business or acting employees and receiving salaries or daily wages, should keep a regular account with themselves, in which should appear in detail all the money they receive and all they expend, they would live more wisely, and as a rule, far more successfuly, Here, for example, is a man who is in receipt of a salary. The salary he receives in twelve monthly payments. Let us suppose him to keep an account with himself. When he receives a monthly payment he charges himself as debtor to that amount, and during the month he credits himself with all he pays out, item by item. At the end of the month he settles this account with himself, and sees on paper just where his money came from and just where it has gone. If he has spent less than he receives he carries the surplus forward to the next month in the same way, and thus continues for the whole year. At the end of the year he can look back over the whole period, and see in black and white just how he has lived in the matter of personal and family expenses. If his whole salary has been spent he can see how it was spent, and if a part of it has been saved he can equally see how he managed to save it. Such an account enables him to see where he is, in a financial sense, as a compass enables a tourist to keep his bearings in an unfamiliar forest. The account with oneself is a compass which permits of one knowing his financial bearings

DEN THOMPSON AND THE TIGER.

The Man from the Old Homestead Don't Play Faro or Poker Yet Now

KEENE, N.H., Aug. 21.—A correspondent called on Denman Thompson at his home in West Swanzey, eight miles from this place, and asked him about the statement to the effect that he had lost $150,000 at faro and poker recently in New York.

Mr. Thompson owns a beautiful summer residence in the old fashioned town made famous by scenes and incidents in "The Old Homestead." A call for Mr. Thompson met with the response that he was out somewhere about the farm. Not far distant workmen were repairing a drain in the road, and as Uncle Josh passed them he was heard to remark, in the inimitable way so natural to him:

"Well, boys, I found a beehive in that wood pile. I got hold of the business end of a bee and it's interesting, I tell you."

Mr. Thompson greeted the visitor cordially, and he was shown the despatch stating that he had lost $150,000 at faro at No. 818 Broadway and at a poker game in the Westminster Hotel.

Mr. Thompson leaned against the iron railing in front of the Old Homestead and gazed long and earnestly at the despatch. He certainly did not behave like a man who had been caught at something he feared to remain unconcealed.

"Tell them," said he, in slow and measured terms, as if he was digesting what he was about to say, "that I have not been at No. 818 Broadway for three years. I never lost $150,000 or $15,000 or $5000 there. The last time I ever played faro was about three years ago, when I won $1700. I have not put down a bet since. I never played a game of poker at the Westminster Hotel and never saw one played there. I have not played a game of poker for fifteen years.

"I won $5000 on the election," continued Mr. Thompson, "and have won and lost on races alternately, losing more than I have won."

Mr. Thompson remarked that he had a few funds for groceries in the Cheshire National Bank, and thought inquiries there might satisfy the curiosity in regard to his financial standing. From a consultation with the bank officers it appears that if Mr. Thompson has lost $150,000 he still has something to fall back on.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—In the haunts of the Theapans about Union and Madison Squares the story is generally discredited. Said one gentleman:

They don't play a strong enough game down there, and even if they did Denman Thompson isn't the man to be taken in at a quickstep for $150,000. And I happen to know that Den hasn't been playing short cards with his professional brethren at the Union Square Club.

An ugly complexion made Nellie a fright,
Her face was all pimply and red,
Though her features were good, and her blue eyes were bright,
"What a plain girl is Nellie"! they said.

But not, as by magic, plain Nellie has grown
As fair as an artist's bright dream;
Her face is as sweet as a flower new blown
Her cheeks are like peaches and cream.

As Nellie walks out in the fair morning light,
Her beauty attracts every eye,
And as for the people who called her a fright,
"Why, Nellie is handsome"; they cry.

And the reason of the change is that Nellie took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which regulated he liver, cleared her complexion, made her blood pure, her breath sweet, her face fair and rosy, and removed the defects that had obscured her beauty. Sold by druggists.

The Loss of the Hair

Is a great misfortune and the sight of a bald head should be a warning to you to take the best possible care of your hair. A little of Dr. Dorenwend's "Hair Magic" used occasionally will prevent all chances of its falling out or turning gray, and will remove all traces of dandruff. Every druggist has it in stock. Ask for it. dw

DRINKING

ROYAL DANDELION COFFEE

Some drink because they are hungry,
And some because they're dry,
Some drink to keep them in good health,
And some that they may thrive.

Some drink because they are too hot,
And some because they're too cold,
Some drink to strengthen them when young
And some when they are old.

Some drink to keep them wide awake,
And some that they may sleep,
Some drink because they merry are,
And some because they weep.

Some drink when they do money gain,
And some because of loss;
Some drink when they are pleased,
And some when they are cross.

Some drink when they are hard at work,
And some when they do play;
Some think it right to drink at night,
While others drink by day.

Some drink for sake of company,
While others drink on the sly;
And many drink but never think,
About the reason why.

Some say they drink for pleasure,
And some they drink for pain,
Some say 'tis good, some very bad,
But never once refrain.

Yet all must own the proverb true:
"When iron's hot to strike it"—
I've just found out the reason why—
All drink because they like it!

A Typical American Novel.

To A. W. Gray, painter of fences and drawer of handcharts, I dedicate this glorious child of my mind in hope that he (Arthur, not the child) will live through it.

PREFACE.

I claim this to be a typical American novel because there is no sense nor anything else in it. I have made a radical departure from the style of my contemporaries, however, inasmuch as my hero's name is not Jack or Harold, nor the heroine's Polly or Bab; neither do I once make use of the words "irradescent" or "glamereuscent." I also want to put myself on record as agreeing with Bill Howells in his statement that Walter Scott never wrote such novels as the "Typical American School" turns out. Scott may have done a great many things to be ashamed of, but he is free from that charge.

CHAPTER I.

Pale, fleecy clouds scurried across the cold, blue sky; the wandering wind played a dirge on the telephone wires; it was night—night in Sevastopol. Sevastopol is a small coal mining town just across the Coon river from Des Moines, Iowa.

CHAPTER II.

A tall, sinewy young man with a frame like a Hercules sat with his head drooping moodily in his hands, in a small cabin about fifteen miles east of Pueblo, Colorado. The shimmering light from the tallow lamp cast fitful shadows upon the rough walls of his rude but and his great, gaunt mastiff whined uneasily in his corner. Still Gerald De Muggs sat motionless in his chair with a far away look in his cerulean eyes; his taxes fell due on the morrow, and if he did not pay them there would be a ten per cent penalty.

GERALD DE MUGGS DESPONDENT.

CHAPTER III.

Three long years had hurried past on tireless wings of change and Gerald De Muggs was on board the speeding cars bound for love and home. He changed cars and ate a sandwich at Omaha, and a glad smile flitted and twittered about his expressive mobile mouth. (More Mobile mouths are used now than all other southern styles combined. Mrs. J. B. Potter has risen to glorious originality by writing us that she "will use no other.")

CHAPTER IV.

Narcotic Cunningham had a glad, wistful look in her eyes, and her hair banged; she also had on a new pair of shoes that were two sizes too small for her, and but for the sweet song the glad bird of happiness was singing in her heart she would have felt rocky.

Gerald was coming home from the untutored and unshorn West, coming home to reward her for all the years she had waited for him while he was battling with Fate and claim jumpers; coming home to make her his wife and buy her a new Leghorn hat.

CHAPTER V.

A foot is heard crushing the gravel; Narcotic's heart leaps to her mouth. Gerald is here. A tall form appears in the doorway, a manly voice says "Ah, there," a pair of strong arms swarm around Narcotic's willowy waist, her head droops on his shoulder and she lisps "Well, old sport, how do you stand the racket?"

CHAPTER VI.

Ten minutes have elapsed; ten short minutes, yet fraught with a world of destiny for Gerald De Muggs and Narcotic Cunningham. In an unguarded moment Gerald had asked what the prospects were for getting work in Van Ginkel's mine, and Narcotic had transfixed him with a glance.

"Why do you want to work in a coal mine?" she asked, with a reserved meaning hidden under her words.

"Because I've only got four dollars and need some money in my business," Gerald recklessly replied.

"And where is the 160 acres of government land that you wrote of in such glowing terms and told me you would sell and bring me the money?"

"I got tired of paying taxes on it after I proved up, and traded it for some territory on a patent dish-washing machine."

Then Narcotic's whole wounded soul rose up in protest against the great wrong to her, and the next day Slim Jenkins, a street-car driver, led her to the altar, for she concluded that Gerald was a g.

CHAPTER VII.

Ten years had emulated the example of the ten minutes so graphically described in Chapter six, and had elapsed.

Mrs. Narcotic Jenkins was wearily washing dishes while her red-headed child pulled madly at her skirt, when a wagon drove up in front of the door. A bearded man entered, doffed his hat, and said:

"Spare me one minute of your valuable time, my dear madam, and I will explain to you the workings of one of the greatest Godsends to suffering women-kind the nineteenth century has ever heard of. I have here a dish-washing machine that bursts the stuffing out of elbow grease, of course I am making reads of money out of the invention, but at the same time——"

Gerald roping in the shekels and Slim out on a strike and busted; it was too much and Narcotic fainted. Gerald, for the bearded man was he, said, "Well I'll be sand-blasted!" and hied him hence. —W. Z. Reed, in Texas Siftings.

Temporarily Disabled.

Visitor—I don't see Signor Samson, the modern Hercules, here to-day.

Attendant—No, he tried to carry up a scuttle of coal for his wife last night and overexerted himself. Doctor says he'll be out in a week, though.—Vicks.

Ill Temper.

Is more rapidly improved by relief from physical suffering than in any other way. Step on your friend's corn, and the impulse to strike is strongest. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, by quickly and painlessly removing them, insures good nature. Fifty imitations prove its value. Beware of substutes. "Putnam's," sure, safe, painless.

FORMS an instance of a wild rush for an uncertainty, which is just the opposite of the steady boom enjoyed by Burdock Blood Bitters. Buyers of this medecine get a certainty—an unequalled remedy for all diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels, kidneys and the blood. 2w34d

Timely Wisdom.

TIMELY wisdom is shown by those who keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry on hand. It has no equal for cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhoea, dysentery, colic, cramps and all summer complaints or looseness of the bowels. 2w34

Safe and Reliable.

I HIGHLY recommended Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for curing cholera, cholera morbus, colic, cramps, diarrhoea, dysentry and all summer complaints. It is safe and reliable for children and older persons. Miss Hiley Breckenridge Heyworth, Que. 2w34d

For Toilet Use.

Ayer's Hair Vigor keeps the hair soft and pliant, imparts to it the lustre and freshness of youth, causes it to grow luxuriantly, eradicates Dandruff, cures all scalp diseases, and is the most cleanly of all hair preparations.

AYER'S Hair Vigor has given me perfect satisfaction. I was nearly bald for six years, during which time I used many hair preparations, but without success. Indeed, what little hair I had, was growing thinner, until I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor. I used two bottles of the Vigor, and my head is now well covered with a new growth of hair. —Judson B. Chapel, Peabody, Mass.

HAIR that has become weak, gray, and faded, may have new life and color restored to it by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. "My hair was thin, faded, and dry, and fell out in large quantities. Ayer's Hair Vigor stopped the falling, and restored my hair to its original color. As a dressing for the hair, this preparation has no equal.—Mary N. Hammond, Stillwater, Minn.

VIGOR youth, and beauty, in the appearance of the hair, may be preserved for an indefinite period by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. "A disease of the scalp caused my hair to become harsh and dry, and to fall out freely. Nothing I tried seemed to do any good until I commenced using Ayer's Hair Vigor. Three bottles of this preparation restored my hair to a healthy condition, and it is now soft and pliant. My scalp is cured, and it is also free from dandruff.—Mrs. E. R. Foss, Milwaukee, Wis.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

Sold by Druggists and Perfumers.

PERFECT SAFETY, prompt action, and wonderful curative properties, easily place Ayer's Pills at the head of the list of popular remedies for Sick and Nervous Headaches, Constipation, and all ailments originating in a disordered Liver.

I have been a great sufferer from Headache, and Ayer's Cathartic Pills are the only medicine that has ever given me relief. One dose of these Pills will quickly move my bowels, and free my head from pain.—William L. Page, Richmond Va.

SPLENDID BUILDING SITES

I have placed on the market

That Desirable and Well Situated Property

in the western part of the Town, and offer it in lots as per plan annexed. This affords a splendid opportunity to secure a location for your home in a rapidly improving and in every respect the best part of the town. The properties are situated on Cedar and Hatton streets and within a stone's throw of the West Ward School and a short distance of the principal Churches and the Hamilton Co'y. Works.

"ERIN COTTAGE," late the residence of Mr. Elias Thompson, is situated in the centre of the block. This property is for sale or can be had at a bargain. It is a desirable suburban residence.

The lots have good frontages on streets of the standard width and are splendidly located. From the upper lots is afforded one of the best views of the town with ample facilities for drainage.

Several fine dwellings are already contracted for to be built on these lots during this season.

Tradesmen and merchants should inspect the property as it offers the best sites available and convenient to the business part of the town.

The largest stock in Peterborough and best assortment at the Palace Grocery, Elliott & Tierney, George street, Peterborough.

Great Wallpaper Sale.

The great remnant sale of wall papers at the Peterborough Book Store has been a decided success. This house is determined to do the wall paper trade of Peterborough, if placing the handsomest patterns and greatest variety at the lowest prices will effect this purpose. When you want the best of satisfaction in every respect in wall paper, go to the Peterborough Book Store.

Block B

Is that beautiful field north of Smith street where Mrs. Hammond's house is. It is to be offered for sale by public auction on Saturday evening 31st August at 6 p.m. As we passed these lots the other day we wondered as we saw so many people looking at stakes until we learned about the auction. Aylmer and Bethune streets are run right through them to Mrs. DIXON'S land, where a cross street will cut them. No finer property has been offered for sale in Peterborough.

Gold Pens and Pencils.

The Peterborough Bookstore has received to day from the celebrated makers, Aikin, Lambert & Co., a new show case of gold pens, gold pencils, and gold pen holders. Also pencil pendants for watch chains, in gold and ivory, agate and pearl mountings. Their stock in these lines is rare and extensive, amounting to nearly $300, and anyone requiring a beautiful pencil or pen, for personal use or for a present, can obtain it at the Peterborough Bookstore at a reasonable price.

A Ball Tosser's Wedding.

On Tuesday evening Mr. Geo. Little, of Lindsay, was married to Miss Lillian May Workman, daughter of Mr. Hugh Workman. The Post says a large number of gifts were received from friends in Peterborough. Mr. Little is well known here, particularly among the sporting fraternity as one of the best baseball players in the district. His many friends will wish him and his bride a happy life.

We Go One Better.

Other grocers are greatly excited about the prices of some of their goods. But Geo. Carton keeps quite cool, and goes one better every time. See the crashing value he is offering:—9½-lbs. Rice, for 25c. 8 bars of Electric Soap, for 25c. 8 lbs. of Tea, for $1. Push right through to Geo. Carton's red tea store, where you can carry away more goods for a $2 bill than you can get for $3 in other stores. Corner George and Charlotte streets. dw

Norwood Looking Ahead.

Norwood is not behind other towns in bidding for new industries. It now proposes to relieve Peterborough and Port Hope of one of their enterprises. Mr. Robert Bickal, manufacturer of cheese boxes, will remove his factories from Peterborough and Port Hope to Norwood and largely increase his business if granted a free site and exemption from taxes for ten years. The village council will submit a by-law to this effect to the people.

To-night's Benefit.

The public are again reminded of the complimentary benefit entertainment in recognition of the past services of Mr. Thos. McNaughton, who has so generously contributed at all local concerts irrespective of creed or order, which takes place in St. Leonard's grounds to-night. The band will be present, and a good open air concert will be given. An orchestra and platform will be provided for dancing. The beautiful grounds will be illuminated by electric light. Admission tickets are only 25 cents.

Don't fail to try London Electric Soap once, and you will use no other.

Fine Library Books.

The Peterborough Book Store, in addition to the large number of books recently added to the library of the Charlotte street Methodist church, has just added about 75 of the newest and choicest publications. This makes the library of the Sunday school the finest in the town, about 500 volumes being catalogued. Those needing the best books for Sunday School libraries, either in whole or for sorting up, will find what they want of the very latest issue at the Peterborough Bookstore, at reasonable prices.

Free Circus Tickets.

Of course everybody will want to go to the Barnum & Bailey circus on Sept. 3rd, and here is a plan for securing free tickets. Any and every person buying five pounds of tea at Hawley Bros' tea store will be presented with a circus ticket in the shape of a saving in price equal to the price of a ticket. That is, every purchaser of five pounds of Hawley Bros prime tea will get them for fifty cents less than the same quality of goods could be got at any other shop. Call early and don't wait till circus day when there will be a rush at Hawley Bros. for their choice teas, fragrant coffees and elegant glassware.

The Month's Death Rate.

The government mortuary returns for July shows Peterborough to have a pretty high death rate last month. Gelt percentage is lowest, only .54, but four deaths taking place in that town during last month. Peterborough's rate is 1.42, a total of thirteen deaths being recorded. Other percentages are:—St. Thomas .94, London .98, Toronto 1.47, Belleville 1.81, Ottawa 2.60, Kingston 1.84, Woodstock .68, etc. Of the deaths in Peterborough 8 were males and 5 females. The causes of death are given as diarrhoeal affections 2, constitutional disease 2, local diseases 5, developmental diseases 3 and violent death 1.

A Fatal Accident.

A sad accident occurred on Monday afternoon of last week at Mr. Daniel Kelly's farm, a couple of miles west of Norwood, the Register says. William Argy, a young man about 22 years of age, was on a load of grain when the horses started suddenly and threw him off in front of one of the wheels, which passed over his back. He was carried to the house and Dr. Ford summoned. When the Dr. arrived he found him almost unconscious, but succeeded in relieving his suffering. Tuesday morning, however, he passed away rat or suddenly, for he was feeling better a few minutes before he died. He had no relatives in this vicinity, but has some brothers near Ottawa, to which place the remains were forwarded on Tuesday night. He had been working for Mr. Kelly about a year and was a very quiet, steady young man.

It Savors of Fishiness.

The Post says:—It's not a fish story this time, but a bang-up hen story. About a year ago a local member of the "art preservative" became the proud possessor of a well bred Black Spanish chick. All went well, and the chick prospered and grew finely and was just budding into henhood when its neck took a sudden curve and it refused to eat. Latterly the hen's appetite returned, and it had apparently recovered from its indisposition, but the "curve" still remained. The other day the hen was decapitated and dressed, when on examination a pin was found in the throat, with the point protruding about the sixteenth of an inch through the back of the neck. Further research revealed no less than four pins and three needles firmly stuck in the gizzard of the hen—a veritable pincushion, in fact. The hen was in good flesh, and apparently healthy.

The Scheme Hasn't Materialized.

The Bowmanville News learns "that the C. P. R., having purchased the Cobourg & Rice Lake Railway, intend to continue it easterly along the south shore of Rice Lake, to the commencement of the River Trent, where it will cross the River, and connect with their road at Norwood." The News says: "A line will also be built from Cobourg westerly, touching at Port Hope, Newcastle, Bowmanville, Oshawa and Whitby, and connecting again with the C. P. R. at Agincourt, and running throughout in connection with the Grand Trunk." Where did the News get this information? So far as we can learn, no one in Cobourg knows anything about the consummation of this project. The railway scheme remains just where it was when the Dominion Parliament prorogued in May last. Beyond securing the charter for the construction of the Cobourg, Northumberland & Pacific Railway, the municipal directors have done nothing in the matter. We believe they intend to renew their exertions with redoubled energy next winter and with the assistance of the municipalities through which the competing line will run they are bound to build the C. N. & P. R.—Cobourg World.

Personal.

Mr. Hugh O'Leary of Lindsay is in town to day.

Mr. John Hurley, grain buyer of Peterborough, is in Lindsay, the Post says, on a few week's visit to his brother, Mr. P. J. Hurley. Mr. H. is an extremely lucky fisherman, and on Tuesday succeeded in capturing twelve beauties—that is, maskinonge.

The Lindsay Post says:—Tuesday morning a well equipped camping party left for Jacob's Island' Pigeon Lake, for a ten day's outing, under the experienced guidance of Mr. A. O'Loughlin, of Dundas & Flavelle Bros., who knows the surrounding country and waterways "like a book". The party included Messrs. Jos. Eckerley, and R. Price, of Rochester, R. O'Leary, A. O'Loughlin, J. McIntyre, J. L. O'Brien, J. Considine and others. There'll be heaps of fun in Enniskmore.

Mr. D. J. King, formerly on the staff of the EXAMINER, now editor of the Daily Bulletin, Watkin, Washington Territory, who is enjoying his holidays at home, is in town for a day or two. The "wild and wooly west" seems to agree with him both physically and financially, and he is worthy of it as all his numerous friends agree in thinking. He is accompanied by his brother, Mr. Will J. King, formerly Y.M.C.A. Secretary at Port Hope, but at present physical director to the Y.M.C.A. in Norfolk, Virginia, and also to a Ladies' College in that place.

News Nuggets.

—Mr. H. Carveth has begun the erection of a brick block for stores on the old skating rink site, Hunter street.

—The Cobourg town council have given W. H. Law, of Peterborough, the contract for the erection of an iron bridge across the factory creek on King street west. The bridge will be 75 feet long, with a roadway 16 feet wide and a sidewalk four feet wide. It will cost $1200.

A Boon to Campers.

T. W. Robinson, of the Metropolitan Grocery has opened out a branch shop at Ice House Point on Juniper Island, Stoney Lake, for the convenience of campers and tourists. His stock will be found well assorted in staple groceries, canned fruit, meats, &c, and will be sold at town prices. This opportunity to obtain first class groceries and provisions, immediately in the vicinity of this popular summer resort, should be hailed with delight by all those interested. 3

Port Hope Exhibition.

The magnificent driving park in Port Hope, with natural grand stand, capable of seating 50,000 spectators, is to be the scene of a grand Exhibition on Sept. 3rd, 4th and 5th. Over $5,000 in prizes. First day, baseball tournament, prize $100; second and third day, horse racing for purses amounting to $1,000. Also a large display of exhibits from all parts of the Midland District. The monument of the late Col. Williams will be unveiled Sept. 4th, by Sir John Macdonald. Prize lists sent on application. Entries for the Fair to be made to R. DICKSON, Secretary.

Police Court.

Young Victor Theoret Treated Mercifully —A Couple of Quarrels Investigated.

This morning's session of the police court was amusing as well as interesting, if one can look upon such scenes reflecting the baser passions of mankind with the hardened nonchalance of such regular attendants as the reporters and a certain class of spectators.

The first case was one in which Henry Wills charged Daniel Hillier with using abusive and insulting language. Both men are licensed carters, and the row occurred over a little jealousy in their business. Every night a number of carters await the arrival of the Lakefield train for the purpose of getting jobs carting campers' material. They are forbidden to approach the cars to solicit orders, but must all wait at the rear end of the platform. It appears, according to the evidence given, that Wills transgressed in this particular, though he claims he had arranged to meet a party of Americans at the train and had a right to go forward. Anyway, Hillier complained to stationmaster Brundrette, and the latter reprimanded Wills. This led to a passage of words between Hillier and Wills, in which the latter alleged the former used grossly insulting language. One of Hillier's statements, he claimed, was that he (Wills) had robbed his own father. Mr. R. Bastone conducted the plaintiff's case. Several witnesses were examined, and all agreed that both men had used the word "liar" towards the other and shaken their fists in each other's faces; but it went no further than that, much to the disappointment of the small knot of spectators who had gathered in expectation of their being a fight. An amusing feature of the trial was a little "scrap" between Hillier and plaintiff's counsel. Hillier reversed the order of things and demanded his right to ask the lawyer a few questions, the latter objected but Hillier urged his demand hotly and finally carried his point.

The magistrate discharged the case, though plaintiff's counsel contended that as the "insulting language" had been proved to have been used, a conviction should be made even if both parties were fined.

TREATED WITH MERCY.

Victor Theoret, the young French lad arrested a week ago for the theft of a quantity of smokers' material from Chas. Legros, was called up to receive sentence, he having pleaded guilty to the charge.

The magistrate addressed the boy, telling him he was old enough to know right from wrong, and he must certainly be aware that such a practice as that for which he was arraigned would certainly have ruinous consequences. The boy had done wrong and deserved to be punished, but the court did not wish to blight his future by sending him to gaol. He was let go on the condition that he would appear when called on for sentence. The magistrate warned the boy to be careful of his conduct in the future, for if he ever appeared on a similar charge again this sentence might be imposed. If he behaved himself no more would come of it.

UNCLE AND NEPHEW.

A fight which occurred on Bethune street Wednesday evening was investigated this morning. George Drury, a young Englishman only five months out from the old country, charged his uncle, Wm. Drury, and John Gibbs with assault. The charge against Gibbs was dropped, only one case resulting. Mr. W. H. Moore was plaintiff's counsel.

Several witnesses gave evidence regarding the fight. It seems that there has been bad blood between Drury and his nephew for a long time. Drury sent the young man a couple of pounds to bring him and his wife over from England, and there was trouble over the slow payment of the indebtedness. The younger Drury brought with him from the old country some canary birds and toys for his uncles, and these were a cause of contention. Drury in retaliation charged that his nephew had called him a "bloody scamp" in the presence of his daughter, and he considered he had a right to protect his children. The young man stated that Drury senior has for some time past worried him with his constant challenges to fight, and frequently annoyed him. While in court some bitter recriminations were bandied between the two men.

The fend culminated Wednesday evening. Wm. Drury and John Gibbs met Geo. Drury, and stopped to ask him some questions about the price of the canary birds. While George Drury was talking to Gibbs his uncle struck him, hitting him twice in the face and once in the stomach, knocking him down. While falling, several witnesses averred, Drury also kicked his nephew; but the former strenuously denied the accusation. The young man rose and as soon as he could "catch his wind" went to work and gave the elder Drury a pretty sound thrashing. Then he walked away, but was followed by the other and challenged to have a few more rounds. The elder Drury asserted that his nephew wanted to fight as badly as anyone, and challenged Gibbs. However, that may be, no further fighting occurred. Both parties to the suit appeared in court bearing marks of the encounter on their faces.

The magistrate fined the defendant $10 and costs, $16.50 in all, and both had to give their word that there would be no further trouble between them, or be bound over to keep the peace. They left the court with the understanding that they and their families were to keep away from each other in future.

Baseball

The Athletics Take a Trip to Hasting and Campbellford.

The Athletic baseball club sent a nine to Hastings and Campbellford yesterday. At Hastings the game resulted in a tie, and there was not time to play it to a finish. The score was large, as must necessarily be the case on such a ground. McCabe and O'Brien and Davey and Fowld's were the opposing batteries, though Tighe pitched one innings for the Athletics.

The Hastings club will be in Peterborough in about two weeks to play return matches with both the Athletic and Association nines. Following is the score of the game:—

Athletics.		Hastings.

Hastings	4	0 4 3 0 3 3 1	0—18

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

The afternoon game was much better, though the Athletics were defeated. Both teams played good ball, the batteries receiving good support from the field. Tighe pitched the first two innings for the visitors, and McCabe, with O'Brien behind the bat, finished the game. Beattie and Ingram were in the points for Campbellford. The score was:

Reciprocity and the Mechanic.

The argument against Reciprocity is usually presented to the mechanic in this form. "It is true that Reciprocity would be a good "thing for the Canadian farmer, because it "would give him an enlarged market for the "produce of his farm. But it would be a "very bad thing for the artizan, because it "would swamp us with cheap American manufactures, and many of our factories would "be closed down." In considering this question it is to be borne in mind that there are many occupations which would not be affected directly by Reciprocity. As we do not import houses, the stonemason, the bricklayer, the plasterer, the painter, the house carpenter, the plumber, the tinsmith, have nothing to fear from the removal of duties from imports. There are many other articles in which American competition is out of the question, because of locality, as in the case of bread, or because of the necessity for close communication between the maker and the buyer, as in the case of clothing and boots and shoes made to order. These trades and occupations would benefit from the general increase of population and prosperity, which may be expected from Unrestricted Reciprocity.

The only articles which would be directly affected by taking the duties off imports are manufactures which may be readily shipped from place to place.

Now there are some of these industries which would undoubtedly benefit largely from the market of sixty millions, while they would suffer nothing from American competition. In regard to mining, for instance, we have everything to gain and nothing to lose. We have enormous mineral resources, the development of which has been scarcely begun. Many of our undeveloped minerals would be marketable at a large profit under Continental Free Trade. For want of free access to that market the total mineral production in Canada in 1886 was $11,500,000, while the American production was $459,000,000.

There is no fear that Reciprocity would swamp us with American minerals, but it would increase our market for our own minerals fourteen fold, and thus attract capital to the mines. In the lumbering industry, and in all the more bulky manufactures of wood, Canada, by reason of superior natural advantages, would more than hold her own under Unrestricted Reciprocity.

We do not deny that some of the weaker industries, some of those which are not self-sustaining, but live upon and by the tariff, would suffer by the change. Many others, and we believe the most important, would benefit by the large market. It would be a case of the survival of the fittest; and we are not disposed to admit that either Canadian manufacturers, Canadian workmen, or Canadian natural resources are inferior to those of the United States. There would be change and disturbance for a time, but this change and disturbance would be the forerunner of an adjustment which would result in each country carrying on those industries for which it is best suited. Sometimes that change might mean the disappearance of some tariff-fed mill, which now takes more from the Canadian people in taxes than it pays in wages; more often it would mean that an institution would drop certain lines of manufacture and confine itself to others which it would find more profitable. There are some departments of manufacture in which we could beat the Americans every day in the open market—for instance, the manufacture of blankets, such as we sell in the United States to-day in spite of the duty.

The situation with regard to the artizan may be summed up as follows:—

(1) There are some trades which Reciprocity would not affect at all, except by increasing the general prosperity.

(2) There are two large branches of industry—lumbering and mining—for which Reciprocity would be a great and unmixed benefit.

(3) As to manufactures, usually so-called—that is to say, articles made in factories—it is probable that the advantage of the larger market would very much outweigh any disturbance caused by the free importation of cheap American goods. An argument against Unrestricted Reciprocity is sometimes drawn from the advantageous position of workingmen in Canadian cities and towns. We do not deny that the Canadian mechanic is often better off than the American mechanic. But this is due to advantages which Reciprocity would not destroy. Household expenses are lighter here; it is easier for the workingman to get a comfortable home at a comparatively low price; there is less extravagance, less haste to get wealth, more leisure, quiet Sundays. These things often enable the Canadian workman to enjoy more happiness even upon less salary than the American workman enjoys. But they would not disappear with the coming of Unrestricted Reciprocity.

THE SALT OF THE EARTH.

The International Unification Scheme is Not Defeated.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The movement for a unification of the salt interests of the United States and Canada recently attempted by the North American Salt Company is, according to an interview with Erastus Wiman in The Sun today, not defeated but only deferred. The statements of Mr. Wiman imply that the subscriptions were much larger than was generally supposed and that the reason the securities were withdrawn from the market was because of failure to provide against vendors immediately realizing on the stock taken in exchange for property and thus destroying the chance for a premium in London, which, it is claimed, is essential to success in floating enterprises in that market. Provision against this contingency is to be made in the second attempt to issue the securities to the public, who, he claims, according to indications, are eager to absorb the same when opportunity is afforded.

How the Judge's Son Was Saved.

RIVER DU LOUP, Aug. 22.—Elzear, Taschereau, son of Hon. Justice Taschereau of the Supreme Court, had a narrow escape from drowning this afternoon. He was on the wharf in a carriage and while turning the horse backed too far and went over the wharf with the carriage and horse. The latter was drowned. Taschereau was saved by the men of his own yacht, whose attention was called to the accident by the shouting of a commercial traveler named Robitaille, who was a witness of the accident.

Good Evening!

"Had any photos taken yet?"

"No."

"Why don't you? Everybody is taking advantage of the present low prices."

"Oh, well, you don't get good pictures for a dollar a dozen."

"Yes you do. Just look at this one! What better would you want than that?"

"That is good. Who took it?"

"Mr. Sprouie. I got a dozen just as good as that for a dollar.

"Why, that's as well taken as the cabinets they used to charge us $3.00 a dozen for."

"Every bit. Oh, Mr. Sprouie has woke up the town. You see his new instruments are so perfect that one sitting is all that he requires from you now, so that he makes them ever so much quicker.

END OF THE CARNIVAL.

IT GOES OUT AMIDST A FLOW OF LAGAR AND "FIZ."

The Gallant 13th Regiment of Brooklyn in the Ambitious City—They are the Heroes of the Day.

HAMILTON, Aug. 23.—The great Carnival, which in point of success exceeded the expectations of the most sanguine, closed this evening amidst shouts of enthusiasm and long draughts of lager beer. "Fiz" also flowed rather freely at the various drinking feonts. The Hamilton saloon-keepers never had such a harvest as they struck this week; many of the bars were in full blast day and night.

The event of the closing day of course was the visit of the gallant 13th Regiment of Brooklyn, which natty corps invaded Canada for the second time, the former occasion being twelve years ago at Montreal, when its famous chaplain, Henry Ward Beecher, accompanied it. The present visit will long be remembered by the military men of Hamilton and its citizens, and it is altogether probable that the local 13th will make a journey to the City of Churches at some future date. That is the calculation at least. The regiment arrived from Buffalo on two special trains at about 11 o'clock.

Thousands were at the station to welcome them. A reception committee composed of Adam Brown, M.P., Alexander McKay, M.P., Edward Mitchell and R. A. Lucas met the regiment at Merritton and C. R. Smith, secretary of the carnival committee, met the visitors at Black Rock, N.Y. A large reception committee composed of the officers of the Thirteenth Battalion of this city and other prominent citizens met the regiment at the station here and the multitude of people kept up an almost continual cheering until the regiment was in line ready to march. Accompanying the regiment was a large contingent of veterans with a regimental band of the 69th Regiment of New York. Col. Austen was in command, with S. B. M. Welch, jr., of the 65th Regiment, Buffalo, acting as lieutenant-colonel. The veterans were in command of Major Fred Baldwin and Adjt. Courblin.

The visitors marched to the Crystal Palace, where Mayor Doran made a speech of welcome and U.S. Consul Roberts also spoke briefly. Col. Austen replied withly, after which a sumptuous breakfast was partaken of by all.

The Dufferin Rifles, 300 strong, arrived about 12.30 and were welcomed by the Reception Committee. Lieut.-Col. Jones was in command and they were accompanied by the band of the regiment. The signal corps, mounted on bicycles, and the pioneer corps were also with the Brantford men. The streets were thronged with people in the afternoon and it was with difficulty passageway was made for the military procession through the principal streets. A squad of mounted police headed the procession. Then came the Hamilton Field Battery, following which were the Dufferin Rifles with their fine brass band. Next came the 69th band, their bright scarlet coats showing in marked contrast with the somber uniforms of the regiment preceding them, and the 13th Regiment marching company front as a distance of about 15 paces. The Hamilton 13th Battalion band came next with the bugle corps, followed by the 13th Battalion in red uniform and 150 British veterans wearing badges.

The cheers along the route of the procession were deafening, and the visitors from New York State received a large share of the applause. Their martial bearing and splendid time were much admired by everybody, and their acknowledged superiority and steadiness in the march was manifest to all.

This evening a joint concert by the 69th Regiment of New York and the 13th Battalion bands in the Armory was a great success. The large building was crowded to the doors by a vast concourse of people, who applauded the different pieces to the echo.

The city was beautifully illuminated and every where one could see Yankee and Canadian soldiers walking around arm-in-arm or forming themselves in companies and marching through the streets singing and having a good time generally.

The visitors are well pleased with their reception and are loud in their praise of the city and its residents. The Brooklyn regiment left for home at midnight. The Dufferin Rifles also returned earlier in the evening.

The merchants' congress held their last session to-day and the attendance was good. The committee appointed to devise means of forming a business men's organization reported, and a resolution appointing Chairman John Knox, vice-chairman, Bristol; Messrs. Ballantyne, Cavanagh and Carpenter of Hamilton; Dr. Parkinson of Exeter, South of Woodstock and Weismiller of Kippen a committee to draft a constitution for "the Ontario Business Men's Association," that each representative present contribute $1 towards expenses of such, and that all pledge themselves to promote and further the objects of proposed association, was carried. Mr. McKechnie of Durham was also added to the committee.

A long discussion took place on the egg and butter trade. The packing difficulty was also discussed, but lack of time cut the speeches short. Votes of thanks to Messrs. Knox, Bristol and Smith, President, Vice-President and Secretary of the association, for bringing the meeting together and for their indefatigable exertions in connection with the forming of an association, were passed before the convention adjourned.

The St. George's Union held its third and last session to-day, the officers were installed and subscriptions from affiliated societies were received showing the union to be in a flourishing condition. A vote of thanks was passed to Lewis Abraham of Washington for a paper entitled "The Victorian Age," and a similar vote was tendered C. F. Benjamin of Washington for a paper entitled "Landlord Laws." A vote of thanks was also tendered the local St. George's Society and the officers of the latter society for their kindness and hospitality.

The Fire Record.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Aug. 23.—The Empire and Phœnix flour mills, both owned by Sylvester Neelon, were totally destroyed by fire this morning. The Empire mill was one of the finest and largest mills in the country, and was erected a few years ago at a cost of nearly $100,000.

BRANTFORD, Aug. 23.—About 11 this morning a fire broke out in the boiling house of the varnish works, which were completely destroyed. The firemen were promptly on hand and prevented the fire spreading to other buildings. Loss about $400; covered by insurance.

A Seaman Drowned.

QUEBEC, Aug. 23.—As the ship Ellen A. Reed was leaving Indian Cove yesterday for sea a seaman named Lewis Everets was sent aloft to loose the foresheet. When he reached the yard he lost his hold and fell head-

HANGED BY THE NECK

FOUR MURDERERS SWUNG OFF YESTERDAY MORNING.

Quartette of Executions in New York Yesterday Morning—The Women Slayers Meet Their Doom—The Day Before Their Death.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Packenham and Nolan were hanged at 6.55 on the Franklin-street scaffold and Lewis and Carolin on the Leonard-street scaffold at 7.03 a.m.

A number of visitors called yesterday to pay their farewell visit. The two faithful Sisters of Mercy who have been unwearying in their ministrations to the murderers came in the forenoon at 11 o'clock and remained with them till seven in the evening. Fathers Prendergast and Gallnas arrived at that hour to assume the charge of the men

UNTIL DEATH SHOULD RELIEVE THEM.

Pat Nolan's sister and the two women cousins who have called on him several times since he was sentenced, were with him yesterday. A young man also came to see him. The woman broke down and sobbed hysterically, while Nolan looked at them curiously and puffed a little faster on his cigar, which he chewed nervously.

"You don't do any good by crying," he said at last, "for that won't help things any."

Later a message was brought to gray haired Packenham telling him that to see him and as he stepped briskly up to the wire netting of the cage his son and daughter entered the corridor. He cut their visit short by telling them not to grieve for him, and to take warning by his gloomy fate. Their sobs echoed along the walls of the corridor as they withdrew.

HIS CHILDREN WERE COMING

In the evening a little before 10 o'clock young Robert Packenham, who had come from his farm work to see his father on the vigil of his death returned to the prison, and the still more affecting interview than that of the morning took place between them. Under Sheriff Sexton was obliged to lead the boy, who was sobbing, away. After supper the condemned men were taken to the yard for

A LAST TASTE OF AIR AND RECREATION.

They ranged themselves along the wall of the prison and smoked, laughed and talked as if they had no connection with the dreadful ordeal of the coming day. By midnight the men were in bed and asleep.

At 4.30 o'clock the men were busy arranging their last toilet. Nolan paid particular attention to the arrangement of his necktie, while Lewis spent most of his time in blacking his boots. Packenham and Louis shook hands with night keeper Owens and bade him good-bye in voices void of tremor.

At 5 o'clock the march to the chapel was commenced, Father Prendergast leading. For three-quarters of an hour the group remained in the chapel, the priests

BUSY WITH THEIR RELIGIOUS RULES.

After mass had been said the men were returned to the cage when breakfast was served. It was a bountiful meal and all the men partook heartily. It was arranged that Packenham and Nolan, both being tall and of a size were to be hanged together on the scaffold which had been erected on the Franklin-street side of the prison. Carolin and Lewis were to be hung on the gibbet on the Leonard-street side of the jail.

At 6.54 the condemned men emerged from the jail, accompanied by the priests. Father Prendergrast supported Packenham and Father Gelinas walked alongside of Nolan.

PACKENHAM'S PACE

was of a ghastly pallor, but his step was firm. He looked unflinchingly into the faces around. Nolan hardly appeared to realize his position, there was a half defiant look in his countenance, and he cast his eyes up at the crossbeam, from which two ropes dangled, with something akin to curiosity.

THE PROCESSION.

brought up with Father VanRensaler. The arms of the condemned men were pinioned, and over the shoulder of each was the black cap with its long streaming ribbon flapping in the wind, the rope around his neck with the knot pressing against his left ear seemed to chafe him for he moved his head uneasily once or twice in

HIS BRIEF WALK TO DEATH.

Nolan took his place under the rope hanging nearest the Franklin-street walk. Packenham was four feet away from his companion and next the prison. Both men turned and grasped the priests by the hands, wringing them fervently. The traps were then sprung and the bodies of the murderers were jerked into the air. With the rebound came the sound of the falling weight plunging to the ground. For an instant there was not a movement, then a tremor passed through the frame of Nolan. His legs were drawn up slightly and

HIS CHEST HEAVED FAINTLY.

Packenham remained motionless for fully 30 seconds and then came a violent trembling from head to foot. His body swayed from hips downward for half a minute and then became still. At the expiration of four minutes there was a mighty throe almost together in the suspended murderers. Packenham's pulse had gone up to 96 and then sank rapidly to 50 beats a minute. Nolan's pulse at the fourth minute was at 70, but it became weaker and weaker and at the expiration of five minutes was no longer perceptible. There was a slight muscular contraction then in Nolan.

AS HIS BODY SWUNG ROUND

a tiny stream of blood could be seen trickling down his neck. The rope had abraised a small sore on his neck. At 7.10 o'clock both men were pronounced dead but were permitted to hang 15 minutes longer.

While this scene was being enacted preparations were being made for what proved to be the most shocking spectacle that has ever taken place within the walls of the tombs.

THE HANGING OF CAROLIN AND LEWIS

in several respects is probably unparalleled. Two minutes after seven Carolan and Lewis with the priests came through the door. Lewis walked unsteadily the first dozen paces, but quickly recovered himself. Carolan had the butt of a cigar between his lips, and was puffing vigorously, blowing great clouds of smoke into the faces of the attending priests. He glared at the men of God as he turned around and felt the rope touch his shoulder. Spitting the cigar stump from his mouth he broke out into blasphemy that

HORRIFIED THE SPECTATORS.

Atkinson had just pinioned his legs when he spoke. Looking sullenly at the three priests he suddenly exclaimed, "I die an innocent man. G—d d—n it. I didn't do this thing."

Lewis, who had then been pinioned, half turned his head, and addressing his companion, said: "What's the matter with you, anyway? Why don't you die like a man?"

"I will die like a man!" shrieked Carolin, his face turning perfectly livid. "I will die like a man, and I'm innocent." The words were scarcely out of his mouth before

Atkinson had clapped the black cap over the assassin's face. The assistant hangman covered Lewis' face at the same moment. Atkinson gave with a perceptible interval between them. The sound of a blow came from within the box and the weight fell. Instead of bounding up as Packenham and Nolan had done, the miserable wretches went into the air with so little force that there was scarcely any rebound at all. Lewis immediately began to struggle in the most sickening manner. He threw his legs about so violently as to kick off his slippers. Then he began to gurgle and choke, the rasping, wheezing sound came for fully 10 seconds. His body turned and swayed and the contortions were so painful that half a dozen men turned away their heads. The poor creature was slowly strangled. Carolin's body was violently contorted also, but he uttered no sound.

THREE DELIBERATE RAPS

The weight fell at 7.03 o'clock and at 7.10 both men were dead. The four bodies hung for half an hour and were then cut down and put in plain coffins. All the murderers were strangled, but the deaths of Packenham and Nolan were comparatively painless, that of Lewis was lingering.

A lady reporter of The New York World about a week ago was detailed to visit the condemned men. The following is from the account of her experience in the Tombs, published the following day:

"Carolin stood before us. He is of medium height and gives the impression of having lost flesh recently. There is a forlorn little droop to his shoulders and an uncertainty about the poise of his figure as he moves, which suggests invalidism, but is due to his long confinement. He is brown-haired, gray-eyed, with a mild countenance of distinctly German type. He wears closely trimmed side whiskers and a mustache. He was in his shirt sleeves, as were all the prisoners, and his face was white as his linen. He put out his hand in greeting, and the quick thrill of repugnance to taking it, which was, however, mastered in a second, must have been betrayed to his sharpened senses, for he said:

"I am not a murderer. I did not strike the fatal blow."

CAROLIN TELLS HIS STORY.

Carolin has maintained his innocence all along. He tells his story with no little dramatic effect. He related how ten years ago he came from Liepsic, leaving his old mother with a son and daughter to comfort her age. "I lived here with a woman to whom I was not married," he said. "Soon word came that my brother was sick unto death; another letter that he was dead; then another, and my mother entreated me to return to her. I made up my mind I would go to answer it. The woman would not have me leave her. She became furious with jealousy and drank and drank. We quarrell, come to blows. She tries to kill me and cannot. Then she cries out that I shall not go from her, for she will get me into trouble on her account, and she inflicted upon herself the fatal stroke. I was so sure of not being convicted that I did not even believe in needful to hire a lawyer. I accepted the one provided by the State, Mr. Adam Seydam. He did little for me, and since my conviction has not been near me, although I have sent for him many times. I have paid him no money, and so he takes no interest. It was a mistake. I could have had money, but I was so sure of being acquitted.

IF ONLY I HAD KNOWN.

as much when I came in here as I know now, said he, shaking his head, regretfully, "I could live so wisely. I have read and read, and what I have learned!"

"Does your poor mother know?"

"No; not my sentence. I will write that with my farewell letter, which must go soon now," and a grayer paller crept over his face. "I shall keep up my courage, I will die bravely; I am innocent. The priest and the sisters give me comfort. Death is but a little step to the other life."

In reply to the question if there was anything he wished especially to have said or done on his behalf, he answered:

"Only this. Will you please go to my lawyer and tell him it is a dying man's wish to see him once again, and perhaps then he will be willing to come. I wish you farewell if I do not see you again."

The next man who came was Packenham, who

SLEW HIS WIFE MOST HORRIBLY.

He is old, with hair and beard grizzled and a countenance expressing in furrowed lines the hard life he must have led. A mild expression seems to have laid on lately, and brings out some traits that perhaps have not appeared since the days now long past, of youth and innocence. Packenham freely admits his crime and loses no occasion to express his thorough conviction that he deserved all he is called to suffer. He become very religious. It is difficult to get him into any other vein of thought. Led to speak of his children, he said:

"My little ones, the youngest of whom is six years old, are in a convent. They at least need not know my crime and its punishment for years. They need not learn to hate their father. I sent for them to bid me farewell before I came in here. I am an old man and my death likely at any time, so I wished to take leave of them. They will remember my words when they hear I am dead and be satisfied."

PACKENHAM'S SAGE TALK.

"How does it feel, Mr. Packenham, to know just when you are going to die?"

"It is a comfortable feeling, madam. It ends all suspense. If it were not for the disgrace of the way of it, I had far rather hang than die in my bed. I am in my health and fairly strong, although at my years confinement for many months tells on a man. Death will be short on the gallows. If I were to die in my bed it might be in agony of pain after long days of suffering. Don't you think I look at it rightly?"

With an exhortation to keep up his courage—but an awful sinking at heart on the part of the utterer of these brave words—old Packenham bowed and took leave.

Another man about to die stood up before us—Nolan, who also has slain a woman. He is young, tall, dark and slender—a handsome boyish fellow, with no look of a criminal. He, too, shook hands. The womanly repugnance to taking a hand which had destroyed a human life had been swallowed up long ago by a great pity for the men in such a sorrowful case. Then he stood still, silent, respectful. In response to the first question he replied:

"Pardon me, I have nothing to say—not a word—please note that I have nothing to say."

"Certainly, if you wish. You look very brave."

"I believe I am," and he passed on, with a slight bow, into the enclosed part of the corridor.

These interviews took place without the wire barriers. Two chairs had been placed. Each keeper stood at a little distance, and kind Sheriff Sexton remained near, putting in a friendly word now and then, which the men seemed to appreciate—and the women certainly did.

His Own Revolver Did It.

Sudden Death at Galt.

GALT, Aug. 23.—Miss Helen S. Freame, aged 26, for the past seven years employed with Woods & Taylor as head dressmaker, died very suddenly at her residence here this morning between 6 and 7 o'clock. Miss Freame had been out of town spending her vacation and had returned, intending to resume work as usual in a day or two. And although not of a robust constitution she was in her usual health. She was out driving yesterday and retired last night in good spirits. Her mother asked her at 6.30 this morning how she was, and immediately after replying that she felt first-rate began coughing and died within three minutes. The deceased came here from Belleville, and was the sole support of a widowed mother, who lived with her. The remains will be taken to Belleville for interment to-morrow evening.

Claxton & Co. Get a Settlement.

MONTREAL, Aug. 23.—T. J. Claxton & Co. have effected a settlement with their creditors at the rate of 45 cents on the dollar cash, the creditors of the New Glasgow Lumber Company taking over that estate for what it may be worth and releasing Messrs. Claxton from any liability in connection with it.

Picton's Big Dynamite Blast.

PICTON, Aug. 23.—To-day in blasting a foundation for the pumping house for the waterworks here 115 pounds of dynamite was exploded in eight drill holes, 16 feet deep, displacing about 500 tons of rock. The concussion was felt all over the town.

THE PRISONS OF IRELAND.

A VIGOROUS PARNELLITE KICK IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Mr. Balfour Gets Raked Over the Coals for Mercifully for Alleged Ill-treatment of Unfortunate Occupants of Plague Ridden Lock-ups.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—In the House of Commons this evening, on the debate on the prisons vote, an attack was made upon the treatment of Irish political prisoners. The case of Mr. Conybeare having been referred to, Mr. Balfour announced that Mr. Conybeare was now cured and the only question was as to the origin of his disease. McFadden, he said, was the previous occupant of the cell. A thorough examination revealed no trace of disease in the prison or among the prisoners. After the examination he consented to the transfer of Mr. Conybeare to another jail.

Mr. Blane gave his experience in Londonderry jail. He declared sick prisoners were never sent to the hospitals until they were nearly dying. He had seven prisoners arrive covered with vermin. The closets were filthy. He and other prisoners had been exhibited from the balcony to lady friends of officials. He had never complained of his treatment because he knew it was useless to do so.

Mr. Sexton violently attacked Mr. Balfour's allusion to McFadden.

Mr. Balfour said he intended no insinuation.

Mr. Sexton, continuing, described the Londonderry jail as a pest house, where prisoners contracted fever and were thrust out to die. He detailed one case of fever, amid groans from the Parnellites, who cried out, "Another murder." "There's the assassin." This incited Mr. Balfour to smile. Mr. Balfour said four familiarity with such attacks induced contempt. He then adduced statistics to show there was a lower rate of mortality in Irish than in English prisons.

Mr. Sexton complaining of a personal attack drew an indirect rebuke from the chair on both himself and Mr. Balfour.

Mr. T. W. Russell (Unionist), member for Tyrone, urged that a sanitary engineer be appointed to inspect the prisons.

Mr. Parnell, in the course of his speech, contended that calum-picking was ill-paid work, and an endeavor was made to compensate even for this outlay by reducing the food supply. The result was the permanent enfeeblement of the prisoner. For himself he was convinced the Irish prisoners were half starved. They ought to be provided with payment of remunerative work and should be better fed. All the other prisons are in a bad sanitary condition. He had himself seen in the older part of Kilmainham jail the liquid sewage leaking through the foundations of the walls and bursting into the very yard. He was convinced that Derry prison required to be entirely rebuilt; otherwise its objectionable condition is irremediable. The medical officers tried to hide the fact of existence of fever under the medical name of "tubercular." Mr. Balfour had been guilty of culpable neglect. He was glad that Mr. Conybeare has been removed, but he urged the House not to forget that the humbler victims of Balfour were liable to be stricken at any moment while Mr. Balfour disported himself with characteristic nonchalance. He hoped that Mr. Balfour would give some assurance that an engineer would be appointed to lay the truth before the country. Mr. Balfour would find that his preventive would only strengthen Irishmen in their determination not to yield. Mr. Balfour did not compel his pet Belfast forgers to clean the prison cesspools as he did Fitzgibbon. The Parnellites would continue this question until justice was obtained.

The prison vote was adopted, 113 to 69, and all the other votes were agreed to.

THEY NOW WANT A FREE PARDON.

What the Committee of Her Friends Will Agitate For Mrs. Maybrick.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 23.—The official messenger bearing the announcement of the commutation of Mrs. Maybrick's sentence did not reach the jail until 3 o'clock this morning. The news was at once communicated to the prisoner, who betrayed some emotion, but not to the extent that was anticipated. The chaplain visited her at breakfast time. The revulsion of feeling had then prostrated her, and she seemed weaker than at any time since her arrest. It is feared she will not live long in jail. Briefly, her alleged paramour, sailed for Boston on the Scythia yesterday.

The Maybrick committee have resolved to agitate for a pardon on the ground that the decision of Home Secretary Matthews shows there is a reasonable doubt whether Mr. Maybrick was poisoned.

An Awful Collision Between Swift Moving Passenger Trains.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 23.—The fast express from New York to Cincinnati, on the Baltimore and Ohio Railway, was ordered to stop at Petroleum, and a pay car with officials going east was ordered to stop at Silver Run. Each tried to make the point of passage and collided. James Laymas, engineer, Seif, engineer, and the fireman of each engine were killed. Several passengers are reported killed. All the physicians of the city have left on a special train.

PETROLEUM, W. Va., Aug. 23.—A terrible collision occurred at 11 o'clock this morning between Petroleum and Silver Run tunnel in which three men were killed and over twenty wounded. The accomodation train coming west crashed into a special train occupied by railroad magnates on a tour of inspection. The cause of the wreck is said to have been conflicting telegrams. The one received by the conductor and the engineer of the accommodation ordered them to pass the special at Petroleum, while the special train engineered by Capt. Rowland is said to have had orders to pass the accommodation at Silver Run. The trains came together with a crash at the curve east of Petroleum. Both trains were running rapidly and when they collided the special train and the engine, tender and baggage-car of the accommodation went over the cliff in one indescribable mass. James Layman, engineer of the accommodation, one of the oldest engineers of the Baltimore & Ohio road, was crushed to death. Alexander Bailey, fireman, was also crushed in the wreck of the engines. Cephas Rowland, also one of the old engineers of Parkersburg, was caught under the wreck and received injuries from which he cannot recover. John Fletcher, fireman on the special, was crushed to death. The special car, occupied by officials on an inspecting tour, was smashed into smithereens. Roadmaster J. A. Hunter was badly inj

THE BRAIN (from a photograph)
In Healthy Condition. With Paresis Lesions.

There are many well known men confined in our Asylums who but a short time ago were prominent among our business and social circles.

Why are they there?

Paresis!

Did it come on at once?

Not at all. It was a gradual but positive growth. They overtaxed nature. The drain on their vitality, their nerve powers, their brain tissue, was too great, and they gradually but surely sank under it. The things they did to bring this sad end about are precisely the same things that are being done by thousands of men and women to-day. It is not necessary to name them. They all end disastrously unless checked or regulated.

Prof. Phelps, of Dartmouth College, knew this fully when he began his experiments which resulted in the discovery of the wonderful Paine's Celery Compound. He realized that paresis (consumption of the brain) was our great National weakness. He knew that the brain and nervous system must be fortified to meet the great strains which modern life being upon it. He saw that men were becoming debilitated and women weakened by the pressure and demands of life, and he sought and discovered the remedy Paine's Celery Compound, if rightly taken, will renew the brain and build up nerve tissues as fast as they become exhausted. It is not a narcotic. It contains no drugs, no nostrums. It is perfectly pure. It is absolutely harmless. The high character of its discoverer guarantees this, and the indorsement of the medical and chemical professions prove it.

ECONOMY, EXTRAVAGANCE AND DISCONTENT.

Sermon By Layman.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Few persons practice economy, but a great many practice extravagance, and a great many experience discontent. Few people ever give these matters a thought in advance and when trouble comes they wonder at its reality. As a general thing people live for to-day only, and they let to-morrow take care of itself. As a general thing they look upon the economical man as a miser, and they become envious at his savings and his success. The economical man is not a miser, he is simply prudent and careful, and he lays up for a rainy day. If he has a wife and family he does not want to die and leave them destitute and helpless, and he has something with which to assist the poor and needy, and as a general thing he gives freely. He is industrious and careful and he has a heart full of kindness, and he performs all his duties as a useful and honest citizens. It is not so with the extravagant man. He spends as he goes and generally spends beyond his means. He and his wife and family imagine that their respectability and standing depends upon waste and display; that they would be nobody and that they would disgrace themselves if they lived prudently and carefully. They in fact live in imagination, and they think that the world look up to and respects them in proportion as their lives are passed in extravagance and folly. Because they have a high opinion of themselves, they believe that others have the same, and so they live and waste until the time comes when they can live and waste no longer. And then comes the downward road to trouble and sorrow. Their high notions are all gone, their finery has departed, and they are without friends or hope, and trials, and difficulties and discontent are all that are left them now. As long as they could imitate the peacock by

PARADING IN FINE DRESS

and in costly living, and fancy that they were exciting the admiration of their neighbors by their unnecessary and foolish display they felt happy and contented. They never stopped to inquire how long this was to last, and they affected not to see the disgust and contempt of those around them. They thought they could live in defiance of public opinion and this they were willing to do although they know that their husbands and fathers were wearing their lives out in constant anxiety and toil in order to gratify this senseless feeling of ambition and pride on the part of their wives and daughters. How many thousands of honest, well meaning men, and women too, are constantly ruined by this love of extravagance and display it would be hard to tell. Take the case of the man which is the most frequent. He begins life with good prospects and high expectations. He is poor but honest and he works hard and tries to save. He has many friends who wish him well and are trying to help him on his way. And he would assuredly succeed if left to his own resources. But unfortunately he has got a fashionable wife, who thinks more of herself than others think of her. She has been brought up by her vain, foolish parents to indulge in life's luxuries and to attach more value to show and display than to economy and comfort. So she launches out into extravagance and dissipation, her house must be costly furnished and she must keep up a life of dissipation and waste, giving her time to visiting and house parties and pleasures. And there is no limit to her jewelry and fine clothing. Her husband, poor man, is not consulted and is not allowed to have any voice in the matter. He works hard and comes home at night tired in body and weary in mind, knowing well that

THIS THING CANNOT LAST LONG

and that the dread day is not far away. He has no comfort in his own home and is glad when the morning comes and he can go away. The poor silly wife thinks not, seemingly cares not, and goes on as before. By and by the dark clouds begin to appear and soon the storms is upon them. The husband ruined and crushed to the earth by his silly and extravagant and pleasure seeking wife, gives way to despair and the wife and children are turned out of their home and go fourth neglected and forsaken by all her former friends, to seek a living in a life of poverty and hardships brought on entirely through her own extravagance and folly. What a sad change meets her now. Such wives as these think that the world and all its pleasures are made for them, and that their husbands have no rights and duties except to provide for their whims and unreasonable demands. They never study their husbands' interest and feeling, never consult him as they should do, and they treat his judgement as useless and his remonstrances as unnecessary and unjust. Especially so when these do not suit or encourage them to greater follies, and such wives neglect their homes and oftentimes drive their husbands to recklessness and ruin. They give them no peace, are always ill-natured and scolding and make all around them miserable. They care nothing for the consequences so long as their wants are supplied and their demands gratified. And when trouble comes, as it surely will come, they blame every one for it but themselves. In a city, which need not be named, there once lived a family, consisting of a husband and wife and children. The man knew something of the world and of its hardships and disappointments. He had been brought up in a good, careful home, and he started out into the world with good prospects and high expectations. The wife had been trained to habits of

THOUGHTLESSNESS FRIVOLITY AND GAIETY.

And her parents were as vain and silly as herself. They encouraged her to think that she ought to live a life of gaiety and folly, that it would be derogatory to made herself a useful, saving helpmate to her husband and encourage him to become a useful and honoured man. He knew, and his friends told him, that his success in life entirely depended upon industry and economy and a faithful performance of his duties. He soon saw that, to get on successfully, he had made a bad choice of a wife, and that her inclinations and desires led her in a direction opposite to his interests and feeling. If he remonstrated against her conduct she flew into a rage and defied him. He saw he could do nothing with her, either by reason or entreaty—and he became discouraged and gave up hope and waited for his downfall and ruin. And when these came she saw the error of her ways and vowed from henceforth to do better. But the mischief had been done, and it would now take a life of hard work and care to recover the advantages which they had lost. And perhaps they would not succeed in this, for as a general rule a person never has but one chance to succeed in this life, and if he loses that he loses all. And even if he does succeed it must be when he is a comparatively old man, with his strength and his energies nearly gone, and knowing this he has not form and resolution enough to make the attempt and to persevere until he succeeds. And when he does succeed his time for enjoyment is over. But people will not think of these things and do rightly at the only time when thinking would do them good. They say "a little longer, yet a little longer" of pleasures and then it will be time enough to reform and do better. But the time for reform never comes. It is always "a little longer, yet a little longer," always indulgence this time and you will not feel it. Give me what I want now. And when the money is gone and a demand is made for payment of some debt this very money, which would have satisfied the creditor and the trouble would have been averted. And so one waste after another goes on until the last straw is laid on and ruin comes, and the giddy, thoughtless, reckless wife is at last compelled to stop, and if she is fortunate enough to secure a house to cover her, she does well. And then comes her punishment. But the poor, broken-down husband gets no pity from her who has caused his ruin, and perhaps he ends his career by suicide, or by a life of dissipation and abuse. These are cases which are happening every day. Observation and experience do not teach wisdom, and one often sees a miserable, half-clad wife and her little starving children, all brought about by her past extravagance and pride and folly. Discontent and abuse will not avail now. If the husband and children have got to suffer, so has the miserable wife also. She would have her pleasures, she would indulge her foolish vanity at a time when, had she exercised a little wisdom and common sense, she might have avoided trouble and secured a future life of peace and comfort. Sitting down and writing threats and complaints now can do no good, and far better would it be for all concerned if she would give up her time for the great battle of life, which is now before her, and resolve henceforth to turn over a new leaf and lead a new and useful life—a life that would bring sunshine to the household and encourage her husband to look forward to better days, and to work with hope and success, and in time they would see prosperity once more settling down upon them, and could look forward to happiness and comfort in the decline of life, when tired Nature needs repose. The lesson may be a hard one, but it is a useful one, and they would verily the old saying "That all is well that ends well." Economy and industry and contentment, are better than extravagance and discontent.

THE FAITHLESS WIFE HAS SQUANDERED,

An ugly complexion made Nellie a fright,
Her face was all pimply and red,
Though her features were good, and her blue eyes were bright,
"What a plain girl is Nellie"! they said.

But not, as by magic, plain Nellie has grown
As fair as an artist's bright dream;
Her face is as sweet as a flower new blown
Her cheeks are like peaches and cream.

As Nellie walks out in the fair morning light,
Her beauty attracts every eye,
And as for the people who called her a fright,
"Why, Nellie is handsome", they cry.

And the reason of the change is that Nellie took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which regulated her liver, cleared her complexion, made her blood pure, her breath sweet, her face fair and rosy, and removed the defects that had obscured her beauty. Sold by druggists.

Further Great Cures of Skin Diseases by the Cuticura Remedies.

Boy one year and a half old. Face and body in a terrible condition, being covered with sores. Sulphur springs fail. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

I have used your CUTICURA REMEDIES in two cases where it proved to be successful. The first was in the case of a boy a year and a half old. His face and body were in a terrible condition, the former being completely covered with sores. I took him to the Massena Sulphur Springs, but he did not improve any. I was then advised to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES, which I did. He took one and one half bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, when his skin was as smooth as could be, and is to-day. I used the CUTICURA on his sores and the CUTICURA SOAP in washing him. He is now five years of age and all right. The other case was a disease of the scalp, which was cured by washing with the CUTICURA SOAP and rubbing in the CUTICURA, one bottle of CUTICURA RESOLVENT being used. They have proved successful in every case where I have advised the use of them. It is surprising how rapidly a child will improve under their treatment. I recommend them for any disease of the skin as being the best in the world. This is my experience, and I am ready to stand by my statement. JOHN R. BEIKO.

An Unbearable Skin Disease Cured.

I have been afflicted since last March with a skin disease the doctors called Eczema. My face was covered with scabs and sores, and the itching and burning were almost unbearable. Seeing your CUTICURA REMEDIES so highly recommended I concluded to give them a trial, using the CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and RESOLVENT internally for four months. I call myself cured, in gratitude for which I make this public statement.

POTT'S DISEASE.

A Bad Curvature Reduced and Entirely Out of Danger.

CHAS CLUTHE, Esq.,

DEAR SIR—This is to state that my boy, aged seven years, was prostrated with Pott's disease of the spine, with very little hopes of recovery. I procured one of your appliances, which was duly fitted, gave great support, and enabled him to run about and play. He is so much improved as to be almost entirely out of danger.

Yours truly, S. O. HOWELL,
Innerkip, Ontario.

A Postmaster Well Pleased.

CHAS. CLUTHE, Esq., Toronto, Ontario.

DEAR SIR—Having met with an accident and requiring a Truss, I obtained three different kinds without securing what I wanted. On the recommendation of one of our leading medical men, I got your Spiral Spring Truss, and I would heartly recommend it to any party requiring such an article. It is a splendid thing.

Yours, etc., J. B. FAIRBAIRN, P.M.,

Her Dainty Shoes.

She's graceful and she's fair,
She has an air
Of absolute self-satisfaction;
Her dress is—well,
Bizarre and swell;
Her form admits of no detraction.

Her hat and gloves are neat—
She's just too sweet—
Her gown is a symphony of hues;
But all her pride,
I must decide,
Is centered in her twinkling, yellow shoes.
—Chicago Mail.

The Garden Hose.

She's fairer than a lily,
And she's sweeter than a rose,
And she knocks the neighbors silly
When she wields the garden hose.

She lifts her skirts from dangor
With her left hand, while her right
Grasps the nozzle, and the stranger
Gets a very pleasing sight.

The neighbors' eyes all twinkle
And their interest daily grows,
For they like to see her sprinkle,
And they like to see the hose.
—Somerville Journal.

Double-barrelled Revenge.

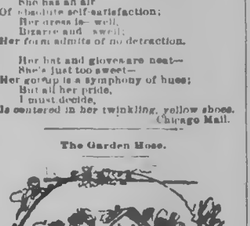
This is a story in three chapters. Sarah Brown loved and married Stephen B. Russell. All colored. Seven years ago they parted. Such love as Sarah had to find a place, so it lodged in Daniel Dickson's heart, and Sarah was made Mrs. Dickson.

But Dickson was in demand. He was loved by another. The jilted woman learned that Sarah Brown had a husband living. Bent on revenge she told Russell, who poses as husband No. 1. Then there was double-barrelled revenge. All colored.

The third chapter showed Russell and Dickson sparring for a lead at each other in Magistrate Severn's office yesterday afternoon, with the much-loved Sarah as defendant.

"Look at dem yar coons fightin' ober de bone," said the rejected maiden, as she went out the door, saving a perceptible odor of musk in the court room. Sarah is pining in jail, and the hat is being passed around among her friends.

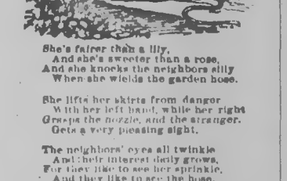
An Effective Delivery.



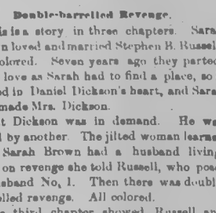
Visitor—Your pastor seems to be a very earnest man. His voice trembled with emotion when he read the lessons this morning.

Soprano—Oh, it was n't that; he had just had a row with the choir leader, and he was mad clear 'through'—Puck.

The Latest Thing in Canes.



A New Boat for Babies.



The boy farmers through the country may be interested to know that last year a small boy in California raised some squashes so big that his little three-and-one-half-year-old brother was able to paddle about in a boat made of one of them scooped out. Where is the boy reader who shall be able to say next Fall that he planted and cared for seeds that produced squashes above the ordinary Jack O'Lantern size? It will indeed be an interesting thing to know if a similar boat to this shall be made, and also if "Little Brother" finds anything to say about wanting a "life-preserver" when he goes a paddling the second time. Some of the Californian boys' golden prizes weighed nearly half a ton. —N. Y. World.

This is the time of the year when the sugar barrel is hardly a match for the strawberry box.

THE NICKEL ODEON'S MASTER.

Charles T. Rogers Tells of His Experience at Sea. Almost Blind and Helpless.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Aug. 23.—The schooner Martha Bradley arrived home from Grand Bank, having on board Charles T. Rogers of the boat Nickel Odeon, who was picked up on the western edge of Grand Bank, Aug. 10, in a helpless condition. Rogers is 39 years old, a native of Duxbury and a jeweler by trade, although he followed the sea when young. He sailed from Boston for Paris in his 18-foot Nickel Odeon, July 3, having taken on board all necessary equipments. He enjoyed favorable weather until the 8th, when he took a gale from the northeast, lasting 72 hours. When it abated he found himself on the Georges. By July 28 he had become so blind from the sun's glimmer on the water that he could not see his compass and steered by the sun for three days. For the last fourteen days his boat drifted around at the mercy of the wind and sea, the mariner being nearly exhausted as well as almost blind. He spent most of his time lying in the bottom of the boat. When found his condition was such that he could have lived but a short time had he not been rescued. He could neither stand nor feed himself. Since then his health has improved, but he is still very weak. His eyesight has been partly restored. He left for home to-day.

The Bullmer Market

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—The business failures reported to Bradstreet's were 48 in the United States this week, against 177 last week and 157 this week last year. Canada had 14 this week, against 24 last week. The total failures in the United States from August 1st to date is 7427, against 6765 in 1888.

Ill Temper.

Is more rapidly improved by relief from physical suffering than in any other way. Step on your friend's corn, and the impulse to strike is strongest. For Toilet Use.

Ayer's Hair Vigor keeps the hair soft and pliant, imparts to it the lustre and freshness of youth, causes it to grow luxuriantly, eradicates Dandruff, cures all scalp diseases, and is the most cleanly of all hair preparations.

AYER'S Hair Vigor has given me perfect satisfaction. I was nearly bald for six years, during which time I used many hair preparations, but without success. Indeed, what little hair I had, was growing thinner, until I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor. I used two bottles of the Vigor, and my head is now well covered with a new growth of hair. —Judson B. Chapel, Peabody, Mass.

HAIR that has become weak, gray, and faded, may have new life and color restored to it by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. "My hair was thin, faded, and dry, and fell out in large quantities. Ayer's Hair Vigor stopped the falling, and restored my hair to its original color. As a dressing for the hair, this preparation has no equal.—Mary N. Hammond, Stillwater, Minn.

VIGOR, youth, and beauty, in the appearance of the hair, may be preserved for an indefinite period by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. "A disease of the scalp caused my hair to become harsh and dry, and to fall out freely. Nothing I tried seemed to do any good, until I commenced using Ayer's Hair Vigor. Three bottles of this preparation restored my hair to a healthy condition, and it is now soft and pliant. My scalp is cured, and it is also free from dandruff.—Mrs. E. R. Foss, Milwaukee, Wis.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

Sold by Druggists and Perfumers.

PERFECT SAFETY, prompt action, and wonderful curative properties, easily place Ayer's Pills at the head of the list of popular remedies for Sick and Nervous Headaches, Constipation, and all ailments originating in a disordered Liver.

I have been a great sufferer from Headache, and Ayer's Cathartic Pills are the only medicine that has ever given me relief. One dose of these Pills will quickly move my bowels, and free my head from pain.—William L. Page, Richmond Va.

SPLENDID BUILDING SITES

I have placed on the market

That Desirable and Well Situated Property

in the western part of the Town, and offer it in lots as per plan annexed. This affords a splendid opportunity to secure a location for your home in a rapidly improving and in every respect the best part of the town. The properties are situated on Cedar and Barton streets and within a stone's throw of the West Ward School and a short distance of the principal Churches and the Hamilton Co'y. Works.

"ERIN COTTAGE," late the residence of Mr. Elias Thompson, is situated in the centre of the block. This property is for sale or can be had at a bargain. It is a desirable suburban residence.

The lots have good frontages on streets of the standard width and are splendidly located. From the upper lots is afforded one of the best views of the town with ample facilities for drainage.

Several fine dwellings are already contracted for to be built on these lots during this season.

Tradesmen and merchants should inspect this property as it offers the best sites available and convenient to the business part of the town.

Misplaced Confidence.

A man applied to the police magistrate this morning for balm for his outraged confidence. He came from a western town on the strength of a telegram from a shoemaker in Ashburnham offering him a position, but when he arrived found that his place had been supplied by another. He was advised to seek for redress in the Division Court.

Postponed.

Just after the EXAMINER had gone to press yesterday afternoon word was received that the complimentary benefit entertainment to Mr. Thos. McNaughton had been postponed till Monday evening on account of the rain. The promoters of the entertainment hope the public will turn out well at St. Leonard's next Monday evening, when the original programme will be carried out.

Rain Interfered.

A cricket match was begun Friday afternoon between the Colts and Veterans. The latter were at bat when rain began to fall. The first three wickets were down for three runs, but upon Stocker and Miles Hamilton getting together they ran the score up to 52 when play had to be stopped. The match will be played out on Tuesday.

Campers Supplies.

The largest stock in Peterborough and best assortment at the Palace Grocery, Elliott & Tierney, George street, Peterborough.

Clerical Waltonians.

Rev. Dr. Parsons, of Toronto, and Rev. E. F. Torrance, town, have just returned from a fishing expedition to Burleigh in the company and guidance of that noted knight of the rod, Mr. T. Fitzgerald. The party stopped at Mr. J. B. McWilliams' summer residence for a few days. They had some successful bass fishing, Dr. Parsons capturing 24 scalps, Mr. Torrance 22 and Mr. Fitzgerald 65. That's a pretty fair catch of fish all round.

Great Wallpaper Sale.

The great remnant sale of wall papers at the Peterborough Book Store has been a decided success. This house is determined to do the wall paper trade of Peterborough, if placing the handsomest patterns and greatest variety at the lowest prices will effect this purpose. When you want the best of satisfaction in every respect in wall paper, go to the Peterborough Book Store.

We Go One Better.

Other grocers are greatly excited about the prices of some of their goods. But Geo. Carton keeps quite cool, and goes one better every time. See the crushing value he is offering:—8½ lbs Rice, for 25c. 8 bars of Electric Soap, for 25c. 8 lbs. of Tea, for $1. Push right through to Geo. Carton's red tea store, where you can carry away more goods for a $2 bill than you can get for $3 in other stores. Corner George and Charlotte streets. dw

Baptist Excursion.

An excursion under the auspices of the Selwyn Baptist Sunday school on Tuesday, September 10th, will be run from Chemong wharf (terminus of the C.V.R.R.) to Bobcaygeon by steamer. Return tickets from Chemong wharf only 25 cents. The G.T.R. will, on that date, issue return tickets from Peterborough to the Chemong wharf at 40 cents.

A Mournful Condition.

A pessimistic poet, dismally asserts that "man was made to mourn." This is especially true of those men and—women too—who buy their teas at any other place than Hawley Bros. tea store, George street Peterborough. For here they will find the finest stock of the best teas grown in the world, and at the most reasonable prices. The same remark applies to their pure and fragrant coffees, while their stock of fine glassware cannot be surpassed.

Port Hope Exhibition.

The magnificent driving park in Port Hope, with natural grand stand, capable of seating 50,000 spectators, is to be the scene of a grand Exhibition on Sept. 3rd, 4th and 5th. Over $5,000 in prizes. First day, baseball tournament, prizes $100; second and third day, horse racing for purses amounting to $1,000. Also a large display of exhibits from all parts of the Midland District. The monument of the late Col. Williams will be unveiled Sept. 4th, by Sir John Macdonald. Prize lists sent on application. Entries for the Fair to be made to R. DICKSON, Secretary.

For Employes' Benefit.

This forenoon at the police court several charges under the Ontario Factories Act, laid by Inspector Brown against merchant tailors of the town, were disposed of by the magistrate. These charges were laid a month ago, but were enlarged till now to give the defendants time to provide the closet accommodation demanded. A number of them did so, but Messrs T. Dolan, W.H. Meredith and D. Cameron were before the magistrate to-day for neglecting to fulfil requirements. It was found Mr. Cameron was not amenable, and in the case of the other two judgement was suspended, it being understood that they would make the necessary improvements at once.

"Dominion Illustrated."

Now that Wimbledon, as a camping ground of the N.R.A., is a thing of the past, Canadians, who have been there or who have been interested in the teams that distinguished themselves from year to year, will be glad to have a souvenir of the locality. Nothing more appropriate in that way could be obtained that the admirable series of illustrations in The Dominion Illustrated for August 17 and 24. Every point of interest is brought into view, as well as some of the leading personages—including the winners of the Kolapore Cup, of whom capital portraits are given. Other features of interest are not wanting, such as Mrs. Spragge's ever readable "Points on our Pacific Province," with her own sketches, in last week's, and a fine full-picture—"Grandpapa's Birthday," in this week's issue. Subscription, $4 a year. Bound volumes for the two half years ending with December and June last, respectively, are now ready. Address: G. E. Desbarats, Managing Director of the Dominion Illustrated Publishing Co., 73 St. James street, Montreal. At the Peterborough Bookstore.

Street Sprinkling and Street Soaking.

The object of the corporate authorities in having the streets sprinkled with water is to keep down dust and not to make mud. But mud-making seems to be the object of the drivers of the sprinkling carts, and there is no seeming about their succeeding. They make mud in the most disgusting manner. For instance, the carts go over streets that have been over sprinkled to maddness, intensifying the nuisance, adding insult to injury, putting water where it is not needed while other streets have an all too-scant supply. There is exceedingly bad judgment exercised in the distribution of water for street purposes, there being a decided inability to reach the happy medium between clouds of dust and a sea of mud. Would it not be well for the authorities to place the streets in this, as in other respects, under the charge of the street inspector and make him responsible for the proper, judicious and uniform watering of the streets. His experience and judgment would doubtless result in a more efficient and satisfactory performance of this important service. The ratepayers are willing to pay for subduing the dust on the streets but they draw the line at mud.

Belleghem vs. Barnum.

It is a subject for a conundrum, the difference between Belleghem the furniture King and Barnum the show King. The latter is a self-confessed humbug, advertising liberally what he does not perform, while the furniture King religiously keeps every promise made through his advertisements—one is the type of trickery the other the type of reliability. Belleghem believes in printer's ink as the best medium for disseminating a knowledge of the merits of his first class furniture, and he never commits the outrage of making printers ink, lie. Under his control it tells the naked truth every time. Thousands have found out by happy experience that Belleghem sells the best furniture found in the Midland District. His warerooms show for themselves that he has the most extensive and varied stock, and comparison with the goods and prices of other establishments will show that his prices are the lowest. Any person desiring the best of furniture at bottom prices will go to the furniture shop of Belleghem, the Furniture King, and it will pay them to remember that he is running off the furniture stock of the bankrupt Lindsay-Selton Company at wonderfully low prices. Great bargains in furniture offered day after day, at Belleghem's furniture warerooms on Hunter street—remember the place, the shop furthest west on Aunter street.

Progress of the Oddfellows.

The Grand Sire of the Independent Order of Oddfellows, Grand Lodge of Quebec, Mr. John J. Reed, has issued the annual report, which shows that during his tenure of office the order has made substantial progress in membership and in finances. There are now 1,089 Oddfellows under his jurisdiction, the total receipts of the year being $7,863, while the relief granted amounted to $1,797. The returns of Grand and subordinate lodges show that 58,906 brothers were relieved, £1,449,136,97 having been expended on that account Benefits were paid for 370,131 weeks, while 8,638 patriarchs were paid $171,304:60 for 65,235 weeks, and 5,863 widowed families received $147,771 73. The total reliefs from 1830 to 1887 were $46,020,900, and the total receipts $121,253,779. Speaking of the magnitude of the Order the Grand Sire says:—"Very few of us appreciate the importance and magnitude of the Order to which we belong. Take the two great Oddfellow organizations, the Manchester Unity and the American Order together, and we find that there are more Oddfellows in the world by far than any other secret fraternal organization. The oldest and greatest of these, according to their own authority, and it is a truly noble institution, numbers, from the best estimates that can be made, 1,082,922, while the Oddfellows number, according to the last actual returns accessible, as follows:—Adult male Oddfellows, belonging to the American Order, January 1st, 1888. Sovereign Grand Lodge, 555,723; Grand Lodge of Australia, latest returns, 16 507; Grand Lodge of the German Empire, 1,333; total American Order, 574,062; Manchester Unity, 617,587; grand total, 1,191,649, or 108,857 more than the oldest and most numerous of the secret fraternal organizations. In addition to this we must not forget that there are 40,426 Daughters of Rebekah, who are engaged with us in striving to ameliorate the condition of suffering humanity. This is truly a proud position to occupy, especially as the Order has been built up in the comparatively short period of about seventy years."

The Wall-paper Season.

How it is Provided for at the Peterborough Bookstore.

Apart from the harmonious relations of the various members of a family, there is no other factor which contributes so largely to domestic happiness, as the beautiful and cheerful adornment of the home—making its sacred precincts bright and cheerful—a more attractive place for the individuals of the domestic circle, especially the male portion, than the street saloons, or other down-town allurements. And there is no element in the adornment of the home that plays so prominent a part as the decoration of the walls with the beautiful papers which modern manufacturing skill and refined taste have placed within the financial reach of all. The importance of making the home cheerful is especially great for the winter season. There the most time is spent and it is a point to make that time as agreeable as possible. The fall house-cleaning season is, or will soon be, upon us, and now is the time to enter upon the work of decoration, whose necessity the growing culture of the people invests with continuously increasing importance. The proprietor of the Peterborough Bookstore, recognizing the demand for superior wall papers, has placed orders for the finest stock for the fall trade ever brought to Peterborough. The stock, which is beginning to arrive and which is now complete, will be found to be simply magnificent. The patterns and colourings have been selected and applied by competent artists, and the completeness of variety commends the autumn wallpaper stock of the Peterborough Bookstore to the attention of every householder, be his or her requirements modest or elaborate. The present is a very opportune time for doing wall papering. The new stock and new styles have arrived at an unusually early period at the Peterborough Bookstore—at a time when the paper hanging trade is dull and workmen will do better work at more reasonable figures than in the rush of the spring season. Besides the Peterborough Bookstore has a large stock of excellent remnants which will be sold at great reductions. They are remnants of our splendid spring stock, and those desiring to secure bargains should not fail to call at the Peterborough Bookstore. Call early before the best patterned remnants are taken, for the bargains are so decided that they will soon be picked up.

CHAT FROM THE CAPITAL.

The Governor-General to Go West—The Next Cabinet Meeting.

OTTAWA, Aug. 23.—Capt. Colville, military secretary to the Governor-General, states that their Excellencies will pass through Ottawa some day early in September for their western trip. He does not think it likely that they will leave their car, as they certainly will only stay an hour or two. The date is not yet definitely fixed. They will return to Ottawa about Nov. 1.

It is now admitted in political circles here that Lord Stanley has made urgent representations to the Imperial authorities regarding the recent seizures in Behring Sea.

A leading official of the Fisheries Department says he feels certain that an international commission will be appointed after the expiration of the Alaska Commercial Company's contract to settle the Atlantic and Behring Sea questions. He feels confident that compensation for the late seizures will be paid the Canadian vessel owners.

All the ministers are expected to be in the Capital on Sept. 15, when a cabinet council to inaugurate the preparations for the session will be held. It is expected that parliament will meet early in January.

At length the dilemma of the complete occupation of the "Langevin Block" is solved. To-day the Postoffice Department began to move into it and will occupy the ground floor and basement. The Inland Revenue people are to move into the West Block to the late Postoffice suite and the Interior Department will take the Inland Revenue space in the East Block as well as their own.

An order for the exhumation of the body of the unknown and partly-dressed woman which was found by Thomas Osborne at the foot of Gilmour's slide last month and buried in the Hull Cemetery has been issued at the request of a widow named Lough in this city, whose daughter disappeared mysteriously last year. The exhumation will take place to-morrow and until then the sorrowing relatives of the missing girl are in awful suspense. The body is supposed to be that of Mary Lough, a young woman who mysteriously disappeared from here last October.

FISHERMEN'S OUTFITS.

FEW HINTS ON THE KIND OF TACKLE THAT ANGLERS SHOULD USE.

The Pot-Fisher, the Bait-Caster, and the Fly-Fisher, and Their Different Characteristics.

The pot-fisher, says the Chicago Tribune, is an object of horror to the genuine angler of to-day. He is a stiff-necked citizen who clings to the traditions of his fathers, and will have none of "little rods" and "new-fangled contrivances." He uses a long, stiff rod of cane bamboo, a stout linen line, a large hook, and a bait big enough to scare a fish out of countenance. He can get a long rod for 15 to 75 cents, and the rest of his tackle for 25 cents more. If he rises to the dignity of a reel he will expend a dollar or so, perhaps.

The bait-casters are proud, stiff-necked people in their way. They represent a great and growing class, and draw their numbers largely from the middle classes of practical business life. The bait-casters rod is simply a sling to propel the bait out to the distant fish without alarming it by any warning splash or ripple, or even by a shadow on the water. His reel is a beautiful piece of mechanism, running lightly and freely to allow the long line to roll out without hitch or hindrance, and multiplying four times to one turn of the crank in order to recover the bait swiftly after the cast has been made.

The casting rod has gradually grown shorter and stiffer in late years, as it has become more and more apparent that those qualities were essential for the strongest and most accurate casting. A limber and willowy casting rod is a nuisance, and it is impossible to cast well with it. Split bamboo makes a poor casting rod. Ash and lancewood were formerly used in combination for this rod, the length being eight feet two inches. To-day the best casting rod is a solid lancewood in three pieces. Its length is only seven feet eight inches and its weight is eight and one-half ounces. Such a rod has not much switch and bend to it, but it is sturdy and steely to the touch, which tells the angler plainly that he can land any ordinary fish with it. In buying a casting rod for bass one should insist upon qualities as above indicated, and such a rod will cost exactly $6.

The bait-caster's reel is a fine piece of mechanism. The best costs from $22 to $30, according to the finish. The highest priced ones are made with jewels on the end bearings, and run as beautifully as a watch. A cheaper reel than this, and practical though less perfect and durable, costs $12. This reel will answer every purpose, and even for $7, $5, or $4 a fairly good reel can be had, which will run freely enough to make casting a possibility with it. A fairly good "combination reel," capable of being changed from a casting reel to a click reel by the pressure of a button-slide, costs from $5 to $8. The plain click reel, used in fly fishing only, will cost from 50 cents up to $3 or $4.

The correct line for the bait caster to use is raw silk. No. F. No. 4 is finer, but it wears out too soon in the constant friction through the guides. This line will not kink, but will "lay out" smoothly and evenly. The necessary fifty yards will cost the angler 60 cents. It would be poor economy to get a cheaper line.

In the matter of hooks for bass fishing many prefer the Sproat model. It is so built that the pull on the line draws the point up directly in the axis of the line. Always get bass hooks double sueiled. Cheaper grades, looking as well to the unskilled eye, may be had, but in these the hook often pulls loose from the suell. In using light tackle the risk is so great that the best quality only is desirable. Bass hooks are numbered from No. 1 each way. No. 2 is smaller than No. 1. No. 1-0 is larger than No. 1. Some anglers use the largest size, No. 6 O. No. 5-O is better; No. 4 O is quite large enough for any ordinary bass fishing; and the angler should use 4 O, 3 O, and so on down to even Nos. 1 and 2, according to the average size of the fish he is taking. For small bass, croppies, etc., No. 3 will not be too small. After that he will have to go into the single suelled hooks, and can get them smaller and smaller down to the tiniest trout hook.

In spoon hooks there is a variety of models. The silver-plated spoons cost 50 cents each; the nickel-plated ones cost about half that. The anglers should be careful not to use too large a spoon, but should stick to the smaller sizes, increasing with the size of the fish sought after.

IS YOUR BAKING POWDER PURE?

Do its Manufacturers Publish all the Ingredients Used?

IS IT FREE FROM AMMONIA?

As is well known, ammonia is unhealthful in food, and dries up the bread material.

Protection to consumers of food compounds lies in their ability to choose those made from healthful substances. Unless manufacturers publish just what their baking powder is made of, do not use their goods, but buy instead

Good Evening!

"Had any photos taken yet?"
"No."
"Why don't you? Everybody is taking advantage of the present low prices."
"Oh, well, you don't get good pictures for a dollar a dozen."
"Yes you do. Just look at this one! What better would you want than that?"
"That is good. Who took it?"
"Mr. Sproule. I got a dozen just as good as that for a dollar."
"Why, that's as well taken as the cabinets they used to charge us $3.00 a dozen for."
"Every bit. Oh, Mr. Sproule has woke up the town. You see, his new instruments are so perfect that one sitting is all that he requires from you now, so that he makes them ever so much quicker.

IT WAS ENDED QUICKLY.
BUT BULLETS WERE THICK WHILE IT LASTED.
Some of the "Most Estimable Citizens" of a Southern State Engage in a Free Fight Over an Election for Supervisor.
NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 25.—A Vicksburg special gives particulars of a shooting affray which took place yesterday at Newman's Grove, Warren County, at the pavilion where the vote for supervisor was being counted. Fully 50 persons were present. While they were crowding around the tallers, an altercation arose between W. H. Brobston and James Lanier. Brobston struck Orpheus Lanier, and the latter raised a large stick, at the same time advancing on him. Brobston then presented his pistol at Lanier. At this moment W. F. Brobston, a cousin and brother-in-law of W. H., drew his pistol and fired at his cousin, who, though seriously hurt, returned the fire, and in short a duel ensued between the two, terminating in W. H. Brobston falling in a dying condition, while W. F. Brobston also went down seriously wounded.
In the meantime 15 or 20 shots were fired by different persons in the crowd, the confusion and excitement being so great that it was impossible to tell who shot. In the melee Justice Hawkins and Seymour Bobbs, who rushed in to stop the affray, were seriously wounded—the former being shot through the hip from behind, while a ball passed through the latter's buttocks from side to side. Lanier was grazed on the head by a shot also. W. F. Brobston was shot through the upper part of the right thigh from in front and also in the left breast. Both are flesh wounds. The ball in the breast passed through and was flattened in a newspaper in the breast pocket of his coat and was thus prevented from entering the cavity, though it made a terrible flesh wound.
The entire affair was over in a few moments. Doctors Robins and Purnell were telephoned for at once and securing a special engine left at 5 p.m. for that place. They returned here between 7 and 8 p.m., bringing with them W. F. Brobston and Justice Hawkins. Mr. Bobbs was taken home. The principals in the affray are brother-in-law of Bishop Galloway and among the most estimable citizens of the county. W. F. Brobston and F. W. Brobston were rivals for supervisor, the latter being a brother of W. H. Brobston, and it is supposed some feeling existed between them on this account. It is also stated that an old feud existed between the parties, growing out of the settlement of an estate. F. W. Brobston is at present a supervisor and J. H. Brobston was a member of the last Legislature and is a candidate, for re-election. Considering that the affray took place in the centre of a dense crowd it is thought remarkable that no more casualties occurred. Great excitement was created here by the affair.

The South Carolina Trouble.
CHARLESTON, S.C., Aug. 24.—One company of soldiers remained at Mount Pleasant last night to preserve the peace in the event that the negroes should attempt to cause a riot. Fred. Schaeffer, who killed the negro woman, was lodged last night in Charleston jail. Gen. Hognewin in response to a request of the local authorities to-day issued an order to the Montgomery Guards and the Irish Volunteers to hold themselves ready to proceed to Mount Pleasant upon the first intimation of trouble. The Caroline Rifles and Gatling gun detachment were also ordered to be ready for service. Reports were received to-day that the negroes in Christ Church parish were arming, but the situation is evidently not so serious. Large numbers of negroes go to Mount Pleasant every Saturday to trade at the stores, and when full of whisky are very boisterous, but no outbreak is anticipated. The village barrooms were closed to-day and the excitement will pass away in a day or two. The ringleaders in the attempted riot yesterday have been committed to jail for trial in default of bail.

Sudden Death at Windsor.
WINDSOR, Aug. 25.—Ex-Ald. J. E. Dunn, member of the School Board, died suddenly Friday night. During the day he was away attending an excursion, and indulged in considerable dancing. He was seen on the streets during the evening and seemed to be in the best of spirits, returning to his home ing about 9 o'clock. A short time after he retired his wife was awakened by his heavy breathing, and ran to get some of the neighbors, but when she returned he was dead. It is supposed that it was heart disease that carried him off so suddenly, caused no doubt by the excitement of the day's sport. The deceased has been a resident for the last 55 years, and about 8 years ago he purchased the varnish works of Whiting, Scarf & Co. and later on became president of the Windsor Novelty Works. He was a member of the council for 2 years, representing No. 2 ward in 1887 and No. 4 ward in 1888. Last January he sought re-election. He was of African birth and was the first colored councillor or member of the Board of Education, having occupied a seat in the latter body for nearly 4 years.

Combating to Prevent Riots.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Acting Secretary Walker to-day received the following cable dispatch from Rear Admiral Gherardi, commanding the naval force on the North Atlantic station, dated to-day at St. Nicholas Mole:
Legitime accepted terms offered, and embarked Thursday afternoon on board French corvette. It is not known where he will go. Hyppolite's forces occupied the town on Friday morning. We fear riot. I have notified the Diplomatic Corps that I will do all I can to prevent riot. French and English captains will act under my orders. It is very important that the new minister should be sent immediately.

An Innocent Man Hanged for His Crime.
MEXICO, Mo., Aug. 25.—Perry Tharll who died Friday at Macon, Mo., confessed before his death having committed the crime for which another suffered the death penalty. In 1884 William Vandervanger and wife were murdered a few miles from Florida near here. Bill Daly, a colored man, was arrested, tried, convicted and hanged for the crime at Paris, Mo., few months after the tragedy.

POLITICS AND THE NOOSE
HOSTILITY TO THE TORIES HELPED MRS. MAYBRICK.
The Pressure Brought to Bear on Home Secretary Matthews—The Queen at Wrexham—The Dockmen's Strike
LONDON, Aug. 25.—It is the judgment of the leading Liverpool journal on Mr. Matthews' decision in the Maybrick case that if Liverpool is satisfied London ought to be. But London is not. If you take its most vociferous papers as an index to London feeling, that section of the London press which has clamored hardest for Mrs. Maybrick's pardon might be described as a shrieking sisterhood. The note is feminine throughout. The more sober and masculine part of the English press deplores the agitation of the last ten days, which undoubtedly does tend to lessen public confidence in the administration of justice by the courts of law.
The Home Secretary has had to face an outcry of which argument and appeal to reason formed the smallest part. All the anti-hanging people joined in it, of course. So did sentimentalists who, while ready to let men suffer, would let women go free because they are women. Add another class who thought the verdict wrong because Mrs. Maybrick was young and rather pretty, and a third with whom hostility to the present Government was the real motive of attack. For an attack it has been, and politics have had a great deal to do with the whole business. There is, of course, a large and respectable body who fully think the evidence against Mrs. Maybrick incomplete, and urged that she was entitled to the benefit of the doubt. But they are not the noisy band who wrote to or in the papers.
Perhaps never has any Home Secretary had to meet such a pressure as was put upon Mr. Matthews in this case. Some of it came from some of his own colleagues. "If he hange Mrs. Maybrick it would cost us a hundred thousand votes," said one of them. Hanging is not a Cabinet question, but Mr. Matthews, of course, knew what the Cabinet thought. He has done his best to decide according to the law and the evidence, but he is, after all, human, and this decision not to hang nor to pardon, but to commute to penal servitude for life, is in truth a compromise.
Mrs. Maybrick ought on public grounds to be hanged, but it is doubtful whether any Ministry or any Home Secretary ever lived who would have had the courage to hang her in the presence of the angry opposition which this simple solution of all evil in justice to take its course would provoke. Mr. Matthews believes that Mrs. Maybrick tried to poison her husband. He is not quite sure whether she really succeeded, and finds ground enough in the doctors' differences to justify him in commuting the sentence.

Her Majesty Speaks at Wrexham.
LONDON, Aug. 24.—A deputation of citizens of Wrexham presented an address to the Queen at that place to-day. Her Majesty replied in person. She said she rejoiced in the improvement of trade and prosperity among the Welsh, with whom she heartily sympathized.
The Queen made a semi-state entry into Wrexham. The drive was lined with spectators and the greatest enthusiasm was manifested.
Replying to a non-conformist address the Queen said she rejoiced to think that in Wales as elsewhere the growth of the spirit of true religion and Christian virtues kept pace with increasing material prosperity, and she heartily prayed that this growth would continue.

The Dockmen's Strike.
LONDON, Aug. 24.—There is no change in the dockmen's strike. Conferences between representatives of the strikers and employers have proved futile. The Commercial Dock Company declined to submit the master to arbitration. City clerks have been employed to unload samples of new arrivals of tea. Dock shares have declined one per cent.
LONDON, Aug. 23.—The striking dock laborers marched to-day from the East End to Hyde Park where they held a meeting. Speeches were made from several platforms, Resolutions in favor of continuing the strike were adopted.

The Casuals Making the Trouble.
LONDON, Aug. 25.—The dock laborers' strike has lasted all the week and the end is not yet. It is a remarkable example of organization on the side of the men, and of the pressure which one body of laborers can enforce on another. The regular workmen in the employ of the dock companies are not dissatisfied with wages or rules. It is the casuals, who are taken on when wanted, paid by the hour and discharged when the job is completed, who have started this strike and dragged others in with them. They demand 12 instead of 10 cents an hour, a minimum hiring of four hours and the abolition of piece work. The companies reply that they are not making money and cannot afford an increase which would cost them $500,000 a year. They concede a four hours' minimum, but insist that the abolition of piece work is only another attempt to compel them to pay good and bad men the same wages. Other points are raised, conferences are held, processions are tramping through the East End and immense inconvenience to the shipping business is caused, but order thus far has been observed.

Attempted Train Robbery.
LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 25.—Charles D. Chambers, just released from the Eastern Penitentiary, came to this city last evening and when the Pacific express on the Pennsylvania railroad pulled out of the station at 12.50 this morning boarded a Pullman car and endeavored to rob the passengers. Porter Charles D. Stark of Jersey City struggled with him and was shot twice in the groin and leg and another shot failed to take effect. Chambers was then overpowered by the trainmen. Stark is badly hurt but it is believed will recover. Chambers was taken to Harrisburg, but will be returned to the city for trial. A despatch received from Harrisburg to-day says Stark is in the hospital there suffering from three bullet wounds. The stories of the porter and Chambers, who is in jail, are somewhat conflicting. Chambers says he was stealing a ride and that the porter began firing at him. He grasped the pistol and it went off. The porter says Chambers was in his berth and when discovered drew the revolver and commenced firing.

Swam 14 Miles.
NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Henry G. Clarke, the athlete and long distance swimmer, today accomplished the task of swimming from Hoboken, N.J., to South Beach, Staten Island, distance 14 miles. The time occupied was 4 hours and 45 minutes. Before starting Clarke took up a collection from the spectators on the wharf for the benefit of the sick baby fund.

Smallpox at Buffalo.
BUFFALO, Aug. 25.—Annie Guenther, 24 years of age of No. 91 Wasmuth-avenue, was found to have smallpox yesterday. She had never been vaccinated. She was taken to the Quarantine Hospital and the house was quarantined.

ANOTHER SEIZURE BY THE RUSH.
This Time a U. S. Vessel—The Capture of the Pathfinder and Minnie.
PORT TOWNSEND, W.T., Aug. 24.—The Government revenue cutter Richard Rush seized the British schooner Ranetta, with 600 skins, on July 31. The seizure of the Pathfinder and Minnie is confirmed. The Pathfinder was the only vessel placed in charge of an American officer, excepting the Black Diamond. The American sailing schooner James G. Swan was sized in Behring Sea on July 30, with 235 head of seals aboard. The vessel's documents, firearms and skins were taken aboard the Rush, and she was ordered to Sitka, to be turned over to the American authorities. The captain being without charts and unacquainted with the Alaskan coast proceeded to this point and surrendered his vessel to the Collector of Customs. There are between forty and fifty vessels now in Behring Sea.
VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 24.—The schooner Sapphire, owned by the American Vice-Consul, has arrived here with 1600 skins. Captain Cox reports: "On July 27 we sighted the Rush. We put away under full sail. The chase lasted five hours. The Rush then gave up, the Sapphire sailing splendidly in a fine wind. We had 1300 skins at the time."

The Behring Sea Negotiations.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The Acting Secretary of State to-day said that no communications from Minister Lincoln upon the subject of the Behring Sea seizures had been received at the Department. He heard nothing, beyond what he had seen in the newspapers, from the British Government of an intention on its part to request arbitration; and, in fact, the Department had had no communication from the British Government upon the subject since Secretary Bayard left office.

A London Comment.
LONDON, Aug. 26.—Commenting upon the seizure of Canadian vessels in Behring Sea The Daily News says: "Secretary Blaine is in a manner committed to a policy of unfriendliness toward England. There are many signs, however, that in the present dispute he has to reckon with his own countrymen as well as with ours."

MR. VAN HORNE REPLIES.
The Canadian Pacific's President Thinks Judge Cooley Wrong.
CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—A local paper this morning prints a long interview with President W. C. Van Horne of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who arrived here yesterday. Regarding the statement of Judge Cooley a day or two ago that the Canadian competition was hurtful to the American roads and that the Chicago Board of Trade was wrong in opposing legislation to prevent indiscriminate competition on the part of the Canadian lines, as it had the effect of diverting business from Chicago to the Northwestern cities, Mr. Van Horne said:
"In this case Judge Cooley has apparently formed his opinion without giving the defendant an opportunity to be heard. The Canadian Pacific is not and never has been an eager competitor for freight traffic between the Eastern and Pacific Coast States. It has arbitrary rates to pay to its connections on both ends of its line on such traffic, and these arbitrary rates leave too little profit to make the traffic worth fighting for.
"The long and short of it seems to be that the Canadian Pacific should be excluded from competition with the American Pacific lines because of its light capital charges as compared with theirs; but Mr. Towne of the Southern Pacific in his testimony before the Senate Committee did not say, as he might truthfully have done, that the Canadian Pacific was built for cash, for those who intended permanently to hold and work it; that no profits were taken out by construction companies, or Credit Mobiliers, and that its bonds and stock represent actual cash invested—not subsidies, but cash from private sources; nor did he say that in the case of his own line (the Central Pacific) and in the case of some others of the Pacific lines enormous construction profits were taken out, and that these enormous profits, which were divided up by construction companies and Credit Mobiliers are now represented by the bonds and stock upon which, according to Mr. Towne, the interest and dividends are imperilled by the competition of the Canadian Pacific.

To Meet the C. P. R.'s Rate.
CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—Chairman Fairbanks of the western and northwestern divisions of the Western Freight Association was instructed at the managers' meeting yesterday to go to New York at once and try to induce the Trunk lines to issue through tariffs to St. Paul and Minneapolis at the same rate as those now made via Lake Superior lines and the Canadian Pacific.

Johnstown on a Small Scale.
PROVIDENCE, R.I., Aug. 25.—The Spring Lake reservoir near Fishville, 15 miles from the city, which supplies a whole row of mill villages along the Pawtucket River, burst this afternoon. Three persons were drowned and some damage was done to property. The victims were Mrs. Greene Tew, aged 60; Mrs. Hawkins, aged 90, and Mrs. Tew's 7-year-old son.

To Ask for Separate Trials.
CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—The attorneys for O'Sullivan, Coughlin and Burke, the Cronin suspects, have given notice that when the case comes up for trial on Monday next they will apply for separate trials for their clients. The States Attorney will resist the motions, which he considers are made for the purpose of delay.

Consular Boundaries Changed.
DEER PARK, Md., Aug. 24.—President Harrison to-day approved the order of the State Department changing the consular boundaries in Canada made necessary by the fact that that of Ottawa has been made a consul-generalship.

Detroit to Have a New Union Depot.
DETROIT, Aug. 25.—Articles of association were filed at Lansing yesterday of the Fort-street Union Depot Company, with $1,000,000 stock in $100 shares, the subscribers being: W. C. Van Horne, Montreal, 1000 shares; O. D. Ashley, New York, 1000 shares; Edmund B. Osler, Toronto, 250 shares; William W. Crapo, New Bedford, Mass., 750 shares; R. G. Butler, Detroit, 250 shares; Lewis Pierce, Portland, Me., 250 shares; George Coppell, New York, 250 shares.
The site of the proposed depot is bounded by Third and Sixth, Fort and Congress-streets, and the railroad companies that are expected to avail themselves of the Union depot and accommodations to be erected are the Canadian Pacific, the Wabash Western and the Flint and Pere Marquette.

Prince Edward Conservatives.
PICTON, Aug. 24.—A convention of Liberal-Conservatives met here to-day for the purpose of nominating a standard-bearer in the coming contest for the Ontario Assembly. S. M. Conger presided. There was a large representation of the leading men of the party from all sections of the riding. These names were presented to the convention: B. A. Hubbs, Adam H. Saylor, William Anderson, James Johnson, H. W. Weese, W. Boulter and S. N. Smith, all of whom addressed the convention, as did also James Gibson, the former nominee. Johnson, Anderson and Boulter went to the ballot, which resulted in Johnson leading by many votes. Johnson was then declared the choice of the party by a unanimous standing vote.

Kilrain Arrives at Purvis.
PURVIS, Miss., Aug. 25.—State Agent Childs arrived here at 3.10 this morning having in charge Jake Kilrain. Kilrain's bond has been fixed at $2000 and he will be released to-morrow when the bond is signed by two citizens who will be indemnified by Kilrain. He said he intended giving sparring exhibitions after his bond is made and approved. He expressed a desire to meet Sullivan again and thinks he will do up the champion.

Drowning Accident at the Capital.
OTTAWA, Aug. 24.—A sad boating accident occurred this morning by which Mrs. Duquette, a young married woman, and Mr. Eugene Dion, son of Mr. C. Dion of the Militia Department, were drowned. Mr. and Mrs. Duquette and child, Mr. and Mrs. Lemieux, with Mr. Dion were returning from Gatineau Point in a skiff. They went between a tug and a tow of barges. The boat struck the boat, upsetting it.

A PHENOMENAL SUCCESS.
THE KAISER'S TRIUMPHAL TOUR OF THE REICHSLAND.
Imperial Taffy for Westphalia—Speech of Hot Temper on the Continent—The Boulanger Bugaboo.
BERLIN, Aug. 24.—Compared with the visit of the late Emperor William to Alsace-Lorraine in 1877 the present Emperor's visit was a phenomenal success. Making allowance for official zeal in stirring the provinces to enthusiasm, the Emperor's reception indicates the remarkable progress made in Germanizing the provinces during the past decade. The journey from Strasburg to Metz was a triumphal progress. All the intermediate stations were gaily decorated and crowded with people, who cheered the Emperor, whose tact in the difficult and tempting circumstances was remarkable. He made brief replies to the various toasts, etc., but said not a word at which the French could be offended.
The only incident that possibly can cause anxiety arose from the passport question. The President of the Strasburg Chamber of Commerce on being presented to the Emperor petitioned him to abolish the present rigorous regulations. The Emperor briefly expressed regret at his inability to do anything in this direction.
At a gala dinner at Muenster Castle to-night the Emperor, replying to a toast to his health, dwelt upon the energy and endurance of the Westphalians, whose principles, he said, he imbibed in his youth, his tutor having been a Westphalian. Westphalia had always shown itself loyal to the Prussian house. He hoped that the Westphalian sword, which had always kept its edge, would in the future, as in the past, give evidence of its keenness if it should again be necessary to unsheath it in defence of the nearly united Fatherland. He drank "Prosperity to Westphalia."

Menacing Mutterings.
LONDON, Aug. 25.—There is still much muttering abroad on the recent visit of the German Emperor to England, still more on his presence at Strasburg and Metz. The French press has lost control of itself, and some of the most sober journals seriously allege that England must be secretly maturing hostile designs against France. Fuel to fan this jealous fire was supplied by the Radicals, who plied the Government with questions in the House of Commons whether some new agreement had not been entered into at Osborne. This is part of the usual game to annoy the Ministry, and the meaning of it is well understood in England, but entirely misunderstood in Paris. It probably is true that England's relations with Germany are better since the Emperor came, but that is no reason why they should be worse with France. The Germans naturally make the most of the matter, and inspired articles in the German papers still further infuriate the French. But all this will soon blow over.
Much more menacing than these spurts of hot temper is the report that the French Radicals have made up their minds that they will not, in any circumstances, support the moderate Republicans at the coming general elections. "If forced to choose between M. Ferry and General Boulanger," cries M. Lockroy. They are not forced to choose, for the chance of M. Ferry's return to power is in any case remote. But if the Radical wing of the Republican party accept and adopt M. Lockroy's view, General Boulanger again becomes formidable. The cause of the Republic is for the present bound up with President Carnot and his Ministry. The elections must be fought under their lead and won by them, if by any Republican section. But M. Lockroy cares more about abolishing the Senate than establishing the Republic.

Britain and Germany.
BERLIN, Aug. 24.—An inspired article in The Cologne Gazette on the results of the Emperor's visit to Osborne says the relations between England and Germany, out of which much matter for superfluous disharmony has been eliminated, are beginning to be much more friendly. Owing however to the opposition of the Radicals in Parliament the English Government is compelled to proceed cautiously toward a rapprochement with Germany. The paper adds: "Whether the Czar comes or not, there is small hope that the relations between Russia and Germany will improve."

Preparing to Leave the Vatican.
LONDON, Aug. 28.—The Rome correspondent of The Chronicle asserts that preparations are being made for the Pope's departure from Rome.

The Czar Starts for Copenhagen.
LONDON, Aug. 28.—The Chronicle's St. Petersburg correspondent says that the Czar and family started for Copenhagen on Sunday. Elaborate measures of precaution were taken at Cronstadt. They will not return until October. The Czar will visit Berlin alone.

Will Boulanger Return?
PARIS, Aug. 25.—It is reported that at the urgent request of friends General Boulanger will come to France to stand trial before the elections.

Boulangists Hold a Stormy Meeting.
PARIS, Aug. 25.—The Boulangists held a stormy meeting to-day to discuss the selection of candidates for the coming general elections. M. Laguerre declared that, although he was a personal friend of Boulanger, he was not prepared to follow him blindly. His paramount desire was to witness the triumph of the ideas which Boulanger represented. The meeting dispersed in disorder. No candidates were chosen.

Sharp Fighting in Crete.
LONDON, Aug. 24.—A despatch from Crete, which has been officially confirmed, says there has been a sharp skirmish between the Turks and Cretan insurgents at Saspalalon.

Famine in the Soudan.
SOUDAN, Aug. 25.—Despatches from Egypt say a famine prevails at Khartoum, Kassala, Tokar, and other river towns. The survivors are feeding upon the bodies of the dead. About 20 deaths from starvation daily are reported at Toka.

Banqueted by Minister Reid.
PARIS, Aug. 24.—Whitelaw Reid, the United States Minister, to-day gave a dejeuner to the delegates of Scripps' League of Workingmen. Fifty persons were present. Among the special guests were Gen. Franklin, United States Commissioner to the Paris exposition, and Cornelius Vanderbilt of New York. Count Ney, a son of Marshal Ney, acknowledged in a neat speech Minister Reid's toast, "The Prosperity of France." The Count spoke in warm terms alike of the sentiment and its proposer.

Avenged Their Brother's Death.
KANSAS CITY, Aug. 25.—James and Henry Miles, brothers, yesterday waylaid, shot and killed W. A. Miller at Brunswick, Mo., near this city. A year ago Miller shot and killed Joseph Miles during a quarrel, which resulted from Miles' attention to Mrs. Miller. Miller was acquitted of the crime. Miles' brothers swore revenge and to-day

THE BENEFITS OF PROTECTION.

The farmer's wife has began preserving her fruit. Here is a matter which possesses considerable interest for her and for us all:

A Hamilton merchant, Mr. W. G. Reid, a Conservative in politics, has, for some time past, been importing Trinidad sugar. The other day the Customs Department seized a large quantity of his sugar, on the ground of undervaluation. This is a process to which the Government frequently resorts when any of the manufacturing combines are in jeopardy from an importer. The sugar seized arrived in different shipments, but for convenience sake we shall deal with one invoice only. The sugar was a low grade, grocery raw sugar, such as is used for preserving. The single shipment in question contained on its arrival at Hamilton 139,338 pounds, as weighed by the Customs officers. The price of the sugar, as delivered by Turnbull, Stewart & Co. on the docks in Trinidad, was three cents per pound; but certain export duties and charges brought the price up to $3 26½ cents per hundred, making the actual price on board the vessel of the lot, $4,549. On this Mr. Reid had to pay the Canadian duty, levied for the protection of the Canadian refiners. First of all, a specific duty of one cent per pound is imposed on that grade of sugar, and then an ad valorem duty of 30 per cent. Then a duty of 7½ per cent is imposed on the sum payable on account of those two duties. This last tax is levied on all sugars imported via the United States, with the alleged object of compelling the Ontario importer to bring it in via Halifax and over the intercolonial. But as the rate from Halifax to Hamilton is much higher than that from New York, the tax fails of its purpose, and the Government knows that it must fail. In short, the importers say that this tax is simply an additional levy in the interest of the refiner. Mr. Reid's account with the Customs officials at Hamilton, therefore, stood as follows:—

COST OF ARTICLE AT PORT OF SHIPMENT.
139,338 pounds	$4,549 00
DUTY IMPOSED.
Specific duty of 1 cent per pound.....	$1,393 38
Ad Valorem duty, 30 p.c.....	1,365 00
	$2,758 38
7½ per cent. additional on this.....	206 92
Total.....	$2,965 30

That is, $2,895 was levied on a Trinidad value of $4,540, or a little over 65 per cent. But even 65 per cent. is by no means the full measure of protection afforded to the refiners. This Trinidad raw sugars contains over 90 per cent. of saccharine matter, whereas the similar grade sold by the Canadian refiners contains only 68 per cent., the rest being chemicals and other adulterants. Hence, the refiners here have an extra 20 per cent. of protection or of profit; call it which you please. Nevertheless, Mr. Reid was selling this Trinidad sugar in successful competition with Canadian sugar, when the combines invoked the assistance of Mr. Bowell in supressing him for the unpardonable sin of "breaking the price." No merchant is much better known in Western Ontario than Mr. Reid. The charge of undervaluation is utterly without foundation. Both he and Turnbull, Stewart & Co. bear the highest reputation for honorable dealing. The seizure, as has been said, is merely a device for protecting a combine already enormously protected. When it is borne in mind that from 120,000,000 to 150,000,000 pounds of sugar are consumed every year in Canada, it will be seen that our five refineries, which employ all told about 1,500 men, have a perfect bonanza in the system of protection. Mr. Reid estimates their clear profits at from a million and a quarter to a million and a half of dollars a year.—Exchange

A Five Weeks Jaunt.

Mr. J. W. Dorsee has just returned from a holiday of nearly five weeks, looking well after his trip. He mentions the following as a few of the principle places of interest he visited. Caledonia Springs, noted for its fine mineral waters, then Ottawa and Montreal. He took a trip through the far famed Thousand Islands, and visited the following watering places across the lines:—Nantucket, Point of Pines, Providence and Boston; also Old Orchard Beach, of which he reports the sea bathing very fine. The beach, which extends for nine miles, is composed of white sand and the summer houses and hotels all along the shore make it a very pleasant place to spend a few weeks. He only regrets that he could not stay longer to enjoy it. He visited Boston, Mass., where he had a brother whom he had not seen for nearly three years. His stay in the classic city was very pleasant indeed, as his brother showed him about the city and took him to the principal points of interest. Mr. Dorsee speaks very highly of the American people, and thinks Boston is the finest city he has seen. The parks, cemeteries and public and state buildings are all superb. He visited Harvard College, which he says is something grand, the property comprising many acres of land filled up with immense buildings and beautiful grounds and parks. The Banker Hill Monument is nearly three hundred feet high. Mr. Dorsee climbed to the top and got a fine view of the surrounding towns and country extending for miles. He was particularly struck by a magnificent store in Boston, where the daily cash receipts are $60,000. The staff numbers 2,500 persons. It is a tremendous store, but every department works like machinery. In all it was [illegible]

FISHERMEN'S OUTFITS.

FEW HINTS ON THE KIND OF TACKLE THAT ANGLERS SHOULD USE.

The Pot-Fisher, the Bait-Caster, and the Fly-Fisher, and Their Different Characteristics.

The best muskallonge rod is a solid lancewood in three pieces. It is eight feet in length and weighs ten and one-half ounces. The butt-piece, on which the reel is attached above the hand as in the casting-rod, is only seventeen inches long, the other two pieces being longer and of equal length. The butt-ferule is sunk deep, so that the rod is in no danger of breaking under the great strain it has to bear. There are guides on each side of this rod, because it is used in trolling and so is apt to get warped unless occasionally reversed. The proper reel for muskallonge fishing is a No. 2, double multiplying. This costs from $2.50 to $12, and the rod $6.50. It will take about $2 to get the line—75 to 100 yards No. E raw silk or a braided silk soaked in oil—the spoon will increase the muskallonge bill by 50 cents, and more than one spoon should be taken along.

The fly fishermen make the last class of anglers. They are also a proud and haughty race, though not a numerous one here. The beginner at fly fishing can buy an as hand lancewood fly rod for 50 cents. He can get a solid lancewood rod for $2.10, and from that on up to $8. The latter price will get him a fine rod, which will always be true to him and worthy of his confidence. A greenheart fly rod is a trifle heavier, but good. It will cost from $3 up. The best of all fly rods, however, still remains the split bamboo. A good split bamboo fly rod formerly cost $25 to $30, and that not more than five years ago. To-day you can get a really good one for $7.50.

The fly-fisher's reel is a click, or a combination reel, and he can pay from 50 cents up to $8 or $10 for it. The reel in fly-fishing is seated below the hand-piece, at the butt of the rod, so as to give it balance, and to be handy to the left hand in drawing off the line in a cast.

The fly-fisher's line is altogether different from the bait-caster's, and is more expensive. It is at least thirty yards long, and is a waterproof braided silk, round and true, tapered down fine at the casting end, and enameled perfectly to let slip nicely through after the dancing fly. Such a line will cost from $2.50 to $3. Good trout flies can now be bought for from 50 cents to $2 a dozen. Bass flies can be bought for $1 to $2.50 a dozen. Bass flies for this region should be tied on No. 1, 1-0, or 1-0 hooks. Trout flies run about as follows: For the large Rangeley lake trout district, No. 1; for Maine waters, Nos. 6 and 8; for Ohio and Pennsylvania, Nos. 10 and 12, small; for the Northern Rocky Mountains and Lake Superior, Nos. 4, 2, and 1; for Wisconsin and Michigan, Nos. 6, 8, and 10.

The pot-fisher can get his outfit for 15 cents up to $5. The bait-caster can go fishing for $6 to $30 or $40, according to his wealth. The fly-fisher can equip himself nicely for a Northern trip for $5 to $25. Board at most of the lake hotels cost about $2 a day, or $10 a week, including the use of a boat. A tent life is much cheaper. Life in a camp costs about 35 cents a day, so far as necessary expense goes.

NOT QUITE A TRAGEDY.

SAD EXPERIENCE OF AN ITALIAN AND A SICK MONKEY.

How Giacomini Cæsar Brigoletti Had His Confidence Betrayed by a Plotting Hibernian.

Life in Omaha is about the same as everywhere else—a succession of broken hearts and betrayed confidences—as the following pathetic story from the Herald of that city goes to show. In the classic shades of Tom Bottoms stands the unpretentious tin dwelling of Giacomini Cæsar Brigoletti, late of Naples. A man of humble pursuits is Giacomini. When the icy blasts of winter sweep the land of his adoption he attires himself in several pairs of baggy trousers, four heavy flannel shirts, and as many waistcoats of rough material. Thus attired he stands in his wooden box and sells hot roasted peanuts to the passers-by. When the spring time comes with its flowers and showers and glad sunshine—reminiscent of the balmy climate of his beloved Italia—Giacomini doffs his superfluous garments, retires his peanut scorcher, takes up his trusty hand organ and monkey and goes abroad to murder music and pose as a target for bootblacks, stove-lid lifters and other missiles of a domestic character. Sometimes he is smitten by coins of small denomination. Thus for several years has he changed his vocations with the seasons.

Adjacent to the Brigoletti residence stands the two-room slab shanty tenanted by the Maginnis family, late of Leinster. Three young and interesting children have blessed the union of Bernard and Honoria Maginnis. The father is the trusted henchman of a sewer contractor and the mother alternates her domestic duties and increases the family income by washing the soiled linen of her wealthier neighbors. Hard work and happiness are neck and neck in the Maginnis family.

For several years a close friendship cemented the Brigoletti and Maginnis households, but last Monday it was broken.

Giacomini's monkey was left at home while its master sold peanuts in his wooden box up-town. Solitary confinement was not healthy for the animal, and it was low in flesh and spirit when Mr. Maginnis happened to see it one morning gazing wistfully out of the single pane that lighted the interior of the Chateau Brigoletti. Maginnis stared long and earnestly at the monkey, and the monkey glanced beseechingly at Maginnis. It may not be amiss to mention that Maginnis was a kindhearted man, and pitied the monkey's lonely condition. Besides, he had a scheme.

"Brig. me bucko," said Mr. Maginnis, "Oi'm afred yer moonkey'll dei uv solitary incarceration iv ye don't let him out purty soon."

"Dat's watta da matta wid monk," respond Brigoletti, regretfully, "but watta canna doon wis heem? Let heem loose an' he runa way. The heem to no pump as' de smalla boy make heem madda a' messerabel. Watta canna doon wis heem, Seignor Mageeness?"

"Oi've shtruck a scheme, Brig. that'll save yer monkey's life. Phawt's the matter with tyin' the baste to a posht in moi yarrud, where the divil a wan can git at him but me own goseoons, an' where he can be a scoorce of innycint amusemint to thim while he is raygalin' him an' stringth. A foine boigh fince inclothes me yarrud, and th' railway thrack runs close up to it, so ye see there's no danger uv anybody climbin' the fince and shtaylin' the poor little baste. Come, an' Oi'll show ye the primishes."

Giacomini accompanied the humane Maginnis and found the yard as represented. There was the high board fence shutting it completely in from the outer world, and by applying his eye to a convenient knot hole he could see not only the additional safeguard of the railroad track, but a deep cutting full of water running parallel with the rails. And there was the hack door post already furnished with a staple to which the monkey's chain could be hitched. Tears of heartfelt gratitude welled up in his Neapolitan optics as he grasped the hand of his benefactor and poured out his thanks.

"Seignor Mageeness, you are se manna wis se gooda heart," he sobbed, "an' se heaven willa rewarda you for se kindness to se poor Italiana an' se seek monk."

"Don't mintion it iv ye luv me," said Maginnis.

For a few days the monkey seemed to thrive in his new home. His face lost the yearning expression that first touched Maginnis' heart and he began to regain flesh. Brigoletti dropped in to see him every morning and was delighted with the changed appearance.

"Nexa summ'mer he weel be se sleeka monk an' make se plenta mon," predicted Brigoletti. Maginnis concurred.

When Brigoletti was elected a delegate to the Societe Nationale di Lanorni's annual session in New York City he left not a care behind him. He kissed his monkey good-by, and told Maginnis he would return with a new organ for the summer campaign.

"Don't worry about the moonkey," said Maginnis; "when yes return he'll be so much changed you'l hardly know him."

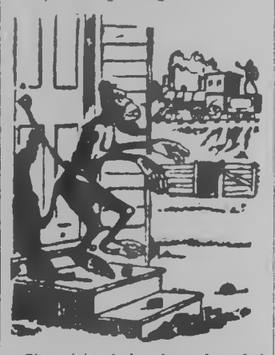
A month later Giacomini burst into the Maginnis mansion with a bran new hand organ strapped to his back and a glare of fond expectancy in his eyes.

"How ees ze monk?" was his greeting.

"Glad to see you back an' lukin' so well," said Maginnis, evasively.

"Ze monk—how ees he, seignor?"

"Well, Brig, he might be better an' he might be worse. He's had a raylapse, but with th' good care we've givin' him he'll pull through all right."



Giacomini rushed to the yard—to find his beloved business partner dodging as effectively as an abreviated chain would permit him a shower of coal hurled by a conductor and a brakeman who stood upon a flat car laden with the dusky diamonds and recklessly squandered the cargo in an effort to hit the monkey. As fast as the lumps of coal dropped in the yard they were picked up by the Maginnis progeny and added to a gigantic heap of similar lumps in a corner. All this was seen by Brigoletti before he glanced at the cavorting chimpanzee—and then the sight almost paralysed him. A more dilapidated animal he could not imagine. From head to tail its attenuated body was a mass of bruises, one of its arms dangled helplessly by its side and its tail was broken in the middle. With a scream of sympathetic rage Giacomini gathered the unfortunate monkey in his arms, unhitched its chain and fled to the refuge of his tin domicile.

"Bheys, I'm afred yer fun w'i that moonkey is over forever," remarked Mr. Maginnis to the trainmen whose target Giacomini had so rudely removed. "The Eyetallian divil will nivir allow the baste to enter this yarrud agin, an' I don't believe it will live long anyhow. Bheys, I'm sorry for yez an' th' other bhoys who foun' amusement in peltin' coal at the moonkey."

"Reserve a little of your sympathy for self-bestowal," retorted the conductor as he signaled the engineer to go ahead, "for while the dago has stopped our fun he has also shut off your free coal supply."

"Thrue for ye," Mr. Maginnis acquiesced; "but Oim sich a ginerous-hearted mawn that Oi nivir think uv me own thrubble first."

The generous-hearted man sighed as he saw the train resume its journey and watched it until it rounded a curve and disappeared. Then he glanced regretfully at the coal heap in the corner and the chainless staple in the door post, and soliloquised:

"Oi shud hev known betther than to luk to a dago fur gratitood. Iv all th' moonkeys in Africay wur dyin' wid hunger at me door, th' divil a wan uv thim wud I take in or give bite or sup to. Oi have raysaved a lisson this day."

SPLENDID BUILDING SITES

I have placed on the market

That Desirable and Well Situated Property

in the western part of the Town, and offer it in lots as per plan annexed. This affords a splendid opportunity to secure a location for your home in a rapidly improving and in every respect the best part of the town. The properties are situated on Cedar and Halton streets and within a stone's throw of the West Ward School and a short distance of the principal Churches and the Hamilton Cotton Works.

"ERIN COTTAGE," late the residence of Mr. Elias Thompson, is situated in the centre of the block. This property is for sale or can be had as a bargain. It is a desirable suburban residence.

The lots have good frontages on streets of the standard width and are splendidly located. From the upper lots is afforded one of the best views of the town with ample facilities for drainage.

Several fine dwellings are already contracted for to be built on these lots during this season.

Tradesmen and merchants should inspect this property as it offers the best sites available and are convenient to the business part of the town.

For terms and particulars apply to Charming Lawn Social in Prospect.

Arrangements are being made for making the lawn social to be held on Mr. A. L. Davis lawn, on Thursday evening, Aug. 29th, distinguished for attractiveness. The grounds will be lighted with electric light and otherwise handsomely decorated, and the Fire Brigade Band will be present. 2d45

Funeral Obsequies.

The funeral of the late Wm. Bradburn Saturday afternoon was largely attended. The remains were interred in Little Lake Cemetery. Sincere regret was manifested at Mr. Bradburn's death by his many friends who will extend the bereaved family their cordial sympathy.

Campers Supplies.

A large assortment of canned meats, fish, vegetables and fruit. Lowry's smoked and spiced meats. The finest brands of ginger ales, sodas, lager's, ale's, wines, clarets, champagnes, in fact everything you need to be supplied with in camp. The largest stock in Peterborough and best assortment at the Palace Grocery. Elliott & Tierney, George street, Peterborough.

Thursday Night.

The lawn social next Thursday evening at the residence of Mr. A. L. Davis will be one of the most attractive affairs of the kind this season. The grounds will be beautifully decorated and lighted by electricity, and the band will be present also. If by any chance the weather should be unfavorable the social will be postponed till the next night. 1d

The Light Bread Brigade.

This afternoon Chief Roasel and P. C. McGinty were around testing the weight of bread made by town bakers. Some were weighed in the balance and found wanting, and on their first tour some 22 large loaves and 44 small ones were seized. One baker had all his bread taken from his cart as he was delivering it. The derelict bakers will be summoned before the police magistrate.

The Plant not Sold.

A contemporary states that the plant of the Peterborough Stove Works has been sold to R. C. Percival & Son, of Merrickville, and is being shipped away from town. It might be inferred from the paragraph that the works were to be shut down. The fact is that only the old stove patterns for which the firm has no use have been sold. The Company will continue the manufacture of boilers and furnaces as usual.

Great Wallpaper Sale.

The great remnant sale of wall papers at the Peterborough Book Store has been a decided success. This house is determined to do the wall paper trade of Peterborough, if placing the handsomest patterns and greatest variety at the lowest prices will effect this purpose. When you want the best of satisfaction in every respect in wall paper, go to the Peterborough Book Store.

To-night's Benefit

The benefit entertainment postponed from Friday evening will take place to-night at St. Leonard's Ashburnham. It is hoped there will be a large attendance, as the concert is deserving of every encouragement. Small bills have been distributed about the streets, giving the programme of attractions, and there is no doubt the entertainment will be one of the best ever held in town.

We Go One Better.

Other grocers are greatly excited about the prices of some of their goods. But Geo. Carton keeps quite cool, and goes one better every time. See the crashing value he is offering:—8½ lbs. Rice, for 25c. 8 bars of Electric Soap, for 25c. 8 lbs. of Tea, for $1. Push right through to Geo. Carton's red tea store, where you can carry away more goods for a $2 bill than you can get for $3 in other stores. Corner George and Charlotte streets. dw

Fine Library Books.

The Peterborough Book Store, in addition to the large number of books recently added to the library of the Charlotte street Methodist church, has just added about 75 of the newest and choicest publications. This makes the library of the Sunday school the finest in the town, about 500 volumes being catalogued. Those needing the best books for Sunday School libraries, either in whole or for sorting up, will find what they want of the very latest issue at the Peterborough Bookstore, at reasonable prices.

Northern Division Affairs

At the annual meeting of the Northern Division of the A.C.A. the principal question was the situation of next year's meet. It has come to be conceded that at least the principal officers should be chosen from some club in the vicinity where the meet is likely to be held. Two local ties were under discussion – Pigeon Lake, Victoria Co., and Lake of Two Mountains, near Montreal. The question came to a vote, with the result that a small majority voted in favor of an eastern meet, and the following officers were elected accordingly:—Vice-Commodore, W. J. White, Montreal; Rear-Commodore, J. W. Read, Belleville; Purser, R. J. Whitlaw, Montreal. Committeeman, D.B. Jacques, Toronto.

Champions of the Town.

An Interesting Game of Baseball on Saturday—The Athletics Defeated.

The Association baseball club can fairly lay claim to the town championship. They defeated the Athletics on Saturday in a closely contested game, which will probably be the last between the two nines this season. The victors have not yet been beaten on their own grounds. They have frequently defeated the Ashburnhams and old Athletics, and now they have defeated the combined team under the latter club's name.

The game was for "blood." Both sides put their best nines in the field and both were determined to win if possible. For the first half of the game it looked as if the Athletics were sure winners; but it is said the unexpected alway happens, and the uncertainty of baseball was again demonstrated, for the Athletics were defeated by a score of 19 to 15. Cameron and Graham were in the points for the winners the first five innings, while McCabe and O'Brien did the battery work for the Athletics. The Association batters were completely puzzled by McCabe's curves at first, and for three innings went out in one, two, three order, before a single run was scored. The Athletics meanwhile were hitting pretty well, and assisted by errors of their opponents piled up runs rapidly. At the end of the third innings the score was 6 to 0 in favor of the Athletics, and at the end of the sixth 10 to 4. In the eventful seventh one of those sudden revolutions characteristic of baseball occurred. The Association nine took a batting streak, and the Athletics became rattled. McCabe was pounded out out of the box, and in the midst of the fun Tighe relieved him. The innings closed for ten runs, leaving the Association with a clear lead of four runs, which they maintained to the finish. Meanwhile a change had been made in the Association team, Turnbull and Malcolmson being in the points after the fifth, and the Athletics did not score so fast from this out. Tighe was hit pretty hard in the eighth, and McCabe went in the box again for the last innings.

There was quite a crowd of spectators and considerable interest was manifested. The game lasted for about two hours and a half. Mr. W. Salisbury umpired satisfactorily the greater part of the game, but the decisions of his substitute after he had to leave were loudly protested against by the Athletics, who claimed he showed favoritism.

The following is the score:

Association.	R.	O.	Athletics.	R.	O.

Sporting Notes.

To-morrow afternoon the Colts and Veterans cricket match will be played off.

On Central Park to-morrow afternoon a junior lacrosse match takes place.

Messrs. W. A. Stratton, W. D. Parker and J. Stirling have gone to Quebec to play with Mr. Lindsey's cricket team against the provioce.

Commodore H. C. Rogers and Secretary G. W. Hatton, of the Northern Division, A.C.A., have returned from the camp at Stave Island. They report the meet a grand success.

Friday afternoon a baseball match will be played on the P.A.A.A. grounds between the Association nine and the Chemong Indian club. The redmen are said to be good ball players, and recently defeated the Bobonygeon nine.

News Nuggets.

—P.C. McGinty found a couple of straw hats on the street Saturday night. They are at the police station.

—Geo. Wilson, an itinerant umbrella mender, was so drunk on Saturday that he had to be taken care of by the police. He was sent to gaol for ten days.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Mr. W. H. Stevens gave an interesting and practical address at the Young Men's meeting Saturday evening. The attendance was good. Owing to the unavoidable absence of Mr. Arthur Tebb, Mr. Stephens very kindly consented to speak at the Gospel and Song service. He gave a stirring address on the "Great Physician" and was listened too with marked attention by the large audience present. The Holy Spirit was there with marked power and we are so thankful for such tokens of the Masters presence in our work. We do pray our young men will take advantage of these Gospel privileges and attend these very helpful meetings.

Mrs. R. R. Mathews will please accept our thanks for flowers sent in for the parlor.

Plethoric Plums.

Mr. William McAllister, of South Monaghan, has left at the EXAMINER office, two samples of plums, the blue damson and the large plum, the latter, most prolific and luscious, thickly clustered on the stems like a cluster of gigantic grapes.

A Mournful Condition.

A pessimistic poet, dismally asserts that "man was made to mourn." This is especially true of those men and—women too—who buy their teas at any other place than Hawley Bros. tea store, George street Peterborough. For here they will find the finest stock of the best teas grown in the world, and at the most reasonable prices. The same remark applies to their pure and fragrant coffees, while their stock of fine glassware cannot be surpassed.

Port Hope Exhibition.

The magnificent driving park in Port Hope, with natural grand stand, capable of seating 50,000 spectators, is to be the scene of a grand Exhibition on Sept. 3rd, 4th and 5th. Over $5,000 in prizes. First day, baseball tournament, prizes $100; second and third day, horse racing for purses amounting to $1,000. Also a large display of exhibits from all parts of the Midland District. The monument of the late Col. Williams will be unveiled Sept. 4th, by Sir John Macdonald. Prize lists sent on application. Entries for the Fair to be made to R. DICKSON, Secretary.

In Memoriam.

At the George street Methodist church Sunday night a memorial service was held to the memory of several members of the congregation who have recently died. The sermon and hymns were all selected with special reference to the occasion. Rev. M. L. Pearson took for his text the dying words of Paul: "I am ready to be offered up, the hour of my departure is at hand," etc. The reverend speaker impressed the grandeur of such a position upon his hearers, and mentioned the fact that a number of those who had recently died were able to say with Paul, they were ready. Mr. Pearson said he did not intend to make individual reference, but could not refrain from calling attention to the triumphant death of Mr. Wm. Bradburn, who had died in the faith and was now happy in the Lord. At the close of the address Miss Lillie Jackson, of Lindsay, sang "Abide With Me" in charming voice. Rev. Mr. Pearson announced that next Sunday evening he would improve upon the death of the late John Bird.

Just think, washing day made shorter by using London Electric Soap.

Personal.

Miss Graham, of Rochester, is visiting at Mr. W. Paterson's.

Messrs. J. S. Henderson and J. A. Wilson, of Napanee, are in town for a few days on a holiday tour.

Mr. J. A. Doucet and wife left to-day on a holiday trip to Quebec. Miss Tottie Hartley follows this evening.

The Belleville Ontario says:—Miss Rose Clark, of Peterborough, daughter of the late Rev. A. Clarke, is visiting Mrs. Rev. G. G. Copeland.

Mr. F. Sherin, M.A., late Mathimatical Master of the Mount Forest High School, has received the appointment of headmaster of the Gravenhurst High School. Before leaving Mount Forest Mr. Sherin was made the recipient of a number of valuable presents from his public school and church friends. The papers speak in a highly complimentary manner of Mr. Sherin. His many friends in town will be glad to hear of his advancement. Mr. Sherin is an old Peterborough boy and received his education in the Collegiate Institute here.

(From a Correspondent.)

MONDAY Morning, Aug. 26.

This quiet little village has lost none of its affinity for visitors. Although last year it suffered from a few real and more exaggerated stories about sickness and unsanitariness, it has fully recovered from the depressing effects which resulted therefrom, and the unfortunate circumstance is now almost forgotten by the residents. To-day there is not a case of sickness in the village that I have heard of; the streets, the beach, and the fields are clean and fresh looking and free from pollution of any kind, while the cool, green grassy walks and hillside slopes form a pleasing scene for the eye and senses to rest upon, and along with the cool, invigorating air off the lake, lend a charming refreshment to the spirits of the tired visitor.

There were quite a large number of visitors here yesterday. Buggies, cabs and vehicles poured into the village from all sides during the day, and filled up Foberts hotel yard as closely as they could be stowed away. Mr. Fobert and his people had their hands full all day, but everything and everybody was orderly and well conducted. Among the visitors from Peterborough were Mr. and Mrs. Hackett, Mr. and Mrs. T. Dolan, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McIntyre, Mr. Harry LeBrun, Mr. Harry Calcutt, Mr. "Ab" Stratton, Mr. F. D. Makay, Mr. Geo. Wyatt, Mr J. Hart, Mr. F. H Prentice, Mr. Andrew McNeil, A. Mooney, W. Logan, and others, altogether with a party from Lindsay who arrived on their steam yacht consisting of Mr. Dunford and son, Mrs. Barron, and Mr. and Mrs. F. D. MacEachen. To-day more visitors are expected at the hotel and the week is expected to be a lively and pleasant one.

The new Methodist church is going up rapidly and occupies a prominent position on rising ground a short distance to the east of the village and in the rear of Fobert's hotel. It speaks well for the liberality spirit and morals of the villagers and surrounding district that they will soon be able to enjoy the privilges which so commodious a place of worship will afford them.

Kelly's saw mill, Sucee's blacksmith and wagon shop, Dean's grocery and other places of business show signs of progress and growth. The comfortable entertainment afforded at Fobert's hotel is attracting more business every year. During August visitors have been staying here from Toronto and other parts, and from lack of accommodation, Mr. Fobert has had to refuse many applications from families from a distance.

Chemong Park is still full of summer boarders. Every cottage is occupied or engaged for September and more applicants still enquiring than can be accommodated. It is expected that if the weather continues warm and fine as at present some of those who have gone home will return again, and others who were preparing to give up their cottages will remain on. Mr. Alex. Elliott, the leading spirit in this park business, is beginning to reap some of the profit and encouragements which his enterprise entitles him to. He is untiring in working up new schemes and original features for popularizing the Park. A regular "boom" has been going on this year, and the various attractions under way for next year, together with the early prospect for a branch line of the G.T.R. to be run into the grounds, will ensure the future success of this very convenient summer resort. Among the families at present staying in the park are those of Messrs. T. A. Hay, Ed. Pearce, H. Denne, F. J. Lewis, A. St. A. Smith, W. H. Budden, Mrs. Geo. Claxton, Mr. Merrick and Mr. Racham. The Chemong Park stage has been found to be a great convenience. Leaving the park twice a day—morning and afternoon—it return at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m., so that cottagers can get down town early in the morning in time for business, and back again every evening.

Ashburnham Brevities.

The public school opened this morning with all the teachers at their posts. Th attendance of youngsters, particularly of those who should be still in the nursery, was good.

The Rev. Mr. McCleary, Curat-in-charge of St. Luke's church, conducted the service there Sunday. He will move to the village with his family and take up his residence in the rectory.

Mr. Stewart Wright, who has been very ill for the past two weeks, is able to be about again.

The stone work of the town hall is nearly completed, and men are at work putting in the foundation timber.

FIRES OF A DAY.

Swift & Co's. Kansas City Establishment Badly Scorched

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 25.—Swift & Co's smoke and rendering house at Kansas City, Kan., were burnt this morning, the immense packing house narrowly escaping the same fate. Master Mechanic Tate fell from the roof of the smoke-house while attempting to descend by a rope and was instantly killed. The total loss on buildings, machinery and stock is placed at $150,000, with $120,000 insurance.

An Unlucky Mill.

GRAVENHURST, Aug. 25.—Mickle, Dyment & Sons' No. 1 mill was completely destroyed by fire last night. The loss will be between $12,000 and $15,000, insurance not known. This is the second time this mill has been burnt.

CRANK D. GRAHAM.

Takes Another Trip Through the Niagara Rapids Below the Cataract.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Aug. 25.—Another trip through the rapids and whirlpool in a barrel was made this afternoon by C. D. Graham. Graham in his bar el-shaped boat was towed out into the middle of the stream opposite the old Maid of the Mist landing and from there allowed to drift down through the rapids.

The trip through the rapids was apparently uneventful. At the whirlpool, however, instead of going round and round in a circle the barrel shot directly out of the rapids and across this basin.

No news of Graham's fate in the lower rapids has yet been received.

The craft used by Gra am to-day was smaller than any with which the feat had ever previously been attempted. It is 4½ feet long, 22 inches in diameter at the top, 29 inches at the centre, and 15 inches at the bottom. It is bound with 15 two-inch iron hoops, and entrance is gained through a 14 by 10-inch manhole in the top head. The cover to the manhole is fastened with a swing bar of iron on the inside, and can only be arranged by the occupant. On the outside of the bottom head 35 pounds of iron is securely fastened as ballast, and about 50 pounds of sand placed inside.

FLOODS AND EARTHQUAKES.

Late Advices From the Orient—Too Many Victims to be Counted.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25.—The steamer Oceanic, which arrived to-day from Hong-Kong and Yokohama, brings advices to Aug. 10 of further details of the bursting of the Yellow River embankments in the Province of Shantun July 22. The destruction is widespread. The breach in the river is over 3000 feet in length, and a swift current swept through, flooding to a depth of 12 feet a large extent of country lying adjacent. Many houses were washed away and a despatch from Chefoo states that the number of persons drowned is too great to be counted. Ten districts are already submerged and it is feared many more in the low lying country south will suffer a similar fate.

The latest advices concerning the earthquake at Kumamoto, July 28, places the number of killed at 18 and the wounded at 19. Fifty-two dwellings were demolished. A telegram received on July 30 states that 53 shocks had been experienced and that they continued to be felt. The inhabitants were sleeping in the open air. The same earthquake was felt in the province of Chikugo. Considerable loss of life is reported, but no particulars have been received.

"The women tell me every day
That all my bloom has passed away."

But they could no longer chide you with loss of bloom and beauty if you made use of the great restorative, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. All female weaknesses and derangements vanish before this excellent remedy. Thin, pale and emaciated women, who find existence burdensome, on account of their ailments, should at once have recourse to this unrivaled specific. Druggists.

More Light and Water.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee met last night and decided to recommend the town council to add a number of electric lights and hydrants in the south.

WHILE BABY TAKES HIS NAPS.

The house is hushed to silence,
No cheerful sounds are heard;
A towel is tied around the cage
To still the merry bird.

With cautious step and bated breath
We tread the stairs and hall,
And if our shoes are scarly new
We doff them, one and all.

And mamma, at the nursery door,
With lifted finger stands,
"Hush, children, hush-sh! don't make a noise;
You needn't wash your hands.

"He mustn't hear the water run,
I'd rather you would go.
And play some quiet game, my dears,
Upon the floor below.

"And, Maggie, you watch near the door,
In case some one should call;
Don't let the bell be rung; and, Fred,
Don't laugh, and don't play ball."

What means this awful stillness?
Has some sad news been brought?
What dreadful sufferer can it be
That needs this constant thought?

What shocking accident has chanced?
Is some one killed, perhaps?
Oh, no! It's like this every day.
While baby takes his naps.

—M. Helen Lovett in Home-Maker

She Puts on the Full Address Now.

A young woman in Washington has been weeping big, bitter tears of brine. She wrote to Jack some weeks ago, and Jack never answered her. She waited, but in vain, and finally when she passed Jack on the street she cut him dead. Then she went home and played weird, melancholy minor waltzes on the piano and read novels with lots of love and suicide in them.

And Jack—poor Jack! He went from claret soda water to real beer. Instead of smoking two cigarettes a day he consumed a whole package before dinner. He went for hours without brushing his clothes, and didn't care whether his necktie was up over the top of his collar or not.

Recently the postman rang the door bell at the young woman's house and left a letter. There was a note on the back of it which read:

"Miss —— ——: The next time you write to 'Dear Jack' put his full name and address on the envelope."

She grasped the fearful truth at once. The secrets she had intrusted to those pages had been exposed to the gaze of a lot of heartless, jeering, dead letter clerks; and all because in a fit of loving absent mindedness she had forgotten to put anything but "Jack" on the envelope.

Jack now wears his cravat with all the grace of former days.—Washington Capital.

A Pair of Orioles.

Not all the time of the beautiful orioles was passed in contentions; once having placed themselves on what they considered their proper footing in the family, they had leisure for other things. No more entertaining birds ever lived in the room; full of intelligent curiosity as they were, and industriously studying out the idiosyncrasies of human surroundings in ways peculiarly their own, they pried into and under everything—opened the match safe and threw out the contents, tore the paper off the wall in great patches, pecked at the backs of books and probed every hole and crack with their sharp beaks. They ate very daintily, and, as mentioned above, were exceedingly fond of dried currants. For this little treat the male soon learned to tease, alighting on the desk, looking wistfully at the little china box whence he knew they came, wiping his bill, and, in language plain enough to a bird student, asking for some. He even went so far, when I did not at once take the hint, as to address me in low, coaxing talk of very sweet and varied tones. Still I was deaf, and he came within two feet of me, uttering the half singing talk, and later burst into song as his supreme effort at pleasing or propitiating the dispenser of dainties. I need not say that he had his fill after that.—Atlantic Monthly.

A Little Angel Among the Sinners.

A minister's little daughter was attending her first church service, at which her father presided. She had never seen him in the pulpit before, and, on his entrance there, her presence of mind forsook her and she piped up in a voice expressive of joyful recognition: "Why! t-h-e-r-e's my papa up in that box!" Avenging propriety swept down upon the little maiden, and for a season there was a great calm. But the services were grievously long to such a wee worshiper, and she became very restless, walking up and down the pew and sighing audibly. Mamma whispered comfortingly, "Papa's almost through, dear," whereupon ensued another brief period of quiet; but it was not to last. Tired baby nature had reached its utmost limit of endurance, and, by and by, over the quiet listeners arose a little voice—clear and plaintive and coaxing—"isn't you most froo, papa?"—Toledo Blade.

Book Agent—Buy a Bible today, sir?
Farmer Hardhead—No.
Book Agent—But you ought to.
Farmer Hardhead—There's a Bible too many here now.
Book Agent—How does that happen?
Farmer Hardhead—Why, last week the old woman stood me up and down that "every tub must stand on its own bottom" warn't Scripture, and since I sarched from Genesis to Revelations 'thout findin' it, thar ain't no livin' with her, she's got such conceit on herself.
Book Agent—I see. What you need, sir, is the book I now offer—the revised version with all modern improvements. Buy it, and your wife will have to acknowledge your superior wisdom.—Drake's Magazine.

He Did as He Was Asked.

A railway train in Missouri stopped at an eating station, and a hungry traveler, starting out, thus addressed a man who sat near him:

"I wish you would keep an eye on my valise while I am gone."

"All right."

Shortly afterward the traveler saw a man hastening away with the valise. He ran after the fellow, shouting, "stop thief," and soon afterward a police officer whose attention had been attracted arrested the culprit. By this time the train had gone, and the traveler, determined that the awful hand of justice should fall upon the thief, had him arraigned before a justice of the peace.

"Well," said the magistrate, addressing the prisoner, "what defense have you to make?"

"I don't need to make any defense, your honor," he answered. "As this man was getting off the train he told me to keep an eye on his valise. I told him I would; and just after he had gone I remembered that I had to go up town to attend to a little piece of business. What was I to do? I had given my word as a gentleman that I would keep my eye on the valise. My business uptown was important, but could I, even for the sake of attending to important business, afford to tell a falsehood? I could not; I would keep my eye on the baggage; I would take it with me. I started, and the man, seeing me and not understanding the purity of my motives, had me arrested."

"Did you at any time take your eye off the valise?" the justice asked.

"No, your honor."

"Then, sir, I think you have acted in a most honorable manner. You are discharged."

The traveler had turned away, when, finding a man walking beside him, thus remarked: "He is a peculiar justice of the peace, I must say. He is easily impressed with the story of a stranger."

"Stranger?" the man repeated. "That fellow's no stranger. He is a constable and is attached to that old rascal's court."—Arkansaw Traveler.

Prostration from Heat.

The effects of undue exposure to heat vary widely, and are by no means always proportionate to the temperature to which the person has been exposed. The so called sun stroke, or heat stroke, may occur either in the direct rays of the sun or in hot rooms, such as laundry rooms or the holds of steamships. Attacks may occur in the night as well as during the day, and, in general, are to be feared at times when the atmosphere is loaded with moisture, so that free perspiration is checked. Experience shows that the drinking of ice water, when the body is overheated, is a prolific cause of these attacks. All degrees of severity are met with; from the lightest attack of headache and dizziness to the sudden stroke which ends in death within a few minutes. Some authorities would make three distinct degrees of heat prostration, although the line is seldom distinctly drawn in any given case.

The first variety includes those cases which show nothing more than a sudden faintness, muscular weakness and dizziness, with, perhaps, nausea and vomiting. The surface of the body is cool, the pulse rapid and feeble. In such cases rest in a recumbent position in a cool place for a few hours will generally give relief.

In the second class of cases, the respiration and heart's action are affected, and the patient may die suddenly of syncope. Active measures must be entered upon at once. The patient should be removed to a cool spot, the clothing removed or loosened, and cold water applied to the head. Complete recovery from the effects may not take place for years.

The third form is the most severe, and in the majority of cases proves fatal. The sufferer becomes unconscious, the skin is dry, the pulse slow and full, the face flushed, and the breathing labored. Generally there is entire unconsciousness, and sometimes convulsions. The temperature runs excessively high, and the first attempt should be to bring it to the normal point. For this purpose cold baths and the application of ice are indicated. As soon as the temperature is lessened stimulation must be commenced to counteract the great depression which always follows. It is important to remember that there is little danger from heat so long as the perspiration is free. By bearing this in mind many who are exposed might no doubt avert the threatened attack by leaving work and seeking shelter as soon as the diminution in perspiration is noticed.—New Orleans Picayune.

"Had any photos taken yet?"

"No."

"Why don't you? Everybody is taking advantage of the present low prices."

"Oh, well, you don't get good pictures for a dollar a dozen."

"Yes you do. Just look at this one! What better would you want than that?"

"That is good. Who took it?"

"Mr. Sproule. I got a dozen just as good as that for a dollar.

"Why, that's as well taken as the cabinets they used to charge us $3.00 a dozen for."

"Every bit. Oh, Mr. Sproule has woke up the town. You see, his new instruments are so perfect that one sitting is all that he requires from you now, so that he makes them ever so much quicker.

DEATH BARRED THE WAY.

SIX CARS HURLED DOWN AN EMBANKMENT ON THE SANTA FE.

The Train Heavily Loaded With Grand Army Veterans—Fifty Persons Injured —Only Three Deaths Reported so Far.

STREATOR, Ill., Aug. 26.—The vestibule train on the Santa Fe, running between Kansas City and Chicago, met with a serious accident at Kimswan, a small station 13 miles north of here, at an early hour this morning. The train was heavily loaded with Grand Army veterans and their friends bound for the Milwaukee Encampment, and consisted of several extra coaches. By the spreading of the rails three coaches, two Pullman sleepers and the dining car, were thrown from the track and down a steep enbankment a distance of probably forty feet. Word was immediately telegraphed to this city for medical assistance and a special train was sent at once with a dozen surgeons on board. The wrecker was also sent out to clear the track. Those most seriously injured were brought to this city and to the Hospital where their wounds were properly attended to. In all there were probably 50 persons hurt, though none were killed outright.

The following are in a dangerous condition: Mrs. S. S. Dickeman of Lawrence, Kansas, chest and head badly cut; little son, hurt about back and face; William R. Fish of Topeka, seriously injured; Mrs. Fish of Topeka, head, back and arms injured; S. F. Gould of Mulvane, back and face terribly cut; Mrs. R. R. Tuckeman of Topeka, face badly cut and internally injured; Mrs. Edward Ansley, leaving near Carrolton, Mo., arm, head and back badly bruised and lacerated; Mrs. George B. Peters of Emporia, head and face mashed and cut; George Peters of Emporia, hurt about the chest and face, also internally injured; Mrs. S. S. Johnson of Norwalk, Conn., badly hurt internally and head and face cut. Ben Levy of Streator had his face cut and arm dislocated, but his injuries are not dangerous.

The others are at the hospital and the majority it is feared will die.

Three of the injured are reported to have since died, one being Mrs. George Peters of Emporia. Exact information is hard to obtain. At the time of the accident the train was running probably sixty miles an hour. The roadbed where the derailment occurred is in a very bad condition.

A Construction Train Wrecked.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 26.—A construction train on the Northwestern extension of the Burlington and Missouri Railway was wrecked Saturday night near the Pine Ridge Tunnel, 350 miles from Lincoln. The train was backing and two cars were thrown from the track. Eleven men were hurt. It is thought George Moore, the engineer, and James Murnan, a laborer, will die.

TORONTO TOPICS.

The Foresters' Demonstration — Ontario Riflemen Shooting for Prizes.

TORONTO, Aug. 27.—The parade of the Ancient Order of Foresters yesterday, participated in by hundreds of merry men from the chief towns of Ontario and delegates from other provinces and the States, witnessed along the whole route from the City Hall to the Exposition Park by crowds of applauding spectators, was as complete and picturesque a processional display as has ever been witnessed in Toronto. The afternoon was devoted to games and sports of various kinds. In the drill competition Hamilton received first and London second prize. A concert was given in the evening and the business of the High Court begins this morning.

At the Police Court yesterday morning John Butchart was committed for trial without bail on the charge of shooting a lad named Robert Newsome with intent to kill.

The Manitoba exhibit will be here next week and will go to the following fall fairs: Toronto, London, Ottawa, Goderich, St. Thomas, Welland, St. Catharines, Cayuga, Smithville, Acton, Essex Centre, Otterville, Ridgetown, Renfrew, Belleville, Campbellford, Port Perry, Durham, Stayner, Orangeville, Elmvale, Beeton and some other places in Eastern Ontario yet to be decided upon.

There were numerous arrivals last night of the members of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. The arrangements are all complete and the meeting is expected to be a great success. The council meets at noon to-day and the general business of the convention commences to-morrow.

A boy named Briggs, son of John F. Briggs, commercial traveler, 14 Hazelton-avenue, was drowned in the Don yesterday afternoon near Taylor Brothers' mills. The body was recovered last night.

The Ontario Rifle Association matches were begun at the Garrison Commons yesterday. In the shooting for the Canada Company prizes Pte. W. Kenny (45th), Bugle-Maj. Filkin (13th) and Pte. W. Gallen (77th) led with 43 points each. The winners in the battalion team match were the 13th (226), Queen's Own (226), 77th (215), 45th (222). Gunner J. Goldie (G. G. F. G.), J. S. McClelland (L. R. A.) and Pte. Courtice (33rd) carried of the first money in the Macdonald competition with 30, 29 and 29 respectively. In the Gilmour competition Lieut. A. D. Cartwright (47th), Lieut. Kennedy (Q.O.R.) and Pte. Cackow (77th) headed the list with 35, 33 and 33 points respectively.

There were seven fires in the city yesterday most of them of an unimportant character. The Grant Lithographing Company's premises were scorched to the extent of about $2000.

Lieut.-Col. Allen, owing to ill-health, has resigned his command of the Q.O.R. Major R. B. Hamilton will succeed him in the colonelcy, and will be succeeded in his rank by Major Delemere.

The Royal True Blues turned out in great strength last night to welcome their Deputy Grand Master, J. L. Diamond, back to Toronto from his trial in Belleville. He was tendered a rousing reception in Richmond Hall.

HAS SALISBURY DECLINED

TO PERMIT THE WARSHIPS TO PROTECT OUR SEALERS.

Trade Paralyzed by the Dockmen's Strikes and Prices of Necessities Advancing—O'Brien and Gilhooly Convicted.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Considerable doubt attaches to the rumor that Lord Salisbury has advised the Canadian Government that the Imperial Government must decline to allow the Pacific squadron to protect Canadian sealers in Behring Sea, though the Imperial Government has intimated to the United States its willingness to enter into negotiations to finally settle the dispute. If true, however, there is little doubt that the Imperial Government will find a widespread sentiment here against such a course, especially among their best friends.

The language of The Times editorial of Saturday, which has been imperfectly reported in The Associated Press despatches, is as follows:

"The United States Government seems to think that sham captures will appease the Alaska company, please the Irish electors and frighten the simple fishermen at Victoria, yet not provoke British reprisals. This is all very well, but the United States have no right even to play the game of bounce with weapons of illegal capture and search. The British Government, it appears, decline to let the Pacific squadron protect Canadian sealers, but it ought not to be difficult to watch a United States cruiser and interfere whenever an illegal seizure is attempted. Everyone desires the seal to be preserved from extermination, but, if the United States persists in refusing to discuss any plan of settlement whatever, the only course is to take vigorous steps to ensure that what we regard as our rights are respected."

The Strike Spreading.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The strike is gaining new adherents hourly. Eight thousand sailors and firemen and 2500 dockmen at Isle of Dogs, where several large docks are located, have gone out. The authorities have become apprehensive of trouble and are holding the military in readiness to suppress any outbreak.

The coal porters at King's Cross have also joined the strikers. A conference today between the dock managers and delegates from the striking laborers was held without result.

In consequence of the strike thousands of tons of matters are rotting, it being impossible to find men to handle the stock.

The committee of the strikers declines to allow even perishable articles to be unloaded. Coal is at double the usual prices. All produce is advancing. The biscuit factories are stopping for want of flour.

O'Brien and Gilhooly Convicted.

DUBLIN, Aug. 26.—The trial at Clonakilty of William O'Brien and James Gilhooly, M.P.s for County Cork, charged with holding a Nationalist meeting proclaimed by the Government, resulted to-day, in the conviction of the defendants. O'Brien was sentenced to two months' and Gilhooly to six weeks' imprisonment without hard labor. Upon the expiration of their sentences, if they refuse to give bonds to keep the peace for six months they will be sentenced to two months additional. After sentence, had been pronounced they were taken under military escort to the Cork jail. Upon leaving the courtroom they were cheered enthusiastically by the crowd outside and at the jail they were given a similar greeting.

Mr. O'Brien declined to appeal. Mr Gilhooly appealed and was subsequently released on bail.

Seven Per Cent. Dividend.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The Bank of British North America has declared an interim dividend of 35 shillings per share, equal to 7 per cent. per annum.

Turkish Cruelties in Armenia.

London's Gladstone in sending a Welsh [illegible] Daily News concerning Turkish cruelties in Armenia commends that paper for protesting the Bulgarian [illegible] and adds: "It should be borne in mind that we are entitled by treaty to demand that the Sultan suppress outrages and punish these miscreants. I trust the Government will probe the matter to the bottom and freely avail themselves, when the facts are established, of the powerful aid of public opinion in the cause of humanity and justice.

The Queen's Tour.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Queen Victoria visited the Ruabon coalpits to-day. She also went to Llangollen, where she was presented with several addresses and received with much enthusiasm.

A Socialist Society Unearthed.

VIENNA, Aug. 26.—The police have unearthed a socialist society whose organization extends throughout the Province of Galyear. Many lawyers, students and ladies connected with the society have been arrested.

The German Navy Frauds.

BERLIN, Aug. 26.—Arrests continue to be made in connection with the recently exposed frauds in the navy.

Erased From the Roll.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—The Council of the Legion of Honor has erased the names of Gen. Boulanger and Count Dillon from the roll of the order.

Anxious For Annexation.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—Despatches have been received to the effect that the people of the New Hebrides Islands and 42 English residents have petitioned the Governor of New Caledonia to annex the islands.

A Swede's Swim.

PARIS, Aug. 27.—A Swedish athlete and swimmer named Okig to-day swam from here to Charenton, a distance of 10 miles. He remained in the water nine hours. He undressed himself while swimming and also smoked several cigars while in the water.

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 26.—As the barge Valencia was entering lock 5, about 11 o'clock this morning, a sailor named Thomas Thompson attempted to jump from the boat to the lock. He missed his footing, falling on his chest on the lock and was crushed to death by the barge before he could be rescued. The deceased was only 20 years of age, and Capt L. A. Rush of the barge was his brother-in-law. The coroner was notified, but did not deem an inquest necessary.

Suicide in Cardwell.

CAMILLA, Aug. 26.—James Anderson, 35 years old, only son of Joseph Anderson, committed suicide by hanging himself in his own stable in the township of Mono Saturday morning. When found by his sister a few minutes afterwards his knees were resting on the floor. Deceased was highly respected. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon and was largely attended.

Silent Testimony for a Coroner's Jury.

SHERBROOKE, Que., Aug. 26.—Donald McLennan of Spring Hill was run over on the Canadian Pacific railway on Thursday, one leg being cut off and the other broken. He died from the effect on Friday morning. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death, and attached no blame to the company whatever. A whisky bottle was found in his coat pocket broken and another at his side.

Found in the Lake.

NIAGARA, Ont., Aug. 26.—The body of an elderly man was picked up in the lake near here this afternoon. The legs and lower part of the body were completely gone. The body had evidently been in the water for several days. The remains will be buried here. No inquest.

A New Gas Scheme.

WINDSOR, Aug. 26.—The company of Windsor capitalists organized a short time ago for the purpose of manufacturing gas on a new principle have sold the right to manufacture their gas for use in the city of Toronto for $50,000. The gas is made chiefly from air and oil.

Crank Graham's All Right.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Aug. 26.—Crank S. Graham, who yesterday afternoon successfully navigated the whirlpool and rapids in a barrel and whose fate in the lower rapids caused much speculation, has returned from Lewiston, where he was taken from his barrel more dead than alive.

ON TRIAL FOR MURDER.

The Six Cronin Suspects in Court—Bilatory Motions Presented.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Probably no case in the annals of criminal history in Cook County has attracted more wide-spread attention than the Cronin murder and the deep mystery in which it has been enshrouded. That this interest has in no wise abated since the disappearance of the unfortunate physician on May 4 was demonstrated by the multitude that clamored for admittance at the portals of Judge McConnell's court room at 10 o'clock this morning. At that time the door was thrown open. Burke, Woodruff, Coughlin, Beggs, O'Sullivan and Kunze entered and took their seats facing the court.

"What is the business before the court this morning?" asked Judge McConnell, as innocently as though he did not expect the Cronin case to be called until some time next year.

"If the court please," said State's Attorney Longenecker, advancing to the front, "I have received notice from three of the defendants in the Cronin case asking a separate trial, and saying they would apply for a separate trial on the opening of the court this morning. Their application, I presume, is on file?"

"If your Honor please," said Attorney Donahoe, "I desire before argument for a separate trial to present a motion on behalf of my client, John Kunze."

Mr. Donahoe then formally read a motion asking the court for an order on the State's Attorney to compel the latter to furnish Kunze with a copy of the minutes or memoranda of the testimony taken before the grand jury which found the indictment against Kunze, or of any testimony which in any way tended to prove the guilt of the said Kunze, or to allow counsel for Kunze to examine the testimony of such witnesses before the grand jury whose evidence in any way tended to prove the complicity of Kunze in the Cronin murder. The motion also asked that the State's Attorney furnish the names of witnesses whose testimony tended to the indictment of Kunze. Mr. Donahoe then read a long affidavit of his client, in which Kunze recited that he never knew Dr. Cronin during the latter's lifetime, never heard of his existence until after his disappearance on May 4, and that he was entirely innocent of complicity in, or knowledge of, the murder of Dr. Cronin.

A Fatal Cave-in.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Aug. 26.—Three hundred feet of the Lake Shore Gas Coal Company's tipple at Cierra Station fell this morning. There were 14 loaded coal cars on the tipple. Superintendent Wesner and his brother were probably fatally injured.

And the Earth Quaked.

DURHAM, N.C., Aug. 26.—Two distinct shocks of earthquake were felt at Washington, N.C., on Saturday. The vibrations were generally perceptible and accompanied by ominous rumblings.

ATHENS, Aug. 26.—A severe earthquake shock was felt throughout Greece to-day. Serious damage was done in several towns.

Going to a Warmer Climate.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Albert McMillan, the trusted bookkeeper of the Cady & Nelson Company (limited), tailors, has disappeared, taking $2200 of the firm's money. McMillan is suffering from consumption and has about six months to live. It is thought he took the money to enable him to go to a warmer climate.

Gave Up on the Sixth Onion.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Steve Brodie's saloon on the Bowery was the scene of a novel contest between James Coffee of Connecticut and Louis Ledger of this city, who were matched to eat raw onions. The onions were spiced with vinegar and salt, and both men started in bravely. Ledger nearly choked on his fourth onion, but recovered himself, and was eating his seventh, when Coffee, who was then on his sixth, gave up the battle. Ledger was taken quite sick afterward. The onions were of Connecticut growth, not less than two inches in diameter, and brought copious tears to the eyes of the two contestants.

Uncle Sam's Recruits Strung Up by the Wrists—Shocking Cruelty.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 26.—The Post-Despatch prints another chapter of its army expose, secured through the medium of a reporter who enlisted to obtain the inner workings of army life. It shows a terrible state of affairs at Jefferson Barracks, alleging that recruits are treated like dogs, that men are strung up by the wrists until they swoon from weakness, and that brutal sergeants deem no cruelty too severe. It relates how an insane man was heartlessly tortured, while common soldiers are imprisoned at the whim of their superiors. It also charges that the guard house, where prisoners are packed into an enclosure 20 by 40, the sanitary condition is terrible. The prisoners are kept from sleep by vermin, and their surroundings are revolting in the extreme.

SHE WANTS $5000.

The Heroine of the St. George Smash-Up After Damages.

HAMILTON, Aug. 26.—Agnes Nicholson, the heroine of the railway disaster at St. George, has brought suit against the Grand Trunk Railway Company for $5000 damages for injuries resulting from the accident. Miss Nicholson was not injured physically, but her nervous system suffered terribly and she was kept at home under the doctor's care for a month. The Grand Trunk people deny their responsibility, but think Miss Nicholson's brave conduct at the time of the accident worthy of some substantial reward and the case will probably be amicably settled within a week.

The east and west walls of Doak's blacksmith shop, on which improvements had just been begun, collapsed this morning. There were four persons in the building at the time but none were hurt.

A letter dated Aug. 24, from the New York Central agent at Tonawanda, was received by the railway authorities here yesterday stating that Godfried Munzer, supposed to be from Hamilton, had been killed at Tonawanda Friday night. Munzer is thought to have come here from Berlin, Ont., recently.

A Belleville Heathen.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 26.—At the Police Court to-day Herbert Babcock, Benjamin Cole and Mrs. Mary Cole pleaded guilty to the larceny of a gold watch and other articles from a camper's tent on Potter's Point. On the trial of William Bess, charged with receiving the stolen goods, Benjamin Cole was called as a witness, but not understanding the nature of an oath he was not sworn. He stated that he was 18 years of age, had never attended day school, church or Sunday school. He did not know what a Bible was.

The derricks are erected and men busily engaged in building the new bridge over the Moira for the Grand Trunk Railway double track.

Mosquitoes and bees are now being taken in large numbers in the bay.

ON THE BULLS' HORNS.

A GREAT UPHEAVAL IN THE CHICAGO WHEAT MARKET.

An Alleged Authoritative Forecast of the Vienna Grain Congress' Estimates Causes an Advance.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—There was a great upheaval in the wheat market to-day occasioned by the report of what was claimed to be an authoritative forecast of the estimates of the Vienna Grain Congress on the European wheat crop. The results were so astounding that they were accepted with extreme doubt when first ascertained.

Excepting Turkey, Greece, Spain and Portugal, for which no figures are received, Europe shows a fall total of 282,267,000 bushels against 1,114,998,000 bushels last year and 1,114,938,000 bushels average crop for five years. This makes an apparent European deficiency of 221,742,000 bushels as compared with last year and 222,622,000 bushels as compared with the average of five years.

At New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—When the alleged estimates of the Vienna Congress became known at the Produce Exchange here to-day there was considerable excitement. Grain went up 1 cent over Saturday's closing and 1 1-2 cents over the lowest figure of the day. The market gradually settled and peace reigned before the close of the day.

Austria's Diminished Grain Yield.

VIENNA, Aug. 26.—A report just published shows the Austrian grain yield has decreased as follows: Wheat 15,000,000 hectolitres, barley 12,009,000 hectolitres, rye 11,000,000 hectolitres, oats 11,000,000 hectolitres.

TRADE AND TRAFFIC.

Leading Features of the Grain and Produce Markets at Home and Abroad.

TORONTO, Aug 27.—There was a small supply and slack demand on St. Lawrence market yesterday. Receipts of hay and straw were small, the demand slow and the prices unchanged. New hay sold at $12 to $13.50 and straw at $9.50 to $10.

BREADSTUFFS.

Flour—City prices for ten barrel lots—family grades, $4.50 to $5; pastry, $4.75 to $5.50; bakers, $4.75 to $5.20; strong patents, $5.50 to $5.75.

Wheat—Local millers are well stocked, and there is little demand here. Three cars of No. 1 frosted sold on track at 87c. There is almost nothing doing in Manitoba grades. No. 1 is quoted nominally at $1. On Call 75c. was bid for No. 2 fall the year; 95c. was bid for new No. 2 fall on track, C.P.R.; 83c. was bid for No. 2 new fall, cash. Local millers will not pay more than 82 or 83c. for Ontario wheat.

Peas—Easy. Old, outside, 60c.; new, 55c. offered.

Bran—Quiet, $10.25 to $10.50.

Oats—Quiet, with prices about 31 to 32 cents on track.

BEERBOHM'S REPORT.

Beerbohm reports: Floating cargoes—Wheat, quiet and steady; corn nil. Cargoes on passage—Wheat quiet and steady; corn, slow. Mark Lane—Wheat and corn, quiet; flour, quiet and steady. French country markets, quiet, English farmers' deliveries of wheat the past week 33,600 qrs; average price, 30s 5d, was 30s 9d. Weather in England fair, with showers. Liverpool—Spot wheat dull, corn quiet. India shipments of wheat the past week—To United Kingdom, 70,000 qrs; to Continent 7500 qrs.

LIVERPOOL MARKETS.

Liverpool reports: Wheat, dull; demand poor; holders offer moderately. Corn, quiet; demand poor. Spring wheat, 7s 2d to 7s 3d; red winter, 6s 11d to 7s; No. 1 Cal., 7s 1d to 7s 1 1-2d. Corn, 4s 1d. Peas, 6s 3 1-2d. Pork, 60s. Lard, 21s 9d. Bacon, long clear, 31s 6d and 32s 6d; short clear, 31s 6d and 32s 9d. Tallow, 25s 9d. Cheese, white and colored, 44s.

THE CHEESE MARKETS.

Buffalo reports: 2008 boxes cheese offered, being 1600 March sold and 400 Rock Springs, all sold at 8½c. Trade fair and buyers bid freely after New York sales reported.

Utica reports: Yesterday was dull and spiritless. There was little competition and it was no great surprise when all the close of business a decline of 3-8c was shown. Transactions: 77 lots, 7046 boxes, 7 3-4c; 39 lots, 2875 boxes at 8c; 14 lots, 1021 boxes, 8 1-8c; 30 lots, 2419 boxes, 8 1-4c; 5 lots, 480 boxes, 8 3-8c; 4 lots, 425 boxes, private terms; 16 lots, 1264 boxes, commission. Transactions same date last year aggregate 13,930 boxes, ruling price 8 3-8c.

Little Falls reports: Cheese—Yesterday's transactions were just a repetition of those of last week as these figures will show: 50 lots at 7¾c; 49 lots at 8c, 22 lots at 8¼c, one lot on private terms, and 12 lots commissioned. Total 8243 boxes.

Farm dairies—The sale of farm dairies cheese amounted to 1058 boxes at 8 to 8 1-4c; bulk 8c.

Butter—Thirty-two packages of creamery butter sold at 18c, and 15 packages of dairy butter at 17 to 18c.

FIRES OF A DAY.

A Midhurst Farmer Loses His Barns and the Season's Crops.

BARRIE, Aug. 26.—James Russell of Midhurst lost his barn, outbuildings and yield of 35 acres of fall wheat, along with other crops by fire; loss about $3000, insurance $1300.

Burnt to Death.

DUBLIN, Aug. 26.—The residence of a seceder from the Plan of Campaign at Ballytown was set on fire to-day and the owner and a servant were burnt to death.

Two Cottages Burnt.

SEAFORTH, Aug. 26.—Two frame dwellings adjoining the Grand Trunk Railway track opposite the station, owned by Mrs. McTaggart of Exeter, were destroyed by fire to-day. Loss fully covered by insurance in the Gore District.

A Mysterious Conflagration.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The jury returned a verdict that the cause of the Seventh-avenue fire was not known to them, and they exonerated Restaurant-keeper Snyder from all blame.

Notes From the Capital.

OTTAWA, Aug. 26.—The public schools opened to-day, the attendance on the first day being the largest for some years past.

Hugh Ryan, one of the contractors for the Sault Ste. Marie Canal, arrived here this morning. He says that the work is progressing favorably. He is here on business with the Department of Railways and Canals.

A. M. Burgess, Deputy Minister of the Interior, leaves to-morrow at noon for Manitoba and the Northwest. He goes by way of Owen Sound. During his absence he will visit Prince Albert's district in connection with old land claims of settlers and other matters. The probability is that he will have to go to British Columbia before his return, in reference to land affairs there.

Johnstown Threatened with Pestilence.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 26.—The water in the river is getting very low here and a great deal of pestilence breeding matter is being exposed. The stench along the river bank is becoming unbearable. Especially along the point and near the stone bridge are the odors very nauseating. There are quite likely many dead bodies in the sand along the banks and also in the bottom of the river. The body of a child was taken out of the sand bar near the stone bridge to-day.

It Made Mother Strong

"My mother has been using PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND for BOTH00 prostration, accompanied by melancholia, etc., and it has done her a world of good. It is the only medicine that strengthens the nerves.' G. H. BERRI, Orthonville, Pa.

"I am in my 64th year. Have been afflicted in several ways—could not sleep, had no appetite, no courage, low spirits. I commenced using Paine's Celery Compound, and felt relief from the third day after using it. I now have a good appetite and can sleep well. My spirits and courage are almost like those of a young man." S. C. EWBANK, D. D., Gonzales, La.

Paine's Celery Compound

Strengthens and builds up the old, and cures their infirmities. Rheumatism, indigestion and nervousness yield quickly to the curative power of Paine's Celery Compound.

A Perfect Tonic and Invigorator, it GIVES NEW LIFE.

"I am now 69 years old and have tried several remedies, but none had any effect until I used Paine's Celery Compound. I feel entirely different for the short time I have used it. I can walk nearly straight, sleep sound and well, and feel as though there was new life and energy coming into my whole system." H. MYERS, Cleveland, Tenn.

Paine's Celery Compound is of unequaled value to women. It strengthens the nerves, regulates the kidneys, and has wonderful power in curing the painful diseases with which women so often silently suffer.

An Enlightened Policy.

The cry that Britain would not allow Canada to enter into a free trade arrangement with the United States, has no foundation to rest upon. The British people long since recognized the fact that the true and indeed the only safe policy is to permit the colonies to promote their own interests, and do the best for themselves, In old days, a different view was entertained, colonies being regarded as so many trading posts at which the merchants of the mother country were entitled to an exclusive monopoly. In return, a discrimination was made in the British market in favor of colonial products. But this system died a natural death over forty years ago, when Cobden carried free trade. It was seen then that the system was injurious alike to the colonies and to the mother country, by forcing them to buy goods in the least advantageous market. For, if the British wares sent to the colonies were as good and as cheap as those offered by foreign countries, there was clearly no need of favoring the British exporter; whilst if they were inferior to foreign goods either in quality or in the matter of price, the monopoly inflicted a direct injury upon the colonial purchaser. Conversely, if colonial products were fit to compete in England with foreign products, a discriminatory tariff in their behalf was unnecessary; if they were not, it was a fraud upon the British consumer. Britain had been taught before this by the the outcome of the revolutionary war in the United States that her true interest lay in allowing the colonies to seek their own advancement in their own way. That was the gospel of Edmund Burke, and its full recognition came when England abolished her colonial tariff policy, and even permitted certain colonies, which were foolish enough to resort to the superstitions which she herself had discarded, to levy protective taxes upon her exports.

Every British statesman knows that Canada would be benefited by unrestricted trade with the United States. Mr. John Morley likens it to his being taken into partnership by the Barings or the Rothschilds. Sir Thomas Farrer, formerly Permanent Secretary of the Board of Trade, says in a recent work that the thing is inevitable—that the growing intelligence of the two peoples will call a halt in the war of tariffs, and let trade flow in its natural channels throughout the continent, to their mutual advantage. What would Scotland be to-day had her tariff war with England lasted to the present time? And English statesman and economists are equally well aware that Britain herself would benefit by our prosperity. Even if we put our tariff against her goods up to the American level, we should be able by reason of our greater progress and wealth to buy more from her than we do now. The character of our imports from her would doubtless undergo a change, but the aggregate value of them would unquestionably be larger. Our people could then afford to purchase luxuries which they are unable to purchase at present; and in the end, who can doubt it? Free Trade would be established between the three countries to the immense benefit of each and to the good of mankind at large. The eyes of this generation may not behold that grand consummation, but the first step towards it, namely, the establishment of free trade between the two branches of the race on this continent, is being hastened by the irresistible logic of facts—Exchange.

It is Even Æsthetic,

Barnum and Bailey's "Greatest Show on Earth"—The Best Show ever Organized.

The Barnum and Bailey 15 combined shows are æsthetic. Style and tone are evidenced in every direction, from the lowest supernumerary in top-boots to Mr. J. A. Bailey in a button-hole bouquet. The property man with dusty shoes or untidy garments is subject to the same reprimand as is the highest salaried artist should he appear in the ring unbecomingly dressed. No carelessness is visible anywhere; on the contrary, everything is done and everybody is dressed just the same as if they were members of the Grand Opera, and in many cases even more expensively. In a word, the dressing of the show may be called perfect, and in bright and singular contrast to that of all others. In the matter of discipline one sees it in this show at its best, and although rigid and strictly enforced, it is done quietly and effectively and is never disobeyed. So much for the moral character of this tremendous exhibition. In the way of performances it stands equally as much alone. Every year the additions and improvements noticeable are of the most extensive, novel and meritorious kind, and this year are better and grander than ever before. There is a most wonderful Moorish Caravan, with Wild Moors, Bedouins, dancing girls, etc., etc., accompanied by their beats of animal skins, weapons, real Arabian horses, religious articles, and other interesting features illustrating life on the desert. A black tent for supernatural illusions, four rings for the quadruple circus companies, the Paris Olympia Hippodrome with its glorious races, two menageries, an elephant pavilion, a horse fair with really 380 first premium horses, museum teeming with many curiosities never seen before, two menageries, two elevated stages, two rings, the most extensive collection of trained animals ever seen, Japanese experts, athletes, etc., etc., 300 performers, and a thousand-and-one additions and wonderful features. The whole will be here, undivided, on Tuesday, Sept. 3rd, with the mammoth new parade in the morning at 9 a.m. The night performances are just the same as the matinees, and the tents all remain up until 9 at night.

THE BOOMERS GOT LEFT.

They Bought up the Wrong End of Winnipeg on Speculation.

WINNIPEG, Aug 26.—A number of Brandon boomers, who believing they had the inside track, bought up property at the west end on the presumption that the Northern Pacific and Manitoba road would come in there, are sore at learning that the entrance to the city will be made at the east end. Amongst the speculators are several members of the Legislature, who are trying to induce the Government to influence the railway company into changing its route to save them from loss.

C.P.R. Earnings.

MONTREAL, Aug. 26.—The earnings of the Canadian Pacific Railway, not including the Southeastern Railway, from Aug. 14 to 21 were:

A Warning.

All house-keepers should buy their pickling vinegar from W. J. MORROW, as he keeps special brands which have been manufactured specially for him and for which he charges the same price as the common brands. W. J. MORROW, 340 George street. dw

MANY a sufferer from Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, loss of appetite, general debility, etc., will be glad to find that Dyer's Quinine and Iron Wine is strongly recommended for such cases—it is easily assimilated, prepared with great care, and is an admirable tonic. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal. 6d47

Make a Note of This.

Pain banished as if by magic. Polson's Nerviline is a positive and almost instantaneous remedy for external, and internal, or local pains. The most active remedy hitherto known falls far short of Nerviline for potent power in the relief of nerve pain. Good for external or internal use. Buy a 10 cent sample bottle. Large bottles 25 cents, at all druggists. 64w35

Ill Temper.

Is more rapidly improved by relief from physical suffering than in any other way. Step on your friend's corn, and the impulse to strike is strongest. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, by quickly and painlessly removing them, insures good nature. Fifty imitations prove its value. Beware of substutes. "Putnam's," sure, safe, painless.

The Oklahoma Boom

FORMS an instance of a wild rush for an uncertainty, which is just the opposite of the steady boom enjoyed by Burdock Blood Bitters. Buyers of this medecine get a certainty—an unequalled remedy for all diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels, kidneys and the blood. 2w34d

Timely Wisdom.

TIMELY wisdom is shown by those who keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry on hand. It has no equal for cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhœa, dysentery, colic, cramps and all summer complaints or looseness of the bowels. 2w34

Safe and Reliable.

I HIGHLY recommended Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for curing cholera, cholera morbus, colic, cramps, diarrhœa, dysentry and all summer complaints. It is safe and reliable for children and older persons. Miss Hiley Breckenridge Heyworth, Que. 2w34d

AS a TONIC and relief to sufferers from Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, loss of appetite and general debility Dyers quinine and Iron wine is highly recommended. W. A. Dyer & Co. Montreal. 6d43

25 REASONS

FOR DRINKING

ROYAL DANDELION COFFEE

Some drink because they are hungry.
And some because they're dry.
Some drink to keep them in good health.
And some that they may thrive.

Some drink because they are too hot,
And some because they're too cold,
Some drink to strengthen them when young
And some when they are old.

Some drink to keep them wide awake,
And some that they may sleep,
Some drink because they merry are,
And some because they weep.

Some drink when they do money gain,
And some because of loss;
Some drink when they are pleased,
And some when they are cross.

Some drink when they are hard at work,
And some when they do play;
Some think it right to drink at night,
While others drink by day.

Some drink for sake of company,
While others drink on the sly;
And many drink but never think,
About the reason why.

Some say they drink for pleasure,
And some they drink for pain,
Some say 'tis good, some very bad,
But never once refrain.

Yet all mustown the proverb true:
"When iron's hot to strike it"—
I've just found out the reason why—
All drink because they like it!

The Loss of the Hair

Is a great misfortune and the sight of a bald head should be a warning to you to take the best possible care of your hair. A little of Dr. Dorsewend's "Hair Magic" used occasionally will prevent all chances of its falling out or turning gray, and will remove all traces of dandruff. Every druggist has it in stock. Ask for it. dw

Chronic Coughs and Colds

and all diseases of the throat and lungs can be cured by the use of Scott's Emulsion, as it contains the healing virtues of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites in their fullest form. See what M. S. Crowned or Uncrowned.

THE head of anyone suffering from constipation, biliousness or dyspepsia will harbor a sick headache. By regulating the bowels, arousing the torpid liver, improving digestion and purifying the blood Burdock Blood Bitters banishes sick headache, no matter how severe or obstinate it may be. 2w34d

The Four Cardinal Points

The stomach, the liver, the bowels and the blood are the four cardinal points of health. These Burdock Blood Bitters acts upon to strengthen, regulate, cleanse and purify, thus restoring and maintaining perfect health. B. B. B. is nature's true tonic and renovator. 2w34d

3 Years in Bed.

A Common Cold

Is often the beginning of serious affections of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes, and Lungs. Therefore, the importance of early and effective treatment cannot be overestimated. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral may always be relied upon for the speedy cure of a Cold or Cough.

Last January I was attacked with a severe Cold, which, by neglect and frequent exposures, became worse, finally settling on my lungs. A terrible cough soon followed, accompanied by pains in the chest, from which I suffered intensely. After trying various remedies, without obtaining relief, I commenced taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was Speedily Cured.

I am satisfied that this remedy saved my life.—Jno. Webster, Pawtucket, R. I.

I contracted a severe cold, which suddenly developed into Pneumonia, presenting dangerous and obstinate symptoms. My physician at once ordered the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. His instructions were followed, and the result was a rapid and permanent cure.—H. E. Simpson, Rogers Prairie, Texas.

Two years ago I suffered from a severe Cold which settled on my Lungs. I consulted various physicians, and took the medicines they prescribed, but received only temporary relief. A friend induced me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking two bottles of this medicine I was cured. Since then I have given the Pectoral to my children, and consider it for Colds, Coughs, and all Throat and Lung diseases, ever used in my family.—Robert Vanderpool, Meadville, Pa.

The Best Remedy

Some time ago I took a slight Cold, which, being neglected, grew worse, and settled on my lungs. I had a hacking cough, and was very weak. Those who knew me best considered my life to be in great danger. I continued to suffer until I commenced using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Less than one bottle of this valuable medicine cured me, and I feel that I owe the preservation of my life to its curative powers.—Mrs. Ann Lockwood, Akron, New York.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is considered, here, the one great remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs, and is more in demand than any other medicine of its class.—J. F. Roberts, Magnolia, Ark.

Yesterday afternoon a party of 106 little girls arrived at Hazel Brae from Dr. Barnardo's Home in London. Most of the older girls in the party have already been provided with homes, but some of the younger ones have not yet been placed.

Thursday Night.

The lawn social next Thursday evening at the residence of Mr. A. L. Davis will be one of the most attractive affairs of the kind this season. The grounds will be beautifully decorated and lighted by electricity, and the band will be present also. If by any chance the weather should be unfavorable the social will be postponed till the next night. 2d

The Horticultural Show.

Thursday next, Sept. 5th, the annual exhibition of the Horticultural Society will be held in the Charlotte street skating rink. The exhibition this year promises to be unusually good. An extraordinary number of subscriptions have been received and prospects are that there will be a better display and bigger attendance than ever before.

Prolific Potatoes.

Master Fred Nesbitt left at the EXAMINER office to-day a monster sample of the Beauty of Hebron potato, which tipped the scales at 2½ pounds. He says there are more like it where this abnormal "murphy" came from and he has plenty of them weighing from 1½ to 2 lbs. The potatoes were grown by Mr. H. Nesbitt, court house hill. Who can beat this two-and-a quarter pounder? Next!

We Go One Better.

Other grocers are greatly excited about the prices of some of their goods. But Geo. Carton keeps quite cool, and goes one better every time. See the crashing value he is offering:—8½ lbs. Rice, for 25c. 8 bars of Electric Soap, for 25c. 8 lbs. of Tea, for $1. Push right through to Geo. Carton's red tea store, where you can carry away more goods for a $2 bill than you can get for $3 in other stores. Corner George and Charlotte streets. dw

Choice. Fresh and Cheap.

Another supply of choice, fresh and cheap groceries, provisions, etc., with a few special lines of teas at unusually low prices now being received and offered for sale at R. H. Green's grocery and provision store, corner Hunter and Aylmer streets, Peterborough. Also fresh butter and eggs, with apples, potatoes and other farmers' produce always on hand, which will be sold at the lowest market prices and delivered to any part of the town. tafw

A Mournful Condition.

A pessimistic poet, dismally asserts that "man was made to mourn." This is especially true of those men and—women too—who buy their teas at any other place than Hawley Bros. tea store, George street Peterborough. For here they will find the finest stock of the best teas grown in the world, and at the most reasonable prices. The same remark applies to their pure and fragrant coffees, while their stock of fine glassware cannot be surpassed.

The Sawdust Trouble.

In the police court this morning Mr. Ponsette, counsel for the millowners, asked for an adjournment for the purpose of giving his clients an opportunity of conferring with the government. They intend waiting upon the Minister of Marine and Fisheries as soon as he returns to Ottawa, and will endeavor to effect some definite understanding as to what is demanded of them. The police court cases are to be held over, pending the result of the conference. Mayor Stevenson this morning received a letter from the Minister, stating that he had wired Inspector Gilchrist to not press the prosecutions against those millowners who took immediate steps to prevent the sawdust from getting into the river.

Lawn Social in Bridgenorth.

A Successful Garden Party at the Residence of W. B. Kelly Esq by the Ladies Aid of the Methodist Church.

(From a Correspondent.)

Tuesday morning, Aug. 27.

The village of Bridgenorth was all ablaze last night. The usual quiet of the people was agitated by the approach of the hour for the lawn social that had been announced to be held at the residence of W. B. Kelly, Esq. Just as the dusk of the evening was fading into darkness streams of strong light were observed shooting up into the air, reflecting their brilliance all over the village and out over the placid waters of Chemong Lake. Soon the strains of music were heard, and every one flocked out and hastened in the direction of the place of attraction. The handsome grounds spreading out in front of Mr Kelly's residence was soon filled with people. The lawns, walks, rustic seats, summer houses and verandahs were lit up by flaming torches and lanterns all over the grounds, showing off the lovely flower beds radiant with bloom and the trellised vines and grapevines which stood out even more rich and natural than in day time. Soon the grounds were filled with moving people—the young and the fair and the fascinating strolling and conversing in tenderest attitudes—the aged and sedate seated in pleasant expectancy, witnesses of the moving panorama of a delightful repetition of youthful scenes of their own happy earlier days.

The Band of the Y.M.C.A., from Peterborough, played several instrumental pieces, while the guests were arriving. The spacious house was thrown open to the public and was soon filled by admiring crowds, who took much interest in the interior furnishings. Long tables were spread out and loaded with refreshments, where all the guests were invited to partake of the hospitality provided them. Mr. Kelly was untiring in his efforts to keep things running smoothly outside, while Mrs. Kelly devoted herself assiduously to the duties of hostess inside. The ladies acquitted themselves admirably and were pains taking in making everyone comfortable and happy.

Rev. Mr. Houck, the resident minister, then announced that an interesting musical and literary programme had been prepared for the occasion. The following were the selections in the order of their rendering; each number being received by the delighted spectators with much applause:—

Band.....Instrumental Piece
Solo—Kathleen Mavourneen.....Miss Schofield
Chorus. Don't go near the Bar Room.....Glee Club
Recitation—Ivan Czar.....Mr Schofield
Chorus.....Glee Club
Mouth Organ and Ocarena.....Messrs Miller and H Dix Solo—Golden Love.....Miss Schofield
Address.....By Mr Huff

Miss Edith Pearce of Peterborough played the accompaniment on the piano for Miss Schofield, and Miss Maggie Fobert by request performed a difficult selection on the piano in a skillful manner. At the close of the programme Rev. Mr. Houck introduced Mr. W. Leinster who moved a vote of thanks to the Y. M. C. A. band, for their kindness in giving their services gratuitously for the occasion and to Mr. and Miss Schofield and the others who had taken part in the evening's entertainment. The motion was seconded by Mr. Northey and carried with acclamations of pleasure.

At 12 o'clock the band played "Auld Lang Syne" and "God Save the Queen," after which the people began to wend their way home, highly delighted. Rev. M. F. Houck made an admirable chairman, and left a favorable impression on all present. Though only a short time a resident of the village both he and his young and accomplished wife have won the affections of the people by their ability and pleasant manners. The Ladies' Aid are to be congratulated on the success of the evening. The proceeds which amounted to about $27, from tickets sold at the gate, the sale of box goods, ice cream, &c, during the evening, is to be applied in aid of a fund for the furnishing of new manse.

Police Court.

A Large Quantity of Bread Confiscated—The Sawdust Cases Further Enlarged.

The charge of the light bread brigade yesterday afternoon resulted in the seizure of about 75 underweight loaves. In some cases the bread was taken from the bakers' themselves, and in others from small shops where it was being retailed. This morning the desks, tables and benches in the police court room were piled up with the confiscated staff of life. Messrs. E. Welsh, Victor Theoret and Jno. Grady were the only ones against whom informations were laid. A number of the storekeepers who were selling the light bread were in court, but they were not prosecuted. The bread seized was all made Monday morning, and when weighed in court this morning each loaf was several ounces short. The magistrate said he did not think the town by-law was as good as it might be. It stated no limit of time after baking in which bread might be seized. It was a fact that bread shrank two to three ounces every day after baking, and it would not be fair to convict a man on bread two or more days old. He though the limit should be fixed at twenty-four hours after baking, and hoped the council would alter the by-law.

He proposed to confiscate the bread seized as it was certainly underweight, but as the by-law was not sound he would not fine the defendants. Next time, however, they would know just what would be expected of them. The by-law should be changed to read that bread should be full weight within twenty-four hours after baking.

The bread was ordered to be divided between the Protestant and Barnardo Homes, the hospital and any deserving poor families.

FORESTALLING ON THE MARKET.

John Armstrong, produce dealer, was charged with forestalling on the market Saturday. It appeared that Mr. James Dunn purchased a basket of eggs for Mr. Armstrong before the hour of eleven o'clock. The defendant was fined $5.

THE SAWDUST CASES.

The thirteen sawdust cases were next called. There were six informations against Mr. Hazlitt, six against Mr. Irwin and one against Mr Hilliard.

Mr. A. P. Poussette, defendants' counsel, asked an enlargement for a week in order that the defendants might have time to come to some understanding. The time was granted.

Port Hope Exhibition.

The magnificent driving park in Port Hope, with natural grand stand, capable of seating 50,000 spectators, is to be the scene of a grand Exhibition on Sept. 3rd, 4th and 5th. Over $5,000 in prizes. First day, baseball tournament, prizes $100; second and third day, horse racing for purses amounting to $1,000. Also a large display of exhibits from all parts of the Midland District. The monument of the late Col. Williams will be unveiled Sept. 4th, by Sir John Macdonald. Prize lists sent on application. Entries for the Fair to be made to R. DICKSON, Secretary.

Roman Catholic Missions.

The annual account of Catholic missions has just issued from the Propaganda press at Rome. It is a volume of great interest, as it gives statistics showing the condition of the church in the various non-Catholic countries. The number of Catholics in Ireland, according to this work, is 3,792,457; the churches number 2,546, and the priests 3,251. In England the Catholic population numbers 1,352,465; the priests 2,340, and the churches 1,261. In Scotland there are 308, 743 Catholics, 295 Catholic churches and 329 priests.

A Clever Invention.

The Empire thus refers to an invention of a Peterborough man which is being used in Smith & Co.'s woodyard, Toronto:—The particular "something" that first attracted attention was a wood cutting machine, the equal of which cannot be found in Canada and probably not in the United States. The machine is the invention of Mr. Ormsso Humber, of Peterborough, by whom it is patented. A description of it would be almost impossible, but an idea may be had when it is stated that it will saw and split 100 cords of wood in ten hours. This is an immense capacity everyone will admit. Attached to the machine is an elevator which carries away the wood and deposits it in any part of the building.

A perfect complexion, free from pimple or blemish, is very rarely seen, because few people have perfectly pure blood. And yet, all disfiguring eruptions are easily removed by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Try it, and surprise your friends with the result.

A Popular Resort.

The Pleasures of "Newnham" Haliburton as a Summer Resort—A Happy Birthday Occasion.

NEWNHAM, HALIBURTON, Aug. 26, 1889.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Saturday was another great day at Newnham, the occasion being Mr. C. R. Stewart's birthday. The celebration took the shape of charades, dances, progressive euchre and the presentation of several boxes of cigars amidst general applause and cheers for Mr. Stewart, and best wishes for his good health and prosperity. Hearty thanks were also tendered him for his constant attention to the amusement of his guests. Mr. Blackwood made the formal speech and was seconded by Captain Andros, of Barrie, who has been a friend of 20 years standing. Some of the other guests also responded. Mrs. Geo Smith gave us most delightful music and kindly offered her services for several of the dances. Mr. Ferdinand Stewart, who has just arrived from London, Eng., was master of the dances, and all enjoyed themselves immensely.

The clever and popular editor of the Independent arrived at Newnham that evening, in time to drink his father's health and extend him many happy returns of the day.

Newnham has been crowded all the season, and Mrs. Stewart regrets very much having to refuse several families. Next year she intends building several cottages to rent for the season. Among the many guests last week, were numbered, Captain and Mrs. Andros, Barrie; Miss Pringle, England; Mrs. Shaw, Miss Wylie, Mr. Geo. Smith and wife, Peterborough

Friday evening the Visitors' Dramatic Club presented the comediatta "The Little Sentinel," the characters being taken as follows:

Sim—(a Young Farmer.....Captain Andros
Mr. Wheedleton Coaxer—(an elderly 'Lady Killer").....Mr C R Stewart
Captain Clarence Courtington (of the Dragoons).....Mr W F Trayes
Letty Hawthorne—(Proprietress of a Farm).....Mrs A J Phillips
May—(the Little Sentinel).....Miss Fanny Goss

After the comedy a short programme of dances was given.

Can you make room for the following letters to the Port Hope Times and Lindsay Post, concerning the proceedings at Newnham.

(Correspondence of the Times.)

Newnham.—The following guests arrived this week:—Mr. F. R. Stewart, London, England; Mr. A. D. Stewart, Hamilton; Mr. S. P. Bouvier, wife, family and nurse, Mrs. Phillips, J. E. Baillie, E. A. Goodman, Dr. J. E. White, all of Toronto; Miss F. A. Jennings, Miss A. E. Jennings, Miss F. Goss, Miss E. M. Goss and Miss M. H. Rock, all of Rochester, N.Y.

Monday evening the unexpected arrival of Mr. A. D. Stewart was a delightful surprise to all his old friends. Mr. Stewart was heartily welcomed by all.

Wednesday evening another entertainment was given by the Newnham Dramatic Club in their pavillion, the principal features of the evening being a song by Mr. A. D. Stewart, the striking and beautiful tableau "The Court Ball of George the II," and the most enjoyable, a Charade in three acts by which the word "Falsehood" was illustrated. The characters in the Charade were exceptionally well played by Mrs. Philips, Mrs. Mulligan, Mr. Geo. Musson, Mr. A. D. Stewart and W. F. Trayes. The most amusing and interesting scene was in the 3rd act where the "Falsehood" of the bogus Count Frangipaungi, (Mr. W. F. Trayes,) is discovered by the indignant papa, (Mr. A. D. Stewart.) Mrs. Philips made a very beautiful and attractive Louisa and Mrs. Mulligan as her mamma played her part to perfection.

A pic-nic of the Newnham visitors via Steamer Ada Myrtle, down the lakes was to have taken place on Friday, but was postponed until Tuesday on account of rain.

Saturday a bagatelle match was played between sides chosen by Mr. A. D. Stewart and Mr. F. W. Trayers. The game was a very interesting one and ended in a victory for Mr. Trayes' side by 112 points. On the winning side very high scoring and brilliant plays were made by Mrs. Philips, Miss Lottie Martin, Mr. Trayes, and Mr. Stewart and Miss Lisa Martin scored brilliantly for their side.

Saturday night the arrival of Dr. White, Mr. Baillie and Mr. Goodman made a valuable addition to the party.

Kindly allow me space in your valuable paper to give to you and your numerous readers some idea with regard to the Geographical position of our picturesque position, for I am convinced if the pleasure-seekers of Port Hope and other towns of like import, once spent the summer here, they would often visit us in the future. A glance at any good map of Ontario will show that our village (Haliburton) is situated about under 35 deg N. L., surrounded by a magnificent sheet of water called "Lake Head." On the shore of this lake are to be found many of the best farms, and the most independent farmers in this section. Many of these farmers milk from ten to twenty cows, and ship the butter weekly to Toronto market, receiving for the same a price far in advance of that paid by local dealers. Could you not pay us a visit in the hunting and fishing season? If you could, I am sure it would be a very enjoyable one. Should you prefer a ten days' walking trip up the beautiful rivers or streams—over the mountains of rocks, where untold wealth lies buried—then procure the services of one of our local mineralogists, who, with hammer in hand, will conduct you through the various mineral regions with which the country abounds. He will point out to you how labor has wrought with mountain rocks, and torn them from their beds, and dashed them aside, as if with the power of Milton's demons. And when you get tired observing the wonders of Nature, in its wildest and grandest aspect, you may on return from your ten days' trip find a comfortable home in our village.

Why, Mr. Editor, the trip from Lindsay to Haliburton is one of the grandest imaginable. Notice, from Kinmount to Haliburton, the rocks that have been cleft asunder,—the mountains of dirt thrown up, that almost staggers human faith to believe that it has been done; and then mark what enterprise is planning—and will execute, too. Why, railroad tracks are projecting in all directions. We hope next summer to be connected with the C. P. R. at some point on the Ottawa.

Yours, &c.,
POKE E. HAUNTIS.

FANCY DRESS BALL AT NEWNHAM.—The annual fancy dress ball at Newnham took place on Thursday last, and was a brilliant success. The music was furnished by Prof. Carson, of Fenelon Falls, and was the best music we had in Haliburton for a long period. Our summer resort is steadily increasing in public favor, though each year sees some additions to its buildings and capacity, it has this season been crowded to its utmost extent, and many families in Toronto and elsewhere have been unable to obtain accommodation. It has many special attractions that are enjoyed by no other summer resort in Ontario. It is not at all surprising that it is full of guests. One of its leading features is that it has a large hall, detached from the house, in which is the most complete private theatre in Canada. The theatre has not only abundance of scenery but a very extensive wardrobe, and it was this wardrobe which assisted to make the fancy dress ball so gorgeous in its glittering apparel. The following is the list of those who appeared in costumes:—

Ladies—Miss B. E. Dover, Court Belle; Miss M. E. Dover, Gipsy; Miss Bemister, Euchre; Mrs. John Anderson, Dolly Varden; Miss Martin, Ophelia; Miss Lottie Martin, Water Nymph; Miss Rock, Sun flower; Mrs. Baillie, Daily News; Mrs. White, Queen Philipa; Miss Gross, Goddess of Liberty; Miss F. Goss, Gipsy; Miss Graham Stewart, Italian Lady; Miss Jennings, Night; Miss Adelia Jennings, Morning; Miss Agnes Stewart, Lady of Lyons; Miss Belle Stewart, Italian Lady; Mrs. Bouvier, Milk-maid; Mrs. Phillips, Brittania; Miss Muriel Stewart, Flower-girl; Mrs. Shaw, Diana of Poitiers, Miss Jardine, Fedora; Miss Cox, Modern Belle; Miss Wiley, Sunflower.

Gentlemen—Mr. Bemister, Robin Hood; Mr. Fred Stewart, Peasant; Walter Baillie, Page; Allie Baillie, Page; Percy Brown, Harlequin; Mr. Paterson, Knight; Mr. A. White, Prince Arthur; Mr. Ward White, Litt'e John; Mr. Goodman, Chess; Mr. Geo. Musson, Spanish Cavalier; Mr. W. F. Trayes, George II; Mr. Blackwood, Alonzo the Brave; Mr. Dart, Cavalier; Mr. Mahar, Young Dunios; Mr. Jones, Forester; Mr. Hogg, Micado; Bernard Stewart, Soldier; Mr. I. Stewart, Soldier; Mr. Southy, Naval Officer; Mr. O'Connor, Ivanhoe.

The Benefit Concert.

A Highly Successful Entertainment at St. Leonard's—The Proceeds Over a Hundred Dollars.

The beautiful grounds of St. Leonard's, Ashburnham, were en fete last night. A couple of electric lamps flooded the place with a brilliant light, under which a happy and gaily dressed throng of young people found ample means of enjoyment. The entertainment was a success in every way, and as a financial outcome a purse of over $100 will be presented to Mr. Thos. McNaughton, for whose benefit it was gotten up. It must be gratifying to Mr. McNaughton to realize that he has so many warm friends in Peterborough. The success of the concert is a practical evidence of their esteem for him and kind remembrance of his many valuable social services in the past.

At a quarter to eight the Fire Brigade Band marched to the grounds, and in a few minutes the gatekeepers were busy taking the quarters of the several hundred people who passed inside. The band occupied the platform and rendered a few choice selections to start the programme. A striking feature in connection with the band was the dandy new white stovepipe hat which rested gracefully on the head of the bandmaster in celebration of the occasion. Next Miss Begley sang a solo, "A Wood Nymph's Dream," Miss Leland accompanying her. This was followed by a duet by Messrs. T. Dunn and M. Tierney, "The Lost Ship," which was so well rendered that an encore was demanded: and "Larboard Watch" being requested, Messrs. Dunn and Tierney responded with that favorite song. Mr. Dunn, J. P., he of railway renown, then took the platform. He had been noticed in earnest conversation with a couple of young men a few minutes previously, and from the gesticulations and headshakings it was evident that some important matter was under discussion. After further consultation with the orchestra, he approached the railing, and with commanding gesture and grandiloquent voice that could be heard quite distinctly at Frank Fairen's refreshment stand, announced to the breathless multitude that Messrs. Sheehy and Tierney would dance a jig. The speech was heartily applauded and loud calls were made for an encore. This ovation deeply affected the young men who were rolling up their trousers preparatory for the jig. They complained that their appearance after such an illustrious personage would excite no admiration; in fact, that their predecessor had run away with all their popularity and they could no longer expect to hear the acclamations of a delighted multitude. Mr. Dunn had taken the wind completely out of their sails, as it were, and the they'd be jiggered if they would dance at all; and no amount of persuasion or ginger ale could induce them to make their bow After this overwhelming disappointment the young people sought for recreation in the giddy dance. The orchestra gave excellent music, and the large platform was crowded with dancers, who were charged five cents each for the privilege. Mr. James Coughlin was the efficient floor manager, and kept the dancers moving at an exhiliarating speed. About half past ten the people began to leave for home, and by eleven o'clock the entertainment was over.

The committee in charge of the concert Messrs. J. D. McIlmoyle, Geo. Ball, F. Fairen, W. Rudkins and J. J. Sheehy, are to be congratulated upon their success. They worked hard to make it so, and to them be all the credit for the entertainment. Their efforts, too, were ably seconded by all to whom they applied for assistance, and they desire to convey their thanks to those who contributed to the programme, to the band and orchestra for the music, and to Mr. J. W. Crosby for the loan of a piano.

FRENCH IN THE SCHOOLS.

THE COMMISSIONERS' REPORT MADE PUBLIC.

An Extensive Document — Growth of the French Population — A Series of Recommendations to Mr. Ross.

TORONTO, Aug. 28.—John T. Tilley, Inspector of County Model Schools for Ontario; Rev. Alfred H. Reynar, M.A., Professor of Modern Languages in Victoria University and Rev. D. D. McLeod of Barrie, the commissioners appointed by the Minister of Education with reference to the teaching of French in the public schools of certain counties of Ontario, made their report some time since. It was printed by the Education Department and made public yesterday.

The report is an extensive document and goes quite fully into the scope of the enquiry, and it winds up with a series of recommendations to the Minister of Education. The report has considerable historical reference, showing the steady growth of the French population in the five Ontario counties named in the commission since 1851. For instance in Prescott and Russell the French population increased from 4126 in 1851 to 24,223 in 1881, and the total population from but 13,357 in 1851 to 47,939 in 1881. In Essex the increase in the French population in three years was from 5424 to 14,658, and the total population from 816,17 to 46,952. Reference is then made to the resolution of the Council of Public Instruction dated April 20, 1868, and giving a list of the authorized French text-books for use in the French schools of Ontario. In 1879 the list was considerably extended:

Then the commissioners say:

It does not appear that this continued use of French text-books arises from a desire on the part of the French to exclude the English language from the schools. We conversed with all classes of the French people, and they invariably expressed themselves not only as willing but as desirous that their children should learn the English language. They are also desirous that they shall learn to read and write in French—their mother tongue.

French speaking teachers are usually employed in schools where the majority of the pupils are French, and although four English speaking teachers are employed in such schools, yet these teachers speak French fluently.

The supply of teachers has been obtained in the past almost entirely from the public schools within the counties and from various educational institutions in Ottawa and in the province of Quebec. Of the 69 teachers employed in the French schools inspected by us only three had attended a high school and only two had received any training in either a normal or a model school in Ontario. One had a second-class certificate, one had a third-class, two had county board certificates, 47 had district certificates, and 18, of whom 5 were assistants, had permits granted by the inspectors. Taking the proficiency of the French teachers in the use of the English language as the basis of classification, 26 may be classed as good, 20 as fair and 19 as not competent to teach English having the language of the schools.

In the Township of Tiny (Simcoe Co.) there are 3 schools, in which the majority of the pupils are French, and there are taught by French-speaking teachers. Another school, in which about half the pupils are French, is taught by an English-speaking teacher, but a French assistant is usually employed. The teacher of the last mentioned school has a third-class certificate. The French teachers have certificates granted in the Province of Quebec, and made valid by the Simcoe County Board of Examiners, for the schools in which they are employed. The French teachers do not speak English with much fluency, and the knowledge of English possessed by their pupils is quite limited. Some English, however, is taught in all the schools, and the pupils are well supplied with the Ontario Readers.

Of the 77 schools inspected by us, 28 are supplied with a full set of the authorized English text-books, 42 have the Readers out of the readers, or have the I. II and III books with other authorized English text-books; 19 have I and II books, and 11 have the I book only.

The commissioners attach a series of recommendations to their report, as follows:

In the counties of Prescott and Russell the French candidates for teachers' certificates have, in most cases, only an imperfect knowledge of English—too imperfect to enable them to take with advantage the prescribed course, as given in English in our high schools and model schools. They do not therefore attend those schools to prepare for teachers' examinations.

To provide competent teachers of English for the French schools, and to meet some of the difficulties mentioned in this report we have to recommend:

I. That a special school be established for the training of French teachers in the English language.

This school should be placed under teachers who can speak both English and French and who are thoroughly competent to give instruction in these languages.

It should provide the ordinary non-professional course, and should also furnish facilities for professional training as given in county model schools.

Candidates on completing their course in this school should be prepared to take the regular examinations in English prescribed for teachers' certificates; and only those who have passed such examinations should receive a license to teach.

II. That special institutes be held for the immediate benefit of the teachers now employed in the French schools.

III. That the attention of the teachers be called at once to the necessity of making greater use of the oral or conversational method in teaching English.

IV. That a bi-lingual series of readers—French and English—be provided for the French schools in Ontario.

If this were done parents would be saved the expense of purchasing two sets of books of which many now complain.

The work of both teacher and pupil would be simplified, and there would be placed in the hands of the pupils books that would aid them materially in acquiring a knowledge of both languages.

Under competent teachers, with such books, the pupil should, on completing the second book, be sufficiently familiar with English to enable him to receive instruction in this language in the various subjects prescribed. We recognise the difficulties inseparable from the introduction of another series of readers, but we believe they would be more than counterbalanced by the advantages to be derived therefrom.

V. That the use of unauthorized text-books in these schools be discontinued.

VI. That the attention of trustees and teachers be called to the provisions of the law governing religious instruction in public schools, as there seems to be a general lack of information on this subject.

TORONTO TOPICS.

The Scientists' Meeting—The Ontario Rifle Matches—A Fatal Accident.

TORONTO, Aug. 28.—The American Association for the Advancement of Science opened its thirty-eighth meeting here yesterday. The proceedings were begun by a meeting of the council, at which the business transacted was for the most part formal. The first general session opened at 10 o'clock this morning at Convocation Hall.

The proceedings of the High Court of the Ancient Order of Foresters at Shaftesbury Hall yesterday were purely of a routine character. The various reports submitted showed that the order is in a flourishing condition.

In the Ontario Rifle Association matches yesterday the chief prizes in the Gordon competition were pulled off by Staff-Sergt. Mitchell (13th), 32 points; Sergt. F. Henderson (25th), 31; Private Windatt (45th), 30. In the Walker competition these led: Sergt. Goodwin (13th) 85; Pte. McNeill (Q.O.R.), 61; Corp. Carroll (G.G.F.G.), 60; Capt. Milligan (D.F.B.) 60.

While putting up a cornice at the new Arlington Hotel yesterday Charles Leaming and Joseph Stinnett were thrown to the ground, a distance of 45 feet, by the tipping up of a plank on the end of which one of the men had accidentally stepped. Leaming died from his injuries last night and Stinnett had four ribs fractured.

AMBITIOUS CITY NEWS.

Bought His Cigars Too Cheaply—A Brace of Weddings.

HAMILTON, Aug. 27.—At the Police Court this morning, Theodre Kramer, aged 17, who pleaded guilty to stealing several boxes of cigars from J. A. Smith, was allowed to go under deferred sentence. Livery-stable keeper J. W. Fowler was held for trial at the assizes on the charge of having purchased the cigars knowing them to have been stolen. Fowler paid $1 a box for cigars worth five times that as wholesale.

Sarah Miller was this morning committed for trial on the charge of unlawfully appropriating a pocket book containing $12.75 which she is alleged to have picked up in the market.

J. A. Kennedy of Kennedy Bros. was severely bitten by a dog this morning.

A pleasant wedding occurred last evening at the residence of Mr. Samuel Atkins, when Mr. Charles L. Young and Miss Minnie F. Secord were united for life. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Hewitt of Winona.

At the home of Mr. Samuel Arthur, the intimate friends of the family assembled to witness the marriage of his youngest daughter, Miss Annie Elizabeth, to Mr. Hugh Stephenson. The marriage was solemnized by their pastor, Rev. W. J. Maxwell.

Northern Counties Millers.

BARRIE, Aug. 27.—A large and enthusiastic meeting of millers from the counties of York, Cardwell, Grey, Muskoka and Simcoe was held here to-day, when a local association was formed for those counties. C. McDonnel, Collingwood, was elected president, James Spindloe, Cookstown, vice-president, and J. A. Breckenridge, Nottawa, secretary-treasurer. It was agreed to buy both car wheat and local by tester, and to exchange grists as per a schedule agreed on, and in the meantime to pay 4 cents per bushel over St. Louis prices for standard wheat.

The Secretary of the Dominion Millers' Association addressed the meeting on the difficulties arising from the differential duties on wheat and flour, and a unanimous effort will be made to have the Government correct the same at the next session of Parliament.

A Fitch-Ja at Ingersoll.

INGERSOLL, Aug. 27.—A Grand Trunk freight train ran off the east end switch here last evening, a short time before the Pacific express was due. The engine of a freight following them plunged into one of the cars, which was overlapping the main line, and the blockade was complete. The Pacific express arrived upon the scene a few minutes subsequently, and was forced to return to Woodstock and go over the Strafford branch to London, where she arrived shortly after 11 o'clock, over four hours late. The accommodation was sent around by the same route, and arrived shortly after midnight. The damage done was not so great as might have been expected.

Camp Robbers Sentenced.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 27.—In the Police Court to-day William Bass was acquitted of the camp robbery charge. Mary Cole was sent to the Penitentiary for two years, W. H. Babcock and Benjamin Cole to the Central Prison for six months and George Cole was acquitted. The watch stolen from Turner was recovered from Henry Tregazzie, a Sidney farmer, who stated that he found it in a coat which he picked up in one of his fields.

The Kingston Burglar.

KINGSTON, Aug. 27.—Marshall Twitchell, charged with burglarizing Mrs. Martin's residence, Wellington-street, will be tried on Sept. 16. Summonses have been issued to witnesses in the case. The friends of the prisoner, out on bail and in the United States, say he will certainly appear for trial.

A TERRIBLE EXPLOSION

Five Men Instantly Killed at Elmira—Two Others Fatally Hurt.

ELMIRA, N.Y., Aug. 27.—This afternoon about 2 o'clock a boiler in the mall factory of Godcharles & Co., at South Towanda, Pa., exploded. Five men were instantly killed, two others probably will die and four others were terribly injured. The killed are: Richard Ackley, Sanford Smith, John Bostwick, Isaac Brantford, Guy Heesman. J. Rider and George Seebick will probably die. Charles MacVeagh, R. Thomas and two Swedes—names unknown—were badly hurt. The building was wrecked.

The explosion occurred as gangs of workmen were changing about 2 o'clock. The report was terrific and alarmed the whole town. The fire department came at once to the scene and a great crowd gathered. Eleven bodies were found, some dead and some writhing in agony. They were scalded, mangled and bruised. Physicians came hastily and did all in their power. The cause of the explosion is supposed to have been low water in the boiler. The damage to the building and machinery is from $15,000 to $20,000.

THE SPREADING STRIKES.

A HUNDRED THOUSAND LABORERS IN PROCESSION.

Government Organs in London Demand a Cessation of the Outrages in Behring Sea—An Earthquake in Russia.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The printers employed by Eyre & Spottiswoode, Cassell & Co. and Waterloo & Son have struck. One hundred thousand sticking deck laborers marched in procession to-day. They were orderly.

Coal men in thousands have joined the strikers and the situation shows no signs of improvement. Meetings of employers and workmen continue to be held but without result.

The directors of the Commercial Dock Company have declined an offer of the services of 3000 Belgian laborers at 4½d. per hour.

The Commercial Dock Company has declined the proposal of delegates from the leading houses of twelve different trades to submit to arbitration the grievances of the striking workmen.

To-day the drivers of the Government mail carts demanded an advance of wages, which the Postoffice authorities granted.

The Behring Sea Seizures.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The news of the fresh seizures in Behring Sea has renewed the discussion. The Government organs strongly condemn the United States' action and demand a cessation of the outrages upon the rights of British subjects. In opposition to the Canadian indignation, The Radical Star, T. P. O'Connor's paper, says that Canadian feeling is naturally excited, and, if this wholesale confiscation continues, the feeling is bound to grow stronger. It is a disgrace to two civilized Governments like the British and American that a dangerous sore is kept open simply for the want of an intelligent effort to heal it up. These criticisms show what British public is united in demanding. The press joins in the demand. The Daily News says that the United States' claim is untenable. Lord Salisbury must obtain a prompt acceptance from the United States of his reported offer of negotiation. It recognizes the justice of a cessation of the seizures and an early and serious attempt to settle the dispute. Public resentment will undoubtedly increase should the United States delay in acceding to Lord Salisbury's reported offer.

The Trouble in Crete.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—A despatch from Athens says the negotiations between Chakir Pasha, the Governor, and the Cretan commission have been ruptured. The Polingenesian regards a peaceful solution of the question as doubtful.

Cashmere's Ruler Bounced.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—In the House of Lords to day Viscount Cross, Secretary of State for India, announced that the Viceroy of India had been compelled to accept the resignation of the ruler of Cashmere and place that country under a native council. He said the Government had not the slightest intention of annexing Cashmere.

A Quake in Russia.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—An earthquake was experienced on the Russian frontier yesterday. In the village of Khenzorik 129 persons were buried alive.

The Earthquake in Greece.

ATHENS, Aug. 27.—The earthquake throughout Greece yesterday originated in the Gulf of Corinth. The cable is broken. A number of houses at Acarnania and Etalicon were wrecked. No loss of life is reported.

A Boulangist Meeting.

PARIS, Aug. 27.—A huge Boulangist meeting was held this evening to protest against the Government's action against Gen. Boulanger. The crowd consisted chiefly of workingmen. The proceedings were carefully watched by troops and police. M. Laisant and M. Laguerre made addresses, in which they condemned the verdict of the Senate court. The meeting unanimously declared in favor of Gen. Boulanger. A mob outside the hall stoned the police and the mounted guards were compelled to charge in order to clear the streets. A large number of persons were arrested.

A Reading Club Suppressed.

PRAGUE, Aug. 27.—The government has suppressed a reading club in consequence of the action taken by the deputation sent to the Students' Congress in Paris.

Blackburn Mills Resume Operations.

BLACKBURN, Eng., Aug. 27.—Work is being resumed in the mills which recently shut down.

A Royal Order.

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—A royal order just issued sanctions the creation in Jerusalem of an evangelical establishment with corporate rights. The object is to preserve existing evangelical institutions and to add to their number.

DEMPSEY KNOCKED OUT.

The Marine Downs Him in a 32-Round Contest at San Francisco.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—2.15 a.m.—A dispatch from San Francisco says: In point of popular interest the fight between Jack Dempsey and George LaBlanche at the rooms of the California Athletic Club to-night eclipsed all similar contests ever held here. Probably 2000 persons witnessed the fight. The streets outside were crowded with men and boys to catch the slightest word from within regarding the progress of the fight. Betting for several days had been in Dempsey's favor, the usual odds being $10 to $75.

After some set-tos between local pugilists Dempsey and La Blanche came on and at 9.35 the fight commenced. The master of ceremonies announced that it was not for the middle-weight championship, as La Blanche weighed 161 pounds and Dempsey 151.

For several rounds the Marine forced the fighting and landed frequently on Dempsey's face and body, receiving light blows in return. When eleven rounds had been fought the Marine appeared a little unsteady, but seemed to recover, and at the end of the seventeenth round no result had been reached. Several times the Marine clinched Dempsey and threw him, or tried to, but seemed to gain no advantage from his efforts in that direction, while the crowd hissed him. Several times Dempsey's friends called foul, but the claims were not allowed.

After the gong rang for the close of the tenth round LaBlanche struck Dempsey a hard blow on the face and then retired to his corner. Dempsey walked over to him and landed a hard one on the Marine's neck which made the latter groggy.

In the nineteenth round Dempsey opened with three well aimed blows on the Marine's neck and before the close he put four more in the same place, the last of which sent La Blanche heavily to the floor, being the next knock down. Uproarious applause followed.

The fight continued for 32 rounds and in the latter Dempsey was knocked out.

A Railway Bonus Voted.

ST. JACOBS, Aug. 27.—The bylaw granting $28,000 to the Waterloo Junction Railway Company was carried by a majority of 150 in Woolwich Township to day.

The Peel township bylaw granting $7000, to be voted on this week, and $2000 to be granted by the village of St. Jacobs will complete the sum asked or by the Grand Trunk to ensure the completion of the line.

Well and Truly Laid.

CHATHAM, Aug. 27.—The corner stone of the new county and town building was laid this afternoon with Masonic ceremonies by Grand Master R. T. Walkem of Kingston, assisted by a large number of be thren of the town and surrounding district.

A Mutual Deceit.

Sayzit Anybowe—How did you ever come to marry Mrs. B——?

Grinand Barrett (frankly)—I married her for her money, she said she'd be worth a million on her wedding day—estimated me at that figure, you know.

Sayzit Anybowe—Why, she deceived you shamefully!

Grinand Barrett—Well, I was deceived, that's a fact, but Great Scott! man, just think how she got left! —Epoch.

DOUBLE LIFE LAID BARE.

A WIFE BRINGS HER FOLLIES TO A DREADFUL CLIMAX.

Stabbed Her Baby's Nurse—Terrible Social Tragedy in an Atlantic City Cottage—An Honored Name Disgraced.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Aug. 27.—As the guests were seating themselves about the dining tables at the fashionable Noll Cottage, in Tennessee-avenue, at noon yesterday, the cries of a woman and the smashing of furniture on the second floor threw them into a panic and attracted a large crowd of excited men and women about the building. The noise came from the private apartments of a couple known in the house as Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Hamilton of New York City. A waiter hurried upstairs and, bolting in the door, discovered a fine-looking middle-aged man struggling desperately, in the centre of the apartments, to overpower a wild-eyed blonde woman, who was striking out in all directions with a blood-stained dagger. Another woman lay upon the floor of the handsomely furnished room in a pool of blood; and on a bed near by crowed a 6 months' old infant, much diverted by the excitement.

The man was cool and resolute. He was Mr. "Hamilton." The desperate, hysterical woman was his wife and the infant was their only child. The wounded woman, who lay writhing in agony upon the carpet, suffering from a horrible knife-thrust in her abdomen, from which the intestines protrude', was Mary Donnelly, a New York nurse who has been with the child since its birth. She is hopelessly wounded.

A jealous quarrel led up to the awful tragedy. Joshua Mann of No. 111 West Fifteenth-street, New York, an old lover of Mrs. Hamilton, had been following her all summer wherever she and her husband traveled. Mr. Hamilton did not know the man did not suspect that the lover's mother was the keeper of a disreputable house in New York, and that Mann's relations with his wife had been of the most intimate character. He had been seen driving with her, they have been known to stop at road-houses together to get drinks, and Sunday night the wife and her lover met in a beer garden, where they passed some time together.

Mr. Hamilton was ignorant of the liaison, but on Sunday he met Mann face to face and recognized his as a countenance he had seen in every city and fashionable resort visited since his marriage. He had the man watched under the impression that he was a thief following his movements to steal Mrs. Hamilton's jewels. Sunday night the realities of his position dawned upon him. Mr. Mann had grafted a neat pair of horns upon the husband's head; he completely possessed the wife's love. Mr. Hamilton passed a sleepless night but said nothing. Yesterday forenoon the wife and mother announced that she was going to New York for a visit, to return in a few days. It was then that the husband's indignation overcame him, and grasping the woman by the shoulder he said:

"You are my wife, and you remain here. Let 'Josh' Mann take care of himself."

The name of her lover pronounced by her husband astounded Mrs. Hamilton. She became madly, viciously desperate. She ran to a bureau, snatched up a Mexican dagger and made a lunge at her husband. He grappled with her and pushed her over a chair. The nurse, Mary Donnelly, hearing the noise, rushed into the room. The wife no sooner saw her than she dashed at her with the dagger raised, and hissed these words from between her gnashing teeth:

"You she devil. You are the cause of this. You have exposed me. You'll never talk about me again," plunged the weapon into the poor girl's abdomen, and felled her to the floor.

Mr. Hamilton and his wife are both in custody.

The only Robert Ray Hamilton known to New Yorkers is he who was for eight years a member of the New York Legislature from the Murray Hill district, New York City, is a son of Gen. Schuyler Hamilton, one of the leaders of New York's 400; a grandson of John C. Hamilton, author of a "Life of Alexander Hamilton," and a great-grandson of Alexander Hamilton, the Secretary of the Treasury under Washington, who was killed in the duel with Aaron Burr. He is a member of the New York bar, the possessor of an income of $10,000 a year, and was, until a few years ago, a prominent figure in society in the metropolis.

The story of his courtship and marriage is as romantic as the story of yesterday's tragedy is thrilling.

Hamilton is about 37 years of age, and his wife about ten years younger, and a hopeless victim of the morphine habit. About two years ago they were clandestinely married in New York. Six months ago he took his wife to Southern California with the intention of locating permanently. Mary Donnelly, the nurse, accompanied them. He returned disgusted and stopped at Atlantic City two weeks ago. Here Mrs. Hamilton's display of diamonds and magnificent costumes at once created a sensation, and the movements of the couple were noted with interest.

THE LATEST FROM WASHINGTON.

A Rumor That the Black Diamond is Owned by United Statesers.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—If no unofficial rumor which has reached the State Department is confirmed it will give an almost comical effect to the angry remonstrances of Canadians against the operations of the revenue cutter Rush in Behring Sea. The story is that the steam sealer Black Diamond, which was the first vessel seized this year, is owned in a large degree if not entirely by citizens of the United States. This information came to the Department incidentally while quiet enquiry was being made into the truth of the statement that the United States vice-consul at Victoria is interested largely in some of the colonial vessels illegally sealing in Behring Sea, which statement has so far not been officially confirmed.

ARRESTED FOR KISSING.

Charlie and Tennie Shocked Two Gotham Old Ladies on the Street.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—An unusual case came up on Sunday afternoon before Justice Weide at the Harlem Police Station. Two young people, Charles Stanton, 20 years old, and Tennie Mardell, aged 17, were charged with kissing each other in broad daylight Sunday, at the corner of Eighty-seventh-street and Avenue B.

Two old ladies who saw the osculatory enjoyment as they passed along the street expressed themselves as horrified at such conduct, and informed Policeman Thomas Eagan, who made the arrest. When brought into court Stanton pleaded that the girl and he were old acquaintances, and that by their cordial greeting they meant no harm. The girl acknowledged that she was guilty as charged, but did not seem at all chastened. As there could not be found in the code any prescribed punishment for this offence—if offence it may be called—the prisoners were both discharged.

Two Editors Lynched.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 27.—To-night two dead negroes were seen swinging to limbs of trees near Meridian. It is said they are two of the boycotting editors of The Independent who were run out of Selma last week. They were captured last night and it is supposed were lynched.

It Made Mother Strong

"My mother has been using PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND for nervous prostration, accompanied by melancholia, etc., and it has done her a world of good. It is the only medicine that strengthens the nerves."
G. H. HERRS,
Orthonville, Wis.

"I am in my 66th year. Have been afflicted in several ways—could not sleep, had no appetite, no courage, low spirits. I commenced using Paine's Celery Compound, and felt relief from the third day after using it. I now have a good appetite and can sleep well. My spirits and courage are almost like those of a young man."

New England Opinion.

The New England manufacturers are beginning to demand reciprocal trade with Canada. Of late an extraordinary development has taken place in the Southern States. The deposits of coal and iron which lie along side each other, are being opened, British capital playing a part in the process; while the Southern pine lands have at last been reached by the railroads. In addition, the cotton mills and furniture factories of the South are becoming formidable rivals to those of Massachusetts. Southern iron and lumber are now sold as far north as Chicago and Boston. New England perceives that it is necessary for her, if she is to retain her manufacturing supremacy, to secure the free admission of those articles, and of other raw material, from Canada. The question of cheap iron is a most important one The secretary of the American Iron and Steel Association—a protectionist body—says, in a recent report, that in 1879 there have died out of the rolling mills in Maine, 50 per cent.; of those in Vermont, 100 per cent.; of those in Massachusetts, 36 per cent.; those in Connecticut, 20 per cent.; of of those in Rhode Island, 50 per cent. Or, to put the same facts in another form, in 1880 the New England mills produced 170,877 tons of rolled iron and steel; in 1887 they produced 102,711 tons. In these years, therefore, the annual production of rolled iron and steel in New England has dwindled 40 per cent. Meanwhile, during the same period, the production of iron and steel in the United States at large, increased 57 per cent. These cogent facts lead a protectionist iron maker, Mr. MacFarlin, of South Carver, Mass., to declare in the protectionist Boston Journal, that unless closer trade relations are established with Canada, New England will be compelled, before long, to abandon the iron trade to Pennsylvania and the South. His remedy is this:—"Rights at our doors, in the Canadian Provinces, are the finest bituminous coal mines on the continent, and ore beds of surpassing value, which, by removal of the tariff, can be made a priceless boon to New England. Place ore, coal and coke on the free list, and reduce the duty on iron to 24 per cent. ad valorem, and I believe we shall have solved a problem of vital moment to this region." Mr. MacFarlin adds:—

"While I yield to no man in my loyalty to the principle of protection, when justly and equitably administered, I submit that, in our ardour as protectionists, we should never quite forget that we are New Englanders, for the Scriptures admonish us that he who provides not for his own is worse than an infidel. There is manifestly an undertow of sentiment rolling in with reference to this important matter which no political party will be able to resist. When we find scores of prominent Massachusetts Republicans moving actively in favor of the propositions I have outlined, and, among them, the venerable Nahum Stetson, so long identified with the Bridgewater and Weymouth iron works, and William E. Coffin, proprietor of large iron mills in Massachusetts and Maine, Governor Ames, with his immense iron plant at Easton, all stanch Republicans for many years (and equally pronounced in their adherence to that party to-day), it will hardly do to dismiss my views as the ill-considered teachings of a novice, either in politics or business. As a loyal Republican and unwavering protectionist, I feel no embarrassment in the position I have taken. I find myself fortified by the teachings of Sumner and Wilson, as I might amply demonstrate by quotations from their speeches. I can discover no good reason why a desire to improve the material condition of New England by a reasonable revision of the tariff on the commodities here referred to, should not be accepted as good Republican doctrine."

These are significent words coming from a Republican and a protectionist. Man's efforts to defeat the decrees of nature on this continent by means of tariff laws, are coming to naught. A policy of free and unrestricted trade is in accordance with her behests, and before long this fact will force itself upon the notice of the people of both countries.—Exchange.

A Nice Creed.

The Austrian empire is composed of quite a number of different nationalities among them Poles, Hungarians, Bohemians and Croats, the characteristics of which are portrayed in the following anecdote:

Four Australian soldiers are quartered over night at the house of a peasant. In the morning after they had resumed their march the Pole remarked:

"Comrades, that peasant had a very nice watch."

"We should have taken it along with us," observed the Hungarian.

"I've got the watch," observed the Bohemian.

"You did have it, but I've got it now," remarked the Croat, closing the debate.

He had already stolen it from his comrade.—New York News.

Farther Great Cures of Skin Diseases by the Cuticura Remedies.

Boy one year and a half old. Face and body in a terrible condition, being covered with sores. Sulphur springs fail. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

I have used your CUTICURA REMEDIES in two cases where it proved to be successful. The first was in the case of a boy a year and a half old. His face and body were in a terrible condition, the former being completely covered with sores. I took him to the Massena Sulphur Springs, but he did not improve any. I was then advised to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES, which I did. He took one and one half bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, when his skin was as smooth as could be, and is to-day. I used the CUTICURA on his sores and the CUTICURA SOAP in washing him. He is now five years of age and all right The other case was a disease of the scalp, which was cured by washing with the CUTICURA SOAP and rubbing in the CUTICURA, one bottle of CUTICURA RESOLVENT being used. They have proved successful in every case where I have advised the use of them. It is surprising how rapidly a child will improve under their treatment. I recommend them for any disease of the skin as being the best in the world. This is my experience, and I am ready to stand by my statement. JOHN R. HERO.

An Unbearable Skin Disease Cured.

I have been afflicted since last March with a skin disease the doctors called Eczema. My face was covered with scabs and sores, and the itching and burning were almost unbearable. Seeing your CUTICURA REMEDIES so highly recommended I concluded to give them a trial, using the CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and RESOLVENT internally for four months. I call myself cured, in gratitude for which I make this public statement.

A TALE OF THE MORGUE.

KEEPER WHITE, OF NEW YORK, TELLS OF HIS EXPERIENCE.

The Dead House Not Particularly Unhealthy—More Applications for Positions as Helpers Than There Are Vacancies. The Late Dr. Hamilton's Views.

"Look at me."

The speaker was a man of medium height and rather inclined to stoutness. His hair is turning gray, but his eyes were bright and cheery and his face glowed with the hue of health.

"How old am I?"

The writer placed his age at 40 years at a venture, though 38 years would have been apparently an equally close guess.

"That's what most people take me for. I am nearly 49 years old, and have spent the last seventeen years of my life in the city dead house. Do I look sickly?"

KILLING BAD ODORS.

Albert White, the keeper of the city morgue, was discussing the death of Joseph Fogarty, for several years the assistant keeper, and was indignantly denying the widely credited report that constant intercourse with the bodies of the dead had evil effects upon the health of the living.

"I have employed hundreds of men and women here," continued the keeper, "since I have had charge of this department, and have never yet had one die from the effects of handling dead bodies or being constantly among them. Some have died, it is true, but they have only themselves to blame for it. I have had seven assistant keepers. Fogarty was the last. My first assistant was the only man who contracted a disease here, and I am not quite sure that this is the place he caught it. One day he came down with smallpox, though we never had a case of smallpox in the building to our knowledge. He recovered and is now an attendant in the City Insane asylum. Fogarty died from heart disease. He was born with it. Why, every week during the college sessions for years Dr. Janoway would have Joe go up before his class for examination. He had a triple murmuring of the heart, so he called it, and he was one of the only cases ever known. When he had his leg taken off there was a consultation of twenty or thirty big doctors to decide whether they would give him ether or not. They concluded he would die if they didn't, and so they gave it to him and he recovered."

As the keeper talked the wind shifted to the east and the breeze that brought miniature white caps to the waves that slashed under the city dead house also carried into the office a faint odor from the long, low room that extends over the river and where the bodies are kept.

"Smell that odor?" went on Mr. White, throwing wide open the door. "Well, that's all we ever get, and there's nothing unhealthy in that. It's not altogether pleasant, I know, but if you didn't know what it came from you'd hardly notice it. We pack the bodies in red carborate of lime. That absorbs the animal moisture. Then we keep the stone floor always wet. That carries off the odor as fast as it is made. That is the way we manage to keep healthy."

"But isn't work in the morgue calculated to affect a man's mind more than it does his body?"

"Why should it any more than the work of an undertaker? Look at me," rejoined the keeper with a touch of pardonable pride in his tones. "I think my mind is as healthy as most men's, and I've spent most a lifetime here. After a man's used to the work there is nothing excessively unpleasant about it.

NO KEEPER EVER COMMITTED SUICIDE.

"I have never had a helper go insane. It doesn't affect their mental natures in the least so far as I can find out. I never knew it to affect any one particularly. We never had a helper commit suicide, and I never knew of a man's killing himself in or near the morgue.

"Do you have any trouble in getting helpers?"

"I can get more than I need. There are always a dozen or more applications than there are vacancies, and when I discharge a man I am overrun with applications within twenty-four hours. No, I tell you, the morgue is a healthy place to work in, public opinion to the contrary notwithstanding, and a man who takes care of himself can live here as long as he can anywhere."

The late Dr. Frank H. Hamilton, who won a national reputation during the fatal illness of President Garfield, agreed with Mr. White in every particular, and even went farther.

"The effects of a rank growth of vegetation," wrote the doctor, "are much more pernicious to human life and health than the decay of animal structures. In the great Parisian slaughter houses, especially Montfaucon, where annually are brought 10,000 to 18,000 dead, dying or worn out horses, dogs, cats and other domestic animals, every portion of whose bodies was there worked over and used up for various economic purposes, the workmen enjoy as good health as the same class of laborers in any other occupation.

"In New York," he continued, "where large slaughter houses are scattered here and there along the water fronts, among the poorest hovels and tenement houses, I am told that there does not exist any more sickness than is usually found among the same number of poor in all the crowded tenement districts of the city. Yet there is not a slaughter house in New York in which more or less of the blood from the slaughtered animals, with fragments of flesh, etc., do not lie in or about or under the floor, there to undergo putrefaction. The mortuary and general sanitary statistics of Chicago will probably not show that it is any more unhealthy today than it was before it became the slaughter house of the world. Dessault, the famous French anatomist, was fond of repeating the old saying, 'When the animal dies the poison dies, too.'"—New York Mail and Express.

A SONG OF THE SAND MAN.

Ho! for the sand man: jolly old fellow,
With twinkling eyes and a gleesome smile;
He comes when the candles flicker yellow,
And he does his work in jauntiest style.
For he lightens his cumbersome bag of sand
With a light and a brisk and a generous hand.

Ho! for the sand man: merry old codger,
His aim is firm and his eye is crack,
And the sharpest wiles of the nimblest dodger
Can baffle him never, can hold him back.
Blue eyes, gray eyes, black eyes, brown,
He powders them soft—and the lids drop down.

Ho! for the sand man: funny old rover,
He stops the playing and halts the fun;
He doesn't wait till the games are over,
He doesn't care whether the romps are done,
His shaggy old head pokes in, and lo!
Mouths gape widely and feet lag slow

Ho! for the sand man, bitthesome old caller,
Mothers esteem him and nurses adore,
For he gathers the children, the big and the smaller
And hurries them swiftly, pell-mell before
They know it's been time, to the babbling streams
And the singing birds of the land of dreams.
—Emma A. Opper in Good Housekeeping.

Few children can be induced to take physic without a struggle, and no wonder—most drugs are extremely nauseating. Ayer's Pills, on the contrary, being sugar-coated, are eagerly swallowed by the little ones, and are therefore, the favorite family medicine.

MANY a sufferer from Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, loss of appetite, general debility, etc., will be glad to find that Dyer's Quinine and Iron Wine is strongly recommended for such cases—it is easily assimilated, prepared with great care, and is an admirable tonic. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal. 6d47

Make a Note of This.

Pain banished as if by magic. Polson's Nerviline is a positive and almost instantaneous remedy for external, and internal, or local pains. The most active remedy hitherto known falls far short of Nerviline for potent power in the relief of nerve pain. Good for external or internal use. Buy a 10 cent sample bottle. Large bottles 25 cents, at all druggists. 6dw35

Ill Temper.

Is more rapidly improved by relief from physical suffering than in any other way. Step on your friend's corn, and the impulse to strike is strongest. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, by quickly and painlessly removing them, insures good nature. Fifty imitations prove its value. Beware of substutes. "Putnam's," sure, safe, painless.

The Oklahoma Boom

FORMS an instance of a wild rush for an uncertainty, which is just the opposite of the steady boom enjoyed by Burdock Blood Bitters. Buyers of this medecine get a certainty—an unequalled remedy for all diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels, kidneys and the blood. 2w34d

Timely Wisdom.

TIMELY wisdom is shown by those who keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry on hand. It has no equal for cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhoea, dysentery, colic, cramps and all summer complaints or looseness of the bowels. 2w34

Safe and Reliable.

I HIGHLY recommended Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for curing cholera, cholera morbus, colic, cramps, diarrhoea, dysentry and all summer complaints. It is safe and reliable for children and older persons. Miss Hiley Breckenridge Heyworth, Que. 2w34d

A Common Cold

Is often the beginning of serious affections of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes, and Lungs. Therefore, the importance of early and effective treatment cannot be overestimated. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral may always be relied upon for the speedy cure of a Cold or Cough.

Last January I was attacked with a severe Cold, which, by neglect and frequent exposures, became worse, finally settling on my lungs. A terrible cough soon followed, accompanied by pains in the chest, from which I suffered intensely. After trying various remedies, without obtaining relief, I commenced taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was Speedily Cured.

I am satisfied that this remedy saved my life.—Jno. Webster, Pawtucket, R. I.

I contracted a severe cold, which suddenly developed into Pneumonia, presenting dangerous and obstinate symptoms. My physician at once ordered the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. His instructions were followed, and the result was a rapid and permanent cure.—H. E. Simpson, Rogers Prairie, Texas.

Two years ago I suffered from a severe Cold which settled on my Lungs. I consulted various physicians, and took the medicines they prescribed, but received only temporary relief. A friend induced me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking two bottles of this medicine I was cured. Since then I have given the Pectoral to my children, and consider it for Colds, Coughs, and all Throat and Lung diseases, ever used in my family.—Robert Vauderpool, Meadville, Pa.

Some time ago I took a slight Cold, which, being neglected, grew worse, and settled on my lungs. I had a hacking cough, and was very weak. Those who knew me best considered my life to be in great danger. I continued to suffer until I commenced using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Less than one bottle of this valuable medicine cured me, and I feel that I owe the preservation of my life to its curative powers.—Mrs. Ann Lockwood, Akron, New York.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is considered, here, the one great remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs, and is more in demand than any other medicine of its class.—J. F. Roberts, Magnolia, Ark.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by Druggists. Price $1, six bottles, $5.

SPLENDID BUILDING SITES

I have placed on the market

That Desirable and Well Situated Property

in the western part of the Town, and offer it in lots as per plan annexed. This affords a splendid opportunity to secure a location for your home in a rapidly improving and in every respect the best part of the town. The properties are situated on Cedar and Hatton streets and within a stone's throw of the West Ward School and a short distance of the principal Churches and the Hamilton Co'y. Works.

"ERIN COTTAGE," late the residence of Mr. Elias Thompson, is situated in the centre of the block. This property is for sale or can be had as a bargain. It is a desirable suburban residence.

The lots have good frontages on streets of the standard width and are splendidly located. From the upper lots is afforded one of the best views of the town with ample facilities for drainage.

Several fine dwellings are already contracted for to be built on these lots during this season.

Tradesmen and mechanics should inspect this property as it offers the best sites available and convenient to the business part of the town.

PICKLING vinegar at M. R. KIDD'S.

A Mournful Condition.

A pessimistic poet, dismally asserts that "man was made to mourn." This is especially true of those men and—women too—who buy their teas at any other place than Hawley Bros. tea store, George street Peterborough. For here they will find the finest stock of the best teas grown in the world, and at the most reasonable prices. The same remark applies to their pure and fragrant coffees, while their stock of fine glassware cannot be surpassed.

St John's Women's Bible Class.

The young men having done their part in preparing for the jaunt down the river, which the members of the two Bible classes of St. John's church hope to have next week, the young ladies are to assemble to-night in the school house after service in order to attend to their share of the undertaking. The boys meeting last week was very largely attended, and no doubt the gentle sex will not be behind in the matter.

To-Morrow Night's Treat.

The public are reminded of the lawn social at the residence of Mr. A. L. Davis to-morrow evening. The weather promises to be all that could be desired. The grounds will be illuminated with electric lights and handsomely decorated, and a pleasant time is sure to be spent by all the guests. 1d

A Leap in the Dark.

Last night a couple of boys, Harry Halpin and Jesse Irwin, were running along the top of some box cars at the station, and in the darkness did not notice that there was an open space ahead of them. They ran off the end of the car and fell to the track, both being badly cut and bruised, young Halpin in particular receiving painful injuries. No bones were broken.

A Warning.

All house-keepers should buy their pickling vinegar from W. J. Morrow, as he keeps special brands which have been manufactured specially for him and for which he charges the same price as the common brands. W. J. MORROW, 340 George street. dw

No Disappointment.

Barnum's train was wrecked on Thursday night last. A broken axle was the cause. Six cars were derailed and two completely telescoped so that everything in them were crushed—except D. Whiting's pound cake and mixed cakes, which are all right yet. So you will not be disappointed at his picnic as the people of Montreal were with Barnum's circus. Wa-hoo! Big Injin me! School Children's Prizes

Last Saturday's issue of the Montreal Daily Witness contained a list of the successful competitors for the prizes offered by that journal for the best stories of Canadian life written by children attending the public schools of the Dominion. In addition to a prize to each school there is a County, Provincial and Dominion prize. Out of the number sent in eight of the best were selected as competitors for the Dominion prize and they have been sent to the Marquis of Lorne to make the award. The Ontario Province prize has been won by Miss A. Smith, Harwich. The Peterborough county prize was won by Miss Mary Northey, of Peterborough, and the school prize by those mentioned below:—Miss Mary Northey, Marvin Kennedy, Peterborough; Percy Udy, Bridgenorth; Miss Ella Cameron, Westwood; Fred Spiers, Villiers; Thomas Collins, Hastings.

SAD DROWNING ACCIDENT.

Mr. Henry Rossiter Drowned While Bathing.

The Body not Yet Recovered—He Got Beyond His Depth and Drowned Within Thirty Feet of the Shore—A Sad Termination to a Noonday Rest.

This afternoon the town was startled by the intelligence that Mr. Henry Rossiter, a well known citizen, had been drowned at "Sandy Point," a bathing place in the Otonabee river, only a mile or so from town. A reporter of the EXAMINER was quickly on the spot and learned the full particulars of the dreadful event.

It seems that Mr. Rossiter was working on Mr. Harry Stephen's new house on the drain road, just at the end of Park street where it diverges from the river bank. At the noon hour he and the other workmen had their dinner, and afterwards he proposed that they go in bathing. This they did. Mr. Rossiter and Joe Burrie were the first in the water, the other two, Geo. Spencely and Thos. Chatten being only partly undressed, behind some bushes, when young Herrie, who was on the shore, gave the alarm that

MR. ROSSITER WAS DROWNING.

Not a cry was heard from the man struggling in the water. Chatten was the only one in the party who could swim, and he at once plunged in and went to his assistance. The drowning man appeared to be in the last throes, his head being completely under water, but as soon as Chatten got within reach Mr. Rossiter grasped him with and both went down. Chatten could do nothing to help Mr. Rossiter and was in danger of losing his own life. He struggled violently to release himself, and placing his knee against the others breast by a strong push broke away. He was exhausted when he rose, and could not reach shore. Had he been ten feet further out Chatten affirms he would not have been able to save himself. That was the last seen of Mr. Rossiter alive. He sank out of sight, and at three o'clock, when the EXAMINER reporter left the scene, the body had not yet been recovered.

The alarm was at once given and efforts made to find the corpse. Mat Johnston and a young man named Staunton, dived for the body, and grappling hooks were brought from town. As the accident occurred only 30 feet from shore, no doubt the body will soon be recovered.

A large number of people were soon on the spot where the drowning took place. The unfortunate man's clothes lay on the shore, just as he had taken them off, and there they remained untouched. His last words as he went into the water were: "I can't swim very well, but I'll try it." The shore slopes gradually until about 25 feet out, when there is a sudden drop into 13 feet of water. There is no doubt that Mr. Rossiter got into this deep hole, and could not swim well enough to reach a place of safety.

Mrs. Rossiter and Rev. P. C. Parker, the deceased's pastor, were notified of the sad affair.

Mr. Rossiter was one of the best know men in town, having lived here for a number of years. He was a shoemaker by trade, but has lately given it up. He was engaged on the foundation of Mr. Harry Stephen's new house, for which Mr. Mart Barrie had the contract. It was his men who were with Mr. Rossiter when he lost his life.

Mr. Rossiter was particularly well known in Peterborough in his connection with the Scott Act Association, for whom he was Inspector for a couple of years. He was a zealous Christian and earnest temperance advocate, an industrious member of the Murray street Baptist church and one of the first members of the Laymen's Evangelical Association. He belonged to the Royal Templars of Temperance and was also a Forester. He had many warm friends in town, who will be shocked to learn of his sadly sudden death.

His bereaved wife and family of three or four small children, will have the warmest public sympathy.

A Well Known Swindler.

Silas Burnham's Operations in the West.

The Port Hope Times publishes a letter which Chief Douglas received from a lawyer in Goderich:—

The Chief of Police, Port Hope.

DEAR SIR,—A man, calling himself Silas Burnham, came here to the Albion Hotel a week ago Saturday, and remained until last Saturday. He has a cracked voice, is a great talker, and claims to own his father's house, a large property in Muskoka, any number of horses, cattle, etc. He says he is a widower, his wife and two children being dead. He claims to have travelled all over, and to have been in Government employ, etc., etc.

On Saturday he claimed that Lancey Gravelly and a Capt. Straig were coming up to buy the landlord's stud horse, and about two o'clock got the porter to take his valise down to get a key to fit it, and getting none, he went on to a blacksmith's shop to have a key made. A train left at four, and neither Mr. B. or valise turned up. Is there such a man down your way, and is he any good? I write this for the landlord.

Yours truly,

He claimed to me that he was going that afternoon to look at a horse the man wanted $225 for, and he had only $196 50, but I did not bite. The landlord's bill was $12

The man in question is quite well known in both Port Hope and Peterborough, and in fact all over Ontario. His career is a bad one, and it would appear from the above letter that he added one more to his list of victims.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The Finance Committee met last night. There was a good attendance and a large amount of business was transacted. A special effort will be made to collect outstanding subscriptions and fees, and we trust our friends will remit at once so we shall be able to close our year clear of indebtness. Mr. Cole and family returned from their most enjoyable outing at Stony Lake last evening. He reports two grand services last Sabbath. One of our merchants has offered to put up a chapel for service up there on certain conditions. We are thankful to our Heavenly Father that our work there is bearing fruit so soon. Who is going to have the honour of giving us a "Home" for our young men here? Nothing would bring more joy or greater blessing to the giver. May the Lord impress this great work on the hearts of His dear children, and may we soon see the work begun. We need also a reference library of standard works, which would prove a great boon to our members in their everyday life. We trust to see this matter taken hold of and commenced at once.

We desire to thank Mr. Charles F. Pease, Toronto, for the Golden Rule, and binder for same, for this year. The many tokens of love which we are daily receiving cheer our hearts and encourage us in our work for young men and our Master.

Range and Rifle.

An item in yesterday EXAMINER under this head was slightly mixed. The paragraph stated that the Ontario Rifle matches were in progress at Toronto, which was true enough, but the local marksmen whose names were given as attending the Toronto matches, were simply spending the day at the butts in Peterborough practising for forth coming matches. The men named are at home this week attending to their business. A contingent of Peterborough riflemen leaves Saturday night for Ottawa, to be ready for the D. R. A. matches on Monday. They are practising industriously this week, and hope to secure some good prizes at the meet.

Grand Orange Excursion.

An excursion under the auspices of Fraserville Loyal Orange Lodge, No. 46, will take place on Wednesday, the 18th September, to Jubilee Point and Idyl Wild, per steamer Golden Eye. The Steamer, with palace scow, will leave the C.P.R. wharf, Peterborough, at 9 30 a.m., calling at Goodfellow's, Hales Bridge, McClelland's and Campbelltown. A first class quadrille band will furnish music for dancing. Return tickets from Peterborough, Goodfellow's and Hales Bridge, grate, 50 cents, ladies, 25 cents. The committee of management will make every effort to make the day pleasant and enjoyable. 1dlw

The Colts Again Defeated—An Interesting Game of Cricket.

The cricket match Tuesday afternoon between the Colts and Veterans was witnessed by quite a crowd of spectators, and the game was interesting throughout. The Veterans defeated their opponents by 33 runs, though the latter were considerably strengthened by a couple of gentlemen who would scarcely qualify as Colts.

Another match will take place next week. Following is the score of Tuesday's game:—

THE GAME IN QUEBEC.

QUEBEC, Aug 27.—The match between the Governor-General's eleven and the team selected from Peterborough, Hamilton and Toronto commenced here to-day in the presence of a large audience. Lord Stanley was present, and was introduced to each member of the visiting team. All the boys attended his Excellency's ball last night and enjoyed themselves very much. The cricket displayed at the match was only moderate. The wicket was poor. Dickey, of Toronto, and McGivern, of Hamilton, bowled well, and Stratton (Peterborough) and Winslow (Toronto) batted well for their runs. Collins (Toronto) als hit very hard for his runs. Lord Stanley's eleven made only 57 runs in their first innings, the Quidnancs putting up 174. Of this number W. A. Stratton made 43, W. D. Parker 5, J. Stirling 2, and Mr. Barron (Lindsay) 1 not out.

A Walk with Gladstone.

Mr. T. P. O'Connor has thus described Mr. Gladstone's appearance while they were out for a walk together at Hawarden:

Standing closer to him than I had ever been before, I was rather surprised at the slimness of his figure. He is as innocent of the ample waist that marks with all of us the approach of middle age as though he were yet a youth. The shoulders are not as broad as I had thought, and the whole impression I got was of a physique wiry rather than broad or strong. His limbs especially seemed active, and he moved about with the alacrity of a man who had never allowed himself to be troubled with an ounce of superfluous flesh.

I cannot describe adequately the effect of his face upon me. It gave to the great gladiator a sweetness and gentleness that touched me greatly. I had a good look at his face just as we were about to sit down. It is an extraordinary face, and, like a beautiful prospect in nature, reveals new beauties under every new phase. The complexion has a pallor—healthy but at the same time almost as transparent as wax—that gives an immense air of distinction, and, to my eye at least, adds greatly to the beauty of the splendid face.

Mr. Gladstone, I have always thought, looked best when he sits down in the house of commons after a strong and vehement speech. He is deadly pale, his breath comes and goes quickly, his breast heaves and there is an expression—wrapt, grave, simple—shall I call it an air of apostolic inspiration?—that is beautiful to see. I caught something of this look as he ascended the hill a little out of breath. There was a sweet gravity in the expression that seemed to give me a new insight into his character. You know that many people, owing to his great parliamentary adroitness, have the impression of Mr. Gladstone that he is what the French call ruse, or, in plain English, somewhat of an old fox. He himself also fancies that he is a very sly dog; and then he has a certain comical and quizzical look in his eyes now and then that gives him a pleasantly sly air. But I don't think he's half as sly as he thinks, and, beyond question, frankness and simplicity are the prominent characteristics of his temperament. I saw, or thought I saw, all this as I looked at his side face in climbing this hill. There was such simplicity, such modesty, that I thought I caught a glimpse to the very depths of a pure and transparent soul

The Human Intellect.

We ought to be perfectly happy that we live in this glorious age of scientific thought. We believe there never was another age in which the astronomer of Harvard observatory could propound the following problem and receive so many perfectly reasonable answers to it: "Suppose," said he, "that three snakes, each two feet in length, should touch each other by the tip of the tail, thus making a circle six feet in circumference. Suppose that each snake should begin to swallow the one in front of him. In what way would the resultant figure, after each snake had swallowed the one in front of him, differ from the original circle?" The answers have been many and various, some of them, we are informed, "entering the consideration of the fourth dimension of space," because any one of the snakes would have followed the two in front of him and yet have been swallowed by the two back of him, and, therefore, would be both inside and outside of his two fellows. The man who lives in an age when men can tackle and grasp and make so clear to others an idea of this sort has no business to be going about talking of the good old times, or looking hopefully forward to anything more millenniumish. —Washington Post.

We Go One Better.

Other grocers are greatly excited about the prices of some of their goods. But Geo. Carton keeps quite cool, and goes one better every time. See the crashing value he is offering:—8½ lbs. Rice, for 25c. 8 bars of Electric Soap, for 25c. 8 lbs. of Tea, for $1. Push right through to Geo. Carton's red tea store, where you can carry away more goods for a $2 bill than you can get for $3 in other stores. Corner George and Charlotte streets. dw

First and foremost among external curatives of pain is Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, Nor is it less esteemed as a remedy for coughs, pains, swellings, corns, bunions, etc. It is an economic as well as inexpensive article, since the results produced by it are genuine the use only of a small quantity.

The Health Convention.

Canadians Should Take More Interest in Health Matters—The Question of Sewerage.

Dr. Clarke, Medical Health officer for the town, has just returned from the Convention of Health Officers held at Brockville. There were over sixty delegates from all over Canada and the United States, among them the heads of several State Boards. The Convention was full of interest. Valuable papers were read, and these will be published shortly in the Health Journal. Dr. Clarke was particularly impressed by the addresses of the Americans, they were so full of enthusiasm and evinced a deep and widespread interest in health matters upon the part of the American public. He thinks it would be a good idea to get some of these gentlemen to lecture in Canada in order to stir up some popular interest in this vital question.

The new sewerage system of Brockville was thoroughly inspected, and in view of the agitation at present going on regarding a system of sewerage in Peterborough it might not be amiss to publish a few particulars. Brockville has already spent about $50,000 on her sewers and will probably spend another $50,000. The system adopted there is the Modified Separate System, the principle of which is that all surface water and refuse is disposed of by one pipe and the sewerage proper by another. This is the first time this system has been tried in Canada, and the result will be watched with interest. Brockville is of course exceptionally well situated in regard to the disposal of sewerage. They have only to run a pipe 500 yards out into the St. Lawrence and the stream takes the refuse rapidly away. This Separate System is said to be cheaper than any other, and if equally successful will, no doubt, become popular. Mr. Willis Chapman, B.A.Sc., Brockville's engineer, gave the delegates all the information he could about the system, which is largely used in the Southern States.

Returning from Camp.

Every evening's train from Lakefield brings down large numbers of campers who have been spending from one week to two months holidays at Stony Lake during the heated term. The end of the week will probably see the breaking up of Graham's, Menzies, Cochrane's and Breeze's camps. Mr. Peplow's family came down last night. This week is about the best for camping of the year, and if the fine weather continues, some of the camps may remain a little longer.

BYAM'S

Improved "Common Sense"

• SASH BALANCE.

LOCKS AND LIFTS.

The only practical substitute for weights invented. The most durable, the cheapest and best device for all ordinary windows. Balances when in position are entirely out of sight. No screws, bolts or screws are used in putting it together so that nothing can get out of order or need repairing. No cutting, boring or marring of the sash, as the Balances are let into the jamb. Especially valuable for repairing old buildings as they can be put in at a trifling expense, as easily put in old buildings as new ones. Sash can be removed from frame in a moment for cleaning or repairing broken glass. Can be used where it is impossible to use weights or other fixtures. No unsightly cord wearing paint off side of frame. No rattling of sash as pressure against sash prevents it. No rattling of weights or pulleys when Sash is raised or lowered. No sticking of weights in frame. No cords to rust off, wear out and break. No rubber rollers to become flattened by standing in one position for some time. No flimsy coil spring or delicate mechanism to break, wear out or get out of order. Its simplicity of construction and operation is the wonder of all.

Byam's Automatic Sash Locks (self fastening) and Sash Lifts for upper and lower sash are the best and cheapest in the market.

TEXAS FEVER.

The Disease Spreading Among Western Stock Yards.

KANSAS City, Aug. 28.—Reliable news of the greatest importance to cattlemen comes from the southern line of Kansas and the pasture lands of the Indian territory. Mr. William Johnston has just returned from Oklahoma, who says that not only are the native cattle afflicted, but the through Texans are dying by the hundreds in the pastures south of Arkansas City. The symptoms are exactly the same as Texas fever, but through Texans have never been known to die with the disease before. It has always been the natives that suffered by taking the disease from apparently healthy Texas cattle which passed among them. He says that cattle are being shipped from pastures where carcases are lying in hundreds and of the same brand as those shipped. He says they are considered good enough for canners' stock, and everything goes. A colored man living in Arkansas City who recently bought 130 head of good natives and had them in pasture with through Texans has already lost over half of them, and the rest are dying so rapidly that it will only be a short time until he loses his whole herd.

The Disease at St. Louis.

St. LOUIS, Aug. 28.—Considerable alarm has been felt here over the rapid spread of Texas fever. Attention was first called to the case by a veterinary surgeon who declared that the milch cows of the city had become affected by contact with butchers' stock in the private pastures in the aristocratic portions of the city. The butchers bought their live stock at the National Stock Yards, East St. Louis, and it was supposed that the through Texas cattle received there daily brought the disease with them. The surgeon promptly notified the State Veterinary surgeon of his discovery, insisting that he had from fifteen to twenty cases of genuine Texas fever on his hands every day.

HE SHOULD HAVE REMAINED THIN.

Why Mr. Miller Sues the Atlantic and Pacific for $10,000.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—John H. Miller, a robust Michigander, is suing the Atlantic and Pacific Railway for $10,000 damages. The company to-day secured a removal of the suit to the Federal Court. Miller's health was bad last year and he concluded to spend the summer in the Southwest and come back when the leaves began to turn. The ticket he purchased was good from April until November, but was not transferable. Written on one of the coupons was a description of Miller, which, among other details, mentioned him as tall and slim, with black mustache.

Arrived in New Mexico, Miller bought a bronco and a cowboy's outfit and for six months he breathed the free air of the plains. He had gained 100 pounds, and he thought it was time to return to his effete home in Michigan. He took the train of the Atlantic and Pacific at Albuquerque, and at Barstow he fished out his ticket and handed it to the conductor. The latter looked at Miller's 200 pounds of flesh and "sized up" his full beard of six months' growth and the long brown hair which dropped in curls to Mr. Miller's stout shoulders. "Is your name John H. Miller?" he inquired.

"That's what it is," was Miller's reply.

"Well, you ain't the man that's described here."

Then it dawned upon Mr. Miller that he should have remained thin and discouraged the growth of anything but a black mustache. He undertook to explain, but somehow or other he did not betray the amount of confidence of his own identity necessary to satisfy the conductor. In a jiffy Miller was grovelling in the ashes and cinders on the track, while the train shot away with his confiscated ticket. That conductor got very little credit for his zealous care of the company's interests. It is even believed that he was fired when Miller got back home and sued the company for $10,000.

Busy "Billy the Kisser" Bagged.

READING, Pa., Aug. 28.—For the heinous offence of kissing two ladies William J. Devine, foreman at the Keasley & Mattison Chemical Works at Ambler, Montgomery County, was to-day held in $400 bail to answer in court. The complainants were Mrs. Elizabeth Keller and her daughter Lizzie. Devine and his wife boarded with Mrs. Keller. Mrs. Keller testified that several weeks ago Devine sneaked up behind her in the kitchen and, suddenly pulling her around, gave her a hearty kiss. On another occasion he had kissed her twice in succession. Lizzie Keller testified that Devine accompanied her and another young lady on an expedition to distribute Sunday-school tracts and that on the way home he kissed her. On another occasion he sat beside her on the parlor sofa and kissed her several times. Devine claims that the women were not adverse to the kissing.

Coke and Coal.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 28.—H. B. Frick & Co., the largest coke operators of the Connellsville region, have secured control of the J. M. Schoonmaker coke plant, which includes 5000 acres of coal land, 1500 coke ovens and 400 cars. Frick & Co. now control over 9000 of the 14,000 coke ovens in the region. Next Monday the price of coke will be advanced from $1 per ton to $1.35 per ton to furnacemen, $1.50 to dealers and $1.65 to foundrymen. This advance was made to meet the increase in the wages of the coke workers.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The sales agents of the six great coal producing companies to-day decided to restrict the production for September to 2,000,000 tons, a decrease of about 1,000,000 tons from September last year. The matter of prices was left open until Sept. 11.

The Cronin Trial.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—The Cronin case was resumed to-day before Judge McConnell, with the hearing of arguments of counsel on the motion of defendants Coughlin, Burke, O'Sullivan and Woodruff for separate trials and of Kunze for an order on the State's Attorney compelling him to give defendant a copy of the evidence before the grand jury on which he was indicted and a list of the witnesses who testified against him. State's Attorney Longenecker opposed the motion.

COAL AND MEAT JUMP UP.

BUT THE TRADE OF THE WORLD'S CAPITAL IS PARALYZED.

Progress of the Great London Strike—Some Prospects of a Settlement—The Coal Porters' Demands Granted.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Never before has the business of the great port of London been in such a paralyzed condition as it is to-day. Cargoes of meat from Australia and fruit and eggs from the continent are rotting by the ship loads. There appears to be a universal demand for an increase of wages, and almost every trade is seizing the opportunity to present its demands. Nearly every wharf in North London, where is located the great centre of the coal trade, is affected. The men are demanding an increase of one penny per ton for loading up and sixpence per ton for landing. Many firms expressed their willingness to accede to the demands of the men, but the latter refused to return to work until the whole of the employers have given in. London's great carting agencies are also threatened. The van drivers are expressing a determination to go out before the end of the week.

The dock laborers, with whom the strike originated, still remain firm. They have perfected a system of pickets, who are on duty day and night at the dock gates, railway stations, in the river and along the streets, who intercept and generally win over the men brought from the provinces by the dock authorities to assist in unloading ships. Shipowners having contracted to carry mails are experiencing great difficulty in getting their boats away and one ship is now being secretly loaded by the officers and crew of the ship and clerks from her owner's offices.

The prices of coal and meat have jumped up 25 to 40 per cent.

Seven members of Parliament yesterday urged the dock directors to accede to the men's demands. The directors promised to consider the matter.

The Salvation Army, the London Cottage Mission and similar bodies are materially assisting the strikers with cheap or gratuitous meats and lodgings.

Mr. Burns, at a meeting last night, pronounced the strike the stepping-stone to a greater and nobler movement of workingmen throughout the country.

An extra insurance against the risk of pillage arising from a civil riot has been paid on vessels and docks here. Goods to the value of millions have been insured.

At a meeting of the striking dockmen this morning Mr. Burns said he had heard that 4000 Belgians would be imported unless the strike was ended. He had telegraphed to the Belgian Workingmen's Union and blocked that move of the employers. The strikers now number 150,000. The leaders express a determination to press their claims and march through the streets until the demands of the dockmen are granted. A report comes from the officials of the Commercial Dock Company that there are prospects of a settlement of the differences, and a feeling of increased hopefulness prevails. In the vicinity of St. Pancras depot, however, there is still some excitement. Many coal heavers are resuming work at an advance in wages, which course is violently opposed by the strikers. A mob of howling strikers, numbering several thousand, attacked the coal vans leaving the yards under police escort. They undid the chains and traces, compelling the drivers to return. In a short time 6000 strikers had arrived on the scene and started for the coal yards.

Shippers and merchants are pressing the dock companies to yield, declaring that they are driving trade to other ports. The dock companies complain of the pressure upon them and promise to give an answer later.

An increased number of men are at work to-day. The mail steamers are being loaded slowly. Some of the carmen have resumed work. Several ships laden with sugar are lying in the Thames unable to unload. All the sugar cargoes at Greenock were bought to-day in fifteen minutes at an advance of sixpence on previous prices and sent by train to London.

The tea trade is urging the dock companies to settle with the strikers and their overtures seem to be received favorably. Mr. Burns declares that if the dock companies don't yield, a compact will be made with the wharfingers to unload ships in midstream.

The dock companies show signs of yielding, and have referred the questions in dispute to a committee composed of officials of the companies and delegates from the strikers.

The officials of the dock companies offered to concede all the demands of the striker's except compensation at sixpence an hour. The delegates of the dockmen insisted upon sixpence, and the conference was suspended without a definite settlement.

The strike of the coal porters is practically ended and they will resume work to-morrow, the merchants having conceded the main demands of the strikers. At a meeting of dockmen to-night Mr. Burns announced the receipt of checks from New York and Hamburg.

The Glasgow dockmen have formally demanded an advance of wages.

STRIKES IN THE STATES.

Trouble in the North Adams Shoe Manufactories—Green Glass Blowers' Demands.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., Aug. 28.—The cutters in the shoe shops of W. D. Cady & Co., the Sampson Manufacturing Company, Whitman, Canady & Co. and N. L. Millard are on strike, claiming prices are not uniform. The strikers have caused much trouble in the shops during the last six months. As all the other help are supplied with stock from the cutters' rooms the result of the strike will be disastrous unless soon settled. There are 1500 hands employed in the shoe industry here.

Glassblowers' Demands Rejected.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28.—The Eastern Association of Green Glass Manufacturers have rejected the demand of the union for the coming blast and agreed to stand together until the men come to terms. There are 1800 green glass blowers in the Eastern District and 4000 or 5000 other men and boys are dependent upon them for work. The manufacturers say they have plenty of stock on hand. The demands of the workmen include increase of wages, a new classification of work and the control of the employment of hands.

The Scientists Capture the Town—A Sportsman Misses His Aim.

TORONTO, Aug. 29.—At 10 o'clock yesterday morning the Civic Reception Committee accompanied the Mayor to the University, where a reception was tendered the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the members of which to the number of about 300 had assembled in Convocation Hall. Mayor Clarke welcomed the visitors in a judicious speech on behalf of the city, and President Mulock, of the University Senate, made some equally happy remarks, which were seconded by Hon. G. W. Ross. Past President James D. Dana of New Haven and President-elect T. C. Mendenhall of Washington replied.

Some interesting announcements followed. No less than 130 papers had up to the previous evening been entered for reading and discussion at the present meeting, and 116 new members were elected at Tuesday's council meeting. The statement of the cash account for the year was most satisfactory. The total expenses were above $6000, every action of the association and its management had been maintained in a state of high efficiency; $4600 had been invested, and there was only 33 cents due to the treasurer.

The collation, which was a first-class one, admirably served, having been duly discussed, the specialists met in the section rooms and listened to a brief review of the work of the year in each department of science. These addresses were for the most part of a technical character, the resume of which is not possessed of interest for the general public.

In the evening the Pavilion at Horticultural Gardens was crowded with citizens who desired to join in a welcome to the distinguished scientists. In the absence of retiring President Powell his paper on the "Evolution of Music" was read by Prof. Gilbert. Speeches were made by Ald. Dodds and others.

On Aug. 1, Mrs. Redigan of Eastern-avenue, was sitting on the lake shore on the sand bar at Ashbridge's Bay with her children, when a charge of shot struck her on the face. Frank Peterson, a sportsman, shooting at a flock of plover on the bay side of the Island, fired the shot that wounded Mrs. Redigan. At first it was feared that she had sustained fatal injuries, but she recovered. Next day Peterson surrendered. After several remands he was put on trial yesterday morning. Peterson asked for an adjournment, and it is understood he will offer to defray the expenses incurred by Mrs. Redigan owing to the accident. An enlargement until Monday was granted.

Marshal J. Wallbridge, late an engineer at Scott & Cross' planing mill in Haytor street, who is charged with stealing $155 from his employers, was liberated on bail yesterday.

The application for bail on behalf of Mrs. White, in custody in connection with the Hicks murder, was dismissed yesterday by Judge Falconbridge. The nephew of the deceased, who was also in custody, was however admitted to bail.

At yesterday's sitting of the Supreme Court, A. O. F., Mayor Clarke and Ald. Dodds and Booth were admitted and formally welcomed the delegates to Toronto. Dr. Secord, the Supreme High Chief Ranger, acknowledged the hospitable reception. Among other business before the convention was the consideration of a resolution to grant to subordinate courts the privilege of including, if they so desire, a total abstinence qualification in their bylaws.

At the meeting of the council of the Ontario Rifle Association yesterday these officers were elected:

President—William Mulock, M.P.
Vice-presidents—1st military district, Lieut.-Col. Lewis, London; 2d, Lieut.-Col. Jones, Brantford; 3d, Assistant-Surgeon McLaughlin, M.L.A., Bowmanville; 4th, Lieut.-Col. Macpherson, Ottawa.
Treasurer—Lieut.-Col. Alger (re-elected for the 18th term).
Secretary—Capt. W. G. Mutton (re-elected).
Auditors—Capt. Boomer and Capt. Delamere, R.A.

In the shooting for the Tait-Brassey prizes these battalions won in the order named: 45th, 13th, 5th Royal Scots, 43rd, Royal Grenadiers. The company prizes went to No. 1 Co. 45th Batt., C. Co. 13th Batt., No. 1 Co. 43rd Batt., No. 4 Co. 37th Batt. Capt. Milligan, D.F.B., and Capt. Russell, 45th, won the Governor-General's silver medals and Sergt. W. M. Goodwin, 13th, the Elkington cup.

DEATH OF JUDGE BOSWELL.

The Eminent Jurist and Statesman Passes Away at a Ripe Old Age.

COBOURG, Aug. 28.—George Morss Boswell, late Judge of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham, passed away peacefully to-night, in the 86th year of his age.

[George Morss Jukes Boswell, Q.C., late Judge of the County Court of the united Counties of Northumberland and Durham, was born at Gosport, Eng., in June, 1804. His father, John Boswell of London, Eng., solicitor, was the youngest son of James Boswell, an officer in the Royal Navy, whose four elder brothers were also officers in the same service, and a descendant of the Boswells of Balmuto, Scotland, the elder branch of the family of the celebrated biographer. Judge Boswell, the subject of our sketch, was educated at the Grammar School, Buntingford, Herts, Eng.; came to Canada in 1822, and was one of the earliest settlers in Cobourg. He was called to the bar in Michaelmas term, 1827, and was the premier Queen's counsel in Canada, being the first created by commission in August, 1841. He was an unsuccessful candidate for the Upper Canada Assembly in 1836, but was returned at the first election after the union of Upper and Lower Canada, and sat from 1841 to 1844 in the then Parliament of Canada. While in Parliament he took a prominent part in constitutional debate, was a staunch advocate of responsible government, and, although a Conservative in principle, worked with the Reform party until constitutional government was conceded. During the discussion on this question he forced Mr. Draper, then attorney-general, to admit the principle, "That if the government cannot command the majority of the house, so that its measures may be carried on harmoniously, if they do not find by the whole proceedings of the house that they have the confidence of a majority of its members, then that a dissolution of the house shall follow, or that the government resign." Before accepting a judgeship, Mr. Boswell was one of the leading lawyers in Canada, and as such was specially retained to defend Hunter, Morrison, Montgomery and others, who were tried for high treason in connection with the rebellion in 1837. The two former were acquitted. In 1845 he was appointed Judge of the County Court of the united Counties of Northumberland and Durham, and accepted superannuation in 1882. In 1837 he served under Colonel Ham as brigade major with the volunteers in suppressing the rebellion, and was on the frontier at Chippawa at the time the rebels under Mackenzie took possession of Navy Island. Judge Boswell was married first, in 1829, to Susannah, daughter of James Radcliffe, by whom he had a numerous family; and last to Mary, daughter of the late Rev. Thomas Wrench, rector of St. Michael's Church, Cornhill, London.]

AMBITIOUS CITY NEWS.

An Officer Attacked by a Lunatic—Alleged False Pretences.

HAMILTON, Aug. 28.—Patrick Naughton, a lunatic from Orillia, created a great sensation on South John-street last night by a violent attack on County Constable Newton, who had the crazy man in a hack on his way to the asylum. The officer would have fared badly had not assistance speedily arrived.

At the Police Court to-day Maurice Cohen was arraigned on a charge of obtaining $50 from Max Sessenwein by false pretence. The magistrate adjourned the case until Saturday and let Cohen out on furnishing bail in $100 and one surety in $100.

Detectives Campbell and Littlehales went out into Barton to-day and recovered a lady's gold watch which had been picked up by Miss Hurley during carnival week. The officers are now looking for the owner.

An effort will be made to secure the release of Nannie Scrugge, the unfortunate woman from Brooklyn, N.Y., who has been in the jail since early in January and remanded over 35 times without being present in court.

Eugene Duffy, aged 18, son of Edward Duffy of Hall's Corners, died here this morning of inflammation of the bowels caused by eating cucumbers and icecream during carnival week.

Port Colborne's Gas Well.

PORT COLBORNE, Aug. 28.—The first test gas well of a new company of which Mr. E. Coste, mining engineer, is manager was drilled on the farm of Mr. Zavitz, six miles from Port Colborne, and has proved a success. Commencing in the coniferous limestone the drill penetrated 826 feet, when gas was found in the white Medina sand stone. The flow has been measured accurately and gives a record of 1,000,000 feet per day without having been torpedoed and the gas sand being penetrated only 10 feet. Two other gas wells are going down at once. The gas will be piped to Port Colborne, Welland, St. Catharines and other places.

Representatives of American glass works have been here looking after the prospects, as sand suitable for certain lines of glassware is found here in abundance.

This Demands Reciprocity.

KINGSTON, Aug. 28.—The Evening News says: The American Government is determined that officers on American steamers shall be natives of the United States. On Saturday Mr. F. Hugo, a Kingston purser on the steamer Islander, was detained at Clayton to answer charges to be preferred against him by the customs collector. It is expected that the retirement of Canadian officers on the steamer St. Lawrence will be demanded.

Sudden Death at Kingsville.

WINDSOR, Aug. 28.—Contractor Thomas Eddy, said to be from Toronto, attended a meeting of the Methodist Church of Kingsville to consider the matter of building a fine new $20,000 edifice. Mr. Eddy made an address, sat down and in a few minutes had a peculiar fit and nervous shaking. He died before medical aid could be summoned. [The Toronto directory contains no such name as Thomas Eddy.]

Oshawa Notes.

OSHAWA, Aug. 28.—Yesterday evening while duckshooting at Oshawa harbor a 13-year-old son of Henry George accidentally shot himself in the left eye. He was taken to Toronto to have his wound attended to.

A valuable mare belonging to J. Lick of the 7th con. of Darlington died in the yard of the Central Hotel this morning. The cause of her death is supposed to be the eating of green clover.

The Ancient Capital.

QUEBEC, Aug. 29.—The body of a man, supposed to be that of Louis Everett recently drowned from the ship Ellen A. Reed, was found yesterday morning in the fishery of Mr. Remilan at Beaumont, a few miles below here. An inquest will be held.

A robbery was perpetrated Tuesday at the residence of Alphonse Hamel, St. Sauveur. On the return of Mr. and Mrs. Hamel from town, where they had been visiting some friends, they noticed the door had been opened by a skeleton key and on searching the house discovered that certain jewels and valuables, valued at about $250 had disappeared.

A man about 65 years old, name as yet unknown but who is said to belong to this city, was killed yesterday by an Intercolonial train coming west 2 miles west of Hariaka Station. It is not known whether the man was intoxicated or whether he contemplated suicide. His body was lying outside of the track, his head—under which his coat was placed—was across the rail. His head was badly crushed but life was not extinct when he was taken on board the train. He, however, died just as the train reached Levis, some 5 or 6 minutes from Hariaka. The body was transferred from Levis to the morgue here where an inquest will be held.

An Old Fued.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 29.—Albert Bradley is now in jail here charged with drawing a revolver on George Sopy of Tweed on Saturday night last. Sopy states that he was passing Perry Simmons' place when Bradley pulled a revolver or pistol and fired seven shots, none of them taking effect. It appears that there has been a bitter feeling of enmity existing between the men for some time and last spring in a fight Sopy received a stab in the cheek with a bowie knife in the hands of Bradley. He carries the scar on his cheek yet.

Paine's Celery Compound

combines true nerve tonic and strengthening qualities, reviving the energies and spirits.

"I have been troubled for some years with a complication of difficulties. After trying various remedies, and not finding relief, I tried Paine's Celery Compound. Before taking one full bottle the long troublesome symptoms began to subside, and I can truly say now, that I feel like a new man. Digestion has improved, and I have gained ten pounds in weight since I have commenced taking the Compound."

British Trade.

If the protectionist theory were sound, or even measurably true, the United Kingdom ought to have been ruined long ago. As a matter of fact, business there at the present time is far more prosperous than in any protectionist country. According to the latest returns—up to the end of April—pauperism was less than in any year since 1867, the time of the great inflation which vanished in a panic. Reports prepared by the trades organizations of eighteen different trades show that there is a good demand for labor, and comparatively few out of employment. Thus, in the iron and steel trades there were at the end of June, but 3,000 men out of work in a total number of 190,000 operatives. In all trade, wages have increased during the last three years, while the price of food has remained at a low figure. The foreign commerce of the country shows a marvellous development. In 1886, the exports and imports amounted to $3,100,000,000. In 1887, when the revival commenced, they reached $3,225,000,000. In 1888, they increased to $3,430,000,000; and it is believed that for the current year they will amount to $3,640,000,000.

It has been said by a distinguished economist that Britain ensured her commercial supremacy for a long time on the day when the majority of her people realized the economic truth that international trade is simply barter—the exchange of product for product, service for service. Just look how England acts upon this principle. Her sugar refiners complained, no doubt with truth, that their business was being injured by the foreign bounties on beet root sugar. Had such a complaint been made by the refining combine which controls the Canadian sugar trade, Mr. Foster would doubtless have proceeded to build the sugar tariff still higher. In reply to the protest of the consumer, he would have said that 1,500 men are employed by the Canadian refiners, and would have asked if it was right to allow them to be thrown out of work by foreign manufacturers and artisans. And in all likelihood this specious plea would have been accepted by the majority in Parliament as unanswerable. But in England, where political economy is an established science, and not a mere system of empiricism and quackery, the people know better. The answer to the refiners was that if their complaints of being undersold were true, it was manifest that the country at large was getting cheaper sugar, and that this cheapness would benefit not only the forty million consumers, but a large number of industries, such as those engaged in the manufacture of sweets, confectionary and jam, in which sugar is the chief material. And, it was added, the more of this cheap foreign article we import, the larger will become our exports to the beet root countries, since they must take our goods in exchange. Hence, was the final conclusion, while cheap foreign sugar may injure a few manufacturers and artisans, it will rebound to the advantage of the country as a whole. The trade returns just referred to demonstrate the soundness of this principal, even if it were not already proved by England's commercial preeminence throughout the world.—Exchange.

"Things are Seldom What They Seem.

While the above is, in the main, true, still there is an exception to the general rule, as is the case in many instances. We refer to Dr. Pierce's Pellets, which are not only what they seem, but more. In torpid liver, indigestion, sluggishness of the bowels, biliousness, and headache, the relief afforded by their use is wonderful. b

The Oklahoma Boom

Ill Temper.

Is more rapidly improved by relief from physical suffering than in any other way. Step on your friend's corn, and the impulse to strike is strongest. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, by quickly and painlessly removing them, insures good nature. Fifty imitations prove its value. Beware of substutes. "Putnam's," sure, safe, painless.

The Four Cardinal Points

The stomach, the liver, the bowels and the blood are the four cardinal points of health. These Burdock Blood Bitters acts upon to strengthen, regulate, cleanse and purify, thus restoring and maintaining perfect health. B. B. B. is nature's true tonic and renovator. 2w34d

EDMUND YATES' LETTER.

Gossip About the Queen, the Royal Family and Others of High Degree.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The Prince of Wales is better since he went to Hamburg. The inflammation and swelling in his legs have gone down and he has prudently followed a stricter regimen than usual since there.

If a marriage takes place between Princess Victoria of Wales and the hereditary Prince of Hohenlohe-Langenburg, no official announcement is expected until after the engagement is communicated to the King and Queen of Denmark, the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, the Emperor and Empress of Russia, and the other distinguished relatives of the princess, as the omission to acquaint those personages of the betrothal of the Princess Louise and Duke of Fife gave great offence and has been misrepresented. The hereditary Prince Ernest is the son of a grand nephew of the Queen, as his father was a son of Her Majesty's half sister, Princess Feodore Hohenlohe, who was a daughter of the Duchess of Kent by her first marriage with the Prince of Leinengen. Prince Ernest, who was born in Sept., 1863, is an only son and is heir to his father's titles. The family estates are in Wurtemburg, Saxe-Coburg-Gotha and Pomerania. The family is very ancient and its heads have been princes of the empire since 1764.

Two special trains, consisting of fifty carriage trucks, horse boxes and carriages left Southampton on Friday afternoon with the Queen's servants, horses and carriages, one for Ballater and the other for Windsor. The Queen's horses and carriages hitherto have been sent from London to Aberdeen by steamer. That is now given up and they always travel by rail.

It would have been better for the Duke of Fife if his promotion in the peerage had been officially announced a fortnight before the marriage, as the result of the delay has been that nearly every present he received is adorned with an earl's coronet.

It is not unlikely that before long we shall see changes in the personnel of the Government. It is said that Mr. Matthews will be made a lord of appeals shortly, as there is a vacancy in the Privy Council caused by the expected resignation of Sir Barnes Peacock. Mr. Ritchie is likely to succeed Mr. Matthews, which would an excellent appointment, as no one has shown a more quiet and determined ability as President of the Local Government Board. It is possible that Sir Joan Gorst will be Mr. Ritchie's successor. The Government is bound to do something for Sir John. He has been very useful, has a remarkable debating power and ability, and it seems not improbable that it will be recognized more adequately than at present. The delay in filling the position of Minister of Agriculture is said to be due to Mr. Chaplin, who objects to taking it without a seat in the Cabinet. Lord Salisbury thinks the cabinet large enough and will not regard the matter in that light. The appointment will not be made at once, and time and reflection may give Mr. Chaplin reason to change his mind. Should he not accept it may be offered to Mr. Long, who has done his work in the local government very well. If Lord Salisbury could have enlarged the cabinet, or had thought it advisable, he would, no doubt, have tried to make the secretaryship for Scotland a Cabinet office, Mr. Balfour having held it, and now Lord Lothian, of whose abilities Lord Salisbury and all who knew him have a very high opinion.

Few people are probably aware of the amount of labor bestowed by Mr. Matthews on the Maybrick case before he decided to advise to commute the sentence. From the first the Home Secretary entertained a strong feeling of the guilt of the accused, and the scientific investigations he made subsequently all tended to confirm the impression. He was, however, handicapped by the inexplicable weakness of Justice Stephen, who certainly lost that forensic strength with which his colleagues of the bench and bar credited him. The judge resolutely declined to express his personal opinion on the merits of the case, and contented himself with repeating over and over again his summing up. It was fair, under these circumstances, that Lord Salisbury should be called in, and the solution ultimately adopted was wholly based on the Chancellor's belief that although the administration of arsenic was fully proven, there was a scintilla of doubt as to its being the cause of the death. Strong representations were made to the Home Secretary that a detailed explanation of the reasons for the decision arrived at be made to Parliament, but Mr. Matthews declined to create a precedent.

A Common Cold

Is often the beginning of serious affections of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes, and Lungs. Therefore, the importance of early and effective treatment cannot be overestimated. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral may always be relied upon for the speedy cure of a Cold or Cough.

Last January I was attacked with a severe Cold, which, by neglect and frequent exposures, became worse, finally settling on my lungs. A terrible cough soon followed, accompanied by pains in the chest, from which I suffered intensely. After trying various remedies, without obtaining relief, I commenced taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was in the western part of the Town, and offer it in lots as per plan annexed. This affords a splendid opportunity to secure a location for your home in a rapidly improving and in every respect the best part of the town. The properties are situated on Cedar and Hatton streets and within a stone's throw of the West Ward School and a short distance of the principal Churches and the Hamilton Co'y. Works.

I have placed on the market

That Desirable and Well Situated Property

"ERIN COTTAGE," late the residence of Mr. Elias Thompson, is situated in the centre of the block. This property is for sale or can be had at a bargain. It is a desirable suburban residence.

The lots have good frontages on streets of the standard width and are splendidly located. From the upper lots is afforded one of the best views of the town with ample facilities for drainage.

Several fine dwellings are already contracted for to be built on these lots during this season.

Tradesmen and merchanics should inspect this property as it offers the best sites available and convenient to the business part of the town.

The Clock at Last.

Two waggon loads of the new post office clock were dumped in the yard behind the new government building yesterday afternoon. The clock was supplied by Mr. John McClelland, and will be put in position in a few days. The clock has illuminated dials six feet and a half in diameter, which it is expected can be seen distinctly from a long distance at night.

Claiming His Own.

A Kingston despatch of yesterday states: Peter McMaster, of Peterborough, to-day arrived to claim his daughter, arrested yesterday while aimlessly wandering about. Ten years ago she disappeared at the age of seven and was, until his death, employed by a farmer in this vicinity.

Baseball To-morrow.

The game of baseball to-morrow afternoon between the Chemong Indian club and the Association nine will probably be an interesting one. The red men are credited with being good ball players. The game will be called at half past three o'clock.

Campers Supplies.

Forester's Notice.

A special meeting of the members of Court Peterborough, No. 29, C.O.F., will be held this Thursday evening in their new Hall, Simcoe street, to arrange for the funeral of their late Brother, Henry Rossiter. A cordial invitation is extended to the members of Court Little John and other Courts to attend the meeting and funeral. By order of the Chief Ranger.

They Must Keep The Roads.

A couple of bicyclists were summoned before the magistrate this morning to answer for their having run their wheels on the sidewalks. Some wheelmen have made a practice of running on the sidewalks, and the police intend putting a stop to it. The magistrate warned them not to repeat the offence, and said he wanted it understood that bicyclists must take the road and let pedestrians have the sidewalk. No fines were imposed.

A Pleasant Excursion.

A pleasant excursion took place to Jubilee Point yesterday by steamer Golden Eye, under the auspices of the Sodality, choir, boy choir, altar boys and priests (Rev. Fathers Rudkins and Cotey,) of St. Peter's cathedral, and the teachers of the Murray street Separate school. There were about 200 persons aboard. Dinner was had at the point, and afterwards a series of sports and races for the children was held, about $15 being distributed in prizes. The sail home was pleasantly diversified with singing.

A Warning.

All house-keepers should buy their pickling vinegar from W. J. Morrow, as he keeps special brands which have been manufactured specially for him and for which he charges the same price as the common brands. W. J. MORROW, 340 George street. dw

Eastwood—McCarter.

A very happy matrimonial event transpired at Almonte yesterday. Mr. Vincent Eastwood, of Peterborough, was married to Miss Isabel McLeod McCarter, daughter of Mr. John McCarter, "New England," Almonte. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. B. Edmondson at the early hour of seven in the morning in the presence of a large gathering of relatives. Mrs. Eastwood, mother of the groom, was the only guest present from Peterborough. Mr. Alex. McCarter, of Toronto, was groomsman and Miss Minnie Saedden, Almonte, bridesmaid. Immediately after the ceremony the party sat down to a sumptuous dejeuner, and the happy young couple received the congratulations of all present upon the joyous event. The gifts to the bride were unusually numerous and handsome, indicating the warm friendship which prompted the presentation in each case. Mr. and Mrs. Eastwood took the ten o'clock train for Peterborough, followed by showers of rice and the best wishes of a large concourse of people. They reached Peterborough at six o'clock in the evening, and repaired at once to their home on Dublin street. They will be ready to receive their friends in a few days. The announcement of the wedding will be quite a surprise to a great many people, as it was conducted very quietly.

The EXAMINER begs to add its congratulations to the general well wishing on the part of the many friends of the young couple. Mr. Eastwood has been a life-long resident of the town and is well known as a young man of exemplary character and business energy. He has secured a wife who possesses all the charms and qualifications necessary to make married life an unalloyed happiness.

Go to the Fairy Land social at the residence of A. L. Davis to-night. Electric light, band, refreshments, chinese lanterns.

The Body Recovered.

The Swells of the Boat Raise it to The Surface The Funeral To-morrow.

The search for the body of Mr. Henry Rossiter was continued vigorously yesterday afternoon and evening, numbers of men volunteering to assist. Grappling hooks were used and some diving was done, but on account of the weeds there was great difficulty in reaching the bottom. It was intended to prosecute the search through the night, but about half-past seven the steamer Golden Eye passed by, and the swell raised the body to the surface within a few feet of where he went down. The features were terribly distorted, depicting a strong man's agony in the throes of death. Undertaker Bellegham was soon on the spot and took charge of the body. The funeral takes place from the late residence of the deceased, Carlisle avenue, Ashburnham, to-morrow afternoon at three o'clock under Foresters' auspices.

It is understood Mr. Rossiter had a couple of thousand dollars insurance on his life. His relatives are all in England, his parents residing at a well known spa in Somersetshire, and his brothers being successful business men. Mrs. Rossiter intends returning to England with her family.

Mr. Rossiter was in the water alone when he got beyond his depth, the other bathers were on the shore, and when first seen by Joe Spencely the drowning man was pretty far gone. He never gave utterance to a cry for help, or he would have received assistance sooner and perhaps been saved. It is a very sad affair, and the whole town is shocked.

News Nuggets.

The Dominion voters' lists for 1889 can now be seen at the town clerk's office.

—A double wedding excited Campbellford society last week. Two sisters, Annie and Birdie Brown, were married to Dr. Ramsey, of St. Thomas, and Mr. J. W. Waters, of Campbellford, respectively.

Personal.

Mr. J. C. Fletcher, of Beatrice, Neb., agent of the Union Pacific Land Co., for the States of Kansas and Nebraska, is spending a few weeks in town. Mr. Fletcher is well known in Peterborough, having lived here at one time.

A sight worth seeing. The Fairy Land social to night at the residence of A. L. Davis. Admission 15c.

New School Desks.

Messrs. Jas. Stevenson, D. W. Dumble and Wm. English, of the School Board Property Committee, were in Toronto yesterday for the purpose of buying a number of new desks for the public schools. They inspected the different styles but deferred purchasing till the desks are required.

A Glimpse of Fairyland.

The grounds surrounding the residence of Mr. A. L. Davis have been beautifully decorated for the social to-night. The lawn will look like fairyland under the brilliant rays of five electric lights. Guests are sure of spending a delightful evening. The weather will be fine, and all things considered a most successful social is looked for. Numerous attractions are provided.

No Disappointment.

Barnum's train was wrecked on Thursday night last. A broken axle was the cause. Six cars were derailed and two completely telescoped so that everything in them were crushed—except D. Whiting's pound cake and mixed cakes, which are all right yet. So you will not be disappointed at his picnic as the people of Montreal were with Barnum's circus. Wa-hoo! Big Injin me! Big picnic too, on Thursday, Sept 5th, at Davies' Point, Smith. 2w35

SUPERIOR Tea, 5 lbs for $1, at M. R. KIDD'S.

One of the Oldest men in the World.

Mr. Thomas Rooney, of Fremon, in the county of Newaygo, Michigan, father of the Rev. R. A. Rooney, Incumbent of St. Paul's church, Perrytown, is one of the oldest men living. Born in the County of Leitrim, Ireland, in the year 1782, he has now attained the mature age of 107 years. He was a wealthy farmer in the old land; being anxious however, that his numerous family should have a wider field to make homes for themselves, he emigrated with them to this country in the year 1846, and after residing in Toronto for a short time, moved back near Mount Forest in the County of Wellington, where he settled on a large farm, remaining there several years, surrounded by many of his family and descendants. But the year 1873 he removed to Michigan with his son-in-law, Mr. H Morrison, with whose family he is at present residing. His posterity may be given as follows: He was the father of fourteen children, four of whom are living, and he has now 36 grandchildren and 53 great grandchildren. Of his grandchildren, Mr. J. J. Rooney, of the Business College, Peterborough, is one; R. H. Rooney, M.D., another, Rev. Arthur Rooney, Diocese of Michigan, another, and M. S. Rooney, of the firm of Berwick & Co., Shelbourne, still another. Mr. Rooney is, and always has been, a staunch Episcopalian, rigid Conservative, and a devout Christian.

None of Them Here.

The Port Hope Times says:—"Peterborough fair officials in their wisdom, were mean enough to go out of their own town for some of the most remunerative of their printing, which called forth the following from the EXAMINER:—'To the public,—don't be dishonest, patronize those who patronize you. If you make your money in Peterborough and from Peterborough citizens spend it here. Don't try to figure as a one horse absentee Irish landlord. Speak well of and put a plank when needed in the bridge that carries you safely over the stream—buy from those who buy from you. This is the only fair way; it is the only wise way, too, that will pay in the end. People who make their money in Peterborough, out of Peterborough people, and who spend it outside the town are soon found out and the public are not slow to apply the principle of the motto, buy from those who buy from you.'" The Times is mistaken. The paragraph in question referred to the action of the Kingston exhibition directors in sending to Buffalo for their posters. The Peterborough men are more fair-minded and liberal. Every bit of their printing is done in Peterborough, and they realize that they get as good work and as reasonable prices as can be secured elsewhere. No, thank goodness, there are no men of the Kingston stamp among the directors of the Peterborough Central Exhibition.

A FREAK'S MARRIAGE.

He Puts on the Ring with His Teeth and Fishes Out a Fee with His Toes.

A very unique marriage was celebrated in Squire Hauser's office yesterday afternoon, the squire officiating. The bride was Miss Jessie Troeger, who lives at the corner of Main street and McMicken avenue. She obtained some celebrity two years ago by leading a strike of the waitresses in Rockwell's restaurant. She is 20 years old. The groom is Charles K. Adams, better known in the dime museum world as the Armless Wonder. He was born without those useful members of the body, and in lieu of a better and more profitable means of livelihood, hired himself out to dime museums. Adams is now about 30 years of age, and barring the lack of arms is a fine specimen of physical beauty.

The absence of arms is little felt by the Wonder, however, for he has become very expert with his toes and mouth. He can thread a needle or write a neat letter with the former, while with the latter he paints dainty little pictures, decorates chinaware, etc., holding the brush between his teeth.

When the couple entered the squire's office the other day and said they wanted to be united in wedlock, that official was perplexed for awhile.

"How can you join hands?" he asked blandly, pointing to Adams.

"Oh, that is easy enough," said the pretty bride, who stood fully three heads shorter than the groom, and she reached up and grasped the stump of his undeveloped left arm with her right hand.

"See," she said, as she stood smilingly on her tiptoes.

"But the ring. How can he put the marriage ring on your finger?"

"In this way," said Adams, and the astonished officials in the squire's court were thunderstruck to see the circlet of gold between the armless man's teeth. Bending his head he deftly slipped it over the girl's finger.

Satisfied that the couple understood their business, the squire went ahead and performed the ceremony.

After being made man and wife Adams sat down, and slipping the shoe off his right foot, disclosing a stocking with the front of the foot cut off, he reached into his vest pocket with his toes and brought out a roll of bills. Selecting a fivedollar note he tendered it as a fee, and, putting on his shoe, went away, his little wife sticking close to him.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Touching Scene.

Annie Payne contributes the following lines to the "Minor Key" column: Clear and strong did the sweet old words, "Hide me, O, my Saviour, hide," come to us, sitting forlorn and disconsolate, in a wrecked train, on the outskirts of a little village way up in Maine, waiting for the promised train to arrive that was to take us onward. Turning to discover whence the sweet sound came, we found a tiny chapel just beyond, crowning a noble hill surrounded by a beautiful grove, which seemed to shelter it and its quiet guardians, who so peacefully rested in their narrow homes, from the inquisitive eye of the passing stranger. We soon found our way up the wandering path, and in a short time had quietly slipped into the old fashioned, high backed pews, and were listening with bowed heads to the prayer offered up by the white haired pastor, who in his snowy robes looked a very patriarch.

There was indeed only "two or three gathered together," but none the less earnest were the words of their aged pastor, as he exhorted them in trembling tones to seek that "home not made with hands," to which he seemed so near—so near that he was only awaiting his Master's call. It was only evening prayer, but which of us who was so unexpectedly called to God's house by those simple words, brought to us by the gentle breeze, shall soon forget those few moments of quiet communion with our Heavenly Father? And as we bent our footsteps towards the scene of wreck and destruction, from which we had been so mercifully preserved, it was with a feeling of tender reverence that we turned to have a last look at the little village church, athwart which the sunbeams seemed to linger with a loving touch as it shed its last golden rays amongst us. —New Orleans Picayune.

Origin of Black Maria.

Way back in the morning twilight of the settlement of Boston, Maria Lee, a colored woman of gigantic stature, possessing the courage of a lion, kept a sailors' boarding house down at the old North End. One night a party of drunken tars got into a row and began throwing the chattels out of her house. The "watch" was called in, but was soon overpowered and dismay spread abroad through the street. Then Maria stalked out of her habitation and stopped further outrage by collaring two of the leading offenders and carrying them bodily up the old "watch house," then standing near where Union street now crosses Hanover street. "Black Maria" was known throughout the city for her prodigious strength, and for years she aided the police in quelling rows and had been known to take three strong men to the "watch house" at once, or at one time. So, years afterward, when the first police "cart" was made it was called the "Black Maria"—hence the name.—Boston Globe.

A Handy Test for Sewer Gas.

It is not generally known that silverware furnishes one of the most reliable means of detecting defective drainage. If it is covered with a black coating, or tarnished, soon after being cleaned, and after a second or third cleaning again becomes darkened, one may be certain that there is some trouble with the drainage system of the house. The agent which furnishes the tarnishing is not sewer gas itself, as it is commonly supposed, but a gas which always accompanies it, called sulphureted hydrogen. It is the same gas which is generated in decaying eggs and other putrefying animal and vegetable matters.—Herald of Health.

Three Drownings.

MONTREAL, Aug. 29.—A sailor named Hickman, from New York, while in an intoxicated condition fell from the gangway of the steamer Greetlands and was drowned.

Two children of Ludger Lalonde were drowned in the canal at Valleyfield. They were driving with their father when the horse took fright and leaped into the water.

The Stone Elephant.

There is a stone elephant in Inyo county, California. The rock that has taken the form of an elephant is a dark gray granite that is almost the color of the skin of an elephant. The first travelers in California, it is said, on catching sight of it, thought that they had found a petrified mastodon. A Piute Indian, on being asked if he had ever seen the "stone elephant," replied: "Yash, me see him many year go. Long time Injun no sabe him; now see him all same in big show up Virginny City."—New York Tribune.

How He Worked It.

Oakland, Md., rejoices in the possession of a dusky citizen who cannot read, but that lack does not prevent him from poring over the newspapers and imagining that he is absorbing information through his finger ends. Not long ago some official had occasion to record his name, when the following colloquy ensued: "What is your name?" "George Newton Sandomire, sah." "How do you spell it?" "Spell it! Don't spell it at all, sah. I jist writes it right down."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Usefulness of Sandhill Cranes.

Several Orlando families have pet sandhill cranes, which they find alert night watchers. No tramp or thief can approach their premises without hearing a clear bugle note of alarm. Maj. Foster has a flock of cranes. He had one pair to which the wild ones paid frequent visits, and several were enticed under wire netting and their wings clipped. A farmer finds that a pair of these birds are as good as two hands at keeping the worms off his tobacco. They carefully take row after row, and it is a sly worm that escapes the keen eyes and the sharp bills of the cranes.—Jacksonville (Fla.) Cor. New York Tribune.

American Capitalists—Charged With Murder—Skipped Over the Boundary.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 29.—American capitalists who are promoting the Winnipeg and Duluth Railway are expected here on Friday.

Brazier, captured near Moose Jaw, and charged with murder in Montana, was brought here yesterday, having waived extradition proceedings, and will be taken to Montana for trial.

The city has not yet received any official notification of the intended visit of the Governor-General here.

Another reduction in the price of flour is reported.

John Buchanan, who controls Selkirk quarries, has skipped to the States. He became involved financially by making unremunerative contracts.

The building of the Williams Manufacturing Company was destroyed by fire yesterday morning. Loss light.

SNATCHED $5000.

Daring Bank Robbery at Montreal—The Thief Escapes With His Booty.

MONTREAL, Aug. 29.—A sharp chase occurred to-day between a stranger and three policemen but the man escaped. He is known to have snatched $5000 from a bank counter in the vicinity of Place d'Armes but the bank people and the police refuse to give any further information.

TERRIBLE TYPHOONS.

China and Japan Again Afflicted—At Least 5000 Persons Drowned.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 29.—North China and Japan have been visited by a series of typhoons of unprecedented severity. At the lowest estimate 5000 persons have been drowned.

A Gentlemanly Highwayman.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—A special from Ashland, Wis., says: The name of the highwayman and murderer is Reimond Holyhay, and he formerly lived at Shawan. He is a young appearing man, has pleasant manners, and evidently knows the usages of polite society, converses fluently and in good language, is not at all the whiskered villain that the lone highwayman of the north has been painted. It is stated that Holyhay ate breakfast in the hotel on Monday morning at the same table with the tourists whom he was afterwards to meet and rob and murder. They conversed with him as with any chance acquaintance and found him reasonably intelligent and apparently honest.

C.P.R. Earnings.

MONTREAL, Aug. 29.—The statement of earnings and expenses of the Canadian Pacific Railway for the six months ended July 31, shows:

	July, 1889.	Jan. 31 to July 31, 1889.

Working expenses	771,679 99	5,163,353 03
Net profits	$606,048 29	$2,581,670 56

In July, 1888, the net profits were ... $401,028 87
And from Jan. 1 to July 31, 1888, there was a net profit of ... $1,511 396 83

The gain in net profits over the same period last year is, therefore, for July ... $263,019 42
And from Jan. 1 to July 31 ... $1,086,571 66

Earnings and expenses on South-Eastern Railway not included.

A Kerosene Object Lesson.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 29.—At Sopris last night James Danoohy's 8-year-old daughter started to kindle a fire with oil. The can exploded, burning the girl to death and fatally burning the mother, who attempted to save the child. This makes fifteen lives lost in the state during the past month by the explosion of oil cans.

LONDON'S GREAT STRIKE.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND HUNGRY AND DESPERATE MEN.

Fears of a Bloody Calamity Which Socialist Burns May Not Be Able to Avert—The Dock Companies' Offer Refused.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—The great strike reached its crisis last night when the dock companies refused the final compromise offered by the men. It now remains to be seen whether John Burns, the socialist leader, will be able to restrain the fury of 100,000 hungry men goaded to a point of desperation by the misery of their starving families for another week. If this is possible, and it would be impossible under any other leader, it is the general opinion that the dock companies will be obliged to give in. If Burns loses control of the strikers there may follow the bloodiest riot ever known. Men are gathered by tens of thousands along the river front. Their aspect is gloomy and sullen. Many thousands have not tasted food for a day, and to return to their houses means that they will be obliged to listen to the cries of their children for bread, and to endure the destitution that necessity and the pawn broker have brought about.

Although the city, apart from the rendezvous of the strikers, is quiet, there is no little alarm felt for public safety. The police department is on the qui vive. The entire force is ready for instant action, and the military in barracks and at the Tower are under arms and in readiness for immediate service. It is no idle apprehension of danger that has brought about these precautions.

It is everywhere admitted that but for the superb management and heroic work of Burns there would have been an outbreak before now. The dock laborers themselves number 30,000, and to their assistance have come 10,000 stevedores, 10,000 watermen, 8000 lightermen, 8000 carters, 5000 river sailors, 2000 steamboat engineers, and enough other small labor organizations belonging to the dock laborers' union to swell the number of actual workingmen on strike to 100,000. To these must be added from 30,000 to 50,000 of idle ruffians of the slums, who attach themselves to such movements and incite to riot and bloodshed.

A more formidable mob than the great gathering of angry men in the east end last night could not be got together. Every man looked savage and hungry. Burns himself was down among them, imploring and commanding, and endeavoring to impress the leaders with a sense of the terrible responsibility that rests upon them.

The Thames has been as quiet as if commerce were unknown in London. The vast flotilla of freighters that in ordinary times crowd the river lay moored to the wharves. Great warehouses were closed and the shutters of doors and windows drawn. The docks were deserted and their gates barred. A more than Sunday calm was over everything. All perishable freight is already ruined. Six thousand tons of meat brought from New Zealand is rotting on the British India Company's steamships, and thousands of pounds in value of fruit and vegetables are decaying in the holds of idle vessels. The Peninsular and Oriental Company has paid back its passengers money after keeping them two days on board waiting for the hold to be cleared, and small passenger steamers that ply between London and the Continent are carrying their freight back and forth.

Two passenger steamships of the Allan line, which should have sailed for Boston a week ago, are deserted in the stream and a score of American freighters are moored at their piers. Although public opinion and the entire London press is with the strikers the dock Companies still remain obdurate. It was confidently expected that a settlement would be reached yesterday, when the directors of the companies held a meeting and decided to empower the officers of the companies to act for them. To a committee of the officers the strikers submitted the following as their ultimatum:

Outsiders called in not to be discharged when less than two shillings pay; that contract work should be abandoned and a system of piece work substituted, by which the men should receive the total gross receipts of the job direct from the companies; drawing in the meantime a minimum of sixpence per hour for ordinary time and eightpence per hour for overtime for their work so long as the job should last, shares of the plus to be divided as follows: Share of each man and foreman to be equal; pay to be sixpence per hour and eightpence per hour overtime, overtime to be reckoned from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m.

The outsiders are the men not regularly employed, who often wait an entire day to obtain perhaps an hour or two of work, for which they receive tenpence. The contract system that the men insist the companies shall abandon is a system by which a sweater or middleman takes the contract for loading and unloading from the companies, and makes his profit by keeping down the wages of the men. Out of each shilling of freightage twopence goes to the companies and the contractor divides tenpence with the men who do the work, their share generally averaging about fivepence. The agents of the docks' companies at the meeting last night conceded everything but the demand of sixpence per hour, which they refused. The men are determined not to give in until they are assured of sixpence, and there the matter rests.

The shipowners held a meeting yesterday afternoon to decide whether or not to attempt to coerce the dock companies into coming to a settlement, but they finally came to a conclusion that they were not warranted to interfere.

The dockmen's strike is the greatest, in point of numbers, that ever occurred, and it has also been the most ably conducted. John Burns, the heart and soul of the strike, is himself a working engineer. He is about thirty-five years old and is a member of the county council for Battersea, where he has a pretty little house and a garden. Burns' character is very high, and he has the respect of his opponents. He has great physical strength as well as what is called magnetism, and it is due entirely to his personal influence that the strikers have been kept under control for fourteen days.

The effect of the strike upon commerce is paralyzing, and the result will be, so ship owners say, to drive traffic from London to Southampton, Plymouth and Liverpool. But more serious still is the effect upon the families of the strikers. One hundred thousand out of work means privation for nearly half a million persons. The misery in these homes is appalling. Several relief movements have been organized, but as only a few thousand at the outside can be fed by charity, the suffering will be terrible if the strike does not end soon. If the strikers are driven to desperation a terrible crime will be laid at the door of the dock companies.

The strike is still at a deadlock. The representatives of the companies are preparing a manifesto in which they will declare that they will only pay fivepence per hour. The Telegraph, Construction and Maintenance Company's workmen at Greenwich have struck. The tailors are joining the strikers.

The dock companies have issued a manifesto in which they offer the regular dock laborers fivepence per hour ordinary time and sixpence per hour overtime. The companies promise to abolish the contract system and to substitute piece work, the rates for which will be sixpence an hour ordinary time and eightpence an hour overtime, the overtime being reckoned from 8 o'clock in the evening. Mr. Burns rejects the offer as being a dodge to abolish piece work and bring all men under the fivepenny scale. He also insists that overtime shall be reckoned from 6 o'clock in the evening.

The carmen's strike has collapsed. The men have resumed work on the old terms.

The crews of three American cattle ships have joined the strikers.

The dock laborers at Dover have gone on strike

Sympathy from Belgium.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 29.—The Belgian Workmen's Council has sent a telegram to Mr. Burns expressing sympathy with the London strikers and denying that Belgian workmen have been despatched to London to take the places of the dock men on strike.

THE "HERO OF BATOCHE."

Col. Williams' Statue Placed Upon the Pedestal at Port Hope—The Inscription.

PORT HOPE, Aug. 29.—The bronze statue of the "Hero of Batoche" was successfully placed upon the granite pedestal at 2.55 o'clock this afternoon. The pedestal consists of a rough granite base, a polished granite middlestone and a rough granite cap. On the polished stone is cut the following inscription:

To commemorate the devoted patriotism and heroic bravery of

LIEUT.-COL. ARTHUR T. H. WILLIAMS, M.P.,

Commanding the Midland Battalion of Volunteer Militia, who, after valiantly leading the victorious and decisive charge at the BATTLE OF BATOCHE.

During the rebellion in the North-west Territories, died of sickness contracted in the discharge of his duty near Fort Pitt, N. W. T., on the 4th July, 1885.

This monument is erected in his native town by his admiring countrymen throughout Canada, and by his companions-in-arms and the Government of the Dominion.

A mantle will be thrown around the statue to avert the public gaze until Sept. 4, the day of the unveiling.

EDITORIAL CONVENTION.

Proceedings of the Meeting Now in Session in Detroit.

DETROIT, Aug. 29.—There were 162 delegates at the National Editorial Convention yesterday. At last evening's session, President J. R. Bettis delivered the annual address. Mr. Bettis dwelt on the growth of the association, its objects and the power of the press. His remarks in reference to the annexation of Canada, which he favors as beneficial to all concerned, were received with much applause. He touched upon the present libel law as injurious to the press and said the influence of the association would be used to improve matters in that direction. Mr. Bettis suggested that the next annual convention be held at Atlantic Coast City.

Col. Elliott F. Shepard of The New York Mail and Express delivered an address of some length upon "Editorial Philosophy." His remarks were received with frequent applause. He spoke of the great power of the press and how kindly, ably, independently and patriotically it ought to be used. Mr. Shepard mentioned the southern question, saying that intelligent and timely discussion of the negro question by the free press of this country will prepare the way for the equitable and peaceable settlement of that question. Had there been such a discussion in 1860 there would have been no war.

MANITOBA'S CROPS.

Farmers and Merchants Well Satisfied—Early Estimates Too Low.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 29.—The crop report issued to-day says: Farmers and grain merchants throughout the province are well satisfied with the season's crop, both as regards yield and sample, and it is now thought that the total crops will exceed the early estimate by 2,000,000 bushels.

The weather has been favorable for harvesting for the past fortnight and grain has been nearly all cut and half stacked.

At the annual meeting of the Teachers' Association to-day President Somerset, Provincial Inspector, announced that he had received official notification of the abolition of his office.

The Contest Probably Off.

MONTREAL, Aug. 29.—Some months ago Rev. Father Whelan offered to forfeit $500 if it could be proved that it was an essential of the Jesuits' doctrine that the end justifies the means. The challenge was accepted by Dr. Hulbert. Two Protestant arbitrators were appointed, Principal MacVicar and Professor Scrimgour, and two Catholic, Rev. Fathers Jones and Doherty. A meeting was held this morning to appoint a fifth, and the name of the Rev. J. Clarke Murray, LL.D., Glasgow, Professor of Philosophy in McGill University, was mentioned. The Catholic arbitrators claimed a judge of their own faith, and no agreement could be come to, so that the controversial contest is not likely to take place.

Britain Still Annexing the U.S.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 29.—The Manufacturers' Record says a New York syndicate is seeking to purchase one or more paying extensive iron properties in the south. The Record reports the sale of the Embrewville Iron Works, comprising 45,000 acres of timber and mineral lands near Jonesboro, Tenn., to an English company who will develop the property on a large scale.

Fires of a Day.

MERRITTON, Aug. 29.—A fire occurred in a double tenement house, owned by James Cogan, and occupied by Mrs. Daly and Mrs. Burke. The furniture was badly damaged. The loss on the building will be about $400. No insurance on building or contents.

INGERSOLL, Aug. 29.—Mitchell's furniture store and R. H. Young's harness shop were slightly damaged by fire last night, fully insured.

TACOMA, W.T., Aug. 29.—The Deuber Lodging House was burned here to-day, loss $60,000.

AT THE WICKETS.

The Match Between McGill University and the Izingari Eleven Results in a Draw.

MONTREAL, Aug. 29.—A cricket match was played to-day between the McGill University club and the Izingari Eleven of Ontario, who are on a tour through Quebec. The match resulted in a draw, the stumps being pitched at 10 and drawn at 6.

The wicket was in good condition and thorough cricket weather prevailed. Good and careful play was exhibited and both teams showed some genuinely good work.

The collegians winning the toss chose batting and occupied the morning with the wickets. In the afternoon both teams had become accustomed to each other and the play was more skilful. The visitors played a capital game, the bowling of Dickey and McGivern being unusually good, but Turner of the home club seen better work with the ball, taking in one innings nine wickets and catching the tenth man. The batting on both sides was about equal, but Hodgson knocked up a creditable score. The College team scored 59 in the first innings and 63 in the second, while the visitors ran up 77 in their single innings.

THE U. S. ALIEN LABOR LAW.

A Discharged Employe of the 1000 Island Steamboat Co. Makes Trouble.

KINGSTON, Aug. 29.—The attempt made to remove various employes of the 1000 Island Steamboat Company from their positions has created considerable excitement. R. A. Irvin of the Thousand Island Park, interviewed, says: "The law does not only affect the officers named but nearly all of the deck hands and minor officers on the steamers Islander and St. Lawrence. There is no doubt that the men are all Canadians and were hired in Kingston. We intend to push the matter, and communications are expected from Washington daily. The fine I think is $500 for each person, and if paid will amount to a number of thousands. The complaint was made because a number of Americans were promised positions on the boats, and when spring came they were refused to make room for Canadians."

Captain Estes said: "I hired the quartermaster and nearly all of the deck hands at Clayton." It is an open question as to where the crew and the other officers were hired, and every one is waiting further developments. Captain Beaupre has called American vessels for five years and claims the law does not affect him in the least.

The complaint has been laid by a man whose services were dispensed with by the company.

THE DUST OF THEIR FEET

SHAKEN AGAINST PARNELL AND HIS ALLIES.

The Proposed Irish University Bill Creates a Disturbance Among the Liberals—The Irish Party's Position.

DUBLIN, Aug. 29.—United Ireland in a leading editorial informs the Radicals that the position of the Irish party regarding the project for the endowment of a Catholic college is the same as when it squelched the scheme for an underhand treaty with Rome sought to be negotiated by Lord Salisbury and the Irish Unionist Bishops, who now stood ready to sell Ireland to Balfour for a mess of pottage if they only had the country to sell. The Nationalists would welcome any genuine effort to settle the Irish question made by Parliament aboveboard, and would try to make it genuine. There their position ends. They do not ask nor do they expect assistance from the Radicals. They fight for a great principle which the Radicals also endorse. The question is one which should be settled by an Irish Parliament, but wanting that the Nationalists must be content in the meantime to take what reforms an English Parliament offers.

A Rift Within the Lute.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—The Pall Mall Gazette in an article entitled "A Rift within the Lute" says: "The cordial acceptance by the Parnellites of Mr. Balfour's proposition to endow an Irish university has induced the Liberals remaining at Westminster to shake the dust of their feet against Mr. Parnell and his allies."

The Gazette endorses Mr. Robertson's statement in Parliament to the effect that a very wide wedge had been driven, and asks: "Will the wedge result in a separation which shall leave the Gladstonians in the lurch? It is all up with the Home Rule party."

Continuing The Gazette says: "The Parnellites always have been and always will be a detached party, whose first and sole duty is to Ireland. If the Tories advance much further they will dish the Liberals by giving Home Rule to Ireland at two bites instead of one. This may be unpleasant for the Liberals, but not for the Home Rulers. The Liberals must have a cry in reserve against the time when Home Rule shall be mute for party purposes."

Chamberlain's Opinion.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Joseph Chamberlain says the Unionists fully concur with the Government in the matter of the Irish University Bill.

Mr. Chamberlain says there is nothing between the Unionists and the Government beyond a general feeling that the question of higher education in Ireland ought to be dealt with. He is not aware that any details of the scheme have been settled.

Distasteful to Orangemen.

BELFAST, Aug. 29.—At a meeting this evening Mr. Kane, the Grand Master of the Orangemen, strongly condemned the new university scheme and declared that Balfour's proposals would meet with determined opposition among Irish Protestants.

The Ulster Members Ignored.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—It is understood that the Government and the Catholic Hierarchy were in negotiation for some time with reference to the university scheme. Mr. Parnell was cognizant of the project, but the Ulster members of Parliament were completely surprised by the announcement of the scheme. The latter assert that the Government intended to ignore them.

Britain at One With Canada.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—The Canadian Gazette asks how it is that, while Behring Sea affairs are in so critical a state, the British Minister at Washington can afford to be basking in the sunshine of English society. The charge d'affaires at Washington cannot make the same weighty representations as his chief. The Gazette respectfully suggests that Washington and not London is the place where Minister Pauncefote should now be. The Behring Sea question continues to attract notice in the press here. The Canadian Gazette points out that practically there are no two opinions here on the subject, British public opinion, as represented in the organs of all parties, being at one with Canada.

Trying to Get the General Back.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—M. Laguerre is coming to London to try to persuade General Boulanger, on behalf of his followers in France, to return to Paris. M. Rochefort and Count Dillon oppose the return of Boulanger to France.

The Paris correspondent of The Times is confident General Boulanger will return to France before the elections.

A Village Wiped Out.

BERNE, Aug. 29.—The village of Tscherach in St. Gall was destroyed to-day by the fall of a portion of Mount Rubiberg. The villagers escaped.

William the Reformer.

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—Emperor William in an interview with a member of the Provincial Council to-day declared that the existing laws for the protection of laborers in Prussia were deplorable. They were insufficient, he said, to protect workmen from the greed of capitalists and reform was urgently necessary.

The Czar at Copenhagen.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 29.—The Czar and Czarina arrived here to-day.

A Millionaire Murderer.

VIENNA, Aug. 29.—A millionaire of this city named Fernbach to-day killed his wife and then attempted suicide.

The Bochum Meeting Closed.

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—The Catholic meeting at Bochum has closed. It was decided to meet in Munich in 1890. The proposal of an American delegate in favor of an international congress was adopted.

A Newspaper Laboured.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—The Daily News is prohibited from entering Turkey on account of its article on Armenia.

It is reported at Odessa that Armenia will formally appeal to the Czar to intervene for the protection of Christians from Turkish outrages.

A Pilgrimage to Rome.

PARIS, Aug. 29.—Ten thousand French workmen will make a pilgrimage to Rome at the end of October.

Famine in Transylvania.

PESTH, Aug. 29.—Owing to the failure of the crops a famine prevails in Maros-Torda, Eastern Transylvania.

Death of an Aged Ottawan.

OTTAWA, Aug. 29.—James D. Hoitt, one of the oldest and most highly respected settlers of Ottawa and for many years Treasurer of East Worthy, died last night at the home of his son-in-law, R. J. Mackie. He was in the 74th year of his age

Owen Sound's Carnival.

OWEN SOUND, Aug. 29.—The first day's program of the summer carnival was successfully carried out. The day was all that could be desired and thousands of people came in from all points. A lacrosse match was played between Owen Sound and Brampton, Owen Sound taking the first and third games, Brampton the second, fourth, fifth and sixth. Baseball, pigeon shooting and other amusements filled out the afternoon. This evening there was a display of fireworks on the bay and an illuminated procession of boats.

A Dominion Liner Ashore.

MONTREAL, Aug. 29.—The steam ship Lake Ontario of the Dominion Line left here at 7 o'clock this morning with a general cargo for Liverpool. When nine miles down the river at Point Aux Trembles she ran ashore on a soft bank. Tugs and lighters were sent down but the stranded steamer has not yet been gotten a cot. Mr. Torrance, the agent, states that no damage has happened to the vessel or cargo.

A Broken Tire.

HAMILTON, Aug. 29.—Twenty experts have been investigating the causes of the recent disasters on the Grand Trunk Railway at St. George and the Junction Cut. The experts came to the conclusion that a broken tire was the cause of the mishap at St. George. They did not decide what was the cause of the Junction Cut accident.

THE BRAIN (from a photograph)
In Healthy Condition. With Paresis Lesions.

There are many well known men confined in our Asylums who but a short time ago were prominent among our business and social circles.

Why are they there?

Paresis!

Did it come on at once?

Not at all. It was a gradual but positive growth. They overtaxed nature. The drain on their vitality, their nerve powers, their brain tissue, was too great, and they gradually but surely sank under it. The things they did to bring this sad end about are precisely the same things that are being done by thousands of men and women to-day. It is not necessary to name them. They all end disastrously unless checked or regulated.

Prof. Phelps, of Dartmouth College, knew this fully when he began his experiments which resulted in the discovery of the wonderful Paine's Celery Compound. He realized that paresis (consumption of the brain) was our great National weakness. He knew that the brain and nervous system must be fortified to meet the great strain which modern life bring upon it. He saw that men were becoming debilitated and women weakened by the pressure and demands of life, and he sought and discovered the remedy Paine's Celery Compound, if rightly taken will renew the brain and build up nerve tissues as fast as they become exhausted. It is not a narcotic. It contains no drugs, no nostrums. It is perfectly pure. It is absolutely harmless. The high character of its discoverer guarantees this, and the indorsement of the medical and chemical professions prove it.

Sweating the Farmer.

A Plum Creek, Man., settler writes to a Brandon paper, that there must be something wrong with the Customs department, because "they certainly charged me more than the 35 per cent. duty authorized by Parliament upon certain agricultural implements which I recently imported from Chicago, and Racine, Wis." This settler does not seem to be aware that the Customs department wields what is virtually a taxing power, distinct from that vested in it by the people's representatives. A farmer or an implement agent imports machines from the States. The Canadian duty as stated above, is 35 per cent., but the Customs officials are authorized to fix the valuation of the article, and by adding ten, twenty or thirty per cent. to the invoice price, they largely augment the duty paid by the settler. In this way, too, they contrive to harass and destroy the import trade, with the result that the settlers are left completely at the mercy of the Canadian makers. In spite of this system, however, a considerable number of American implements are still brought into Manitoba and the Territories. In a recent report to the Washington Government, Mr. Taylor, the United States Consul at Winnipeg, says that nearly 15 per cent. of the implement business is done with American houses. This of itself is an answer to the protectionist fable, that the N. P. enables the Canadian maker to turn out a better and a cheaper article than his competitors.

The revaluation system is, in fact, an additional prop to monopoly. Some time ago a firm of implement manufacturers in Western Ontario wanted five car loads of nuts and bolts. There was a combine among the few Canadian nut and bolt makers, and the firm wrote to the secretary of it, offering to pay the American price at Cleveland, O., plus the Canadian duty, for a consignment. The secretary refused to accept this figure, whereupon the firm imported the five car loads direct from Cleveland. But on its arrival at its destination the shipment was seized for undervaluation by the Customs authorities; and on enquiry the firm found that the secretary of the combine had been in communication with the Customs department, and had really prompted the seizure. The firm lost nothing in the end by this act of robbery, for of course the additional price was collected from the Canadian farmers who bought the implements into the manufacture of which the nuts and bolts entered. The farmer is the victim of last resort in all such transactions, and even the monopolists who prey upon him are beginning to ask how much longer he is likely to stand it.

The Husbands Commandments

1. I am thy husband, thou shalt have no other husband but me, whom thou didst vow to love, honor and obey, for I saved thee from old maidism, and rescued thee from the terror of single blessedness.

2. Thou shalt not look upon any other man to love or to admire him, for I thy husband am a jealous husband, who will visit the sins of the wife upon her followers, therefore keep thou faithfully to thy marriage vow.

3. Thou shalt not backbite thy husband, nor speak lightly of him, neither shalt thou expose his faults to thy neighbor, lest he should hear of it and punish thy perfidy by a deprivation of sundry items, such as bonnets, dresses, etc.

4. Remember the seventh day to keep it free from all unnecessary labor, for there are six days in which to do thy work. Thou shalt have thine house clean and tidy by 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, and there shall be no washing of children nor baking after that hour. Thou shalt do thy marketing alone, least in the company of other women thou buyest ribbons for thyself, instead of cigars for thy husband.

5. Honor thy husband's father and mother and not let thy thoughts wander selfishly towards their cupboard and pockets whilst so doing.

6. Thou shalt not box the children's ears nor thump them for plundering the sugar pot, or running away with the pastry or jam, for an hungry stomach knows no law, save eat and run.

7. Thou shalt not listen to flattery nor accept gifts and trinkets from any man save thy husband who esteemeth woman's purity her greatest ornament.

8. Thou shalt not rifle thy husband's pockets for coppers when he is asleep, neither shalt thou read any letters thou mayst find therein, for it is his business to look after his own affairs, and thy business to let his alone—ask not questions but believe.

9. Thou shalt conceal nothing from thy husband, always speak the truth, and make no false representation of the state of thy pantry and purse, for thy husband abhorreth petty larceny in the domestic department, which shall be punished by closing the exchequer till such financial frauds are abolished.

10. Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's furniture, nor her dress, nor her cape, nor anything that is hers; and when thou goest out with thine husband thou shalt not wear a crinoline nor any other dangerous machine likely to come in contact with his shins.

11. Look for no jewellery from thy husband on the anniversary of thy wedding, for it is written "blessed are they which expect nothing, for they shall not be disappointed."

Crowned or Uncrowned.

THE head of anyone suffering from constipation, biliousness or dyspepsia will harbor a sick headache. By regulating the bowels, arousing the torpid liver, improving digestion and purifying the blood Burdock Blood Bitters banishes sick headache, no matter how severe or obstinate it may be. 2w34i

The Four Cardinal Points

The stomach, the liver, the bowels and the blood are the four cardinal points of health. These Burdock Blood Bitters acts upon to strengthen, regulate, cleanse and purify, thus restoring and maintaining perfect health. B B. B. is nature's true tonic and renovator. 2w34d

MILBURN'S AROMATIC QUININE WINE is distinctly superior to any other as an appetizer tonic and febrifuge.

Plant Worship.

The plant worship, which holds so prominent a place in the history of the primitive races of mankind, would appear to have sprung from a perception of the beauty and utility of trees. Survivals of this still linger on in many parts of Europe. The peasants in Bohemia will sally forth into their gardens before sunrise on Good Friday and, falling upon their knees before a tree, will exclaim: "I pray, O green tree, that God may make thee good." At night time they will run to and fro about their gardens crying: "Bud, O trees, bud, or I will flog you."

In our own country the Devonshire farmers and their men will to this day go out into their orchards after supper on the evening of Twelfth day, carrying with them a large milk pail of cider, with roasted apples pressed into it. All present hold in their hands an earthenware cup filled with liquor, and taking up their stand beneath those apple trees which have borne the most fruit, address them in these words:

"Health to thee, good apple tree,
Well to bear pocket fulls, hat fulls,
Peck fulls, bushel bag fulls!"

simultaneously dashing the contents of their cups over the trees. The observance of this ceremony, which is locally known as "wassailing," is enjoined by Thomas Tusser in his work entitled "Five Hundred Points of Good Husbandry," wherein he bids the husbandman:

Wassail the trees that they may bear
You many a plum and many a pear;
For more or less fruit they will bring,
As you do them wassailing.

A Good Investment

is that which yields large returns from a small outlay. Reader, the way is clear! No speculation, no chance, big returns! If you are like most of mankind you have somewhere a weakness—don't feel at all times just as you'd like to—headache to-day, backache to-morrow, down sick next week—all because your blood is out of order. A small outlay and what large returns! You invest in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and soon pure, fresh blood courses through your veins, and you are another being! c

A Common Cold

Is often the beginning of serious affections of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes, and Lungs. Therefore, the importance of early and effective treatment cannot be overestimated. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral may always be relied upon for the speedy cure of a Cold or Cough.

Last January I was attacked with a severe Cold, which, by neglect and frequent exposures, became worse, finally settling on my lungs. A terrible cough soon followed, accompanied by pains in the chest, from which I suffered intensely. After trying various remedies, without obtaining relief, I commenced taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was Speedily Cured.

I am satisfied that this remedy saved my life.—Jno. Webster, Pawtucket, R. I.

I contracted a severe cold, which suddenly developed into Pneumonia, presenting dangerous and obstinate symptoms. My physician at once ordered the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. His instructions were followed, and the result was a rapid and permanent cure.—H. E. Simpson, Rogers Prairie, Texas.

Two years ago I suffered from a severe Cold which settled on my Lungs. I consulted various physicians, and took the medicines they prescribed, but received only temporary relief. A friend induced me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking two bottles of this medicine I was cured. Since then I have given the Pectoral to my children, and consider it for Colds, Coughs, and all Throat and Lung diseases, ever used in my family.—Robert Vanderpool, Meadville, Pa.

Some time ago I took a slight Cold, which, being neglected, grew worse, and settled on my lungs. I had a hacking cough, and was very weak. Those who knew me best considered my life to be in great danger. I continued to suffer until I commenced using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Less than one bottle of this valuable medicine cured me, and I feel that I owe the preservation of my life to its curative powers.—Mrs. Ann Lockwood, Akron, New York.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is considered, here, the one great remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs, and is more in demand than any other medicine of its class.—J. F. Roberts, Magnolia, Ark.

TRAINING A DOG.

HOW HE CAN BE TAUGHT THE MYSTERIES OF FIELD AND FOREST.

Early Lesson in Retrieving and the Secret of Yard Breaking—Becoming Accustomed to the Discharge of a Gun.

The proper age to begin breaking a pup varies from 6 to 10 months, according to the development of the pup in question. As a supposition we will say a desirable pup has been secured and chained to his kennel. No one should be allowed to feed, unchain, or have anything to do with him but his master, and he should never be unchained except when accompanying his master.

The first thing he is taught is to answer to his name, which, we will say, is Ned, that being easily spoken, and from its sharp ring can be heard clearly by the dog. After he responds readily to his name he is taught to "charge." "Charge" should be said in a sharp stern voice, tapping the pup at the same time with a whip. In all probability he will roll over on his back. Put him in position and make him remain so until he is called up. It takes but a few lessons to teach this, but if afterwards when commanded to "charge" he is not kept strictly to the proper position he will soon change it to a comfortable lie-down.

"OLD SPORT" HAVING SOME FUN.

Next throw a piece of meat some distance and command him to "hie on," helping him to find it. He will not need many lessons in this before "hie on" will start him hunting like a good fellow. A waive of the hand either to the right or the left will teach him to range on the side desired.

"Come in" is the expression used for calling him in, and "to heel" should bring him close to your feet, where he should remain until released. When teaching a pup to "retrieve" he should be put in a good humor by romping with him over a ball, which, on being thrown out, he will chase and probably bring to you. The word "fetch" should be used frequently when he is doing this. After he retrieves readily in this way, by degrees stop playing with him, until, at the word "fetch," given in a commanding voice, the ball, stick, or whatever it may be is brought in, and at the word "drop" given up to the trainer in a quiet, business-like way. The only reliable retriever is the one that retrieves from command and not from play, for a few hours' hard hunting will knock all the play out of a dog and at the same time his desire to "fetch."

THE FIRST LESSON—"WHOA"

Next attach a strong cord to his collar, show him a piece of meat and throw it where it will be in plain sight, commanding him to "hie on." He will, of course, make a rush for it. Say "whoa" and stop him with a jerk of the cord. Hold him there a moment; then start him up with a "click" of the tongue and allow him to eat the meat. To teach some dogs this it is necessary to use a spiked collar, but, as a rule, if the dog is handled properly he can be taught it without that degree of severity. After he understands that "whoa" means to stop and a "click" to go on, he will obey the commands without the use of a cord. A dog should be taught this so thoroughly that he can be stopped with his nose an inch from the meat and even have it in his mouth and drop it on the command "Whoa."

HUGGING THE GROUND.

He has also to be made accustomed to the report of a gun. This is accomplished by at first firing a small charge of powder at a considerable distance from him and each day increasing the charge and decreasing the distance. When doing this it is a good plan to chain a dog that is not timid near him. A pup should never be used in the field or cover until he has been yard-broken, as indicated above. When he has taken his degree in this, and not before, take him out. Watch closely every movement of the dog when he finds his first bird. What he does will be the key to his disposition and indicate how he should be treated. I have seen a pup on finding his first bird make as pretty a point as an old veteran. He seems to know just how near the game he can safely approach, and when he stops he is there for all day if necessary. To break such a one is all plain sailing, as he has only to be taught ranging and retrieving. Then there is the pup that on finding his first bird will drop to the ground and remain in a close charge. Such a dog has a keen nose and is sure to be stanch. He is, however, apt to be too sensitive and timid. A whip should scarcely ever touch him, and kind words will go farther with him than cross ones.

Another will pay no attention either to the scent or the bird itself, but run right over both. This is not a sure sign that his nose is deficient. It may be that instinct has not taught him what a game bird is; one should be killed and shown to him, and while it is still warm he should be allowed to smell and even mouth it a little, being at the same time encouraged with the hand and voice.

Another may follow the scent with much excitement until the bird is flushed, which shows a good nose and a strong hunting instinct, but also a tendency to be hot-headed and obstinate. He must be made to understand which is master, and to accomplish this the whip should be brought into requisition, but always judiciously. Never whip him unless he understands what he is being whipped for. When he first strikes the scent say, "Whoa." Hold him there a moment, and then allow him to follow it up a short way. He must be kept well under control while doing this, and made to do it in a steady, cautious manner. If he does not stop at the command to do so keep repeating the word "whoa" until he has been caught and has received a chastisement. When whipping a dog hold him securely by the collar. He can be held in this way to that the whip need not fall on his legs. I have seen dogs disqualified for the day's hunt and sometimes permanently injured by being struck on the legs.

Never shoot at a bird unless the pup has held his point. At the report of the gun bring the pup to heel. Reload and then tell him to "hie on," making him find the dead bird and point it; pick up the bird yourself. If the pup has a good nose the next all important point is that he should be stanch. To insure this he is not allowed to retrieve or touch the bird under any pretense for the first three months' work, and if he has a headstrong disposition it is far better not to let him retrieve until the second season.

He should, however, be given daily practice in retrieving a stick or a dog whip. This will keep him familiar with the command "fetch," and when the time comes for him to retrieve birds if he sees one drop in front of him and is told to "fetch" he is only too glad to do so, and the probability is he will be careful not to mouth the bird, as he is not quite sure if he is doing right or not to touch it at all. When he gets the dead bird in his mouth he should bring it immediately to the master. Do not allow him to play with it, but make much of him after the bird is safely stowed away. If a bird is knocked down and seen to be only winged, unless the pup has proved himself to be a careful retriever, do not let him fetch it. For if anything will make him hard-mouthed it is the aggravation of bringing in a flapping bird.

After the pup has become stanch, a good retriever, and ranges in a way that shows he understands his business, bear in mind he can easily be ruined. For instance, if he is standing a bird, never mind in how tough a place, the gunner should flush it. Don't allow the dog to do so. It is also a bad plan to put a bird up by throwing anything at it. The falling missile is apt to make him break his point. If a bird is flushed and the dog did it willfully, bring him to heel and give him a whipping, saying "Whoa" with each cut of the whip. If he is not seen in the act of flushing the bird bring him to heel and a good scolding will suffice, as he may have put it up accidentally. Never kill anything but a game bird over him and if he points or makes game on anything else reprimand him. A man may lend his last dollar or only suit of clothes to his friend, but never his dog. For it is a case of "too many cooks spoil the broth," and a dog with more than one master recognizes no master at all.

As a Tonic and relief to sufferers from Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, loss of appetite and general debility Dyers quinine and Iron wine is highly recommended. W. A. Dyer & Co. Montreal. 6d43

Timely Wisdom

TIMELY wisdom is shown by those who keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry on hand. It has no equal for cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhoea, dysentery, colic, cramps and all summer complaints or looseness of the bowels. 2w34

Safe and Reliable

I HIGHLY recommended Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for curing cholera, cholera morbus, colic, cramps, diarrhoea, dysentry and all summer complaints. It is safe and reliable for children and older persons. Miss Hiley Beckeridge Heyworth, Que. 2w34d

The Loss of the Hair

Is a great misfortune and the sight of a bald head should be a warning to you to take the best possible care of your hair. A little of Dr. Dorenwend's "Hair Magic" used occasionally will prevent all chances of its falling out or turning gray, and will remove all traces of dandruff. Every druggist has it in stock. Ask for it. dw

MANY a sufferer from Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, loss of appetite, general debility, etc., will be glad to find that Dyer's Quinine and Iron Wine is strongly recommended for such cases—it is easily assimilated, prepared with great care, and is an admirable tonic. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal. 6d47

The Oklahoma Boom

FORMS an instance of a wild rush for an uncertainty, which is just the opposite of the steady boom enjoyed by Burdock Blood Bitters. Buyers of this medecine get a certainty—an unequalled remedy for all diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels, kidneys and the blood. 2w34d

in the western part of the Town, and offer it in lots as per plan annexed. This affords a splendid opportunity to secure a location for your home in a rapidly improving and in every respect the best part of the town. The properties are situated on Cedar and Hatton streets and within a stone's throw of the West Ward School and a short distance of the principal Churches and the Hamilton Co'y. Works.

"ERIN COTTAGE," late the residence of Mr. Klias Thompson, is situated in the centre of the block. This property is for sale or can be had at a bargain. It is a desirable suburban residence.

The lots have good frontages on streets of the standard width and are splendidly located. From the upper lots is afforded one of the best views of the town with ample facilities for drainage.

Several fine dwellings are already contracted for to be built on these lots during this season.

Tradesmen and merchants should inspect this property as it offers the best sites available and convenient to the business part of the town.

Shropshires for Breeding.

Messrs. Brown Bros., Springville, breeders of registered Shropshire sheep and Berkshire pigs, have just sold two fine shearling rams to Matthewson Bros., of Bradley, Dakota, who are buying a quantity of thoroughbred sheep in Ontario. Brown Bros have only been in this business a short time, but are meeting with success. They always sell all the sheep they raise at figures that pay them well. They say the farmers of this locality are losing money by not raising Shropshire sheep.

Fast Binding.

A Springville correspondent of the Millbrook Reporter writes:—John McIntosh, of North Monaghan, cut sixteen acres of wheat, which was in three separate fields, in eleven hours. The binder used was Peter Hamilton's manufacture, and Mr. Samuel Beavis used 20 lbs of Red Cap binding twine on five acres of fall wheat. These are only a few of the many reports of much twine and fast cutting that I have on hand, but as I know these gentlemen to be good Presbyterians, [illegible] (printed) free. The Social at Fairy Land.

Everything was propitious for the success of the lawn social at the residence of Mr. A. L. Davis last night. Perfect weather, the most beautiful grounds in town and such charming hosts as the Ladies Aid Society of the Charlotte street church have always proved themselves to be—it is certainly surprising that there was not a larger attendance of people. However, there were perhaps more on the ground than might be inferred from a casual glance. The guests were scattered all over the spacious lawn, and on smaller premises there would have been what is called "a crowd" present. There was every opportunity afforded for enjoyment. The house was beautifully decorated with chinese lanterns, while the grounds were illuminated by five electric lights. Guests had right of way everywhere. No obnoxious signs, "please keep off the grass," stared the visitor in the face; he could roam at will over the velvety sward or through the shaded walks, while seats were scattered about under the trees where the visitor could rest awhile and take in the beauties of the scene. The trim lawn was begemmed with flower beds, while the front of the house was banked up with flowers and foliage. The dew sparkled in the brilliant light, and as the sweet strains of music from the band were wafted to the ear on the cool breeze, with the sounds of laughter and gay conversation filling the air, one could almost imagine it was indeed fairyland. The house was thrown open to guests and a number sought shelter from the dews inside, where they were entertained by piano forte music contributed impromptu by well known local performers. The refreshment and flower tents were well patronized, and a considerable sum was realized in this way. The band furnished delightful music without stint, and altogether it was a splendid affair. The electric lights were supplied through the courtesy of Mr. T. G. Hazlitt. There was no programme of entertainment, but the ladies in charge of the social did everything in their power to give visitors a pleasant time, and that they succeeded does not need to be stated. The ladies are to be congratulated upon the splendid result of their efforts to provide an evening's enjoyment for their friends, and it is to be regretted that more people did not avail themselves of the opportunity of visiting "Fairyland." Mr. and Mrs. Davis entered heartily into all the arrangements and did their best to make the social a success. The proceeds netted $75.

SUPERIOR Tea, 5 lbs for $1, at M. R. KIDD'S.

The Col. Williams Monument.

The Williams' monument, at Port Hope, is now completed and the statue placed in position, ready for the unveiling on Sept. 4th. The Guide says the pedestal is some five feet square and ten feet high, of Gray Granite. The centre stone weighed seven tons, is polished and lettered in gold as follows:—

"TO COMMEMORATE

The devoted and heroic bravery of Lieutenant Colonel Arthur T. H. Williams, M.P., commanding the Midland Battalion of volunteer militia, who after gallantly leading the victorious and decisive charge at the battle of Batoche during the rebellion in the North-west Territory, died of sickness while in the discharge of his duty, near Fort Pitt, July 4th, 1885. This monument is erected in his native town by his countrymen throughout Canada assisted by his companions in arms and the government of the Dominion."

Laid at Rest.

The funeral of the late Henry J. Rossiter took place this afternoon under Foresters' auspices. It was largely attended. The fire brigade band led the procession, and the hearse was followed by about fifty brethren of the order. Deceased was insured for $1,000 in the Order of Foresters. He had no other insurance on his life.

School Re-opening.

Mayor Stevenson, chairman of the School Board, informed the EXAMINER to-day that owing to the repairs to the schools being incomplete the opening of the fall term would be deferred till Wednesday, Sept 4th. This includes all the public schools.

No Disappointment.

Barnum's train was wrecked on Thursday night last. A broken axle was the cause. Six cars were derailed and two completely telescoped so that everything in them were crushed—except D. Whiting's pound cake and mixed cakes, which are all right yet. So you will not be disappointed at his picnic as the people of Montreal were with Barnum's circus. Wa-hoo! Big Injin me! Big picnic too, on Thursday, Sept 5th, at Davies' Point, Smith.

Willow and Wicket.

The Quidnuncs scored another victory at Montreal Thursday, defeating an eleven of McGill College and Victoria Rifles clubs. The latter's scores were 59 and 63; Quidnuncs 77 in the first. Of this number Winslow (Toronto) made 15 and W. A. Stratton (Peterborough) 12, the second best score. Mr. Stratton is to be congratulated upon having so ably sustained his cricketing reputation in the lower province. At Quebec he made the top score of the day, 43. Messrs. W. D. Parker and J. Stirling, of Peterborough, were also among the victorious eleven.

Sawdust in Streams.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Mail says:—The officials of the Fishery Department here are quite willing to drop the prosecution against mill-owners in the vicinity of Peterborough provided that no further infractions of the law against emptying sawdust and other mill rubbish into fish-breeding streams are committed by the mill-owners on the Otonabee river, otherwise the prosecutions will go on, and the full penalty of the law will be exacted. Orders were sent to Peterborough to suspend the prosecutions in cases where bona fide efforts were shown to prevent sawdust emptying into the river.

A Promenade Concert.

The directors of the Horticultural Exhibition intend making a new departure this year. They propose holding a promenade concert at the rink the evening of the show. The tables and exhibits will be so arranged as to make a promenade course all around the building, while a number of quiet nooks and shady bowers will be arranged for the comforts of visitors. The promenade will be quite a novelty. The guests will be surrounded on all sides by flowers and products of the field and orchard, while the band will render its finest musical selections. The galleries will also be open to promenaders. The exhibition this year promises to be unusually successful. Lovers of fruit and flowers should not fail to attend next Thursday night, Sept. 4th, at the Charlotte street rink.

Personal.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Cox, of Toronto, and Mrs. A. E. Ames, of Lindsay, were present at the lawn social at Mr. A. L. Davis' residence last night.

Miss Niel, head dressmaker at Robert Fair's dry goods establishment, who has been sojourning out of town on her holidays and is at present in Toronto, will resume her duties on Monday the 2nd September.

The Lorneville correspondent of the Lindsay Warder writes:—We regret to learn that Mr. J. W. Lyons, night despatcher at Peterborough is ill of typhoid fever. Wes was a favorite while here, and he will know if this should catch his eye, we mean it, when we say we wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. Charles Mackenzie, of Lambton, has accepted the nomination of the Liberal Convention, and will contest West Lambton to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Hon. T. S. Pardee. Hon. G. W. Ross Minister of Education who was present, delivered a stirring address, in which he replied to the attacks made upon the Department of Education, particularly in reference to Separate Schools and to the teaching of English in the French districts of the Provinces. His remarks gave complete satisfaction and proved conclusively that there was no ground for the charges so persistently made by those who are endeavoring to stir up the passions of the people by unworthy appeals to national and religious prejudices. During the proceedings Mr. Ross was presented with an address and a magnificent bouquet of flowers by the teachers of the Petrolea schools.

News Nuggets.

—W. A. Lingham, of Belleville, a bicyclist well known in Peterborough, has retired from the track. He goes to California.

—Harry Lindley has written a play called "Ben Hur," which he proposes to put on the boards in the United States. His company is engaged to play at several fairs [illegible]

An Alliance Call.

A Council Convention to be Held in Toronto Sept. 12 and 13.

The council of the Dominion Alliance for the Total Suppression of the Liquor Traffic, has issued a call for a convention to be held in Richmond Hall, Toronto, Sept. 12 and 13. Among other things the call says:—

"This will be the first meeting of the council of the alliance on its new basis, which provides that the council shall be composed of representatives of the respective synods, conferences, unions, committees and other religious bodies in the different provinces of the Dominion representatives of the different provincial temperance organizations and representatives of the provincial branches of the alliance.

"While there is every reason for encouragement in the strong and growing sentiment of our country, and particularly of our churches, in favor of temperance and prohibition, the battle is not yet won. The position of our cause in Canada, the recent seeming reverses which that cause has sustained, the mighty and aggressive power of the liquor traffic, and the unsettled condition of political affairs, make it desirable that at this juncture we should be more than ever wise, prompt and united in all our movements, so as to secure the best and most permanent results. It is earnestly hoped that, in prayerful deliberation towards that end, the representatives of every phase of our common cause will unite in this, the first meeting of this character ever held in the Dominion of Canada."

The officers of the Alliance for 1889 are:—Hon. A. Vidal, president; J. J. McLaren, Q.C., chairman of executive; J. H. Carson, recording secretary; W. H. Orr, treasurer.

Army Changes.

The local corps of the Salvation Army is in charge of new officers now. Capt. Ada Hines, who has had command since last winter, has been transferred to Toronto and been made Brigade captain. Her place has been taken by Capt. Brooks, an officer lately returned from England, where he has been recruiting his health. Lieut Fleming, late of Lindsay, is with him.

Board of Trade.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Peterborough Board of Trade is called for Tuesday evening, Sept. 3rd. Owing to other attrations it is understood that the Board will meet and adjourn till the following evening, when the Secretary's report of his visit as delegate to the Hamilton Convention will be read, and other business.

The Day at Harwood.

Rev. Father Sweeney's pic-nic at Harwood yesterday was a grand success. There was a large attendance and a good sum was realized in behalf of the church fund. About 200 persons went down from Peterborough on the Golden Eye, and they all report having had a pleasant time. An event of local interest was the competition for a valuable cane between Dr. McGrath and Mr. L. M. Hayes, town. After a close vote Dr. McGrath was declared the lucky man.

Ashburnham Brevities.

New Dry Goods Store.

The people of Ashburnham are to be congratulated upon having a new dry goods and stationery store established in their midst. Mr. M. H. LeHane has opened up a first class stock of all such good as are usually found in a first class dry goods store and the people of the village are so well pleased with the new venture that they are patronizing him liberally and he is already doing a flourishing business. They find it very convenient to procure their wants with out the trouble of walking to town. He also keeps a stock of school books, school supplies of all kind, and stationery, and he is bound to succeed. Ashburnham people should give him a call for in doing so they will benefit themselves and assist in building up another business establishment to lessen the taxes.

London Electric Soap is only made by D Richards, Woodstock. Trade mark registered.

Selling the Rat.

Dr. McCresswell is troubled with rats—that is to say, rats infest his drug store. Every now and then he will find a large rat in the trap. The other day an unusually large one was caught. It was not killed, for the doctor is too tender hearted to kill anything. Mr. Rat was chloroformed, and while asleep a tiny silver bell attached to a piece of silk was placed round the rat's neck. After painting the day and date of capture on the rat's back restoratives were used, and the rodent was soon in a condition to walk about the cage trap. The merry tinkle of the bell produced a queer sensation on the rat. It's a fact, the countenance of the rat assumed a livid hue and it became so nervous that its teeth chattered. Then the rat was freed, and darting in its hole disappeared. What effect the tinkling of the bell had on the other rats can better be imagined than described, but all the rats have left the drug store.—Washington Capital.

A Cat Commits Suicide.

A tabby cat belonging to the family of David B. Paul, Wallingford, is reported to have committed suicide while grieving over the loss of her family of five kittens that had been drowned in order to keep down the cat population. When the old cat missed her offspring she went tearing over the house, showing her great distress by loud mewing. Failing to find the kittens after a long search, she went up to the third story and deliberately jumped out on the porch roof below. When picked up old tabby was dead, her neck being broken in the fall.—Philadelphia Press.

The Shah's Mascot.

A new and noticeable figure among the numerous dignitaries and officials in the suite of the shah of Persia is a young boy of 12, whom the shah has covered with dignities and titles, and who is an object of envy and fear to most of his majesty's ministers. His name is Goolamali Khan. He is the director of the corps of "royal pages," and one of his titles is Azizus-Sultan, "Favorite of the Monarch." Neither minister, vizier nor royal prince has ever yet been allowed to sit at the shah's table, but Goolamali Khan is an exception to this law of the Persians. He is constantly by his master's side, and has more servants to wait upon him than any two of the royal ministers. The explanation of this extraordinary treatment is to be found in the Persian monarch's conviction that his life is inseparably and mysteriously bound up with that of Goolamali Khan, and that wise men have foretold that the shah's death will be preceded only a few days by that of his young favorite; that the health and prosperity of the latter will mean the health and prosperity of the former, and that, generally, whatever befalls this little one will also happen to his royal protector. This belief has resulted in the boy leading a life of ease and luxury unknown to the most fortunate courtiers in Teheran. He was seated on the knees of two magnificent grandees on the shah's entry into St. Petersburg.—New York Star.

The Cause of Fainting.

Chief among the causes of fainting attacks in churches and other places of public meeting are overheating and impurity of atmosphere. Both are to a great extent preventable, but, though some success has been gained in the way of prevention, much remains to be done before the air in our large assembly rooms can be regarded as pure enough to meet the requirements of a large audience. The introduction of the electric light has brought some relief, and the purifying effect of artificial ventilation, as represented by the fan system and the heated exit flue, is quite appreciable. There is still, however, a wide field open, and the inventor of a perfect system of ventilation for public buildings will not only be a public benefactor, but should also reap a very substantial reward.—New York Telegram.

Police Court.

FRIDAY, Aug. 30.

Three boys, Wallie Herron, Arthur Herron and Johnnie Gross, were before the magistrate this morning charged with rifling the orchards of Messrs. Meharry and Earle on Edinburgh street. They boys were given a lecture and allowed to go on suspended sentence.

Two informations against Mr. R. R. Hamilton for infractions against the Liquor license act were tried this morning. The charges were that the defendant sold liquor at his restaurant after hours on Saturday, 24th inst., and on Sunday the 25th. A number of witnesses were examined but the evidence was not sufficient to warrant a conviction. The charges were dismissed.

UNDER THE GUILLOTINE

Further Particulars of the Execution of Murderer Noel at St. Pierre.

MONTREAL, Aug. 29.—A private despatch was received in the city from St. Pierre-Miquelon, giving an account of the execution of Noel, the French fisherman who was condemned to death some months ago for the atrocious murder of an elderly man named Coupart, whom he cut to pieces after the style of Jack the Ripper. There was no guillotine and no executioner in the place, and the authorities were much embarrassed as to how the execution was to be carried out. The Privy Council had decided that justice must take its course, as an example was deemed necessary, but the Governor was unable to find a contractor who would undertake the erection of a guillotine or a man to work it and was obliged to telegraph to the French Government. A guillotine was sent out by way of New York. Saturday last was fixed for the execution, and at 3 a.m. on that day Noel was aroused and told to prepare for death. One hour afterwards the condemned man was carried out, bound hand and foot, and driven in a carriage to Courbet square, where the execution was to take place.

In spite of the early hour there were about 2000 people on the square besides the authorities whose duty it was to see the execution carried out. While the executioner was making his arrangements Noel recognized him and said. "Ah! well, Jean Marie, you are going to kill me. You will have another to kill before long. You ought to offer me a last drink before I die. I will be the first man to die in this way here; would to God I were the last."

The executioner was more nervous than the condemned man, and placed the latter too far forward on the block. "My neck is too far ahead," said Noel; "you will strike my shoulders. I beg of you don't be long and above all don't miss your stroke." The executioner was over a minute getting the man in the proper position, and Noel was about to speak once more when the executioner touched the lever and the knife came down on Noel's neck. The head was severed from the neck, but remained hanging by a piece of skin, which the executioner had to cut with his pocket knife. When the head fell in the basket convulsive contractions were noticed for a moment.

Cannon Ball Capers.

Capt. Meredith, John Ritchie and George Shields, known as "old bosses" and "old timers," sat around in the Press club one afternoon recently and talked about the times of the war and told of the funny capers that cannon balls and musket balls cut. Capt. Meredith said he once found a dead Confederate behind a tree. The dead man was resting on one knee, in a position to shoot. His musket was in his hands, the butt of the gun was against his shoulder, and one eye was open, squinting along the gun barrel. There wasn't a mark on the body, but the man was stone dead. There was a ten pound cannon ball buried in the tree. The man had been killed by the concussion.

Mr. Shields said that he saw a cannon ball go into the ground about 200 yards in front of where he was standing. He thought that was the end of the matter, but in about three seconds the ball came out of the ground fifty yards beyond the place it struck. It then in its flight struck a stump, carromed off, broke a soldier's leg, and, rolling on a few yards further, upset a camp kettle and scalded a man's hands.

John Ritchie said he saw a man hit with a "spent" cannon ball. He walked over to where the man lay to see what he could do for him—give him a drink out of his canteen, or a chew of tobacco, or something—but all that was visible was a mass of about 100 pounds of flesh and blue cloth, mixed up like sausage, with an eye and two teeth sticking out on top.

Capt. Meredith said that, speaking of cannon balls, one of the most novel sights he witnessed during the war was a cannon ball about as big as a flour barrel going through a horse lengthwise—that is, lengthwise of the horse. There was left of the horse its head, its four feet and the lower six inches of its tail.

When it reached this stage I saw that there was a disposition to break down the ropes and let everybody take a hand in the lying, so I got away before I was crippled.—Chicago Mail.

Trapping Mosquitoes.

Three or four men were sitting on the piazza of a seaside cottage smoking. It was evening. The stars were as thick in the sky as freckles on a red headed girl's face. The waves came in on the beach with a swish-swash-swosh just as they have done ever since the second day of the creation.

More piercing than the song of the waves were the notes, and more multitudinous than the stars of heaven the number of the mosquitoes that haunted that piazza, and every one of them was "looking for blood." The men had ceased smoking for fun. They now puffed their pipes and cigars to keep the mosquitoes away.

"Something funny about mosquitoes," said one rather absent mindedly.

"Yes, rather," was the drawling reply.

"Funny how much blood it takes to fill one of them up."

"No, but honest, now; do you know that if a mosquito'd get his bill down into your hand he can't pull it out while you hold your breath?"

"Don't believe it."

"It is true, however, for I have tried it."

"Bet you the cigars a mosquito can take his bill out at any time he wants to do it, and we will try it right here. Is it a go?"

"It is, and I'll let them try." A lamp was lighted, the cigars put out and all waited. In less than a minute a mosquito had placed himself on Tom's hand and begun operations.

"Now," said Tom, and placed the forefinger of his other hand down close to the mosquito. It did not budge. He placed his nail against the abdomen of the insect and whirled it around. Still it remained fixed.

"You can do it every time," said Tom, as he killed the mosquito and drew a long breath.

It is a fact. Go and try it.—Boston Globe.

Notice to Creditors.

In the Matter of FRANCIS J. BOLDRICK, of the Village of Norwood, Merchant.

NOTICE is hereby given that the above named Francis J. Boldrick, has this day made an assignment to me of his estate and effects, in trust, for the benefit of his creditors, in pursuance of Revised Statutes of Ontario, Chapter 124. A meeting of the creditors of the said estate will be held in the office of the Assignee, in the Town of Peterborough, on Tuesday, September 10th, 1889, at the hour of 3 o'clock in the afternoon, for the appointment of inspectors, and the giving of directions for the disposal of the estate.

Creditors are required to file their claims with the undersigned, duly verified, on or before the day of such meeting; and are notified that after September 30th, next, the Assignee will proceed to distribute the assets of the estate among the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to the claims of which notice has been duly given, and that he will not be liable for the assets or any part thereof so distributed, to any person or persons, of whose debt or claim, he shall not then have had due notice.

Dated at Peterborough, 26th August 1889.

JAS. A. HALL,

A Lucky Ticket Holder.

The drawing of prizes in connection with the Kearney Bazaar, a number of tickets for which were disposed of here, took place at Father McGuire's picnic at Gravenhurst, on Wednesday August 14th. The name J. H. Cote, of Peterborough, appears on the list of successful ticket holders as having drawn one of the valuable premiums. The drawing was one of the many agreeable features of Father McGuire's picnic which was carried out in a most successful and satisfactory manner. The picnic and drawing of prizes realised over seven hundred dollars.

FOR OF SUCH IS SCIENCE.

AN INTERESTING DAY IN THE LEARNED ASSOCIATION.

The Number of Papers at the Present Meeting Foots Up to 202—Many Valuable Contributions Yesterday—Notes of the Convention.

TORONTO, Aug. 31.

The American Scientists were in all their glory yesterday. They revelled in their favorite domains, discussed their special topics, had their ranks recruited by 62 additional members and swelled the number of papers on the list for the Toronto meeting to 202.

Although there was much variety there was little novelty in the proceedings. All the sections met both morning and afternoon. There were more papers announced for each section than could be read. One disadvantage of the number of contributions is that the time for discussion is greatly curtailed; in fact in the greater number of instances there was no discussion, and some papers were taken as read. All the contributions will be printed in the association's annual volume.

Pleasure was agreeably mixed with business, the lunch tables were thronged, the afternoon driving-out parties were numerous, the bountiful reception at Mrs. W. H. Beatty's tasteful residence in the Queen's Park was largely patronized and highly appreciated; and the Pavilion and Horticultural Gardens were once again a grand rallying point in the evening.

About Anthropology.

Of the sections the Anthropological was to a large number the most interesting. Here, under the presidency of Mr. Garrick Mallery of Washington, Mr. C. C. Abbott showed the evidence of the successors of paleolithic man in the Delaware River valley; Mr. George Byron explained the Wyandot mound region; Mr. H. Henshaw a new linguistic family in California; and Miss Alice C. Fletcher the phonetic alphabet of the Winnebago Indians.

Mrs. E. Hitchcock read a ten minutes' paper on the Three Towers of Silence. She gave an account of the Parsee Dokmas at Bombay and the origin of the custom of exposing the dead to be eaten by beasts and vultures. The Parsees were expelled from Persia by the persecutions of the Mohammedans and finally established themselves in Bombay, where they now number about 78,000, constituting an influential and wealthy portion of the community. They retain their old customs and observances. The interesting paper was illustrated by original photographs and drawings.

Mr. R. Carrington Bolton, New York City, learnedly discussed on the abstruse topic of Seega, an Egyptian game. The author learned the game of seega from Bedouins in the Desert of Sinai. It is similar to draughts, yet has novel principles and is a clever game of skill. The author illustrated his paper by a black-board diagram.

Mr. de Cost Smith of Skaneateles, N. Y., read a paper on Onondaga Shamanic masks and their use, exemplified by specimens of masks and rattles. The masks are symbolical of supernatural evil beings and their aid is invoked to drive away witches. They are believed to cause or remove illness. These evil spirits are propitiated with feasts and sacrifices of Indian tobacco. An interesting account of these ceremonies was given.

Mr. A. E. Douglas exhibited and explained a gold ornament from Florida. He recounted the traditions prevalent amongst the various tribes of a country to the northward producing gold; and cited the testimony of the early Spanish and French explorers to the presence of gold there. He gave reasons for concluding that none of the gold found in Florida could have come from North Georgia. It had never been found by the earliest expeditions in that State, either in use among the natives or in mines. What the Indians described as gold in Georgia proved to be copper. There was an abundance of wrecks on the Atlantic coast during the 16th century, and a great amount of treasure was secured by the Indians. The inference of the author was that all the known articles of gold in Florida have thus been procured.

Mr. David Reid Keys of University College, Toronto, in his paper on artificial tongues treated of the scientific value of a universal language. He described the early attempts to create such a language and the modern one entitled Volapuk. He showed both its merits and defects, and that of the Neo-Latin international language. Both, he maintained, were inadequate. In conclusion he commented on the value of language study to the scientific worker.

An Indian Medicine Society.

Dr. W. J. Hoffman of the Bureau of Ethnology, Washington, read a paper on "The Midewiwin, or Grand Medicine Society of the Ojibwa Indians." The so-called secret societies of these tribes have been mentioned by various writers. One of the most important of such societies is the Grand Medicine Society. In this is preserved the most interesting collection of myths pertaining to the Ojibwa cosmogony, the origin and constitution of the society, the ritual of initiation and the secrets of prophesy. Mnemonic charts pertaining to the above have been collected and explained by the chief Mide of the society. Instead of being limited to a single degree this body is graded into four distinct degrees with the collateral branch, the Ghost Society, through which candidates may undergo special ceremonies obtain the preliminary privileges of the first degree. The writer has for two years been engaged upon official ethnologic investigations among the Ojibwa, and has secured very full notes of the proceedings of the society. Dr. Hoffman has this summer been initiated into all the degrees of the Grand Medicine Society, and is believed to be the first white man who has gone through such initiations. He gave interesting particulars of the rites of initiation and a vast amount of information not hitherto published.

Vice-President Charles A. White of Washington had a crowded audience in the section of Geology and Geography. Amongst the papers read and discussed were: "Topographic Types of Northeastern Iowa," by Mr. W. J. McGee; "The Lake Ridges of Iowa," Mr. G. F. Wright; "Moraines and Glaciers," Mr. C. R. Dryer; "The Attractive Scenery of America," Mr. A. S. Rickmore; "The Mastodon of Kent," Mr. E. Jones; "Remarkable New Fossil Plants," Sir William Dawson; "The Mammoth Cave," Mr. R. C. Hovey; "The Devonian System," Mr. H. S. Williams.

Mr. A. E. Douglas interestedly described a portrait pipe from Central America. There is an absence of any reference to pipes with bowls upon the stems by the early historians of the conquest of Mexico. Still such pipes are found in museums. These are generally of terra cotta, glazed highly, and sometimes in colors and ornamented with incised lines. He gave a description of a pipe with three faces carved upon the bowl, found among the debris of Indian workings in a pre-Columbian gold mine in San Salvador, Central America. The faces were identical with those of early Indian tribes of the neighborhood not yet extinct. The author gave his reasons for concluding the pipe to be a veritable pre-Columbian relic.

Economic Science and Statistics.

This was a most interesting section yesterday. There were ten papers set down for reading, all of which possessed much merit. Two of them, each by well known local men, had to be omitted, but will come up again on Monday. The first was one by Dr. G. Sterling Ryerson on "Statistical Results of the Examination of Eyesight of 3000 Public School Children." The Doctor's views on the evils of lack of color save black and white in school furnishings and practical study are well known and the connection between this and color-blindness. The other paper to which allusion is here made was by Mr. William Houston, librarian at the Parliament buildings. His postponed topic is "The Abolition of Slavery in Upper Canada." Amongst papers read were: "The Connection of Food with Race," Miss Nellie B. Kedzie; "National Interest in Material Resources," Mr. B. E. Fernow; "Agricultural Experiment Stations," Mr. W. O. Atwater; "Agriculture in the Arid Regions," Mr. J. Richards Trudge; "Development of Trade Channels," Mr. Henry C. Taylor; "The Sciences of Economic Engineering," Mr. Gustav Lindenthall; "Industrial Education," Laura Osborn Talbot.

The Sociological Position of Protection and Free Trade

Ms. Lester F. Ward read an elaborate paper on this topic. He explained the scientific position of both Protection and Free Trade and their sociological conceptions. The theoretical protectionist and the free trader both start from the same postulate, namely, that the test of soundness in a principle is that its application results in the general good of human society in its highest sense. A protective tariff is only one of a large class of means which not only states but corporations, institutions and individuals adopt to encourage activities which are supposed to be beneficial to society. Few would deny the right and justice of this. The common principle of all forms of protection was that of subvention or bounty. It does not differ in any essential particular from bonusing. The benefit of bounties or subventions was not always apparent. The Prussian system of restricting trade for the sake of raising revenue is to-day defended in this country, and still stranger, defended by those who in various degrees are advocating free trade. It is only when duties are levied upon articles that cannot be produced in the country that levies them that it really becomes true that "the tariff is a tax." It is proved by the history of American tariff legislation and that of prices that a tariff for protection not only is not a tax but that it is often a means of reducing prices and preserving a healthy competition. Illustrations are abundant and the mere mention of American watches, steel rails and woolen goods is sufficient. Resort to a tariff for protection was had much later than to a tariff for revenue. As a statement became wiser and more far-sighted they began to perceive that by regulating trade so as to keep out products that can be obtained at home the resources of their respective countries could be developed and nations rendered self-sustaining and independent. This national sentiment was the principal motive in securing the adoption of protective tariffs and it is undoubtedly still one of the leading motives. A statesman is not a humanitarian, but the history of protection has proved that with States as with individuals those acts which are performed in self-defence are usually the ones that best conduce to the collective weal. Experiment soon showed that this ingenious economic device, as it might be called, not only brought revenue to the treasury and independence to the state, but prosperity to the people. By it the very character of the population of a people may be changed and an almost exclusively agricultural people may be transformed into a people of multiplied pursuits, each individual ministering to the needs of all the rest. From a dull and monotonous life of arcadian simplicity the same community becomes awakened into physical and mental activity, industry, traffic and trade fill the country with all the characteristics of a free, enlightened and enterprising nation. Of all the means which have thus far been hit upon by statesmen for the beneficial modification of social phenomena and the attraction of human activities into advantageous channels that of the protective tariff has proved the most successful and far-reaching in its effects.

Biological.

There were no less than 18 papers in this section, over which Vice-President George L. Goodale of Cambridge, Mass., presided. The more interesting were: "The House Fly," Mr. John B. Smith; "Reserve Food Substances in Twigs," Mr. Byron D. Halsted. "The Relation between Temperature and Vertebræ in Fishes," Mr. D. S. Jordan; "Bacterial Diseases of Indian Corn and Cauliflour," Messrs T. J. Burrill, J. C. Arthur.

The six papers in the Mathematical and Astronomy section were of a purely technical nature, as were the 11 in that of Physics, the seven in the Chemistry section, and the six in that of Mechanical Science and Engineering.

CABINET REORGANIZATION.

An Ottawa Liberal Paper Predicts Numerous Changes.

OTTAWA, Aug. 30.—The Free Press says: "From Conservative sources information comes that important changes are to be made in the Dominion Cabinet before Parliament meets. It is stated that Hon. Mackenzie Bowell will become Minister of Trade and Commerce. Hon. J. J. C. Abbott will stay where he is as leader of the Senate. Mr. Colby, M. P., the present Deputy Speaker, is likely to become head of the Customs Department, which will be a branch of the Trade and Commerce, with the title of Comptroller or Commissioner, which will carry with it a seat in the Cabinet. The Department of Public Works will extend itself and take to its bosom the Department of Railways and Canals, a long cherished scheme of Sir Hector Langevin, who will naturally rule the rest of the combined departments. Mr. Peter White, M. P. for Renfrew, will be made Deputy Speaker with a view of ultimately replacing the Minister of Finance as soon as the Government can get rid of the latter."

TO ENCOURAGE U. S. SHIPPING.

Changes Called for by the Commercial Conference.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30.—The Commercial Conference called by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce some time ago, met here to-day. The organizations represented were the San Francisco Produce Exchange, Manufacturers' Associations, Chamber of Commerce, Board of Trade, State Board of Trade and the Los Angeles, Santiago and the Eureka Chamber of Commerce. Several of the Californian representatives in Congress, were present. The committee appointed some time ago to prepare papers on various subjects, submitted their reports. The first was an encouragement of maritime commerce and increased energy in the construction of the navy. Other American countries and the Australian Colonies would be glad to have closer trade relations with the United States, if better transportation were provided. The law requiring vessels in the foreign trade to be built and owned in the U. S. before being register d should be repealed. Congress should adopt measures to secure a fair portion of the world's commerce, remunerative employment for the people, and perfect security from foreign aggression.

The next report was on the Nicarauguan Canal. It urges the speedy completion of the canal and exclusion of foreigners from any control thereof. Federal aid should be extended if necessary. The report on the defence of the Pacific ports, declares that the present defences are a reproach to the country and the coast would be at the mercy of any foreign Power.

The report on ocean mail lines recites that the three Canadian Pacific steamers running from Vancouver to China and Japan are subsidized to the extent of nearly $138,000 each per round trip, while the eight steamers of the two American companies running from San Francisco are allowed $400 each per round trip.

Other similar facts are cited, and a resolution is submitted calling on Congress to adequately subsidize lines to China, Japan, South America, New Zealand, Australia, Mexico, Central America and British Columbia. Also to grant bounties for ship construction. All the reports and resolutions were referred to the committees.

Mrs. Maybrick Ill.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Upon reaching Woking Prison Mrs. Maybrick was examined by the prison physicians and upon his orders she was placed in the infirmary.

THE SESSION AT AN END.

THE BRITISH PARLIAMENT PUTS UP ITS SHUTTERS.

Faithful Commoners and Loyal Lords Believed Until Nov. 16—How Her Majesty Closed the Show—Everything is Lovely

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Parliament was prorogued to-day until Nov. 16. The Queen in her speech of prorogation said:

My Lords:

Our relations with other powers continue to be most cordial. Since the beginning of the session nothing has happened to diminish our confident expectation of unbroken European peace.

At my suggestion the King of the Belgians has consented to summon in the autumn a conference of the European powers, to be held at Brussels, to consider the present condition of the slave trade by land and sea and to deliberate on measures for the arrest and mitigation of the evils which this traffic still inflicts upon mankind.

I have come to an agreement with the French republic by which the various controversies respecting the boundaries of our respective possessions on the west coast of Africa have been adjusted.

A new Postal Telegraph Convention has been concluded with France and Germany.

It has afforded me much pleasure to accept the loyal offers of several native princes and chiefs, who have come forward to share the military burdens imposed upon my subjects in British India. I welcome their co-operation in the common defence of the Empire.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

I gladly acknowledge the care and liberality with which you have provided for the wants of the public service.

My Lords and Gentlemen:

The measure you have taken with no grudging hand to strengthen the naval defences will enable my subjects to pursue industry and enterprise in more complete security of peace.

The act reforming the local Government of Scotland will, I am convinced, contribute largely to the welfare and contentment of my people in Scotland.

I much regret that pressure upon your time prevented your passing a measure conferring a responsible Government on my subjects in Western Australia, and trust this very desirable object will be effected at an early period.

I note with satisfaction the improvements introduced into the Constitution of the Universities of Scotland and the steps you have taken toward the establishment of technical education in England and Wales. The intermediate Education Act of Wales will supply a deficiency in the educational system which has been felt for many years.

I have assented with much pleasure to the bill for bringing the less prosperous portions of Ireland into rapid communication with the principal markets of the United Kingdom by means of a systematic extension of railways.

2000 Smiths.

PEAPACK, N.J., Aug. 30.—A great gathering of Smiths was held here yesterday. It was the fourteenth annual reunion of the Smith family, and 2000 people who carried that name met in old Peter Z., Smith's orchard. The ancient mariner, Peter Z. himself, presided, doing honor to the assembled army and his four score and ten years. Smiths from Chicago, Buffalo, Semmes Falls, Newark and Smithtown came to meet their kinsmen.

STILL THE GREAT STRIKE.

NO HOPE THAT THE STRUGGLE IS NEARING AN END.

An Appeal to All Workers to Join the Movement Unless the Demands of the Dock Laborers Are Granted—Three to Work in Australia for 20s.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—The developments of the strike yesterday tended little, if any, toward a settlement, on the contrary they had a perceptible effect in the direction of exciting ill-feeling between the opposing parties and of causing some of the more hot-headed of the strikers to utter threats of resorting to violence. Many were heard to say that unless the strike is ended very soon serious trouble and lawlessness are certain to come.

The indications this morning are not very favorable to the immediate settlement of the strike. A meeting of committee of strikers, presided over by John Burns, was held last night, at which important action was taken looking to making the strike general. A manifesto was issued by this committee early this morning solemnly appealing to the workers in every calling in London to strike on Monday next unless the demands of the dock hands are conceded before that date. The final demands of these men are sixpence an hour for a regular day's work and eight pence an hour for overtime, counting from 6 p.m. till 6 a.m. as the overtime hours; under the contract system the pay to be eight pence during the regular working hours and a shilling for overtime, nobody to be employed for less than four hours. A mass meeting of workingmen has been called for Sunday at Hyde Park.

The strikers are boasting that Monday next will witness a gigantic amalgamated strike of workers in every industry unless the ultimatum of the dock men be accepted by noon to-morrow.

This evening Burns, the leader of the strikers, said he felt depressed although he hoped for the best.

A notice has been posted at the strikers' committee rooms suspending relief measures owing to the fact that the tradesmen upon whom orders had been issued were demanding that the committee's coupons be exchanged for cash.

The outlook for the strikers is decidedly gloomy.

Fifteen hundred mill workers at Deptford have joined the strikers.

Shippers are arranging to unload steamers at Dover.

The Seamen's and Wharf Laborers' Union at Brisbane, Australia, sent a cable despatch to London to-day saying employment would be furnished there for 250 of the striking London dockmen.

Another Proposal for the Committee.

The committe of the wharfingers have compiled another proposed agreement for submission to the dock companies. The agreement is practically a compromise. It includes the terms for piece-work proposed yesterday by the companies, namely, 6d an hour ordinary time and 8d an hour overtime. The rate for ordinary work, according to the proposal, will be 4s for 9 hours and 6d an hour for the succeeding three hours, with an allowance of half an hour for dinner. For four hours over-time the minimum payment will be 4s for a fortnight, reckoning the day from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., or reckoning from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m., 8d an hour. The minimum weekly payment for regular dock laborers will be 24s.

Mr. Burns declines to express an opinion as to whether the companies will accept the proposal.

Burns and the strike committee met later to discuss the wharfingers' scheme, but failed to agree. Another meeting will be held to-morrow.

THE LATE PROF. PHELPS.

The above is a portrait of the late Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M.D., LL.D., of Dartmouth College, He was a strong, able man, who stood high in the literary and scientific worlds. It is not generally known, but it is, nevertheless, the truth, that Prof. Phelps was the discoverer of what is known to the Medical Profession and Chemists universally as Paine's Celery Compound, unquestionably one of the most valuable discoveries of this century. This remarkable compound is not a nervine, an essence, a sarsaparilla or any desired article, but a discovery, and it marks a distinct step in medical practice and the treatment of nervous complications. It has been freely admitted by the best medical talent in the land, and also by the leading chemists and scientists, that for nerve troubles, nervous exhaustion, insomnia, debility, senility and even the dreaded and terrible Paresis, nothing has ever been discovered which reaches the disorder and restores health equal to this discovery of Prof. Phelps

Paine's Celery Compound is now being prepared in quantities, and can be procured at any reputable druggist. An attractive bunch of celery is to be found on every wrapper. It has become specially popular among professional men, mind workers, ladies burdened with exciting social duties and frequenters of the leading clubs.

THE LOG CABIN AND THE KETTLE ON THE CRANE.

Sermon By Layman.

To the Editor of the Examiner

Although a thing of the past, yet there are persons now living who can remember the log cabin and the kettle upon the crane. At the time above spoken of there were few, if any, of the dwellings which we see to-day on every side. The country was new, and the settlers were comparatively new also. Wood was plenty, and was to be had for the taking. And the modern cooking stove was almost unknown. The people were industrious and hardy, they chiefly lived in log houses and they had to rely for warmth and cooking upon the large, open fire-place with the kettle upon the crane; and at night when the labors of the day were over, they gathered around the blazing fire, which oftentimes was the only means of light as well as of heat. Many a school boy of those early days learnt his lessons by the light of the blazing fire, and many a story was told and listened to by the children, which was full of excitement and interest. Stories which which told of the terrible ravages of the Indians and the depredations of the wild beasts, and many of these stories were never forgotten during all the subsequent years of those who, when young, listened so intently, and the song of the kettle on the crane could be heard during the day and part of the night, and it was pleasant to listen to, and it was comfort for the lonesome wife when her husband was at work in the field or in the woods.

The Kettle on the Crane.

How many pleasant pictures does the recollection bring
Of home and by gone pleasures that around the fireside cling;
What tenter reminiscences come thronging on the brain,
When in dreams I hear the singing of the kettle on the crane.

Here it sinuring, singing, singing
Loud and merry, fast and slow;
Hear it murmur, murmur, murmur,
Soft and low.

There's the broad, wide-open chimney, with its roaring, crackling fire,
Built up with logs of generous size to make the flames leap higher;
And, near, the waiting table stands, spread bountiful and plain,
While cheerily the kettle sings and sings upon the crane.

Grandmother in the corner sits, and softly to and fro
She rocks and dreams of friends and scenes in days of long ago.
Her face grows sweet and tender as the past comes up again:
While listening to the singing of the kettle on the crane.

I see the children caper, as with gleeful laugh and call,
They watch the dancing pictures of the shadows on the wall,
And hear the baby cooing to the mother's low refrain,
Then follows the soft music of the kettle on the crane.

And, ere the evening hour is done, with lingering step and slow,
A youth and smiling maiden come, and in the embers glow
They read the future's story, and they see a wedding train,
And bells chime with the singing of the kettle on the crane.

These precious old-time memories, they hold me like a spell
The clock upon the mantle, where I learned the time to tell;
The simple, homely furniture, the keepsakes few and plain,
And the murmuring of the kettle as it hung upon the crane.

Oh! there's bliss supreme in home, where its joys are pure and sweet,
And life's most sacred memories around the hearthstone meet,
And the tenderest thoughts and saddest ones come borne upon the strain
Of the singing of the kettle as it hung upon the crane.

Hear it singing, singing, singing.
Loud and merry, fast and slow.
Hear it murmur, murmur, murmur,
Soft and low.

—Barbara Deane.

The difference between the modern house and the old log dwelling is merely one of comparison. Everything is judged by comparison. If there were no houses to-day but log houses they would be considered perfect and every one would be satisfied. Set in point of comfort the one is as good as the other. Like plate glass windows, when one begins to put them in others follow his example. For by comparison the plate glass window is considered the best. And just so it is when broad cloth comes into competition with the home-made article. Or when the silk dress takes the place of the calico dress, and the fine kid boots take the place of the leather shoes. But if we judge these things by their utility and their strength and cheapness we must go back to the primitive articles. And precisely so it is with the people. The modern fashionable people, with their grand pretences, and their affectations and pride, imagine themselves superior to their predecessors, the old rough and ready farmers who settled the country and made it what it is. The pretences are all with the new inventions, but the real value and worth belong to those who have gone before. When the revolutionary war first broke out the women of that day sat up all night and night after night knitting woollen stockings and mending the clothes of their husbands and boys to prepare them for the war. And these, in their rough attire and with their old shot guns in hand went forth and won the battle of Bunker Hill. Their success did not depend upon their fine address neither fine clothing but upon their strong arms and brave hearts. And so in the war of 1812, when our men turned out and went into battle and fought and won dressed in their every day attire. It was the brave men who went forth in defence of their country, whose courage never failed and who cared nothing for fine clothes and gaudy trappings, and when peace was proclaimed they went back again to their log houses and to their families, proud of their success and proud of their heritage. And they envied no one, they were content with their humble dwellings and with their honest, simple lives, and what they had was their own. These were never taught in the common schools of that day and their education, such as it was served their purposes and taught them to read and to think. But the common school of those early days were very different from what they are now. The people of the present time ought to feel grateful for the easy access to learning which is afforded them. Every part of the land is dotted with comfortable school houses, presided over by competent teachers, and if the growing generations do not learn well it is their own fault. But they are so learning and it will not be long before every child in Ontario will possess an education which will fit it for any position of usefulness in the country. The common schools are the great safeguard of the independance and liberties of the people. A mother is reported to have said that she was proud of her boy's success at the University, for she said he was acknowledged to be the best baseball player of all the young men present. This was her idea of the value and meaning of a University education. A father sent his son to the University where he graduated and took a degree and then went home where his father had to support him, the son being too proud to work, and he moreover was discovered that this hopeful young man looked down upon his parents and thought that all they were good for was to supply him with money. I once knew a young man, a student at our University, and I was speaking to him about an old friend of his father as a worthy, good man, when the son interrupted me by saying, "that man whom you are speaking of works, and he is no gentleman." A poor woman's ambition caused her to deny herself many comforts in order that she might send her son to the University and so make a gentlemen of him. The son went through, but when he returned he was too proud to acknowledge his poor old mother, and told her she must not speak to him when others were present. Another son was sent for years by his fond father at a University in a foreign country. His father felt proud of him and indulged him with plenty of money. After a time the son returned home utterly unfit for the active duties of the world and a confirmed drunkard into the bargain. And finally he left home and was never heard of more. Now let us compare the merits of the common school boy and the University student. The one proud of his old home, proud of his parents and his brothers and sisters and an industrious and a useful citizen of the world. He contributes to his country's welfare and he delights in work and he carves out a home for himself, and he is honored and respected by his fellowmen, and it is just such men as he who goes into the front ranks and where his presence is felt and acknowledged. What would the world be to day were it not for the energy and labours of the mechanic and the labourer, whose talents, matured and guided at the common school, have revolutionized labor of all kinds and enabled one man to do the work of many, and to whom nearly all the inventions which we enjoy, are owing. Knowledge of Latin and Greek, could not do these things. Reading the orations of the ancient orators and writing fine spun poetry would not do these things, and petting on airs of superiority and becoming fine gentlemen would not do these things It is the thinking and hard working mechanic who does these things. And when we put together the mechanic and the farmer and the laborer, who live by the sweat of their brows, and who were the true common school boys, and who are not ashamed of home or work, we are trusting to a mighty force, without which the world would be in poverty and without light or help. Success to the log cabin and the kettle on the crane.

A Common Cold

Is often the beginning of serious affections of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes, and Lungs. Therefore, the importance of early and effective treatment cannot be overestimated. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral may always be relied upon for the speedy cure of a Cold or Cough.

Last January I was attacked with a severe Cold, which, by neglect and frequent exposures, became worse, finally settling on my lungs. A terrible cough soon followed, accompanied by pains in the chest, from which I suffered intensely. After trying various remedies, without obtaining relief, I commenced taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was Speedily Cured.

I am satisfied that this remedy saved my life.—Jno. Webster, Pawtucket, R. I.

I contracted a severe cold, which suddenly developed into Pneumonia, presenting dangerous and obstinate symptoms. My physician at once ordered the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. His instructions were followed, and the result was a rapid and permanent cure.—H. E. Simpson, Rogers Prairie, Texas.

Two years ago I suffered from a severe Cold which settled on my Lungs. I consulted various physicians, and took the medicines they prescribed, but received only temporary relief. A friend induced me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking two bottles of this medicine I was cured. Since then I have given the Pectoral to my children, and consider it for Colds, Coughs, and all Throat and Lung diseases, ever used in my family.—Robert Vanderpool, Meadville, Pa.

Some time ago I took a slight Cold, which, being neglected, grew worse, and settled on my lungs. I had a hacking cough, and was very weak. Those who knew me best considered my life to be in great danger. I continued to suffer until I commenced using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Less than one bottle of this valuable medicine cured me, and I feel that I owe the preservation of my life to its curative powers.—Mrs. Ann Lockwood, Akron, New York.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is considered, here, the one great remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs, and is more in demand than any other medicine of its class.—J. F. Roberts, Magnolia, Ark.

SPLENDID BUILDING SITES

I have placed on the market

That Desirable and Well Situated Property

in the western part of the Town, and offer it in lots as per plan annexed. This affords a splendid opportunity to secure a location for your home in a rapidly improving and in every respect the best part of the town. The properties are situated on Cedar and Hatton streets and within a stone's throw of the West Ward School and a short distance of the principal Churches and the Hamilton Co'y. Works.

"ERIN COTTAGE," late the residence of Mr. Elias Thompson, is situated in the centre of the block. This property is for sale or can be had at a bargain. It is a desirable suburban residence.

The lots have good frontages on streets of the standard width and are splendidly located. From the upper lots is afforded one of the best views of the town with ample facilities for drainage.

Several fine dwellings are already contracted for to be built on these lots during this season.

Tradesmen and merchants should inspect this property as it offers the best sites available and convenient to the business part of the town.

Coming!

Who? John R. Clarke. When? Monday evening, Sept. 9th. Who gets him? The Charlotte street Methodist Sunday school. The St. Catherines Daily Star says:—A very large audience paid him the compliment of listening to his magnificent lecture "Everyday Folk." His effort was undoubtedly the finest he ever yet made in this city." Tickets for social and John R. Clarke's unique entertainment, only 25c.

Endeavour Society.

The adjourned meeting of the Endeavor Society took place last evening, a fair attendance being present. It was thought advisable to change the night of meeting from Monday evening to either Tuesday or Friday. This matter was however left over for future consideration. It was decided that in connection with the entertainment to be given by the world renowned versatile orator, John R. Clarke, that there be a social. The suggestion met with the unanimous approval of all present. The price of tickets for social and lecture were placed at 25c in order to secure a large attendance.

London Electric Soap is only made by D Richards, Woodstock Trade mark registered.

A Big Camping Party.

Part of a Port Hope camping party were in town last evening while waiting for train connection There were 21 of them, and they belonged to the Bluestone camp, which has been located on Pigeon Lake for the last two weeks. The entire party numbered 33, but about a dozen of them returned home the night before, leaving the remainder to come down last night. Messrs. Smith and Clark were the "fathers" of the party, and Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Reid chaperoned. They were mostly Port Hope people, a few being from New York and other cities across the border

Superior Tea, 5 lbs for $1, at M. R. Kidd's.

The Late Mrs. R. A Campbell.

The Examiner records with regret the death of Mrs. R. A. Campbell, which sad event took place in Hamilton on Friday afternoon. The deceased lady was a sister of Mr. R. J. Nethercut, town. She formerly resided in Keene but recently had her residence in Hamilton. On Friday morning she underwent a surgical operation for an internal trouble, but did not survive beyond the afternoon. Mrs. Campbell was well known in town and the intelligence of her sad ending will be received with general regret. The funeral takes place from her mother's residence, 15 Queen street, on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

An Equine Adventure.

The other morning a well known gentleman of leisure, residing on Brock street went out as is his habit to see after the welfare of his favorite horse. To his surprise the stall of the steed was vacant. The disappearance was all the more mysterious because the stable door was found shut, and there was no clue to the manner of the animal's disappearance unless he had escaped through a knot hole or had been stolen by some conscientious thief who had fastened the door after him. "Bob," for thus he is known to his familiar friends, was genuinely alarmed. The horse was a valuable one and, apart from sentimental considerations, his loss would be a heavy one. His friends were at once notified of the loss, a skirmishing party organized, and a thorough search of the town and suburbs organized. One of the searchers for some purpose returned to the stable driving a horse with which the lost steed was familiar. He heard a peculiar muffled neigh and searched several neighboring premises in order to locate the sound but vainly. He returned again to the stable and was startled by another sepulchral neigh. Under the stables is a basement where mushrooms are grown. Here the horse which had fallen through a trap door, was found, crouched under the low ceiling, which was not high enough to admit of his standing upright. The animal was not injured. Unaware of this discovery, the searching party, after vainly scouring the town and country, were returning home dispirited, unaware of the discovery of the lost steed. The circumstance forms a standing topic of conversation amongst horsemen in town, and though the horse's owner has no reason to be ashamed of his horse's pedigree, he has to stand a good deal of chaff about his animal having gained a position among the mushroom aristocracy.

Good Bass Fishing.

A party of enthusiastic fisherman spent yesterday at Young's Point in pursuit of the festive bass. They were quite successful, returning home with 204 fine fish, a large number of which weighed 4 and 4½ pounds. The party comprised Messrs. R. M. Roy, Rev. S. J. Shorey, T. E. Fitzgerald, R. Neil, A. L. Davis and T. E. Bradburn. The honors were about equally divided.

A New Street.

Mr. Wm. Fitzgerald has opened out a new street in the west end of the town, where he owns a quantity of eligible building property. The new thoroughfare is named Walnut street, and runs between McDonel and Cedar streets, from Cambridge street, a short avenue off Cedar street behind the West Ward building, out to the Communication road. The street has been graded, and Mr. Fitzgerald has begun the erection of the first house on it for A. M. Davis.

From Lakefield to Lindsay.

An excursion per steamer Mary Ellen will be run from Lakefield to Lindsay on Monday and Tuesday September 9th and 10th. The steamer leaves Lakefield at 8 o'clock, and proceeds through the lakes to Lindsay, stopping two hours at Bobcaygeon en route both going and returning. The steamer remaining over night, will leave Lindsay at 8 o'clock on Tuesday morning. This is a delightful trip and cheap also, the round trip tickets (good for two days) being placed at $1.00, dtf

We Go One Better.

Other grocers are greatly excited about the prices of some of their goods. But Geo. Carton keeps quite cool, and goes one better every time. See the crashing value he is offering:—8½ lbs. Rice, for 25c. 8 bars of Electric Soap, for 25c. 8 lbs. of Tea, for $1. Push right through to Geo. Carton's red tea store, where you can carry away more goods for a $2 bill than you can get for $3 in other stores. Corner George and Charlotte streets. dw

Mysterious Disappearance.

A Stony Lake correspondent of the Norwood Register writes:—The most deplorable of all things is the disappearance of John Newell who left Stony Lake this spring with a drive of logs for the Messrs. Fowlds, of Hastings, and he hasn't turned up yet nor has any tidings of him been received. We are not aware whether the logs have disappeared also or not. Perhaps Messrs. Fowlds could decide that question, for it is likely they kept an eye on them if they could not on Newell. His poor wife and family are deploring his loss.

She Vomited a Lizard.

Mrs. Gordenier, of Canifton, a woman about 60 years of age, has been under medical care for over a year past. Her symptoms were peculiar and baffled medical skill. Yesterday she was taken violently ill and a messenger was despatched for the doctor. Her distress was great and it was feared the old lady would not survive the attack. The trouble seemed to be in her stomach and at last she took to vomiting. It seemed that she would choke to death until to the horror of her attendants a large lizard escaped from her mouth The reptile was about nine inches long and was as lively as any of his race when he found himself at liberty. He was captured and placed in water and has been viewed by hundreds. The affair is the talk of the village and surrounding country. Mrs. Gordenier is much better to day and it is safe to say that she will not need medical attendance, at least not for her old complaint.—Ontario.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

To-night at 8 o'clock, Praise and Promise meeting for young men. Hearty singing led by Y.M.C.A. orchestra. Bible class for social Bible study on Sabbath morning from 9 to 10.15. Mr. E. Duff will give the address at the gospel and song service Sabbath evening at 8.30.

These services are very helpful and we rejoice they are growing in interest and numbers weekly. We have still room for those who wish to enjoy a good time.

The lecture and entertainment committee will meet Monday afternoon at 5 p.m. Executive committee hold their regular monthly meeting on Tuesday evening at 8 p.m.

Ladies Auxiliary will meet Thursday afternoon at 4 p.m. These meetings are of the utmost importance to our work, and we trust all will make a point of being present.

Ashburnham Brevities.

The council meets Thursday night.

The revised list of voters is posted up for examination in the principal parts of the village. This should be carefully read by every ratepayer. If any names are omitted, they may be placed on by the revising barrister, Judge Waller, before Sept. 26th. A Court of Revision will be held by the revising barrister on Oct. 10th, for the settling of appeals.

The village barber, and in fact it may be said the town barber, as he receives a large amount of custom from town, has a sign in the shape of a triangular post painted in the proverbial tonsorial colors, red, white and blue, placed in front of his shop to attract attention to his place of business. Like every other line of business in the village this is booming.

Mr. J. C. Brown paid the public school a visit yesterday and found things satisfactory with the exception that an additional teacher is required. This is a matter the school board should at once attend to.

Mr. J. T. Wright is about to take a trip to his native land, Scotland. He leaves for New York on Tuesday, from which place he takes sail. Mr. Wright left the old sod 37 years ago, and thinks he would like to see it once more. His friends live in the vicinity of Glasgow, but Mr. Wright purposes taking a tour, through the principal places in the southern part of Scotland and the northern part of England. He expects to be away about three months.

Barnum Next Tuesday.

Montreal Delighted with the Show—About the Accident.

Three days more and Barnum & Bailey, with all their hosts, will have possession of Peterborough. The school boy will have neglected his lessons and old men feel the inspiration of boyhood and go to the "circus." The great show is better, greater and grander this year than ever before, and as it will hold high carnival here for one day only, it is safe to predict that the two performances will be witnessed by as many people as can crowd into the spacious tents.

The accident reported last week turns out to be only an excuse for one, for the valuable performing horse reported killed was not even scratched, nor was any horse of great value lost. Those killed were readily replaced by a shipment from Barnum's stock farm at Bridgeport, Conn., where a reserve is always on hand to meet just such contingencies.

BARNUM AT MONTREAL.

The following is taken from the Montreal Herald. The circus exhibited at Montreal the day after the accident. The Herald says:—

Barnum's circus is great because it is the largest that ever travelled under one management and the menagerie furnishes quite a lesson in zoology and with one exception—the Polar Bear, which is a veteran of a former snow—the animals are all new, young and healthy specimens of animal life. It is needless to go into details regarding the different beasts, but it is only just to state that every specimen shown in the posters materialized in the menagerie tent. Therefore students and admirers of zoology would find enough to occupy them for many hours, much less the short time allowed

From the home of the animals there is an entrance to the new Black Tent of illusions, where heads float in space and statues after being examined by the lookers-on become endowed with life before their very eyes. It is here also that the body of beautiful maidens appear as if cut in half, and a hundred other things are presented to mystify and befog the comprehension. The unsophisticated generally solve it to their own satisfaction, however, by concluding that they are figures of wax unless they hear one of them speak and then they are set down as spirits. They are not, however, and if they could see the lovely maiden who appears to be bodiless looking afterwards, at dinner, in the big dining tent, for the company, they would see their apparition in full physical vigor.

IN THE RING.

Leaving this most interesting place, the great ampitheatre next claims attention. In here the strains of the band inspiring many thousands of feet to keep time are heard. The entire inferior was alive with acts of every kind, four sets of performances going at the same time, and it was quite a task to follow all. Everything that the most hazardous human ingenuity had been able to invent was going on, Riders danced and somersaulted airily on handsome steeds, muscular athletes performed almost impossible feats of acrobatic strength and skill, and intrepid aerialists filled the air with danger defying dives, triple somersaults in mid-air, contortions on swinging rings and marvellous skill on wire hardly thick enough to be seen, while Japanese artists presented some astonishing feats of balancing, etc. Sandwiched between these acts came exhibitions of the intelligence of animals in everything almost from an elephant to seals, who gave evidence of quite an acquaintance with the doings of humanity. Among them dogs somersaulted, roosters performed, monkeys turned flip flaps on pigs' backs, bears dressed as people gave pantomimic drama and lovely horses did everything but talk.

THE WILD MOORS.

Following these came the exceedingly interesting Moorish caravan wherein appeared everything incidental to an Oriental pilgrimage, tom toms beat, dusky dancing girls pirouetted and illustrated the poetry of motion, swarthy Moors built human pyramids and gave exhibitions of the acrobatic diversions peculiar to their country and a most spirited exhibition of wild daring riding and shooting in a mock battle with French soldiers completed their share of the performance. The hippodrome races which concluded the show were fairly contested and liberally applauded. The thousands in attendance will long remember it as one of the best shows that has visited Montreal and if Messrs. Barnum & Bailey continue to keep on adding to their attractions they will soon have people enough employed to incorporate a small nomadic city with its own civic officers and board of aldermen.

The parade in the early morning, before the performance, attracted large numbers. It was equal to that of previous years, and the brilliant trapping of the horses, gay attires of the riders, to say nothing of the open cages of performing wild beasts with their attendants inside—that is inside of the cages, not inside of the wild beasts—afforded the little ones no end of joy. The parade occupied more than ten minutes to pass a given point.

The History of the Haunted House.

The periodical "haunted house" score has been started again by some waggish persons fond of a practical joke. The present agitation was started by half a dozen young men who visited the alleged haunted house Thursday night and returned with startling tales of what supernatural things they had seen and heard. A wager was made that a young dry goods clerk dared not go through the house alone. He did it, and proved that he was generous as well as courageous by promptly "setting 'em up" for the boys. Of course his own nerves did not need any bracing. The story spread, and notwithstanding that the haunted house is a "chestnut," and has been written up in the papers periodically for the last twenty years, large crowds of boys and men visited the house last night. The house is situated just over the black bridge, and has been uninhabited for a long time. It is said a murder was committed there twenty years ago, and ever since spooks have infested the premises. Nobody could be got to live in it, and the last man who occupied it rent free moved out because there was "something wrong." These and similar stories have been afloat, and it required but little talking to work up a great deal of excitement. A hundred or more people visited the locality last night and invaded the premises of the haunted house. The proprietor of the building was most reasonably angry over the matter, and it is said got a policeman to clear the grounds and drive the crowd away. They all returned to town considerably crestfallen over the failure of their heroic determination to "see the ghost." It is also said the irate owner of the haunted house has laid information against several of the brave explorers of the supernatural, who will be obliged to answer to a charge of trespassing before the magistrate.

The Red Men Vanquished.

Beaten at Baseball by a Score of 30 to 9—A Rather Ragged Game.

The crowd of spectators at yesterday's ball game were not satisfied with the match. It was altogether too slow and one-sided to be interesting. The Chemong braves do not play ball as it should be played, and need considerable practice to fit themselves for the diamond. They lack the "snap" and vigor necessary to good ball playing. However, the work of the first and second basemen was very good indeed.

Play was not begun until four o'clock, and it took more than two hours to worry through seven innings. The Indians were beaten from the start. They came to town without pitcher or catcher, and managed to get a Peterborough battery, Tighe and O'Brien, in time for the game. The Association nine had no trouble in finding the ball, while very few hits were made by the redmen. Their runs were secured through errors, mainly in the battery. In the last innings J. McCue went into the pitcher's box and twirled the sphere with fair success. Turnbull pitched the first few innings for the Association team, and Cameron the remainder. Both were very wild.

A feature of the game was the presence of a number of ladies. It is hoped the fair sex will often grace the grounds with their presence at future matches.

Mr. W. Sailsbury umpired the game satisfactorily. Following is the score:—

Range and Rifle.

To-night a team of the 57th Battalion Rifle Association goes to Ottawa to take part in the Dominion matches, which begin Monday and last until Friday. The team comprises Capts. W. H. Hill and R. M. Dennistoun, Color Sergeants W. A. Mason and A. Blade, and Privates D. Cameron, Geo. Fitzgerald and John Campbell.

Sporting Notes.

Up in Orillia they play baseball on the market square.

An eleven of the cricket club goes to Campbellford Monday to play a match.

A cricket match was played on the Toronto grounds Friday between eleven ladies and eleven gentlemen, the ladies being defeated by a score of 30 to 99. The gentlemen batted and fielded with their right hands tied behind their backs. Among the spectators of the game were Mrs. and Miss Dennistoun of Peterborough.

The Loss of the Hair

Is a great misfortune and the sight of a bald head should be a warning to you to take the best possible care of your hair. A little of Dr. Dorenwend's "Hair Magic" used occasionally will prevent all chances of its falling out or turning gray, and will remove all traces of dandruff. Every druggist has it in stock. Ask for it. dw

—The office of the Norwood woollen mills was burglarized Monday night. Only a few coppers and postage stamps were stolen.

IS YOUR BAKING POWDER PURE?

Do its Manufacturers Publish all the Ingredients Used?

IS IT FREE FROM AMMONIA?

As is well known, ammonia is unhealthful in food, and dries up the bread material.

Protection to consumers of food compounds lies in their ability to choose those made from healthful substances. Unless manufacturers publish just what their baking powder is made of, do not use their goods, but buy instead

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER.

This powder is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, and strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, with a little wheat flour to preserve it. This is attested by the official analyses of Government and State chemists, and physicians, and chemists of Boards of Health throughout the country.

Further Great Cures of Skin Diseases by the Cuticura Remedies.

Boy one year and a half old. Face and body in a terrible condition, being covered with sores. Sulphur springs fail. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

I have used your Cuticura Remedies in two cases where it proved to be success-ful. The first was in the case of a boy a year and a half old. His face and body were in a terrible condition, the former being completely covered with sores. I took him to the Manesa Sulphur Springs, but he did not improve any. I was then advised to try the Cuticura Remedies, which I did. He took one and one half bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, when his skin was as smooth as could be, and is to-day. I used the Cuticura on his sores and the Cuticura Soap in washing him. He is now five years of age and all right. The other case was a disease of the scalp, which was cured by washing with the Cuticura Soap and rubbing in the Cuticura, one bottle of Cuticura Resolvent being used. They have proved successful in every case where I have advised the use of them. It is surprising how rapidly a child will improve under their treatment. I recommend them for any disease of the skin as being the best in the world. This is my experience, and I am ready to stand by my statement. John R. Bero,

An Unbearable Skin Disease Cured.

I have been afflicted since last March with a skin disease the doctors called Eczema. My face was covered with scabs and sores, and the itching and burning were almost unbearable. Seeing your Cuticura Remedies so highly recommended I concluded to give them a trial, using the Cuticura and Cuticura Soap externally, and Resolvent internally for four months. I call myself cured, in gratitude for which I make this public statement.

Good Evening!

"Had any photos taken yet?"

"No."

"Why don't you? Everybody is taking advantage of the present low prices."

"Oh, well, you don't get good pictures for a dollar a dozen."

"Yes you do. Just look at this one! What better would you want than that?"

"That is good. Who took it?"

"Mr. Sproule. I got a dozen just as good as that for a dollar.

"Why, that's as well taken as the cabinets they used to charge us $3.00 a dozen for."

"Every bit. Oh, Mr. Sproule has woke up the town. You see, his new instruments are so perfect that one sitting is all that he requires from you now, so that he makes them ever so much quicker.

ORDERLY BUT RESOLUTE.

A GREAT MEETING OF LONDON'S TOILERS AT HYDE PARK.

The Call for a General Strike Rescinded—Appeals for Financial Help—A Compromise Offer Rejected—Popular Indignation Against the Dock Companies.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—The long smouldering discontent of the laborers in the London docks received a strong stimulus from the revelations before the Lords Committee of "sweating" last year. The leaders of the labor movement vigorously prosecuted a campaign in the East End and fanned the embers of discontent until the dock men, roused from the lethargy induced by their sordid surroundings, submitted to the guidance of Burns, their champion, and other active spirits, their concerted action leading to the present crisis.

This was only done slowly, the conditions under which labor is employed, especially the large overplus of men daily seeking work at the docks, rendering it impossible to take decisive action until the workmen were fully prepared.

The continuance of the strike for seventeen days and the strikers' determined attitude shows that the leaders carefully calculated the course of the movement before notice of the strike was given. Interviews with police officials, coroners, officers and other functionaries show that for years past the condition of the dockmen's families has been as bad as any of the worst cases revealed before the sweating commission.

The local Radical clubs and other organizations are alive to the importance of striking while the iron is hot. They are assisted by lecturers and by a house-to-house propaganda intended to foment discontent and forward what promises to develop into an organized crusade against capitalism generally.

Wades' Arms, a typical East End tavern, is the headquarters of the strike committee and is likely to become the centre of a movement in behalf of labor, the ramifications of which will touch every British employer and capitalist. Public feeling both in the East End and in the city commercial circles strongly favors the strikers.

Steps are being taken to afford the strikers relief. Mr. Lafore, proprietor of Butler's wharf, Bermondsey, has given each striker two shillings to tide him over Sunday.

To-day the employes of Yarrow & Co., who are under a heavy contract to supply the government with torpedo appliances, struck, while 5000 iron workers at the Isle of Dogs have gone out for an advance of sixpence.

The dock laborers on strike number 110,000. As an immediate sequence of their cessation 20,000 stevedores, 6000 lightermen, 2000 clerks and nearly 50,000 grain weighers and laborers are compulsorily idle.

The Peninsular and Oriental Steamship Company has 1000 employes engaged by the hour.

The directors of the dock companies have absolutely declined to make any concession beyond what has already been offered. Matters remain in statuquo.

The strike committee to-night decided to withdraw their appeal for a general strike and substitute an appeal to trades unions at home and abroad for financial help to continue the struggle.

The work of distributing funds to the needy has been resumed, the Wharf-laborers' Union at Sydney having cabled £500 for that purpose. The strikers were informed to-day that the Bishop of Canterbury and the Bishop of London had expressed sympathy with the movement.

The strike has spread to Chatham.

The Compromise Rejected.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Burns held a conference with the dock companies this afternoon and submitted the compromise proposition agreed upon last night, stating that the wharfingers had indorsed it. The dock companies issued a statement in conjunction with the wharfingers to the effect that they have carefully considered the proposal and are unable to accept it and denying that the wharfingers had assented to it.

A Big Meeting in Hyde Park.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Two thousand coal heavers and bargemen employed by Parkers, Lambert, have joined the strikers.

The council of the strikers held a meeting last evening, and after a long discussion on the situation decided to continue the strike.

A monster meeting of the strikers was held in Hyde Park this afternoon. Mr. Burns, the socialist agitator, and other labor leaders made speeches. Resolutions declaring that the men would continue the strike until their demands were fully conceded were unanimously adopted. The enormous crowd dispersed in an orderly manner.

The Economist predicts a disastrous result for the strikers if they obtain the sixpence rate with the four hour minimum. It says: "The number of men seeking work at the docks will largely increase. The companies will employ more permanent workmen and avail themselves of fewer casual employes. Only a few will be benefited. The lot of the many will be harder than ever. The law of the survival of the fittest will be exemplified by the strike, the wide-reaching consequences of which will be unprecedented in London's history."

"NIAGARA'S CONQUEROR."

IS THE TITLE NOW CLAIMED BY CARLISLE D. GRAHAM.

The Navigator Takes the Plunge Over the Horseshoe Fall Yesterday Morning and Escapes With His Barrel and His Life—Now for the Dime Museum.

BUFFALO, Sept. 1.—At 7.10 this morning a feat went upon record which has hith rto been regarded as impossible. For years past Carlisle D. Graham, the Philadelphia cooper, whose name has been so often heard of in connection with attempts to brave Niagara's fury, has striven to construct a craft in which to make the perilous dive over the brink of the world's greatest cataract. Four times he has succeeded in going safely through the whirlpool, that wonderfulness of water which swishes and swirls in the gorge below the world famed falls and this last exploit of that kind took place last Sunday when he safely navigated the rapids and whirlpool in an oaken barrell built in Buffalo a few days before.

This same barrel figures to-day in an adventure which has temporarily hushed the breath of thinking people and made their hearts stand still. Amidst Niagara's thundering waves, alike defying the dangers of the rocky rapids and the tumultuous torrent, Carlisle D. Graham passed safely through the ordeal for which he has been so long in training.

He was driven over the foot suspension bridge to the Canadian side shortly after 3 a.m., the barrel being in the hack with him. The Customs officer on the Canada side was enabled and deluded by Graham, who jumped from the hack just before the Canada shore was reached and thus assisted the official in arriving at the idea that another experimental trip only was intended.

Once on the Dominion's shore Graham was driven to a point near Chippewa and there at 5.40 he was placed in his barrel, securely locked in, and finally abandoned to the will of the wickedest currents in the world.

At 7.05 watches at both sides of the Falls saw the barrel go over. A number who saw it regarded it simply as driftwood and gave it no further thought, but to those who knew of the human freight it bore there was something intensely thrilling in that moment. A human life hung literally in the balance between air and water and the odds were a thousand to one against the life of the adventurous cooper.

But a minute and a half told the tale; the barrel was seen to emerge from the awful abyss and start with the swirling waters down the gorge. It disappeared again and again, and the anxious watchers on the shore gave up their friend Graham for lost.

At last the barrel was caught in the Bass rock eddy and swept towards the shore. It came within a few rods of the bank and then an ardent friend of Graham jumped into the raging torrent and by great good luck caught the line attached to the barrel and by dint of extraordinary effort towed it ashore. There at a point some forty rods above the suspension bridge Graham was taken out more dead than alive. Copious draughts of whisky were administered and presently the much-abused man of nerve came to and told the story of his unprecedented trip, so far at least as he could tell it.

Slung in a series of straps which cramped him into a position closely resembling the first he ever occupied, Graham knew nothing from the time he struck the little fall a quarter of a mile above the Horseshoe, when he was stunned by his head banging against the side of the barrel, until he was taken out away down in the gorge unconscious but victorious.

The head of the barrel in which the perilous trip was made was securely locked on at the Chippewa starting point with two brass padlocks. When the barrel with its unconscious but living weight was recovered one padlock was completely torn away and the other so twisted that no key but a cold chisel would open it, and then Graham was lifted out limp as a dishrag, restored to consciousness by the rough means at hand, placed in a hack, driven to his home on the American side of the river, and left in the bosom of his family, the conqueror of Niagara—to dream of country fair glory and dime museum wealth.

Powder Mill Explosion.

CHAMBLY CANTON, Aug. 31.—An explosion occurred yesterday in the packing room of the Belœil Powder Works, killing two men, J. V. Farreault and Samuel Bettie.

The Searle-O'Connor Race Postponed Until Sept. 11—The Ball Record.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—The interest in the Searle-O'Connor race, which has been postponed till Sept. 11, is wonderful. Every day thousands of persons line the banks of the Thames to see the rivals practice. The men are nearly fit and ready for the race. Both are practising starts from moored boats during the week. The Canadian was slightly off color six days ago owing to the non-arrival of his new Ruddock boat, which he received on Thursday. Searle is in splendid condition and has recovered from the effects of an abscess on the jaw from which he was suffering. The Australian rowed a trial on Thursday and made the boat move at a tremendous pace. His friends are jubilant and say he cannot be beaten and they have raised the odds to 2 to 1 on their man. The Canadian's backers have not invested a single dollar as yet. They consider that they should get longer odds than those at present offered, as Searle has the better record of the two. The reason of the lack of betting is because the English sports are unable to bet in confidence on winning. They say that there has never been a race the result of which is so uncertain.

All the amateur critics are loud in their praise of O'Connor's magnificent style, and his victory would be popular.

Peatts is here watching the Canadian's interest. He is certain to compete for the Diamond Sculls at Henley next year. Yesterday he arranged to have his best racing shell stored at Putney during the winter. He sails for home as soon as the O'Connor race has been decided.

A Providence Man Shot Down by a Highwayman at Woonsocket.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Aug. 31.—While Charles W. Smith of Providence was walking through a garden in the southern part of this city about 11 o'clock this morning a man approached and demanded a dollar. Being refused he held a revolver close to Smith's arm and fired, making a bad wound and fracturing a bone. Smith fell and the highwayman took his gold watch and chain and walked off. The affair took place within sight of a dozen dwellings. The assailant was a well-dressed and respectable looking man. The crime is the latest of a series of bold assaults and robberies and outrages on women and girls that have disturbed the people of this city and adjoining towns during the past two weeks.

EAGLE NEWS.

War Preparations—Mr. Balfour's Bombshell in the Radical Camp.

BERLIN, Aug. 31.—The Government is preparing for introduction at the coming session of the Reichstag a bill for credit to augment and reorganize the army in view of the continual increase of the French and Russian armaments. The members of the Reichstag and the public are being prepared for this bill by articles in the official organ. The Radical newspapers have begun an agitation for a reduction from three to two years of the period of compulsory military service.

Telegrams from Copenhagen represent the King of Denmark as surprised that his son-in-law the Czar should have so long delayed returning Emperor William's visit and as anxious that this courtesy should no longer be deferred. The statement that the Czar has decided to come next week meets with a deal of scepticism even in official circles. It is rumored the difficulty has arisen from a desire of the Czarina to accompany her husband.

The Post declared the only way to turn the attention of Russia from war is for the European powers to agree to give her a free hand in Asia or the Balkans.

The marriage festivities at Copenhagen will bring a large gathering. It is estimated forty members of the Imperial and Royal families will be present, the assembling of whom gives rise to numerous betrothal rumors.

The Post issues an official denial that Germany has any designs in Crete.

A Diplomatic Success.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—The Queen's visit to Wales is such a distinct diplomatic success that it is likely to be repeated. Mr. Gee and other disloyalists are grievously nonplussed by the enthusiasm of Her Majesty's reception. They describe the journey as a Tory manœuvre, and Mr. Gee writes to his once influential newspaper in a foaming rage. It is most probable that the visit will be repeated, and it may lead to a Royal journey to Ireland. That country is now more settled than when the Prince of Wales last visited Dublin, and it is well known that the Queen is not unwilling to undertake the journey. Like the rest of her family she does not lack courage, and it is believed that the Prince of Wales's journey was undertaken in part to see how Royalty would be received. The result, it will be remembered, was not encouraging, but since that time Ireland has made an immense improvement, and if the Government's educational proposals also put the priesthood into a good humor the Queen may yet see her Irish subjects. It is said, and I believe with truth, that Prince Christian and Princess Beatrice, who have great influence with the Queen, are both favorable to a Royal visit to Ireland.

A Bombshell in the Radical Camp.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Mr. Balfour's announcement respecting a Catholic University for Ireland has been a bombshell to the Radical party. Already there is a dangerous rift between them and the Parnellites, arising from various causes—the vote on the Royal grant and the Radical opposition to recent Irish Government bills which involved encroachments on the Imperial Exchequer—and for a month or more there has been a deal of friction between these two sections of Mr. Gladstone's followers. Mr. Balfour now adds to their confusion by proposing a huge vote which will possibly detach the Parnellites and make peace with the Irish hierarchy. This use of Imperial funds will not only provoke the anger of the Radicals, but will arouse the hostility of the Orangemen and the ultra Protestants. Mr. Gladstone was defeated in 1873 when he only proposed making a Catholic university a constituent college in a university. Mr. Balfour is now clearly opening up for his party a vista of tremendous difficulties. He may drive a wedge into the Radical-Parnellite alliance, but he will arouse a storm among many staunch supporters of the Government.

Mr. Chamberlain's explanations show that the project has the full approval of the Liberal Unionists. They have often declared that Ireland ought to obtain from the present Imperial Parliament everything that she ought reasonably to have. There is no doubt that if an Irish House of Commons sat in College Green one of its first acts would be the closing of the "godless" colleges, as the present ones are called, and the endowment of a Catholic University. In 1873 the Conservatives and Nonconformist united to defeat Mr. Gladstone's bill, and it will be one of the most interesting problems of the future to learn how Mr. Gladstone will act toward Mr. Balfour's new proposal.

Many months must elapse before we know the lines of that measure. Meanwhile Mr. Balfour's promise may help to keep Ireland in a better humor during the dark nights of the winter, and the Pope, who must have known of this project, will stand better in the eyes of his Nationalist Bishops, whose patience has been sorely tried by the apparent complaisance of the Vatican toward Lord Salisbury and the so-called brutal administration of Ireland.

An Unanswerable Protest.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—The Observer, commenting on the Behring Sea question, says: "An American company could not buy what Russia had not to sell, namely, the right of exclusive property in Behring Sea. The most unanswerable protest against Russia's claim to Behring Sea was issued by President Pierce's administration."

Zanzibar's Concessions.

ZANZIBAR, Aug. 31.—The Sultan of Zanzibar has signed a concession giving the British East Africa Company the Lamu Island and the Benadir coast line from Kipini northward, including Kismayu, Brawa, Merka, Magadish and Mrutl.

Paid the Prince's Debts.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 31.—It is said the Russian Government has discharged the debts owed by the Prince of Montenegro to various Austrian banking firms. The debts amounted to over 1,000,000 roubles.

Servia and Bulgaria.

BELGRADE, Aug. 31.—Regent Grines today declared the Servian Government earnestly desired to maintain friendly relations with Bulgaria.

Telegraph Rates Advanced.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The Western Union Company has informed its customers that commencing Monday rates between New York, Boston and Philadelphia will be 20 cents and 1 cent extra for each word over 10. This is an advance of 15 to 33 per cent.

Went Through a Burning Bridge.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Aug. 31.—An engine and four freight cars went through a burning bridge near Rock Creek on the Union Pacific to-day. The fireman jumped but the engineer went down with the mass.

More Expensive than a Standing Army.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—It is estimated that owing to large pension payments, nearly $18,000,000, coming on top of other large payments in July, the public debt has increased about $1,500,000 during August.

Gas Explosion at Montreal.

MONTREAL, Aug. 31.—A terrific explosion occurred this afternoon in the Stanley Market, kept by Charles Chitey in St. Catharine-street west. The place had been used as a butcher shop since last Thursday and the plumbers had just finished putting in the gas pipes. One of these pipes passed between the upper floor and ceiling and in some way a joint opened. The gas made its way between the walls till it came to a burning jet and then it exploded with fearful force. The whole shop was wrecked, the ceiling was thrown down and the plate glass front was forced out into the street. Four men were working at the time and they were thrown prostrate by the force of the explosion but escaped unhurt.

Big Fish in Armour's Net.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—On the Board of Trade this morning pork was still the deal, October opening up 20 cents and almost immediately going up another 37½ cents to $11.37½. There is but one theory in regard to it—that it is an Armour deal and that all the big professionals, Phillips, Wright, Cudahy and the others, are entrapped. Phillips was busy covering this morning at the top, brokers taking probably 10,000 barrels at a loss for him of $1.50 to $2 a barrel. Cudahy was in the pit fighting the deal, selling October by the 1000 barrel lot at a time.

THE LONE HIGHWAYMAN.

"BLACK BART" ARRESTED IN A MICHIGAN VILLAGE.

He Owns Up That He is the Man Wanted For the Gogebic Stage Robbery—Considerable Plunder Found in His Possession—The Desperado's Record.

ISHPEMING, Mich., Aug. 31.—Raimund Holzhay wanted for robbing the Milwaukee and Northern train at Ellis Junction May 28, and a Wisconsin Central train Aug. 7, and also for robbery of the stage at Gogebic, Aug. 26, and the murder of Gustave Fleischein, both at that time, was captured at the village of Republic about 20 miles west of here, this morning. Holzhay got into Republic last night and Marshal Glede of that village spotted him and kept him under surveillance all night, where he stopped at the Republic House. At an early hour this morning Glede and Justice Weiser went to Holzhay and Glede told him to consider himself under arrest.

Holzhay reached back to pull his revolver but Glede was too quick for him and knocked him down with a billy. Holzhay was searched and three revolvers, three gold watches and three or four pocket books were found, one of them evidently being the one taken from Fleischbein, as there were papers in it having Fleischbein's name on them.

Holzhay owned up he was the man wanted.

The Gogebic Stage Robbery.

The crime for which the highwayman is under arrest was an exceedingly bold one. A stage coach plies between the Gogebic station on the Milwaukee, Lake Shore and Western Railroad, and a summer resort hotel on Gogebic Lake, three miles distant. On Monday last the stage coach left the hotel with a party of four men who had been spending several weeks there. The members of the party were Donald Mackerchar of Minneapolis, one of the officials of the First National Bank of that city; A. G. Fleischbein of Belleville, Ill.; Robert Rintoul of the Bank of Montreal, Chicago, and William Paddon of Chicago. At about 11.30 o'clock a.m., as the stage was dragging lazily along over the road, its driver was startled by a command to "hang on to the reins and not to make a single move at the peril of your life." There in front of him was the stage robber wearing a slouch hat and holding two immense revolvers, which he pointed at the driver. One of the passengers adopted a trick to throw the robber off his guard. He had a considerable amount of money on his person and did not want it taken from him. When the highwayman extended a general invitation to "cash in," he put his hand into his coat pocket presumably to get a pocketbook, but really to get his revolver. He drew it and commenced firing at the robber, who stood his ground and returned the fire.

The horses dashed away at a rapid rate but the robber continued to empty his revolvers at the men in the coach. Mr. Fleischbein rose up and received a 44-calibre bullet in his hip. At the same time the coach gave a lurch and he was thrown forward in the roadway. Banker Mackerchar also fell a victim to the robber's murderous weapons. He received two bullet wounds—one in the left side of the head and another in the leg.

The robber pounced upon his helpless victim in the roadway, shoved a pistol in his face and threatened to finish him then and there. Fleischbein plead for his life and the robber, after going through his pockets, getting about $40 in money, a watch and chain and a ring, left him lying bleeding and helpless in the road. He lay there nearly three hours before the arrival of assistance. Then he was taken to Bessemer, where he was put into a hospital and his wounds cared for; but he had bled so much that his strength was sapped and he died that night, having first furnished a good description of the highwayman.

Mr. Mackerchar was taken to Minneapolis, where, as last accounts, he was said to be on the road to recovery.

THE ROBERTS HISTORY.

He Took to the Life of a Highwayman as the Result of Reading Dime Novels.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Postoffice Inspector Pulsifer is one of the men who was in the hunt for the Wisconsin stage robber who was captured this morning. Mr. Pulsifer's home is in Pulsifer, Wis., and he knows all about the highwayman, who is known as the "Black Bart, the lone highwayman of Wisconsin."

In an interview, a few days ago, Mr. Pulsifer said: "I must say Black Bart is the cleverest woodsman in the northwest. His proper name is Reymunde Holzhey, and his home is in Pulsifer, Wis. His first attempt at stage robbery was in April last, when he held up a stage going from Pulsifer to Simond on the line of the Milwaukee, Lake Shore & Western Road. At that time he appeared with a red handkerchief tied over his face. He shot at the horses and 'went through' the passengers, a poor lot, and got nothing. The second attempt was more fruitful, for he secured the mail pouch containing several hundred dollars, and robbed two passengers of $50. One had $800 in currency, but the robber failed to get it. His third essay was made on the stage running from Shewano to Langlade on the Menominee Indian reservation. Two passengers were robbed of $20 and a mail pouch containing some money was secured. Again Black Bart tackled unaided the stage on the Milwaukee & Northern Railroad Line and robbed it. An hour later he robbed the train.

"During all this time he was holding up wayfarers passing through the woods of the Gogebic country. Following his train robbery he entered Rondual, a village in Shewano County, and compelled Phil Cann, proprietor of a general merchandise store, to deliver the money in the store safe. This amounted to $80. He also got a gold watch and chain. He was unmasked at this time and was fully recognized by Mr. Cann. His next exploit was the robbery of the Wisconsin Central sleeper, which he rounded off by murder in robbing the stage of the Gogebic Lake line.

"Black Bart is a German boy 22 years of age. He was born in Germany. He is polite and pleasant in his manners and is of square build. He always carries a knife and a revolver. He took to the life of a robber as the result of reading dime novels, over a hundred of which were at one time found in his room."

The Rewards.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 31.—The rewards offered for the capture of the noted train and stage robber aggregate about $3500. The Wisconsin Central Railroad Company offered a reward of $1000 for the capture of the man who robbed the trains near Chippewa Falls; the United States Government has a standing reward for the arrest of the Shewano mail robber; the Milwaukee, Lake Shore and Western Railway Company offered a reward of $1000 for the Gogebic stage robber, and there are several other rewards which amount to $500. The Milwaukee and Northern Railroad, at the time one of its trains was robbed near Ellis Junction, offered a reward of $500, but withdrew it some time afterward.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—Australia papers say that about June 26 the Savo a small trading vessel, was boarded by natives at Malayta and one of them shot mate Ladden dead, while another beheaded a trader named Cooper with an axe. Keating, the owner of the vessel, and several others on board were badly injured but drove off the natives killing 12 of them. It is reported that Keating has since died.

Coal Schooner Sunk.

ROCHESTER, Aug. 31.—H. H. Warner's steam yacht Siesta ran into and sunk the coal schooner Anna M. Foster off Charlotte at 1 o'clock this morning. The night was smoky on the water and the schooner's lights could not be seen. The crew of the Foster were rescued by the Siesta's men.

Another Case of Smallpox at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, Sept. 1.—Another case of smallpox was reported to the health authorities yesterday. The sufferer is a 10-year-old boy named Edward Lander, living at No. 1466 Bailey avenue. This makes the third case reported recently.

The Canal Break Repaired.

CORNWALL, Sept. 1.—The leak in the Cornwall canal, which occurred on Friday night some distance above this town, has proved less serious than many had anticipated, as the repairs have been made and navigation once more resumed.

The World's Granaries.

The Consul-General of the United States at St. Petersburg, in a recent report upon the wheat-growing capabilities of Russia, gives some facts that are of great importance to all Americans, and in view of the fact that the future of the Canadian North-West is in a great degree based upon wheat, of peculiar moment to the Canadians. He says that the "black lands" of Russia, a region resembling in all essential particulars the rich prairies of Manitoba, have an area of no less than a hundred and ninety thousand square miles, and ninety percent of this vast area is not only capable of cultivation but is so fertile that good farming is not necessary to produce good yields. Besides the "black lands" there are in the wheat belt two hundred and sixty thousand square miles of arable steppes, capable of producing good crops with proper farming. One tenth of the available wheat growing area, was under this crop last year, and the harvest yielded seventy million bushels of wheat for export. As the Russian peasant, unlike the American farmer, does not eat wheat bread, the proportion of the whole crop available for export, is much greater in the case of Russia than of any English speaking wheat producing country, particularly the United States, which consumes about ninety per cent of her own crop. The system of wheat buying, too, is such as to give rise to proportionately large shipments. The Russian peasant is almost invariably heavily in debt, to his Mir, as the local village organizations which are the actual rulers of rural Russia are called, to the State, and to the Jew money-lenders. His wheat is only available asset, and no sooner is it harvested than he is forced to sell it, generally to the money-lender, at any price that worthy sees fit to give him, and as the money-lender desires above all things to convert his plunder into cash, he ships the grain in bulk to the market of the world on the first opportunity. The lack of railway facilities, the poverty of the peasantry and the illiberal nature of the Russian land laws, have hitherto kept this unusually productive country from spoiling the market for American wheat, but its flood gates are giving way, while, on the other hand, the American grain trade is seriously hampered by the system of gambling, which has a tendency to delay shipment, and thus enable the freely shipped, and, therefore, fresher Russian grain, to obtain a perference on the European market.

Anglo-Saxon Supremacy.

The following extract is from a very able article in the Contemporary Review:—"We stand at the dawn of a new epoch which, from the point of view of universal history, is quite as momentous as that in which the Northern tribes broke in upon and destroyed the fabric of the moribund Empire of Rome. It was recognized with a sure prevision that the past was gone irrevocably, and that the future lay with the fierce warriors from the fastnesses and forests of the North. It remains to be seen whether the world will be as quick to discern the salient feature of the great transformation through which the world is passing to-day. It is a revolution vaster and more rapid than that which founded the modern European world on the wreck and ruin of the Roman Empire. The world is passing into the hands of the English-speaking races. Already the English tongue is becoming the lingua franca of the planet. Already the territories over which the laws are made and justice administered in the language of Shakespeare and of Bacon exceed in wealth, in extent, in the number of their populations, and in the limitless latent possibilities of their development, all other lands ruled by all other nations of the earth. In a hundred years, unless the progress of this marvellous transformation is suddenly checked in some manner as yet unconceivable, the English speakers will outnumber all the men of other tongues in the world. Italian, Spanish, and French will be but local dialects of as little importance, except for literature, as Erse and Welsh. English ideas, English law, English civilization, are becoming as universal as the English speech Alone among the races the English have escaped the curse of universal military service. Alone among the nations they have learned to combine liberty and law, and to preserve an empire by the timely concession of local self-government. Whether we welcome or whether we deplore the prospect, the fact is unmistakable—the future of the world is English."

Orillia Wins the Championship.

BARRIE, Aug. 30.—The return match between the Barrie and Orillia lacrosse clubs to-day in the Northeastern district series resulted in a victory for the Orillia team, which places them champions of this district, that is if the protest entered against Tom Crowne is not allowed. He played with the Orillia team again to-day. The Orillia players were the same as Monday last, while the Barrie team played Campbell instead of Small, who failed to put in an appearance. The first, second, third and fifth games were taken by Orillia and the fourth by Barrie.

GUELPH, Ont., Aug. 30.—Another serious affair occurred on Saturday morning, when a well known resident of Puslinch Lake was dragged from his bed by "White Caps," and a severe thrashing administered to him. He had been warned several times lately that something would be done by this society, but did not heed the warnings until early Saturday, when four stout men came into his room, taking him out of bed. He presents a terrible appearance, his face being kicked to a jelly and his body all black and blue. He can identify, he says, three of his assailants.

DOUBLOONS BY THE JUGFUL.

Found in an Old House at St. Augustine, Fla.—A Bonanza.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. Aug. 30—A large amount of treasure was discovered to-day in the ruins of an old building owned by the Countess De Mountjoy, a native of this place, who married abroad and who is now at Cairo, Egypt. A gang of workmen came across a quantity of doubloons and half doubloons. The news spread, and in a few minutes a crowd of excited citizens were on the ground digging like mad and gathering the coin by handfuls. The contractors, hearing of the discovery, called upon the authorities and succeeded in clearing away the crowd, and by sifting the rubbish found upwards of $1,000. They have placed a guard around the premises and will continue excavating to-morrow.

The rubbish was being carted away to fill a street in the suburbs, and one workman, who was employed to level up the earth, and who had much secretiveness about him, worked the bonanza for all it was worth. A cart which had been loaded when the find was made was dumped and was found to be rich in the shining metal. The dates are from 1720 to 1825, at which date the house, an old stone structure, was owned by Father Crosby, a wealthy priest. Several years ago, while repairing a chimney in the same house, a jug full of doubloons was discovered by the mason, Philip Gomez.

A Common Cold

Is often the beginning of serious affections of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes, and Lungs. Therefore, the importance of early and effective treatment cannot be overestimated. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral may always be relied upon for the speedy cure of a Cold or Cough.

Last January I was attacked with a severe Cold, which, by neglect and frequent exposures, became worse, finally settling on my lungs. A terrible cough soon followed, accompanied by pains in the chest, from which I suffered intensely. After trying various remedies, without obtaining relief, I commenced taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was Speedily Cured.

I am satisfied that this remedy saved my life.—Jno. Webster, Pawtucket, R. I.

I contracted a severe cold, which suddenly developed into Pneumonia, presenting dangerous and obstinate symptoms. My physician at once ordered the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. His instructions were followed, and the result was a rapid and permanent cure.—H. E. Simpson, Rogers Prairie, Texas.

Two years ago I suffered from a severe Cold which settled on my Lungs. I consulted various physicians, and took the medicines they prescribed, but received only temporary relief. A friend induced me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking two bottles of this medicine I was cured. Since then I have given the Pectoral to my children, and consider it for Colds, Coughs, and all Throat and Lung diseases, ever used in my family.—Robert Vanderpool, Meadville, Pa.

Some time ago I took a slight Cold, which, being neglected, grew worse, and settled on my lungs. I had a hacking cough, and was very weak. Those who knew me best considered my life to be in great danger. I continued to suffer until I commenced using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Less than one bottle of this valuable medicine cured me, and I feel that I owe the preservation of my life to its curative powers.—Mrs. Ann Lockwood, Akron, New York.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is considered, here, the one great remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs, and is more in demand than any other medicine of its class.—J. F. Roberts, Magnolia, Ark.

Ruptured

PERSONS should know that the getting of a Truss should not be left to chance, luck or ignorant selection; comfort can be obtained, safety secured and at times life saved by obtaining the proper appliance. Why not have a man that is responsible, and knows the business, make the selection and fit you properly?

POTT'S DISEASE.

A Bad Curvature Reduced and Entirely Out of Danger.

CHAS CLUTHE, Esq.,
DEAR SIR.—This is to state that my boy, aged seven years, was prostrated with Pott's disease of the spine, with very little hopes of recovery. I procured one of your appliances, which was duly fitted, gave great support and enabled him to run about and play. He is so much improved as to be almost entirely out of danger.
Yours truly, S. O. ROWELL.
Innerkip, Ontario.

A Postmaster Well Pleased.

CHAS. CLUTHE, Esq., Toronto, Ontario.
DEAR SIR.—Having met with an accident and requiring a Truss, I obtained three different kinds without securing what I wanted. On the recommendation of one of our leading medical men, I got your Spiral Spring Truss, and I would heartily recommend it to any party requiring such an article. It is a splendid thing

SPLENDID BUILDING SITES

I have placed on the market
That Desirable and Well Situated Property
in the western part of the Town, and offer it in lots as per plan annexed. This affords a splendid opportunity to secure a location for your home in a rapidly improving, and in every respect the best part of the town. The properties are situated on Cedar and Hatton streets and within a stone's throw of the West Ward School and a short distance of the principal Churches and the Hamilton Co'y. Works.
"ERIN COTTAGE," late the residence of Mr. Elias Thompson, is situated in the centre of the block. This property is for sale or can be had as a bargain. It is a desirable suburban residence.
The lots have good frontages on streets of the standard width and are splendidly located. From the upper lots is afforded one of the best views of the town with ample facilities for drainage.
Several fine dwellings are already contracted for to be built on these lots during this season.
Tradesmen and merchants should inspect this property as it offers the best sites available and convenient to the business part of the town.

Mr. G. Gumprint is in town. Orders may be left at Messrs. Taylor & Macdonald's or Mr. A. L. Davis' store. d

Barnum's Circus.

A steamer will leave every fifteen minutes from Dennes, C.P.R. and Ashburnham wharf for circus grounds. Return tickets only 10 cents. 2d-2

Auburn Mission.

Auburn Mission prayer meeting on Tuesday evening at the usual hour 8 o'clock, all invited. Important announcement at the close of the meeting.

Band in the Park.

The band will play in the park this evening instead of to-morrow, circus night. Bandmaster Millar requests all the members of the band to be present without fail.

His Eyes Burned.

Mr. Thos. Smiley, an employe of the Peter Hamilton Agricultural Works, had his eyes badly burned by babbit metal Friday afternoon. It is not probable his eyesight will be permanently injured.

Mishap to a Steamer.

The steamer "Beaver" did not make her regular trip last Saturday on account of a hole being burned in her boiler. The "Pearl" took down her passengers in the afternoon.

The Circus To-morrow.

Barnum's circus will be here to-morrow. The "greatest show on earth" is showing in Toronto to-day, and will arrive during the night. The circus will take possession the agricultural exhibition grounds.

Died at Brantford.

The death is chronicled of Mr. Wm. G. Watt, of Brantford, a former resident of Peterborough, and a brother of Mr. John Watt, of this town, and Mrs. Watt of the post office. He died after a short illness of typhoid fever on August 29th, and was buried at Brantford.

Managing Their Own Tables.

The C.P.R. made a new departure in connection with their dining cars this morning. Formerly the commissariat was managed by a firm by contract, but the company have now taken the department into their own hands. The new order began this morning.

Still they Come.

Mr. Charles Miller, of Emily, has purchased a part of lot number 12, north of Dublin and west of Gore's site 1½ acres, adjoining the fine house now occupied by Mrs. Rowe, and Mr. Stahl is busily engaged erecting a handsome two story brick house for rent. We have plenty of room and a hearty welcome for all such good men who may desire to reside in our midst.

A Railway Run-off.

The C.P.R. express due here at 11.40 Sunday night did not reach town till six o'clock this morning owing to a run-off near Clarkemont. The engine had run off the main track a few miles east of Clarkemont station. A lot of track was torn up and considerable damage done to the rolling stock, but no lives were lost. The track was cleared in about seven hours.

Horticultural Society Exhibition.

The number of entries to the membership roll of the Peterborough and Ashburnham Agricultural Society is now about a hundred and the entries promise to be large, being a special exhibition in Lansdowne on September 25th. It is hoped that prizes offered will be sufficiently valuable to cause all who are interested to put forth their efforts to make the show a success.

Camper Supplies.

A large assortment of fresh meats, fish, vegetables and fruit. Every standard and spiced meats. The finest mineral ginger ales, soda, lagers, also wines, clarets, champagnes, and tonic stimulants. Camps to be supplied with ice cheap. Camping stock in Peterborough and best assortment at the Palace Grocery, Elliott & Turney, George street, Peterborough.

Pickling vinegar at M. R. Kidd's.

Success.

Has crowned our efforts and we can now afford to give to every purchaser of one pound of our celebrated 30 cent Tea, a highly decorated Cup and Saucer. Our stock of these is limited, so come early. We are also offering splendid value in other lines of Teas and Coffee. The purest quality, the finest flavor and the lowest prices can always be relied upon at Hawley Bros. Tea Store.

Sunkist Tea, 5 lbs. for $1, at M. R. Kidd's.

The "Eva" Sold.

Mr. W. H. Robertson has sold his yacht "Eva" to the Pulp Mill Co., of Kenelon Falls. The boat was shipped to the falls by train last week. The Gazette says of the Eva: "She is 32 feet long, 6 feet wide and 4 feet 6 inches deep. Though not new, she is in good condition and fit for immediate service; but we hear that she is not to be launched on Cameron Lake until next spring, before which time she will be painted and undergo some slight necessary repairs."

Excursion.

The Grand Trunk Railway will run an excursion in connection with the Muskoka and Georgian Bay Navigation Company's steamers on Wednesday, Sept. 4th, to points on the Georgian Bay and Muskoka lakes, at the following low rates: From Peterborough to Beaumaris Bala, Port Carling, Windermere, Port Sanfield, Rosseau and Port Cockburn, $3. To Parry Sound via Midland, $3.25. To Magnetawan via Burk's Falls, $4. Tickets good for 5 days. Trains leave at 8 20 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 4th. 2d53

The Game Laws.

Following are the dates for shooting game [illegible] by statute: Partridge, Sept. 1st [illegible] Aug. 15th to Jan 1st; [illegible] 1st to Sept 1st; hare, [illegible] 1st to Oct. [illegible] to Nov. 20th.

Law Breakers.

[illegible] police protection to [illegible] extra constables are [illegible] and they will do [illegible] men [illegible] The Pinkerton detective [illegible] has notified the Chief that a [illegible] of their detectives have been engaged by the proprietors of the circus to travel with the show and watch for thieves and sharpers.

Illumination at the Show.

The Directors of the show to be held on Thursday, Sept 5th, at the Charlotte street [illegible], were not satisfied with the light which was supplied them at the last exhibition, though they had three electric lights. They intend to double the number this year and have six engaged for the occasion, besides a large number of Chinese lanterns. No one should miss the opportunity of patronizing [illegible] Society.

Corn in Egypt.

Mr. T. Bradburn has left at the EXAMINER office a [illegible] twelve feet in height as a sample of the season's growth. It consists of a number of canes or rather trunks of southern sweet corn, grown in Mr. Bradburn's gardens, "Oshawa" and they measure 11 feet 11½ in length and the leaves have a spread of four feet. This hasn't been beaten this season and Mr. Bradburn need not expect to see anything better in the Northwest next week.

Form! Form! Riflemen. Form!

Volunteers desiring to attend the unveiling of the statue of the late Col. Williams at Port Hope on Wednesday, are requested to meet at the drill shed at 5 o'clock this (Monday) evening. Although no invitation has yet come from Port Hope, our volunteers are determined to be ready to send at least a representative company to do honor to the memory of the brave Colonel of the Midlanders, in case the Port Hope authorities should awaken up even at the last moment to send the invitation. Possibly there has been a mistake or oversight in the matter.

Militia Appointments.

In the latest militia orders appears the following: 57th Battalion, "Peterborough Rifles." No. 1 Company Peterborough to be Lieutenant, Second Lieutenant, Earnest J. Mason, vice Dennistoun, promoted. To be Second Lieutenant, provisionally, Private William C. P. Heathcote, vice Mason, promoted. Brevet: To be majors, Captain Alexander Bertram, No. 1 Company, 57th Battalion; Captain Richard Ginty Campbell, No. 2 Company, 57th Battalion. Messrs. Mason and Heathcoteare to be congratulated upon their well deserved positions. No. 1, of which Capt. Edwards is in command, is now one of the best officered companies in the regiment.

World's Bicycle Tournament.

The first annual tournament of the World's Bicycle and Racing Association is announced to take place in the Caledonian Rink, Toronto, during the week of October 21 to 26. The tournament is open to all amateurs and professionals. The principal event will be a 72 hour contest for the championship of the world and cash prizes of $600, $300 and $150. During the week a series of one, two, three, five and ten mile races for gentlemen, together with one and two mile bicycle and tricycle races for ladies', with several minor events for children, will take place for cups and medals, open to amateurs only. J. C. Conner is manager and F. W. Coulson, Toronto, secretary.

Sale of Block B.

A large number attended at the sale of this line property on Saturday night. The following lots were sold:

Lot 15, corner Smith and Aylmer streets - J. R. Stration $800

Lot 16, adjoining, 50 ft x 111 to a lane - J. R. Stration $600

Lot 28, to Keene, 22 feet on Smith and Bethune streets, 111 on Bethune street, to a lane - Frank Bell $650

Lot 24, 16 Bethune st., 50 ft x 114 - Wm. Ford $600

Lots 41 and 42, Aylmer street each 50 ft x 111 to a lane - J. E. Donell $1000

At this point it became so dark that the sale had to be postponed. It will be resumed on Wednesday, Sept. 11th, at 3 p.m. on the ground. Before the sale was over Mr. Stratton sold his lots to Mr. Bell at an advance of $100.

The Central Exhibition.

Affairs are booming and the coming exhibition promises to be the best ever held in Peterborough. A meeting of the directors was held at the Morgan House Saturday afternoon, at which there was a good attendance. Considerable business was transacted, and among other things a deputation was appointed to wait upon Sir John Macdonald at Port Hope Sept 4th, and formally request him to open the exhibition here. Mr. H. J. Dobbs, of Lakefield has already made 25 entries for the exhibition. This is what every man should do, make plenty of entries and make them early. Parties making entries early save considerable trouble not only to themselves but to the Secretary as well.

Attempted Incendiarism.

About two o'clock Sunday morning an attempt was made to burn down the residence occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Brown, Shuttleworth street. The family were awakened by the cracking of fire, and succeeded in extinguishing the flames with the help of some neighbors before much damage was done. It was evidently a deliberate attempt at incendiarism. Coal oil had been thrown on the woodwork of the verandah, and the fire had gained considerable headway when fortunately observed. As soon as the alarm was given the inmates of the house heard the sounds of a couple of men running away in the distance. The town fire alarm was not rung.

The Haunted House.

A correspondent obtained circulation considerable publication to the effect that the late tenant relinquished the "haunted house" in Ashburnham on account of ghostly interference with the quiet and comfort of the house. Mr. E. Rutledge, the gentleman who occupied the said house at the EXAMINER office this morning, to give the rumor a positive and emphatic contradiction. He occupied the house for a year, and during that time was not disturbed by any strange noises of any description, but left the house for somewhat different reasons, entirely unconnected with ghostly visitants. He was not at all inclined to retire for any such reasons, and if it were suitable in other respects he would be willing to occupy the house again to-morrow. It is possible that the excitement about ghosts in connection with this house may not be unconnected with spirits – but spirits of rye more than spirits of darkness. At any rate Mr. Rounds's experience of a year failed to disclose any ghost, and as his business requires him to return home after the hour of twelve, "when church yards yawn and graves give up their dead," he would certainly encounter any ghostly visitant who would, if ever, have been prowling about at their favorite hour.

Journalistic Improvements and Changes.

THE GUELPH HERALD.—This live journal comes to us with its youth renewed, in a very much improved form, which is largely due to an entirely new dress provided by the energy of its enterprising publisher. The new outfit presents the Herald in a very neat form, while its contents are quite on a par with its high class typhographical appearance. In every respect the Herald shows marked improvement. Mr. Gummer is to be congratulated on the happy results which have flown from his enterprise and push, and the EXAMINER cordially gives the Herald the best wishes for success, only reserving the right to wish that its candidate may be defeated at the next election—the Herald's pernicious politics being the only blot in its bright escutcheon – it is hopelessly and undeniably Tory.

"THE CANADIAN FORESTER."—At the last meeting of the High Court Canadian Order of Foresters, it was deemed advisable for that body to take over "The Canadian Forester" the official organ of the order, publish it under their own immediate direction and control, and place a copy monthly in the hands of each member of the order, free. The first number under the new regime has been issued. It is published by Mr. H. Gummer, of the Guelph Herald and reflects credit on the publisher. It is gotten up on toned paper in new dress of brevier type and is full of matter interesting to the members and pertinent to the order.

A Shocking Accident.

A Young Man Suddenly Killed—He Strayed Away From Home and Was Run Down by an Engine.

Saturday afternoon intelligence came to town of the sudden death of Robt. Graham, eldest son of Mr. Wm. Graham of the 4th line South. The young man was 36 years of age, and a little infirm of intellect. Friday evening he left his father's house and was not again seen alive by his anxious relatives. He was missed soon after his departure, and a thorough search instituted but without success. He was traced to Omemee, where he had walked, but no one knew where he had gone after leaving the village. The search was maintained during the night, but no trace of him was found till late Saturday forenoon, when they heard of a man being killed on the C. P. R. track. They at once drove to Manvers station, where the body had been taken, and there they found the corpse of him for whom they were looking. He must have walked the distance from his home to the track, about 22 miles, very rapidly, as the accident occurred about four o'clock in the morning, the engine of a freight train striking him and evidently killing him instantly. The body was not at all mangled, the skull being crushed and one of the small bones of the leg being broken.

The corpse was taken charge of by the relatives of the deceased and brought to town on the midnight train. The funeral took place Sunday afternoon from the family residence to Little Lake Cemetery. The many friends of Mr. Graham and family will sympathize deeply with them. Deceased was always a harmless, inoffensive young man and well liked in the neighborhood in which he lived.

Church Chimes.

Rev. Andrew Tully, of Mitchell, son of Mr. Wm. Tully, Monaghan, occupied the pulpit of St. Paul's church Sunday night. He is spending his holidays at his old home.

The Wednesday night prayer meeting will be resumed at St. Paul's church this week.

Rev. Messrs. Shorey and Pearson exchanged pulpit Sunday morning.

At the George street church Sunday evening Rev. M. L. Pearson referred to the death of the late John Bird, who was a consistent member of the church for forty years.

A meeting of the congregation of the George street church will be held in the school room to-night. The tower business will be the principal subject of discussion.

Mrs. Bradley, of England, will address the congregation of the George street church next Sunday evening. Mrs. Bradley is a worker in the White Cross movement, and comes to town in connection with the W.C.T.U.

At the Murray street Baptist church Sunday morning the pastor, Rev. P. C. Parker, referred to the late Henry J. Rossiter, whose sad death by drowning startled the town last week. Mr. Parker spoke of the way in which David was anxious to take every precaution against the schemes of Saul to put him to death. Life was a sacred trust committed to us from God, and every man is bound so to recognize it. It was necessary to take every precaution, as it was surrounded by so many uncertainties. Death was a fact at every one of us—life was short, only a step that the child could take as well as the man. The flesh was simply called a veil, like a thin fabric that the hand of the child could rend and the faintest breath cause to shiver. The nearness of death should cause us to guard our life. The certainty of death should make us cautious of our lives, and yet its uncertainty, for we know not what a day or an hour may bring forth.

Campbell's Grove Camp-Meeting.

The attendance at the Campbell's Grove Camp-meeting on Sunday afternoon was large, though not so large as on previous occasions, but the same earnest heed was paid to the exercises of the day. The Monaghan choir and orchestra were present and led the singing of the Crossley and Hunter hymns.

The first address was given by Rev. A. F. Leitch, upon the subject of sowing and reaping. It was followed by an address by Mr. Richard Holland, whose address was an invitation for sinners to come to Christ. Mr. M. Cummins, President of the Laymen's Evangelical Association spoke upon the subject of the Christian's confidence. Mr. James Stubb's remarks included his experience and were introductory to the interesting experience meeting which followed and concluded the exercises of the day which gave evidence of producing abundant fruit. A show of hands was taken as to the continuance of the meeting and it was decided in the affirmative and another meeting announced for next Sunday at 3 o'clock.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The praise and promise meeting for young men Saturday evening, was much enjoyed and we all felt that He was faithful who has promised. Y.M.C.A. orchestra ably led the singing.

At the Gospel and song service last evening Mr. E. Duff gave a stirring address, his subject being, "An incentive for Christian work." It quickened the believers and showed the unsaved what a perilous position they were in, and urged all to know Christ as their personal Saviour. We trust many more of our young men will avail themselves of these Gospel privileges.

Mr. W. G. Green, painter, has very kindly and free of cost to the Association, relettered and frosted the windows of our hall, which adds much to its comfort and appearance. We sincerely thank him for his aid to make our rooms attractive to young men.

Lecture Committee meets to-day at 5 p.m., Executive Committee to-morrow evening at 8 p.m.

Ashburnham Brevities.

The regular monthly meeting of the village council will be held to night at eight o'clock.

The brick work on the new town hall will be commenced on Wednesday. Messrs. Heap & Butcher are delivering the brick.

A congregation meeting of the Mark street Methodist church will be held Tuesday night to arrange for their annual tea meeting, which will be held the first Monday in October. The Rev. Dr. Workman, of Victoria University, is to deliver a lecture in Germany, in which country he spent five years in study. No efforts are to be spared to make this the best entertainment in every way, that has ever been held in connection with this church.

Personal.

Mr. S. Stephenson, of the Chatham Planet, was in town to-day and favored the EXAMINER with a call.

Rev. F. G. Patterson, of Nashotah, Wis., is in town taking his holidays, and is the guest of Mr. Geo. A. Morrison.

Messrs. E. C. Carter, of Rochester, and C. W Beale, of Hespeler, are spending their holidays in town.

News Nuggets.

—Edward Plant was arrested on Saturday while drunk. He was allowed to go this morning.

—The Campbellford baseball club passed through town this morning en route to Lindsay, where they play a match.

—A regular meeting of the town council is called for this evening and of the school board to-morrow evening.

—The funeral of the late Mrs. Campbell, of Hamilton, was very largely attended Sunday. The interment took place in Little Lake cemetery.

An Escaped Lunatic.

Saturday afternoon about five o'clock Chief Reazel arrested Henry Hall, formerly of Omemee, who has for the past five months been a resident of the Lunatic Farm at Mimico. He escaped a week ago Sunday, and his wife, who since his incarceration has removed to Peterborough, was notified to have him taken care of should he return to her. On Saturday Mrs. Hall heard that her husband was searching for her, and she notified the police to be on the look-out for him. Later in the day the man found Mrs. Hall at her own house, and there he was arrested by the Chief. One of the Farm officers returned to Mimico with his captive this morning.

The Loss of the Hair

Is a great misfortune and the sight of a bald head should be a warning to you to take the best possible care of your hair. A little of Dr. Dorenwend's "Hair Magic" used occasionally will prevent all chances of its falling out or turning gray, and will remove all traces of dandruff. Every druggist has it in stock. Ask for it. dw

Winding up Sale.

Messrs. Cox and Stevenson, who own a large amount of Peterborough property, desiring to wind up their joint account have resolved to offer the entire joint property for sale by public auction. The property embraces two shops on George street, five houses in the Eastland Terrace, four houses in the terrace corner of Hunter and Bethune streets, the store house corner of Hunter and Stewart streets, one house on Charlotte street, that handsome semi-detached house opposite the Court House park and a number of other properties. 2d

Too Much Medicine.

A three-year-old daughter of Mr. Allan, grocer, Charlotte street, narrowly escaped death yesterday morning. The child has been suffering from the effects of a cold, and about six o'clock the mother rose and gave it some German Syrup. The parents went to sleep again, and while they slumbered the little girl got up and drank nearly all the medicine that remained in the bottle. When they woke and the child was sitting in the corner very sick. Dr. Pigeon was summoned, and by prompt and vigorous measures the girl's life was saved. The medicine was not poisonous, but taken in too large quantities had a deadly effect.

From Lakefield to Lindsay.

An excursion per steamer Mary Ellen will be run from Lakefield to Lindsay on Monday and Tuesday September 9th and 10th. The steamer leaves Lakefield at 8 o'clock, and proceeds through the lakes to Lindsay, stopping two hours at Bobcaygeon en route both going and returning. The steamer remaining over night, will leave Lindsay at 8 o'clock on Tuesday morning. This is a delightful trip and cheap also, the round trip tickets (good for two days) being placed at $1.00, dtf

We Go One Better.

Other grocers are greatly excited about the prices of some of their goods. But Geo. Carton keeps quite cool, and goes one better every time. See the crashing value he is offering:—8½ lbs. Carton's red tea store, where you can carry away more goods for a $2 bill than you can get for $3 in other stores. Corner George and Charlotte streets. dw

No Disappointment.

Barnum's train was wrecked on Thursday night last. A broken axle was the cause. Six cars were derailed and two completely telescoped so that everything in them were crushed, except D. Whiting's pound cake and mixed cakes, which are all right yet. So you will not be disappointed at his picnic as the people of Montreal were with Barnum's circus. Wa hoo! Big Injin me! CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superbaking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

Improved "Common Sense" SASH BALANCE.

LOCKS AND LIFTS.

THE only practical substitute for weights invented. The most durable, the cheapest and best device for all ordinary windows. Balances when in position are entirely out of sight. No rivets, bolts or screws are used in putting it together so that nothing can get out of order or need repairing. No cutting, boring or marring of the sash, as the Balances are let into the jamb. Especially valuable for repairing old buildings as they can be put in at a trifling expense, as easily put in old buildings as new ones. Sash can be removed from frame in a moment for cleaning or repairing broken glass. Can be used where it is impracticable to use weights or other fixtures. No unsightly cord wearing paint off side of frame. No rattling of sash as pressure against sash prevents it. No rattling of weights or pulleys when Sash is raised or lowered. No sticking of weights in frame. No cords to rust off, wear out and break. No rubber rollers to become flattened by standing in one position for some time. No flimsy coil spring or delicate mechanism to break, wear out or get out of order. Its simplicity of construction and operation is the wonder of all.

Good Evening!

"Had any photos taken yet?"
"No."
"Why don't you? Everybody is taking advantage of the present low prices."
"Oh, well, you don't get good pictures for a dollar a dozen."
"Yes you do. Just look at this one! What better would you want than that?"
"That is good. Who took it?"
"Mr. Sproule. I got a dozen just as good as that for a dollar."
"Why, that's as well taken as the cabinets they used to charge us $3.00 a dozen for."
"Every bit. Oh, Mr. Sproule has woke up the town. You see his new instruments are so perfect that one sitting is all that he requires from you now, so that he makes them ever so much quicker.

THE STRIKE IS STILL ON

NO PROSPECT OF A SETTLEMENT YET IN SIGHT.

Sympathy With the Men Expressing Itself in a Substantial Way—Opposition to the Catholic University Bill—Davitt Raises His Voice Against Balfour's Measure.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—A deputation of shipowners to-day urged the officials of the dock companies to give the shippers power to make their own arrangements with the men for the discharge and loading of vessels. Mr. Norwood, chairman of the joint dock laborers' committee, told the shippers not to press their request, as it could not be granted without conceding the points which the companies are fighting against. The deputation represented 80 leading firms.

At a meeting of wharfingers a resolution was adopted advising the strikers to accept the dock companies' offer.

The Government is employing convicts to unload vessels in the Medway.

T. P. O'Connor's paper The Star has collected £2500 for the strikers' fund. At Melbourne, Australia, to-day £1500 was collected in behalf of the strikers.

Henry Lafoe proposes that the strikers work for the wharf wages at 6d. ordinary time and 7d. over time. He believes that such an agreement would force the dock companies to surrender. Mr. Burns is considering the proposal.

A section of the Salvation Army in Australia has sent £200 to the strikers here.

Excitement in Rochester.

ROCHESTER, Eng., Sept. 2.—There is much excitement here over the strike. Coal has advanced 2 shillings. The railroads and docks are picketed by strikers to prevent the importation of new labor. Two of the large firms have expressed their willingness to grant the required concessions, but the men refused to return to work unless all the firms concede their demands.

Australian Aid

MELBOURNE, Sept. 5.—Universal sympathy is expressed here with the striking dock men in London, and many subscriptions have been opened for their relief.

Davitt Mixes Metaphors.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Michael Davitt writes to The Pall Mall Gazette denouncing the abandonment of a single plank of the Home Rule platform for a mess of Catholic university pottage. He declares the stand taken upon this question, with the vote of the Irish members on the royal grants, forms a very sorry exhibition of parliamentary opportunism.

Will Oppose the Scheme.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The Protestant Alliance has resolved strenuously to oppose the Government's proposal to establish a Catholic university in Ireland.

The Congress of Orientalists.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 2.—King Oscar to-day opened the Congress of Orientalists which is assembled here.

Tolstoi's Scheme.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 2.—Under Count Tolstoi's scheme Jewish advocates will not be allowed to plead in the tribunal of the Baltic province.

7000 MEN IN LINE.

Labor Day at Montreal—Arrival of Delegates to the Congress.

MONTREAL, Sept. 2.—The city to-day wore a general holiday aspect. Most of the manufactories closed that the employes might take part in the Labor Day celebrations. The different labor organisations assembled at 8.30 on the Champ De Mars and neighboring thoroughfares, and half an hour later they marched through several streets of the city to the Exhibition Grounds. There a number of sports were indulged in, interspersed with speeches by delegates to the Congress, which commences its sittings to-morrow morning in the Dominion Assembly Hall and will continue for the remainder of the week. Nearly 7000 persons took part in the procession, which was formed four deep, two men marching on each side of the street.

As the Mayor has selected to-day as the civic holiday, the gathering, which is the fourth of its kind that has taken place in Montreal, thus receives an indirect official recognition.

Among the delegates who have already arrived are:

Quebec—T. Cane, W. J. Savage, M. S. Tierney, T. P. O'Malley, T. Donnelly, P. J. Jabin, H. Langevin, G. Gale, J. Delage, J. Jardiff.

Toronto—Fred. Leach, G. W. Dower, W. B. Prescott, J. Aldridge, W. H. Boynton, J. Armstrong, E. F. Beacon, R. Glockling, H. Hodgins, A. Holmes, C. March, G. T. Beales, H. McCaffrey, R. Lamb.

Ottawa—W. Mulhall, P. Leduc, P. J. McCann, E. Fisher, J. H. Wall, G. Munro, J. Smilie, J. G. Kilt, D. T. Coutter, H. Winter, S. Armstrong, Patrick Racine, W. Wager, F. Dankin, N. O'Connor, J. Donhey, J. McClouchie, H. Kennedy, G. Desiage, A. Giguerre, F. W. Jacques.

Hamilton—J. Burns, B. Gibson, R. Gibson, F. A. Stebbins.

In the States.

BUFFALO, Sept. 2.—A general observance of the first Monday in September (Labor Day) as a holiday is reported from cities and towns in several States. Stores were closed, public buildings decorated and parades and picnics were generally held. In this State the exchanges and banks were closed.

More British Capital.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 30.—The Manufacturers' Record says: The Embreville Iron Works and 45,000 acres of timber and mineral lands situated near Jonesboro, Tenn., has been sold to an English syndicate for $100,000. It has been out of blast since 1873.

The Week's Failures.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The business failures during the past seven days number for the United States 189 and for Canada 22, or a total of 211, as compared with a total of 206 last week and 225 the week previous to that.

NEWS OF THE DOMINION.

SENSATIONAL ARRESTS AT COLLINGWOOD.

Five of the Steamer Baltic's Crew in Custody Charged with Mustering a Deck-hand to His Death.

COLLINGWOOD, Sept. 2.—Second Engineer Thos. Russell, Cooks Aaron Tripp and George Daggett and Porter Kenneth McFadgen of the steamer Baltic were arrested here to-day charged with ill-treatment of deck hand Charles Owen which resulted in his committing suicide by jumping from the steamer during a recent trip.

The story is current that Owen was first charged with an unmentionable crime and then, although his innocence was established, he was treated to a dose of tar and feathers in the forecastle. Further badgering, it is said, resulted in his being driven so wild as to leap over board, little or no effort was made to save him.

Captain Robertson of the Baltic denies the whole story, but admits that an unknown man jumped overboard.

The prisoners were taken before Magistrate Price and remanded for a week.

Got Away with Scads.

MONTREAL, Sept. 2.—John McLean, employed by D. M. MacPherson, drew $6000 from the Quebec Bank this morning to take with him to Lancaster. While examining goods in a store a strange female managed to get away with the package of bills without being noticed. The detectives are scouring the town to try and find the woman.

A man about 50 years of age shot himself through the head with a revolver on Dominion-square at midnight. Nothing was found upon him by which he could be identified. The letter "L" was marked on his underclothing. He was apparently about 50 years of age.

Lost His Money, Then His Life.

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Sept. 2.—The body recently found in the river here has been identified as that of James T. Bruce of New York, a bachelor aged 67. Bruce had lost heavily of late in grain speculations.

The Dangers of Icecream.

IROQUOIS, Sept. 2.—The family of M. F. Beach and several neighbors, 13 persons in all, were poisoned yesterday by eating icecream. All are recovering.

Accidentally Shot.

STRATHROY, Sept. 2.—James Bolton sr., one of Adelaide's pioneer settlers, was accidentally shot this morning and died within an hour.

Sudden Death at Bracefield.

BRUCEFIELD, Sept. 2.—Wm. McMillan, magistrate of this village, dropped dead this afternoon.

That Ontario Coal Mine

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 2.—The Fin Ridge correspondent of The News writes: Coal has again been found in Ontario. It has been nearly a year since coal was reported to have been discovered on the farm of Israel Wilson, and the excitement of that discovery had all died out. But last week the excitement was again renewed by the fact that coal had again been found at the depth of forty feet on the farm of Mr. Reid, which is situated 1½ miles from where the former discovery was made. The vein that has been found this time is one foot in thickness, and the sample of coal that was brought up seems to be of good quality. There is no doubt but that coal does exist in small quantities at least beneath the surface of this section. When coal was first discovered on I. Wilcox's farm it was at the depth of seventeen feet, but the vein was only a few inches in thickness and was mixed with slate. The hole was then sunk some seventy or eighty feet further, and another vein was struck, which was two feet in thickness. At this point of proceedings, J. F. Ralston of Hamilton took up the matter and tried to form a company for the purpose of sinking a shaft, but the scheme did not take with the farmers and it all fell through for the lack of funds. Nothing further was done, and the excitement had all died out until the men at Reid's well went through a seam of coal. The farmers now propose to form a joint stock company and sink shafts on different farms to ascertain if coal can be found in workable quantities. The geologists say that there is no coal in Ontario, but in spite of this coal has been discovered, and it has also been shown that it exists over a considerably large section of North and South Grimsby.

Fires of a Day.

OSHAWA, Sept. 2.—A fire, supposed to be the work of an incendiary, broke out in the roof of Jewell & Son's storehouse at 2o'clock this morning. It was extinguished before much damage was done.

PETROLIA, Sept. 2.—At 7.45 this evening Shields & Whitney's grocery, Mrs. Mann's boarding house and Vicars' butcher shop were gutted by fire.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Sept. 2.—The Catholic cathedral at Harbor Grace was burned this morning; loss, $150,000.

ORANGEVILLE, Sept. 2.—Fire at noon today caused these losses: Dufferin Tarpaulin Company $2000, partly insured; J. Patullo on building $2000, insurance $1000; R. McKeown on building $400, partly insured. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Typhoid at Oshawa.

OSHAWA, Sept. 2.—Several cases of typhoid fever have been reported in town. The second funeral resulting from this disease took place to-day.

Heavy Poker Playing.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 2.—Bud Guion of Chicago, a gambler, came to Kansas City a week ago and registered at a prominent hotel, giving out that he was a cattle buyer from New York. Cornelius C. Quinlan, one of the most prominent sellers of cattle in the southwest, was stopping at the hotel and cultivated Guion's acquaintance. Guion proposed a game of poker. Quinlan is something of a poker player himself. They went to Guion's room and played cards on a handsome inlaid table, a present, as Guion said, he highly prized. The first night Quinlan lost his ready cash, the next night he lost $13,000 and the next night $4000 in cash with a like amount in promissory notes, his watch and chain, two diamond studs and a diamond ring. Quinlan became suspicious and notified the police that he had been swindled, but Guion had fled. It is alleged the inlaid table assisted him to a marked degree in winning Quinlan's money.

The Elixir Killed Him.

DAYTON, Sept. 2.—Samuel C. Showaler, aged 69, submitted to an injection of elixir three weeks ago, hoping for relief from rheumatism and died to-day. After the injection his limbs swelled and his whole system was permeated with blood poison. Gangrene set in, the flesh chipped off in flakes as large as a man's hand and he became a horrible object.

A Brakeman Cut in Two.

PORT HOPE, Sept. 2.—Shortly after 8 o'clock this evening Alfred Jones, a brakesman on an auxiliary train, while passing between the auxiliary car and van, fell between the cars and was completely cut in two. Death was instantaneous. Jones was an unmarried man about 30 years of age. His mother lives near Belleville.

Suicide in Cobourg Jail.

COBOURG, Sept. 2.—On Sunday morning between 9 and 10 o'clock a young man named John Emerson, awaiting trial in the common jail here on a charge of uttering a forgery, committed suicide by hanging himself by two towels by an iron pipe in the water closet.

Pixley Got the Best of It.

VISTA, I.T., Sept. 2.—A shooting affray occurred yesterday at Table Springs, twenty-five miles from here, which resulted in the death of two men named Moraine and Given, and the arrest of a third named Pixley. Given had accused Moraine and Pixley of horse-stealing. The two latter attempted to procure a retraction of the statement. In the quarrel that ensued Given and Moraine drew their revolvers and fired until both had fallen. Pixley with a hammer pounded Given's brains out. Moraine died shortly afterwards. Pixley was arrested.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Interesting Papers Read by Scientists—Hon. Oliver Mowat Returns Home.

TORONTO, Sept. 2.—Many instructive papers were read before the A.A.A.S. at yesterday's session. Prof. Mendenhall presided. Amongst others present were seven past presidents: James D. Dana, New York; James Hall, Albany; George F. Barker, Philadelphia; Sir William Dawson, Montreal; H. A. Newton, New Haven; E. S. Morse, Salem, Mass., and J. S. Newberry, New York, the last named having just arrived. Papers were read by Sir Daniel Wilson on "The Huron-Iroquois of the St. Lawrence" and by Alex F. Chamberlain, Toronto, on "Algonqu n Onomatology, with some comparisons with Basques." A breathy paper on "Social Economics," the product of Mrs. Laura Osborne Talbot, Washington, was read by William H. Hall in the absence of the former. "The Abolition of Slavery in Upper Canada" was the subject of an interesting paper by William Houston, M.A., Toronto. Some important facts were presented. Dr. Fred Huffman, in a paper on food preparations for children, thought that sufficient attention was not bestowed by chemists and sanitarians on these productions, the consumption of which amounts in the U.S. to from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000 annually.

The mathematicians and astronomers went into some abstruse calculations on the Peruvian Arc and suggested improvements for telescope glasses.

Chemistry and geology, besides other of the sciences, were the subjects of considerable deep research, ably expounded.

The standing committee of the council of the chemistry section will take action in the matter of the formation of a national chemical association.

The garden party to be given at Government House this afternoon promises to be a brilliant affair.

A meeting of the council was held last night in the Queen's Hotel, at which it was decided to hold the next annual meeting at Indianapolis, commencing on the third Wednesday in August, 1890. These, among other officers, were elected:

President—Prof. George L. Goodale of Harvard University, Cambridge.

Secretary—Prof. James Loudon, Toronto.

General Secretary—Dr. H. Carrington, Bolton N.Y.

Permanent Secretary (for five years)—Prof. F. W. Putnam, Harvard University.

Dr. Bolton delivered a free lecture in the Pavilion last night on "Four weeks in the Desert of Mount Sinai." It was amply illustrated.

Hon. Oliver Mowat, accompanied by Mrs. Mowat, Mr. Fred Mowat and Miss Mowat, arrived home from England last night by the Canadian Pacific Railway. They got off the train at North Toronto and drove to Mr. Mowat's St. George-street residence. The Premier appeared to be in excellent health. He looked quite happy.

Mabel Guy, 413 Huron-street, while in her father's carriage factory in Queen-street east yesterday fell on a revolving emery wheel. Her collar bone was fractured and her face and neck badly burnt by the wheel.

The collection of Algoma minerals made under the auspices of the Port Arthur Board of Trade is now on its way to the city, and a committee of Toronto gentlemen interested in the development of that country will see to its proper display at the Industrial Fair. The specimens are said to be the finest as well as the most valuable ever got together in a cabinet and will prove one of the most instructive features of the Exhibition.

The regular monthly meeting of the Canadian Legion was held in Shaftesbury Hall last night, the president, Mr. E. E. Sheppard, in the chair.

Mr. G. H. Smith and Mr. J. S. Roaf offered this resolution, which was carried unanimously:

That the members of the Canadian Legion desire to express the pleasure which they feel at the success which has attended the Hamilton carnival committee in their efforts to bring Canada before the public of this continent, and that this legion would strongly urge upon the Toronto City Council the advisability of immediately taking steps toward holding during the first week of July, 1890, a grand summer carnival such as will be a credit to our country; further that the Executive Committee be instructed to lay the matter before the council.

In this connection the secretary, Mr. F. A. Fenton, stated that he was authorized to say that a prominent American gentleman (a Canadian by birth) would give $500 toward such a carnival.

Mr. J. S. Roaf gave notice of a motion declaring against exemption from taxation and favoring immediate steps towards the passing of a law to that effect. This will be the subject for discussion at the next meeting.

William Gordon, a G.T.R. teamster residing at No. 45 Mercer-street, met with a painful accident at the corner of Front and West Market-street, about 10.30 a.m. yesterday. He had a load of hides and empty barrels, and while crossing the street car tracks the barrel he was sitting on became dislodged, throwing him to the cobble pavement. He was carredin to E. Leadlay & Co.'s office, and was found to be unconscious. Mr. Shedden conveyed him home, where his injury, an ugly cut in the head, was dressed. No serious effects are anticipated.

Killed by 1000 Volts.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—D. A. Henry, Superintendent of Construction of the East River Electric Light Company was killed here to-day by an electric shock in the work of the company. The doctors labored in vain for an hour and a half to restore him. It was said the current that struck Henry was 1000 volts in strength.

Smokeless Powder Experiments.

ROME, Sept. 2.—The military authorities have been experimenting with smokeless powder. In target practice with the new powder double the usual number of hits have been made.

INTERESTING ITEMS BY WIRE.

In London yesterday 3000 tailors went on strike.

Three thousand mills have been stopped in Blackburn, Eng., owing to depression in trade.

Dr. Fricke, who was with General Gordon at Khartoum, has returned to Berlin after fifteen years spent in Africa.

During the first six months of the present year, 57,000 Germans emigrated to America. The same number emigrated during the first six months of 1888.

William O'Brien, M.P., was yesterday taken to Galway to serve out his two months' sentence for having held a proclaimed Nationalist meeting.

Information has been received by the London police and by Home Secretary Matthews that John Burns yesterday urged the strikers to proceed to the docks and expel the men working there.

In accordance with a law passed the French Government has taken formal possession of the telephone stations. The company protested against the Government's action as illegal, and only submitted to force.

Proctor Knott Sold For $17,100.

SHEEPSHEAD BAY, Sept. 2.—Before the racing began to-day Col. S. D. Bruce sold at auction a number of thoroughbreds belonging to Bryant & Scoggan and the Locust stable. The star of the sale was the three-year-old Proctor Knott, the winner of last year's Futurity. The first bid was $10,000. The bidding went along at a lively clip until $17,100 was reached, at which figure he was sold to A. Ferris, who represented Mr. Scoggan. Mr. Scoggan thus became sole owner of the horse. Hindoo Craft sold to G. R. Tompkins for $11,700. A large number of other horses were sold realizing good prices.

He Fought With Perry.

MARSHALL, Ill., Sept. 2.—Dr. J. H. Hazen died Saturday night of old age. He was 91 years old, and had spent forty years in this county. He was born in North Hero, Vt., in 1798. When the war of 1812 broke out he joined a company of boys organized to protect the town while the men were away at war. He went to Ohio in 1815, and fell in with Perry's company of ship builders, joined them and went on board the Lawrence. He was one of those who accompanied Perry in his perilous passage from the disabled flagship, the Lawrence, to the Niagara in an open boat. He was severely wounded on the Niagara, and carried the ball in his body during the remainder of his life.

India shipments of wheat past week—To United Kingdom, 22,000 qrs.; to Continent, 35,000 qrs.

THE CHEESE MARKETS.

Buffalo reports: The market was dull, being a legal holiday. Marshfield sold 750 at 8 5-8; Rock Island 350 offered at 8 5-8.

Utica reports:—The cheese markets seem to be going from bad to worse. The lowest price of the season was touched yesterday. They have averaged low enough all along, and for them to drop still lower was certainly not encouraging. Still the condition of affairs appears to warrant no expectation for anything better just now, and salesmen as a rule hold back little of their stock. There is little demand from England now, but there is always a demand for the September make. Yesterday's transactions aggregated 1854 lots, 14,190 boxes, ruling price 7¾. Transactions same time last year aggregated 15,965 boxes, ruling price 8¾.

Little Falls reports: Yesterday was a very dull day for cheese. The shipment is almost unprecedented light and the ruling price falls to below that of last week. The transactions for the day were 50 lots at 7¾c, 25 at 7¾, 16 at 8, 2 at private trade and 7 lots on commission; total 7007 boxes. The sales of farm dairy cheese amount d to 1109 boxes 7¾ to 8¾c, bulk at 8c. There was not enough butter sold to base quotations on. A few packages of dairy and creamery sold at 17 to 18c but the whole number will not exceed a dozen.

It Made Mother Strong

"My mother has been using PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND for nervous prostration, accompanied by melancholia, etc., and it has done her a world of good. It is the only medicine that strengthens the nerves."
G. H. BEERS, Orchestra, Pa.

"I am in my 66th year. Have been afflicted in several ways—could not sleep, had no appetite, no courage, low spirits. I commenced using Paine's Celery Compound, and felt relief from the third day after using it. I now have a good appetite and can sleep well. My spirits and courage are almost like those of a young man."
S. C. KINLAID, D. D., Gonzalis, La.

Paine's Celery Compound

Strengthens and builds up the old, and cures their infirmities. Rheumatism, indigestion and nervousness yield quickly to the curative power of Paine's Celery Compound.

A Perfect Tonic and Invigorator, it GIVES NEW LIFE.

"I am now 49 years old and have tried several remedies, but none had any effect until I used Paine's Celery Compound. I feel entirely different for the short time I have used it. I can walk nearly straight, sleep sound and well, and feel as though there was new life and energy coming into my whole system."
H. MYLIUS, Cleveland, Tenn.

Paine's Celery Compound is of unequaled value to women. It strengthens the nerves, regulates the kidneys, and has wonderful power in curing the painful diseases with which women so often silently suffer.

The City Hotel.

The March of Improvement has reached One of Peterborough's Best Hotels.

For some time past improvements have been going on at the City Hotel, and Mr. Wm. Clancy, the enterprising and popular proprietor, will soon have one of the best equipped and noblest public houses in town. The improvements are not yet completed, but sufficient advance has been made to tide the hotel over the pressure of circus business to day. After several weeks of dust and confusion, everything is once more running smoothly at the City Hotel.

The greatest change apparent is in the building up of the old driveway, on the site of which is now one of the dandiest bar-rooms in town. Mr. Thos. Rutherford had the contract for the work, and well has he performed it. The old bar-room has been increased by the width of the drive-way, the whole elegantly finished and painted. There is a bar about 25 feet long furnished with all the latest appliances. In rear of the bar-room are the closets and wash room. The street entrance is a wide pillared recess, which will be fitted with storm doors in winter.

Underneath the bar is a well furnished cellar. The bar itself is supplied with a refrigerator for lager and other cool drinks. The taps and water escapes are perfect, the plumbing being done by Messrs J. E. Noble & Co.

The other proposed alterations will not be entered upon till late in the season. It is intended to convert the present sitting and billiard rooms into a dining room, the present dining room to be the sitting room. When these improvements are made the City Hotel will be on a par with the best houses in town.

FIRE LOSSES.

An Early Sunday Blaze at Gananoque Wipes out Property Valued at $61,000.

GANANOQUE, Ont, Sept. 1. — A fire occurred here about 4 a.m. to-day on King and Garden-streets. It originated in a building in the lane midway between these streets. These buildings and places of business have been destroyed totally, the contents in a few of the places being partly saved: W. N. Rogers, buggies, pianos and organs, loss on stock and building and shed about $6000; insurance not known; C. B. Rogers' block, loss on buildings $8000, insurance $5000; Taylor & Green, general drgoods, loss on building and stock about $20,000, insured $16,000; L. A. Osterhout, clothier and gents', furnishings, loss on stock about $8000, insurance $5000; A. Purvis, dry goods and millinery stock, loss about $6000, insurance $4000; D. J. Darling, general groceries, loss $4000, insurance $2000; Stephan White, loss about $2600, insurance $1900; T. Harrison, groceries, loss on stock and effects $2[illegible], no insurance; blacksmith shop and paint shop, building and contents destroyed, value about $600, no insurance; five dwelling houses valued at about $6500, some of which were insured. The total loss is about $62,000, insurance about $36,000, which is distributed among the following companies: London and Lancashire, Royal, Queen's, Lancashire, Caledonia, Atlas, Mercantile and British America.

PRINCETON, Ont., Sept. 1.—The three large barns on the farm of the late David Eastedo, about a mile from the village, were with the whole of this season's harvest totally consumed by fire last evening, probably the work of an incendiary; insurance nominal.

ROCHESTER, Sept. 1.—The explosion of a gasoline stove in the Manhattan Cottage at Ontario Beach this morning at 8 o'clock started a conflagration that caused $15,000 damage and destroyed two handsome pavilions.

THE ACCOUNTS VARY.

But It Is Agreed That There Was a Lively Fight Along the Color Line

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 1.—Between 2 and 3 o'clock this morning a train carrying a colored excursion arrived at the Gouldsboro depot in Gretna from Baton Rouge. A large number of colored men and women were near the depot waiting for the train. As the train neared the depot one of the excursionists attempted to get off and fell to the ground. Some unknown person said it "Look at the black ——," when the negro drew a pistol and rapidly fired four or five shots in succession, one of which struck a white man Wm. Mills, a brother of one of the Gretna police, in the nose and lodged in the back of the neck. Then the shooting became general, some four or five hundred shots being fired in less than fifteen minutes.

A terrible panic occurred, women and children running in all directions shouting and screaming. Ed. Levy, a colored man living in Algiers was shot in the left arm and a colored woman named Fleming was fatally shot in the back. Such is the story of the Gretna police.

Several negroes who claimed to have formed a part of the excursion party, state that when the train was nearing the Gouldsboro depot, it was fired on by men secreted along the line of the railroad and when the shooting commenced the train was yet in motion, and as soon as it was stopped a general stampede took place.

Ben Watkins, colored, aged 70, residing in Gouldsboro, was shot while in bed at his home this morning by some unknown party who fired through the window. The ball struck him on the right hand breast and left hand, inflicting serious wounds. Watkins says he knows nothing of the [illegible].

"Five years ago I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and had been given up by my physicians. I began to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after using two bottles of this medicine, was completely cured."—Anga A. Lewis, Ricard, N.Y.

MARKSMEN AT OTTAWA.

Opening of the D. R. A. Meet—Seizure of Drinkables by the Police.

OTTAWA, Sept. 2.—There was a large attendance at the Dominion Rifle Association meet at the Rideau ranges to-day. Delightful weather without a breath of air stirring helped the marksmen to make good shots. The first competition to come off was the Nursery. This match consists of five shots at 500 yards with the Snider rifle. Last year the match was won by a score of 23 points out of a possible 25. This year the winner, Pte. Windatte, 45th Batt., made a possible of 25 points. Last year 14 points gained prizes while this year 13 7's were counted out.

In the McDougall match Q. M. S. Armstrong, B.A., Guelph, took the cup and $30 with 45 points. Firing went on all day in the Martini matches. Thirteen teams entered for the military matches against twelve last year.

This morning thirty city police seized the liquors in the canteen on the ground that the proprietor had no license to sell liquors. The police, however, eventually returned the liquor on the representation that no license is required to sell to military camps.

In the British challenge shield match the Royal Grenadiers were victorious with 290 points. In the Gzowski match the cup and $50 went to the Governor-General's Foot-Guards with 422 points, the Queen's Own second with 376 points.

Work For Some Idle Men.

READING, Pa., Sept. 2.—This section of the Schuylkill Valley experienced a big industrial boom to-day. The rolling mill, pipe and tube mills and foundry of the Reading Iron Company, after an idleness of six months, resumed partial operations and in a week are expected to run full handed, when 2000 men will be employed. McIlvaine's rolling mill after slight trouble with its 200 employes resumed to-day, the puddlers' wages being increased from $3.25 to $3.70 per ton. The Reading Iron Company has also established the rate of puddlers' wages at $3.70. Commencing to-day, S. R. Seyfert's puddlers at Seyfert's station, this county, will be paid $4 per ton, the highest paid in the Schuylkill Valley. At Pottstown the puddlers of the Potts Iron Company to-day commenced working at an increase of from $3.25 to $3.50 per ton. The Glasgow Iron Company puddlers are now working at the same increase.

Has the Ottawa Liar Moved?

NIAGARA FALLS, Sept. 2.—A special despatch dated Niagara Falls, and published in the Buffalo and Toronto papers, is the first intimation that the public here have had of Graham passing over the Horseshoe Falls in his barrel-boat. The public in general express the opinion that the story is a "fake" created for the purpose of gaining increased notoriety for Graham.

Some drink when they are hard at work,
And some when they do play;
Some think it right to drink at night,
While others drink by day.

Some drink for sake of company,
While others drink on the sly;
And many drink but never think,
About the reason why.

Some say they drink for pleasure,
And some they drink for pain,
Some say 'tis good, some very bad,
But never once refrain.

Yet all mustown the proverb true:

POTT'S DISEASE.
A Bad Curvature Reduced and Entirely Out of Danger.

CHAS. CLUTHE, Esq.,
DEAR SIR—This is to state that my boy, aged seven years, was prostrated with Pott's disease of the spine, with very little hopes of recovery. I procured one of your appliances, which was duly fitted, gave great support, and enabled him to run about and play. He is so much improved as to be almost entirely out of danger
Yours truly, S. C. HOWELL,

MUNCASTER'S.

TELL TALE WHISKERS.

HOW THEY INDICATE THE CHARACTERS OF THE WEARERS.

A Man's Good and Bad Qualities Can Usually Be Read by the Style of His Facial Adornment—It Appears That the Bare-faced Man Has a Little the Best of It.

The subject of beards furnishes an interesting study as indicating the dispositions of persons. There is nothing particularly marked about the characteristics of the "beardless youth," as his purposes in life and his character can hardly be said to be fixed. However, as he grows into manhood, and matures his beard to his taste, the style he finally adopts will usually indicate his ideas of life. There is, of course, nothing particularly remarkable about young mustaches, and the little dudish side whiskers, worn wedge shape just below the ears. They may be termed simply freaks of youth. The absence altogether of whiskers and mustache in a man whose character and habits of life have become fixed and unchangeable, indicates a frank, open hearted disposition, with a great regard for the truth and the courage to tell it, with nothing to conceal and a conscientiousness that is as clear and apparent as his clean shaven face. He is usually a plain, unpretentious man, who pays more attention to the storing of his mind with useful information and the domestic side of life than the adornment of his person.

HE OF THE IRON WILL.

The man of iron will and firmness of purpose is he who wears a full, thick, stubby beard. If he is a man of brain and has had the benefit of cultured experience, although firm in his purposes and unchangeable in his ideas, he will grant you your argument if you are reasonable. But on the other hand, if he is uncultured and inexperienced in business affairs, he will prove to be an uncompromising tyrant, uncouth and overbearing in the extreme. Having only a superficial knowledge of letters, he will not permit you to give an opinion contrary to his own. The long, flowing, pointed beard, worn by such church reformers as Wiclif and John Calvin did not indicate any particular trait of character in their day, as they were only worn to serve as a contrast to the clean shaven faces of the Roman Catholic priesthood. These long beards are worn as a rule by the clergy of some denominations today. There is a pious satedness about them very becoming to doctors of divinity. The elongation of the countenance is materially aided by such beards, and the changes of facial expression are not so plainly observable. A man with such a beard has little trouble to look pious, no matter how great a sinner he may be. Ordinarily persons in this day and age who emulate this style of beard may be found active members of some church, or hovering about the vestibule of the house of the Lord, borrowing religion for some sinister or mercenary motive. If his motives are not pure, he is what we would commonly call a hypocrite. If pure, his thoughts are of a theological turn, and he will pay less attention to accumulating a little of this world's goods than to the details of the church. Men who wear their beards in this style are usually lovers of fine horses, and to distinguish between the livery man and the deacon you have only to contrast the quick twinkle of the former's eye with the soft, mild expression of that of the latter.

Perhaps the most marked index of character is furnished by what is commonly called Burnsides, and the more of the bare chin that is shown, and the heavier and more pointed the whiskers, the greater is the measure of self conceit. High living and a self consciousness that is utterly oblivious to the importance of his surroundings, is a characteristic of the wearer of flowing Burnsides. He is generally possessed of a fine physique, and prides himself on his shape. He is usually a gourmand, whose appetite is easily offended at something that is not up to his standard of cookery. His greed knows no bounds, and his egotism no compromise.

A plain, unpretentious mustache indicates nothing in particular, and about the only way you can read a man's character from this standpoint is by the manner in which he trains his mustache and the amount of labor he devotes to it. A man, for instance, who will take a pair of scissors and deliberately trim off the straggling ends of his mustache to keep them from curling up his nose, or in the corner of his mouth, is more sensible than the general run of men who are really able to grow a healthy mustache. If there is any one style of whiskers in the world that is calculated to make a fool of a man more than any other, it is a fine, heavy mustache, and, as before hinted, about the only thing we can say of a man who devotes half his time to the training of his mustache is, he is usually very giddy, and his urbanity and vanity are measured by the size and curl of this appendage.

Of course, there are exceptions to the foregoing rules, but the thoughtful reader will find much for reflection in this brief outline of characteristic styles of whiskers.—G. W. Dannettell in Evansville (Ind.) Tribune.

Wise Head on Young Shoulders.

One of our Sunday school teachers on a recent occasion told her pupils that when they put their pennies in the contribution box she wanted each to repeat a Bible verse suitable for the occasion. The first boy dropped in a cent, saying, "The Lord loveth a cheerful giver." The next boy dropped his cent into the box, saying, "He that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord." The third and youngest boy dropped his penny, saying, "A fool and his money are soon parted."—Enterprise (Kan.) Independent.

What the Mines Have Done.

We were a nation of poor men up to 1850. What we have gained since has been chiefly through the mines. The debts paid almost represent the gold and silver taken from the cliffs and placers; the moving forces have been the gold and silver dug from the mines; the real forces that mark out the courses of trade are on the west rather than on the east side of the continent.—Salt Lake Tribune.

A Trout Stream Fable.

A Trout was lurking under a bank when a Redfin came along with an air of importance.

"What has happened to you," inquired the Trout, "that has made you so inflated?"

"A gentleman angler, a real gentleman angler, has come here to fish. I know he is a real gentleman angler," replied the Redfin, "for he fishes only for amusement. I caught his fly and found myself drawn swiftly through the water until he raised me gently with a net. I begged him not to hurt me, and he said: 'Hurt you, you beautiful thing, I would not think of such an act.' Thereupon he gently removed the metal from my jaw, and placed me back in the water."

"Did it not hurt to have the hook in your jaw?" inquired the Trout.

"Not in the least," replied the Redfin.

"And he called you beautiful?" pursued the Trout.

"He did that," replied the Redfin with pride.

"Then wait until you hear what he says when he sees me," said the Trout. Whereupon he seized the fly the gentleman angler had just dropped near the bank. The gentleman angler took the Trout from the water with the exclamation: "This is the finest fish I have seen in many a day!" The Trout swelled up with pride and cast a disdainful look at the Redfin in the water beneath him. But the gentleman angler placed the Trout in his basket instead of back in the water, and the Redfin thanked his stars that he was not born as beautiful as a Trout.—New York Herald.

"It goes right to the spot," said an old gentleman, who found great benefit in Ayer's Sarsaparilla. He was right. Derangements of the stomach, liver, and kidneys are more speedily remedied by this medicine than by any other. It reaches the trouble directly.

The Four Cardinal Points

The stomach, the liver, the bowels and the blood are the four cardinal points of health. These Burdock Blood Bitters acts upon to strengthen, regulate, cleanse and purify, thus restoring and mantaining perfect health. B. B. B. is nature's true tonic and enovator. 2w34d

TIMELY wisdom is shown by those who keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry on hand. It has no equal for cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhoea, dysentery, colic, cramps and all summer complaints or looseness of the bowels. 2w34

The Oklahoma Boom

FORMS an instance of a wild rush for an uncertainty, which is just the opposite of the steady boom enjoyed by Burdock Blood Bitters. Buyers of this medecine get a certainty—an unequalled remedy for all diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels, kidneys and the blood. 2w34d

The Appetite

May be increased, the Digestive organs strengthened, and the Bowels regulated, by taking Ayer's Pills. These Pills are purely vegetable in their composition. They contain neither calomel nor any other dangerous drug, and may be taken with perfect safety by persons of all ages.

I was a great sufferer from Dyspepsia and Constipation. I had no appetite, became greatly debilitated, and was constantly afflicted with Headache and Dizziness. I consulted our family doctor, who prescribed for me, at various times, without affording more than temporary relief. I finally commenced taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time my digestion and appetite my bowels were regulated, and, by the time I finished two boxes of these Pills my tendency to headaches had disappeared, and I became strong and well.—Darius M. Logan, Wilmington, Del.

IMPROVED

I was troubled, for over a year, with Loss of Appetite, and General Debility. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and, before finishing half a box of this medicine, my appetite and strength were restored.—C. O. Clark, Danbury, Conn.

Ayer's Pills are the best medicine known to me for regulating the bowels, and for all diseases caused by a disordered Stomach and Liver. I suffered for over three years with Headache, Indigestion, and Constipation. I had no appetite, and was weak and nervous most of the time.

BY USING

three boxes of Ayer's Pills, and, at the same time dieting myself, I was completely cured. My digestive organs are now in good order, and I am in perfect health.—Phillip Lockwood, Topeka, Kans.

Ayer's Pills have benefited me wonderfully. For months I suffered from Indigestion and Headache, was restless at night, and had a bad taste in my mouth every morning. After taking one box of Ayer's Pills, all these troubles disappeared, my food digested well, and my sleep was refreshing.—Henry C. Hemenway, Rockport, Mass.

I was cured of the Piles by the use of Ayer's Pills. They not only relieved me of that painful disorder, but gave me increased vigor, and restored my health.—John Lazarus, St. John, N. B.

SPLENDID BUILDING SITES

I have placed on the market

That Desirable and Well Situated Property

in the western part of the Town, and offer it in lots as per plan annexed. This affords a splendid opportunity to secure a location for your home in a rapidly improving and in every respect the best part of the town. The properties are situated on Cedar and Hatton streets and within a stone's throw of the West Ward School and a short distance of the principal Churches and the Hamilton Oil Works.

"ERIN COTTAGE," late the residence of Mr. Elias Thompson, is situated in the centre of the block. This property is for sale or can be had at a bargain. It is a desirable suburban residence.

The lots have good frontages on streets of the standard width and are splendidly located. From the upper lots is afforded one of the best views of the town with ample facilities for drainage.

Several fine dwellings are already contracted for to be built on these lots during this season.

Tradesmen and mechanics should inspect this property as it offers the best sites available and convenient to the business part of the town.

Threatening Letters

Mr. McLelland park gardener has received several anonymous letters, insinuating that he is allowing private parties the use of the park flowers for exhibition at the annual show of the Horticultural Society, and darkly intimating that he is "watched and had better be careful." Mr. McLelland does not feel in the slightest degree alarmed by these sneak sparties. His conscience is clear and he has no objection to all the "watching" that may be instituted. His business is to keep the park in good order and the beautiful appearance of the place shows that he attends to his business.

An Aged Man's Death.

The late Mr. Graham, who died at the residence of Mr. Alex. Fitzgerald, Ashburnham, Thursday last, was buried in Toronto Saturday. Deceased had been in Australia with his brother for a long number of years, and about six weeks ago came to this country for the benefit of his health. He stopped a while with another brother of his in Toronto, and came to Peterborough a little over a week ago, on a visit to his niece, the wife of Mr. Fitzgerald. He died rather suddenly on Thursday of heart disease. His other relatives in town are Mr. Robt. Graham, a nephew, and Mrs. Thos. Sedgwick, a niece. The remains were taken to Toronto Saturday and interred. Deceased was quite an old man and had no family of his own.

Removing to Washington.

For some time past a rumor has been current in town to the effect Mr. Geo. A. Morrison, District Manager of the Manufacturers Life Insurance Co., intends leaving Peterborough and removing to the States. This rumor is now verified. Mr. Morrison has severed his connection with the manufacturers' company, and will about the first of October leave for Tacoma, State of Washington, where he will establish a general insurance and real estate agency. He is now negotiating with several of the best American companies for the management of their business in that state. However, the large business worked up by Mr. Morrison here will suffer no interruption, as it is understood the district agency for the Manufacturers' will be transferred to Mr. Jas. Gallon, a competent insurance man, and the fire insurance department to Messrs. Mallholland & Roper, a live business firm in whose hands in cannot but prosper. The many friends of Mr. Morrison will regret his departure from town. He is one of our most enterprising and progressive citizens. He has been in the insurance business here the past eight years, and by his unassisted energy has established one of the most prosperous agencies in town. He will be greatly missed, but all his friends will most heartily wish him success in his home.

The Church Tower.

The congregational meeting in the George street church last night was not largely attended. Rev. M. L. Pearson occupied the chair. The subject under consideration was the building of the new tower. It will be remembered the Idlers and Strangers some time ago undertook the work and tenders were asked for, but the lowest of these was considered too high. Then it was proposed that the tower be built under the direct supervision of the church managers, and the meeting of the congregation was called to sanction the proceeding. A joint committee of the Idlers and Strangers and the Trustee Board was organized for the purpose of carrying out the proposition. The Trustees agreed to go on with the work provided the Idlers and Strangers raised the sum of $2,500 within two weeks. It is believed the tower can be built for $3,000, and the Idlers and Strangers have already secured $1,500. The Trustees want the full amount within two weeks so that they may know whether to proceed with the work or not. If the tower is to be built they will at once procure rough stone from the quarry and have it cut during the winter. It is estimated $1,000 can be saved by this means. The committee of the Idlers and Strangers will report progress at another meeting to be held two weeks from Wednesday night.

Matrimonial.

Nuptials of Mr. John McCabe, Grafton, and Miss Lily Begley, Peterborough.

This morning there was a large number present at St. Peter's Cathedral to witness and assist at the wedding of Mr. John McCabe, merchant miller, Grafton, to Miss Lily, eldest daughter of Mr. Patrick Begley, 110 Simcoe street.

The bridegroom and his groomsman, Mr. Peter McCabe, of the firm of Peplow & McCabe, Port Hope, arrived first at the church; the bride's party soon after arrived, and as they passed up the aisle, the bride leaning on her father's arm, the organ pealed forth the notes of a wedding march. The bridesmaid was Miss Bidget McCabe, sister of the groom. Rev. Father Cote, of the Cathedral, performed the ceremony and celebrated the nuptial mass. During the ceremony of the mass, at the offertory, Miss Jennie McCabe of Port. sang, Henshaw Dana's, "Ave Maria," in a very pleasing style, and as the bridal party left the church Miss Ealand, organist performed a wedding march. The bride was beautifully attired in white with the traditional veil and orange blossoms. After the ceremony the wedding party partook of the wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's father and inspected and admired the numerous and handsome presents which the popularity of the bride had called forth. She is well known in town, as one of our leading vocalists, and has occupied successively and, also successfully, the position of organist in St Peter's Cathedral, St. Mary's church, Grafton and St. Patrick church, Norwood. She possesses a large circle of friends, who will unite in the best wishes for her happiness in the new stake upon which she has entered. Her husband is also a very estimable gentleman conducting a successful business at Grafton, where the future home of Mr. and Mrs. McCabe will be.

The happy couple left on the 5.52 C.P.R. express for Toronto, on their wedding journey, which will include Niagara Falls, Cleveland, Rochester, Buffalo and other places.

A Melancholy Suicide.

Robert J. Emmerson Commits Suicide in Cobourg.

On Sunday morning Robert J. Emmerson, lately of Cobourg, and well known in Peterborough and Ashburnham, committed suicide at that place—by hanging himself in Cobourg gaol. The incidents which led up to this melancholy ending of his life are as follows: A few years since he was married to a Miss Killaby, of Cobourg, and entered into partnership, at Port Hope, with a brother of his wife. The firm had business dealings with a Bobcaygeon man, and in the course of these dealings, the latter gave a note for $26 to the firm. This note Emmerson raised to $126. Shortly after both members of the firm eloped with a girl and a widow, Emmerson deserting his wife, and Killaby being a party to the disgrace and desertion of his sister. After two months, Emmerson went to Toronto, where his wife was staying, and got employment in a freight warehouse, but he was arrested on the charge of forgery, which consisted in raising the note, brought to Port Hope, had his hearing before the magistrate, and was committed for trial to Cobourg gaol. A few days ago he wrote a long letter for his wife, in which he blamed the woman with whom he had eloped for the whole trouble into which he had fallen. On Sunday morning some members of the Y.M.C.A. went to the gaol to hold service. Emmerson excused himself on the plea of illness from attending the services, and, retiring, was not seen for about an hour. A search discovered the body of the unfortunate man, who had secreted two towels, and from them had made a noose, with which he had hanged himself. Life was quite extinct when the body was found. The body was brought to town last night by the 5 o'clock G.T.R. train and conveyed to the residence of his father, Mr. Thomas Emmerson, Ashburnham.

The funeral took place this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. The unhappy young man was only 24 years of age. He leaves behind him a wife and two children.

In reference to the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company the committee recommended that a by-law be proposed granting (1) the assessment on their property to remain at present assessment for a period of ten years; also (2) to lease to said company part of Rubidge street according to a plan which will be produced, for a term of years; (3) to grant them the privilege of putting down a narrow guage track to their present shop.

Mr. DAWSON inquired who gave the company permission to remove one of their buildings on to Rubidge street and block it up.

Mr. DAVIDSON said the committee did not give Mr. Hamilton authority, but told him they would recommend that his place be accepted by the council; that was all that was said.

Mr. DAWSON said if the committee had not given the privilege Mr. Hamilton must have exceeded his right. The council should have a voice in a matter of this kind. He considered Mr. Hamilton had room enough to move his buildings on his own land.

MR. ROBT. WEIR was heard with reference to the matter. The street was intended as a public thoroughfare and Mr. Hamilton had placed his building so that it interfered with the right of way of those living on the street. He understood an action for damages was to be brought against some one.

MR. WM. HAMILTON replied that when the building was put there no one objected, and after he had gone to the expense of moving it they want him to move it back again.

MR. RUTHERFORD did not think any citizen's rights were being seriously infringed upon. Mr. Weir lived on the west side of the street and wanted to have the building on the east side. Mr. Hamilton was going to a large expense to enlarge his buildings, and he should be given some encouragement and not shut off that way. He proposed that the council visit the place to-morrow and see for themselves.

Mr. DAWSON objected to Mr. Rutherford's statement that Mr. Hamilton had not room to move the building complained of on his own ground. He could prove that he had plenty of room for that purpose.

Mr. KENDRY thought either Mr. Hamilton or the committee were too fast. He wanted to know how many of the committee were present when permission was given.

Mr. DAVIDSON repeated his statement that the committee had not given authority but simply said they could see no objection to it and would so report.

Mr. Kendry moved in amendment that the matter be left over for one week, for the council to consider it. He did not want to do anything to discourage manufacturers, but he was not prepared to vote on it yet.

Mr. DAVIDSON proposed that the report be adopted by striking out the clause complained of. The committee had been led to believe that there would be no trouble. Three years ago Mr. Hamilton got a portion of the street and no objection was raised.

Mr. E. H. D. HALL corroborated Mr. Davidson's statement regarding the action of the committee. He saw no objection then to it, and could see none now.

Mr. CAHILL said he was willing to go further than the report recommended, and exempt the property in question from taxes altogether.

After some discussion the report was adopted with the objectionable portion struck out.

STREETS AND BRIDGES.

Mr. Langford read the report of the Street and Bridge Committee, recommending that the petition of Mr. D. W. Dumble be referred to the Inspector to act; that the sidewalk on the east side of Water street be thoroughly repaired; that the engineer be instructed to strike the grade of Argyle street; that a sidewalk be laid on Parnell street, when the said street is properly conveyed to the town; that the sidewalks in the business portion of the town be properly repaired; that a foot bridge be placed over the creek on Stewart street, cost not to exceed $40.

Mr. KELLY, referring to the recommendation regarding the bridge over Stewart street, said he considered the railway company were the proper authorities to build the bridge. He enquired what had been done about the town's demand that the railway company should place gates at certain town crossings.

The CLERK replied that he had written the company and his letter had been acknowledged.

The report was adopted.

MORE LIGHT AND WATER.

Mr. Adam Hall presented the report of Fire, Water and Light Committee, recommending that an electric light be placed on the corner of Brock and Sheridan streets, providing the county pays one-half the rent; also that there be an electric light placed at the following points:—One on the corner of McDonel and Bethune, one on the corner of McDonel and Downie, one on the of corner McDonel and Park, one at the corner of London and Stewart; that there be a hydrant placed on the corner of Brock and Downie streets, and at the corner of McDonel and Downie streets.

Mr. Langford said he though the town had all the lights it could stand at present, but Mr. Rutherford contended that it all depended upon what part of the town the light was intended for whether Mr. Langford objected or not. He claimed that No. 3 Ward had been neglected in this respect, for McDonel street, one of the principal thoroughfares, was left in abject darkness.

The report was lost on a vote of 7 to 6.

THE WEIGHT OF BREAD.

Mr. Rutherford presented a by-law to amend the present by-law regarding the weight of bread providing for the insertion of words to the effect that bread must be full weight within a limited time of 24 hours.

The by-law was read a first time and allowed to stand over till the next meeting.

EXEMPTING FROM TAXES.

Mr. E. H. D. Hall introduced a by-law exempting the Central Iron Bridge Works from taxes, according to agreement of the council with Mr. Law. The by-law was passed.

THE MARKET BY-LAW.

Mr. Cahill moved the third reading of the new market building by-law. The motion was carried and the by-law finally adopted.

A NEW SIDEWALK.

Mr. Kelly moved, seconded by Mr. Winch, that the sidewalk on the west side of King street be extended as far as the boundary. There was some discussion, and the motion carried on the following division:—Yeas, Messrs. Cahill, Davidson, Winch, Kelly, A. Hall, E. H. D. Hall, and Rutherford; Nays, Messrs. Hartley, Kendry, Langford, Dawson and Baptie.

THOSE RAILWAY GATES.

Mr. Davidson moved, seconded by Mr. Kelly, that the Mayor be instructed to write the railroad committee of the Privy Council urging the necessity of having gates placed on certain streets crossed by the R. R. Co's. —Carried.

ALL NIGHT LIGHT.

Mr. Davidson moved also that the chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee be instructed to have all the street lights burn during Monday and Tuesday nights—Carried.

MORE STREET WORK.

Mr. Cahill moved, seconded by Mr. Davidson, that a crib work be built on Park street, in front of Mr. Wills' house. After some discussion the matter was left over as a notice of motion.

Mr. Kelly moved, seconded by Mr. Hall, that the Street Inspector be instructed to have a sidewalk laid on the north side of Simcoe street between Reid and Rubidge streets and have two crossings laid on Rubidge street at the corner of Simcoe and Rubidge streets.—Carried.

A STREET IN THE NORTH.

The petition regarding the grading of Conger street, which had been overlooked was brought up. Mr. Hartley urged the claims of the people living on the street, but Mr. Rutherford objected that the representatives of No. 4 Ward wanted all the improvements and voted down grants for other wards. He pointed out that the street had never yet been taken over by the town and could not be fixed up.

Finally the matter was referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

STREET WATERING.

Mr. Cahill moved, seconded by Mr. Davidson, that the Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee be instructed to have the sprinkling cart water Aylmer street from Dalhousie street to the C.P.R. track.

THE MAGAZINE.

Mr. ADAM HALL enquired if the committee appointed for the purpose of having a magazine built, had taken any action.

Mr. DAVIDSON said that the committee had a site under consideration.

Mr. Alex. GRAHAM was given a hearing. He stated that he had been sick, and wanted work. His application was referred to Inspector Pope.

THE SAWDUST QUESTION.

Mr. E. H. D. Hall presented the following motion:—

That this council considering that the millowners on the Otonabee river from Nassau down to town, have substantially complied with the agreement entered into between them and the town in regard to keeping out all slabs, mill rubbish, sawdust, &c., except such sawdust as cannot be kept out without making large and expensive alterations in the mills, hereby request the government to stop any further prosecutions so long as said agreement is observed.

Mr. HALL said he did not believe much damage was done from the small amount of sawdust that now got into the river. The damage was done in the past when no attempt was made to keep it out of the river. Now the mill owners were doing their best to keep the river clear.

Mr. KENDRY objected to Mr. Hall statement that no damage was done. His firm lost $1,000 last year from this cause, and he was surprised that a member of the council would make such a statement.

The MAYOR said that Inspector Gilchrist told him that it would be all right if the millowners stuck to their agreement; but they didn't, for every time, he (the Inspector) went to the mills he found them breaking the agreement by shovelling sawdust into the river.

Mr. Dawson did not think the council should interfere in this matter when only last winter they made representations to the government to the effect that the lake was half filled with sawdust and slabs.

Mr. RUTHERFORD said he did not think the millowners should be prosecuted further as they were doing what they could to prevent it. If this thing was continued it might drive these large establishments from town.

MR. LANGFORD said that if the mill-owners had kept to their agreement they would not have been fined. The council should not interfere.

MR. CAHILL, said that while no doubt more sawdust got into the river than should, it was put in by the workmen contrary to orders.

MR. KENNEDY thought it better for the council not to interfere in the matter. He understood a deputation of mill-owners were going to Ottawa, and it might be better to wait.

Mr. Hartley favored giving the mill-owners a little assistance in this thing.

Finally the motion was carried.

A TOWN HISTORY.

Messrs. J. R. Stratton and F. H. Dobbin appeared before the council. Mr. Stratton explained that they proposed getting up an illustrated history of the town such as that compiled for other large towns. They estimated it would cost $1500. The town of Port Arthur distributed six thousand copies of a phamphlet setting forth its advantages. A similar one would no doubt be of universal benefit to Peterborough. They could not undertake the expense without assistance from the town.

The matter was referred to the Finance Committee to report.

Mr. Davidson then moved an adjournment for one week, so that the estimates could be brought down.

Peterborough Cheese.

The Last Half of August Make Nearly all Sold.

The members of the cheese board found the circus attractions very interesting to-day and they were very slow in gathering, and not the usual quantity of cheese was offered, it was nearly one o'clock before bidding was begun, but good prices ruled.

Following is a list of the cheese offered.

PETERBOROUGH

The total board of cheese amounted to 2,645 boxes. Liverpool quotations were 44s, 6d.

Another Brakesman Killed.

A Young Man Cut in Two Beneath the Cars.

A shocking accident occurred at Port Hope about half past eight o'clock last night. A young man named Alfred Jones, a brakesman on the Midland Railway, was cut in two, a train of sixteen cars passing over his body. It is not exactly known how the accident occurred, but the presumption is that he stepped off an auxiliary car which has no platform and fell beneath the wheels.

Jones lived in Sidney township, Hastings county, and was a young unmarried man. He was quite well known on this division.

Dummer and Douro Show.

The annual exhibition of the Dummer and Douro Agricultural Society will be held at Nassau on Tuesday and Wednesday, first and second of October, 1889.

—At the police court this morning the 13 adjourned sawdust cases were further adjourned for one week.

—A freight car left the track between Port Hope and Peterborough Monday forenoon, and the trains were delayed several hours. Very little damage was done.

On the Diamond.

The Athletics Score a Doubtful Victory at Last.

The rivalry which has existed between the Athletic's and the Association baseball clubs resulted in another match yesterday, but still the question of the local championship remains unsettled. The game was not played to a finish though the umpire ordered the Athletic's to proceed at the end of the sixth innings. This they refused to do, claiming it was too dark to play, and after a good deal of wrangling, the Association nine was given the game by 9 to 0 by one umpire, while the other declined to say anything. The score shows an actual win for the Athletics, but by their refusal to continue play they forfeit the game. It was apparent to the spectators that had another innings been played the Association nine would have collared their opponents.

The game was a remarkably poor one, rank errors being made all round. The Association team, however, particularly distinguished themselves in this line. Every man of them had more or less errors, most of them unpardonable, marked against him. They batted better than their opponents, however, and were rapidly pounding out a victory when the Athletics withdrew.

Turnbull was in the box for the Association for the first two innings, when Malcolmson relieved him. Tighe also tried his hand in the box for the Athletics part of an innings, but didn't stay long.

The two umpire system was adopted in order to avoid disputes, Bert Cameron calling strikes and W. Chambers giving base decisions.

The following is the score:—

Association.		Athletics.
Malcolmson, p	2	Evans, 3b	2
Allison, lf	1	Gilman, ss	3
Mackay, 1b	0	Harvey, rf	2
Dumble, ss	1	Pakenham, 2b	3
Brennan 3b	3	Adams, lf	2
Hay, rf	2	O'Brien, c	3
Turnbull, 2b	3	Tighe, 2b	1
Ray, cf	2	McCabe, p	1
Graham, c	2	Lipsett, 1b	0
Association	0 0 2 2 5 0—13
Athletics	5 3 2 2 0 4—16

A SOCIALIST MOVEMENT.

WHAT A GERMAN PAPER SAYS ABOUT THE LONDON STRIKE.

The Dock Companies Declare That They Will Not Yield—Burns Talks—The Men Likely to Be Defeated.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—There was nothing in the strike situation to-day to inspire hope of an immediate settlement of the questions at issue between the dock men and the dock companies. A deputation of ship owners, headed by Sir Donald Currie, waited upon the officials of the companies again to-day and urged the acceptance of yesterday's proposal to allow ship owners to employ their own men to load and unload vessels. Mr. Norwood for the dock companies replied that they could not accede to his proposition, but would be willing to enter into a further discussion of all the questions involved with a committee of the ship owners. Sir Donald said he regretted that a definite answer could not be given to the shipowners, but expressed a willingness to consent to a joint conference. He requested that the dock officials express their views in writing for submission to the shipowners at a meeting later in the day, to which Mr. Norwood assented.

The result of this conference destroyed the chance of arriving at a settlement of the strike to-day, and embittered the feeling of the men.

At a meeting of shipowners this afternoon a committee was appointed to confer with a committee of the dock officials in accordance with Mr. Norwood's suggestion. The dock officials state that now they have at work a greater number of men than at any time since the commencement of the strike and they do not propose to make any concession.

It is believed the dock directors will yield by Thursday. Mr. Norwood sent a telegram requesting a conference with a deputation of the strikers late this evening.

Mr. Burns, addressing a meeting at Bermondsey to night, justified the manifesto calling for a general strike on the ground that it had drawn greater attention to the appeal for funds. He announced that he intended immediately to promote a strike in Glasgow.

The Lord Mayor will return to London Friday for the special purpose of interceding with the dock companies in behalf of the strikers. If necessary he will call a meeting of citizens to discuss the situation. Ald. Belsey, who is a large shareholder in the dock companies, denounced the action of the dock directors.

The strike at Liverpool now only affects 500 men formerly employed at the south dock. The men at the north docks have resumed work at the old terms. The strikers are badly organized and the companies hope all will return to work to-morrow.

An important trade society has subscribed £600 to the strikers fund.

The G. O. M in Paris.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—Mr. Gladstone arrived here this evening. He was presented with bouquets by a number of friends.

To Visit the Congo.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 3.—It is stated that King Leopold contemplates a trip to the Congo.

Szegedin Threatened.

VIENNA, Sept. 3.—The town of Szegedin is again threatened with inundation. It is reported that the protective quays built after the town was destroyed in 1879 are crumbling away.

Ireland's New Viceroy.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—Lord Zetland will be sworn in as Lord-Lieut. of Ireland Oct. 1. He will make his state entry into Dublin Dec. 3.

All Poles.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 3rd.—The Nihilists recently arrested at Kief and Kharhaff are all Poles.

A German Paper's Charge.

BERLIN, Sept. 3.—The North German Gazette mantains that the London strike is closely connected with the Socialist movement. It asserts that the manifesto calling for a general strike in London was telegraphed to the Socialist paper Volks Tribune two days before it was issued in London.

Mrs Maybrick's Next Chance.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—It may not be generally known, but it is a fact, that every person who is sentenced to a long period of penal servitude has his case brought up for reconsideration by the Home Secretary at the expiration of ten years. Assuming that Mrs. Maybrick should not be released before then, her case will be brought before the attention of the Home Secretary ten years hence. It is only in very extreme cases that penal servitude is continued more than twelve, or, at most, fifteen years. Mr. Wm. Roupell, sentenced to imprisonment for life, was released at the expiration of fourteen years. There are other well known cases which might also be cited, notably that of Jessie McLaughlan, who was convicted of murder at Glasgow in 1862. In this case the death penalty was commuted to penal servitude for life, and after being kept in prison a number of years the woman was ultimately released.

O Brien Seriously Ill.

DUBLIN, Sept. 3.—Wm. O'Brien, who was yesterday removed to Galway jail, is seriously ill. He requested the attendance of his own physician which was refused, and the prison doctor was given charge of the case. The prison officials have telegraphed to the prison board that his condition is critical.

Black Sea Steamship Service.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—The Russian Government has made arrangements with the Russian Navigation and Trade Company for the establishment on the Black Sea of a regular steamship service, the steamers to run to Odessa, Sebastopol and Batoum. From Batoum in sixty hours, the distance to Samarcand can be made by a quick rail and steamer route.

Attributed to Jack the Ripper.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—Intense excitement was caused in the central district of London this morning by the announcement that an old man had stabbed two women who had declined his company. A "Jack the Ripper" scare was raised.

MR. DRURY IN THE WILDS.

THE MINISTER OF AGRICULTURE TELLS ABOUT HIS TRAVELS.

A Statement Being Prepared by the Hon. Gentleman of His Ideas of the Country—Other Toronto Topics.

TORONTO, Sept. 4.—Hon. Charles Drury, ture, who has been journeying through Northwestern Ontario for 22 days, has returned to town, bringing with him a weather-beaten face and a hoarse voice. But he has also brought back something which is worth undergoing the hazards of voyaging by land and water, and that is, a big bagful of information about the northwestern part of the province. The minister left Toronto three weeks ago last Thursday, and after spending a day or two at his farm arrived in the city yesterday morning.

Mr. Drury says he undertook this personal visit to the west in order to be able to give people who desire to settle in the province fairly accurate knowledge of what the country is like and what they may expect. "It is all nonsense," he said to the reporter "to talk about all the land in Muskoka and Parry Sound being fit for settlement. The fact is there are too many people in some of the districts there already." He added that further west there were large tracts of excellent farm land, especially in the Rainy River district.

Speaking of his trip he said: "I went from here to Penetanguishene and then to Parry Sound. My tour of inspection started at Parry Sound. I proceeded from Parry Sound to McKellar, where I addressed a farmers' meeting. There was a large gathering of the farmers in the neighborhood. I spoke to them on agricultural topics in general, but particularly on why some farmers failed and others again succeeded, pointing out the defects in the operations of some kinds of farming. From McKellar I went to Burk's Falls, across Ahmic Lake, and addressed another meeting of farmers at Burk's Falls. The following day was spent principally in taking a view of the surrounding country, principally in the township of Armour. The day following I went to Sundridge and addressed another meeting there. From there I went to North Bay and spent one day. As it was wet I did not go into the country. The following day I went to Sudbury, the headquarters of copper mining. I visited the mines in company with Dr. Peters, superintendent of the works. There is a good deal of activity about Sudbury and the prevailing opinion is that the mines are on a sound working basis. Copper is commanding most attention, though work is going on at the Vermillion gold mine and nickle is being sought for to some extent. The American syndicate and Montreal syndicate are both pushing work. I have some specimens from the Vermillion gold mine. From Sudbury I went to Port Arthur and there hired a team and in company with some Port Arthur people drove through the country and visited the principal silver mines there. I also inspected the country, taking special note of the White Fish Valley. This trip took us six days, three going and three coming. On our return we arrived at Murillo, 13 miles west of Port Arthur. Taking the main line of the C. P. R. I went from there to Rat Portage, 256 miles distant. At Rat Portage I chartered a steamer and with Sheriff Carpenter and a few other residents of the place sailed down through the Lake of the Woods and some 30 or 40 miles up Rainy River. The river banks are occupied by English, Scotch and a few French, but the lake shores are uninhabited. These people have no means of transport with the outer world except by a stray steamer in summer and by driving over the ice in winter. Work on the Port Arthur, Duluth & Western railway, however, is to be shortly commenced, and it is proposed to build it into this district and beyond. There is a lot of fine farm land both along the lake and in the Rainy River district.

Returning I visited Sault St. Marie, saw the water power canal on both sides of the straits. Our people have a great advantage over their neighbors. Only ¾ of a mile of canal requires to be constructed on this side to give the same advantages as a canal 3¼ miles long on the other side. There is a great deal of activity at the Soo. I went from there to St. Joseph's Island, where I attended a Reform demonstration, and after the meeting crossed over to Bruce mines. I retraced my steps from there to North Bay and thence to Toronto.

Mr. Drury will spend a quiet week at Orown Hill to mend his voice, which, under the influence of colds contracted while away, has failed a little. He intimates that he will prepare for the press a statement of his ideas on the prospective future of the country through which he has been, from an agricultural point of view.

Last night saw the final proceedings of the A. A. S. in Toronto. A general session of the council was held at 10 a. m., at which these officers were elected:

President, George L. Goodale, Cambridge, Mass.; Vice-Presidents: Mathematics and Astronomy, S. C. Chandler, Cambridge; Physics, Cleveland Abbe, Washington; Chemistry, R. B. Warder, Washington; Mechanical Science and Engineering, James E. Denson, Hoboken; Geology and Geography, John C. Branner, Little Rock, Ark.; Biology, C. S. Minot, Boston; Anthropology, Frank Baker, Washington; Economic Science and Statistics, J. Richards Dodge, Washington.

Permanent Secretary—G. W. Putnam, Cambridge, Mass (office, Salem, Mass).

General Secretary—H. Carrington Bolton, New York.

Secretary of the Council—James Loudon, Toronto.

SECRETARIES OF THE SECTIONS—Mathematics and Astronomy, Wooster W. Beman, Ann Arbor; Physics, W. De Conte Stephens, Brooklyn; Chemistry, W. A. Noyes, Terre Haute, Ind.; Mechanical Science and Engineering, M. E. Cooley, Ann Arbor; Geology and Geography, Samuel Calvin, Iowa City, Ia.; Biology, John M. Coulter, Crawfordsville, Ind.; Anthropology, Joseph Jastrow, Madison, Wis.; Economic Science and Statistics, S. Dana Horton, Pomeroy, Ohio.

Treasurer, William Lilly, of Mauch Chunk, Pa.

Auditors, Henry Wheatland, Salem, Mass. Thomas Meehan, Philadelphia.

It was decided to hold the next annual meeting at Indianapolis, beginning on the third Wednesday in August, 1889.

James Dalrymple and William Bladen, the Bon Marche clerks who were arrested on charges of robbing their employer, F. X. Cousineau, were yesterday committed for trial by Police Magistrate Denison. Edward Hamilton was allowed out on bail. H. S. Osler appeared for the defence and County Crown Attorney Badgerow, N. Gordon Bigelow and W. M. Hall for the prosecution. F. X. Cousineau testified that the prisoners had been in his employ and recognized the Madras muslin, the curtains and other articles produced as his property. He was examined at length by Mr. Osler.

Private Detective Alf Shirley said that he was present when the goods were discovered in Bladen's house. He had seen a parcel of stuff at the Bon Marche addressed to Mr. Galloway, 200 Euclid-avenue, where Bladen lived. It was not checked. A lot of evidence was taken on this charge, and the three prisoners were then arraigned on the charge of stealing clothing. They all pleaded not guilty. Bladen declined to elect. Mr. Cousineau recognised the clothing produced as his property. There was no record in the books showing that the goods were paid for. On this charge Hamilton was committed for trial and Bladen and Dalrymple were discharged. The two latter were sent down on the first charge, but in Hamilton's case bail was accepted in two sureties of $250 each.

It is likely that the Minister of Education will appoint a successor to the late Prof. Young before the fifteenth of this month. The candidates are said to be: Prof. Hamilton of Hamilton College, N. Y.; Mr. Baldwin, a Princeton man.; Prof. Seth of Dalhousie College, N.S., and Mr. Hume, a graduate of Toronto University.

Floods in Mexico.

CITY OF MEXICO, Sept. 3.—Heavy rains have fallen throughout the country. Floods in the states of Hidalgo and Vera Cruz are causing severe damage. Articles of food are becoming scarce and rising in price. At Tampico and in the surrounding country the floods are serious. Many families up the river are reported to be flooded out and huddled together on hillocks or high ground.

Adjourned Church to Convene Court.

DECATUR, Tex., Sept. 3.—Eph. Huffman was tried in the District Court Saturday for horse theft. The court-room is used on Sunday as a place of worship. Sunday morning during the services the jury returned a verdict. The prisoner was brought in and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary, after which the services were resumed.

Port Hope in Gala Attire.

PORT HOPE, Sept. 3.—The industrial exhibition opened to-day. The space awarded to the exhibitors is crowded. To-morrow promises to be a big day. The Premier and Sir. A. Caron will unveil the Williams statue at 11 o'clock and formally open the exhibition at 2 p.m. The town has put on its holiday attire for the occasion.

MAD NEWSPAPERS.

Ambitious City Journals Object to Toronto Having a Summer Carnival.

HAMILTON, Sept. 3.—The three daily papers here are fairly wild over the proposal to have a summer carnival in Toronto in 1890. The Spectator froths at the mouth. Here is a specimen of its billingsgate: "At the best, Toronto is the pauper of the province—the city that milks the Ontario cow. Its population is largely made up of the felons, lunatics, paupers, prostitutes and politicians which other communities thrust out from them. Its business instinct is to beg—to get something for nothing. Its sense of competition is to employ underhanded means to destroy rivals. Toronto is like an insolent beggar grown fat who throws stones at his benefactor."

The Times takes its E. C. to task for such language but itself denominates the scheme as a theft of Hamilton's property.

The Herald says: "We would advise our Toronto friends to go it slow. If they institute such a carnival as they are talking about it will no doubt prove successful, but its success will be at the expense of their Industrial Exhibition. In holding two big attractions within six weeks of each other, Toronto seems anxious to kill the goose that lays the golden egg. Moreover, the Industrial Exhibition is now more of a carnival than a fare. A glance at the program for this year shows one that the attractions of the old-time fair are minor matters as compared with the other attractions, such as the storming of cities, the competition of bands, gymnasts, balloonists, lady fencers, bicycle races and fakes, many and varied, brought from Gotham and the West. Can the Toronto people hope to get up a carnival that will have better attractions than are advertised for their exhibition?"

Nannie Scrugga, the unfortunate woman who has been confined in the county jail for months past, was brought before Judge Sinclair this morning and finally committed as a lunatic. Honora Lawless, aged 55, was also committed as a lunatic.

Some excitement was created this morning in the neighborhood of King and Johnstreets by a fox terrier affected with rabies. The animal was given plenty of sea room by people doing business in that locality. It was shot.

INDIGNANT VICTORIANS.

A Big Meeting Over the Behring Sea Seizures—Resolutions Adopted.

VICTORIA, B. C., Sept. 3.—An enthusiastic and largely attended public meeting was held here Saturday night to consider and take action on the recent seizure by the United States revenue cutter Rush of British Canadian vessels in Behring Sea. Premier Robson occupied a seat on the speakers platform, and with him were Messrs. Baker and Prior, M. P.s, Mr. Ward, M.P.A., the President of the Board of Trade and many prominent business men in this and neighboring cities. Mayor Grant presided, and introduced Mr. Baker, M.P., who made a lengthy speech. Mr. Prior and other speakers of prominent also addressed the meeting.

The general opinion was that war should not be necessary to settle a question of this character, but that there were things a great deal worse than war. One of these was the sacrifice of national honor. The following resolution was passed by the meeting and ordered to be sent to Ottawa and England:

"Resolved, That we the citizens of Victoria protest against the usurpation of jurisdiction by the Government of the United States over the waters of Behring Sea, outside of the universally acknowledged three-mile limit, and express our indignation at the repeated outrages that the persons and property of our fellow-citizens, lawfully exercising their rights on the high, seas in that part of the globe, are subjected to by orders of the Government of the United States."

A DIPLOMATIC RECLUSE.

China's New U.S. Minister Will Bring His Wife, but She Will Be Cloistered.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The successor to the present Chinese Minister has been appointed, but the cablegram announcing the date of his departure for America has not yet been received at the Legation. The new Minister will be accompanied by his wife and family, which will be the first instance wherein a woman of high caste has been permitted to accompany her husband outside the Celestial Kingdom. The strict surveillance which is there exercised over wives will be followed in this case, for immediately upon the arrival of the new Minister with his family they will drive in a closed carriage to the Legation, where Madame will be at once installed in the suite of apartments assigned for her occupancy. With one exception, when the members of the new Legation will be formally presented to the mistress of the household a few days after her arrival, she will not at any time see visitors, or be seen by company. The Minister will take his wife to dine occasionally, when her health demands such exercise; but, instead of permitting her to take part in any social duties, the Legation will be conducted in all respects as a bachelor establishment.

THE JESUITS' ESTATES ACT.

Opinion of the Law Officers of the Crown on Disallowance.

OTTAWA, Sept. 3.—The following was issued as an extra of The Canada Gazette yesterday:

DEPARTMENT OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE OF CANADA.

The Secretary of State of Canada has been instructed by His Excellency the Governor-General to cause to be published for general information the following two reports made by the Attorney-General and Solicitor-General of England on the Act passed by the Legislature of the Province of Quebec, intituled an Act respecting the settlement of the Jesuit Estates:

LAW OFFICERS TO COLONIAL OFFICE.
ROYAL COURTS OF JUSTICE, July 9th, 1889

We have taken the matter into our consideration, and in obedience to your Lordship's commands have the honor to report that in our opinion the decision arrived at by the Governor-General not to interfere with the operation of the Provincial Act in question was right and constitutional. We have, etc.,
RICHARD E. WEBSTER,
EDWARD CLARKE,
Right Hon. Lord KNUTSFORD.

LAW OFFICERS OF THE CROWN TO LORD KNUTSFORD,
ROYAL COURTS OF JUSTICE, 31st July, 1889.

In obedience to your Lordship's commands we have the honour to report that we are of opinion that the Act was clearly within the powers of the Provincial Legislature, and that there is no ground for a reference to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. We have, etc.,
RICHARD E. WEBSTER,
EDWARD CLARKE,
Right Hon. Lord KNUTSFORD.

D. R. A. MATCHES.

The Manufacturers' And Minister of Militia Competitions.

OTTAWA, Sept. 3.—At the Dominion Rifle Association matches today the weather was favorable for shooting. The only two regular matches shot to-day were the Manufacturers' and the Minister of Militia. The entries for the former numbered 409 as compared with 344 last year. Sergt. Goodwin, 13th, was the winner of the first prize, $30, with 34 points, one ahead of last year's winner. Pte. Burns, 3rd Vics., also with 34 points took $25, Capt. Rogers, 43rd, with 33 won $20 and Staff-Sergt. Mitchell, 13th, also with 33, $15. One 28 was counted out as against eight last year.

In the Minister of Militia match Pte. Simpson, R.G., took the first prize, $30, with 60 points. The others winning over $10 were: Sergt. Clark, 5th, 58 points, $25; Mr. Gief, 21 V, 57, $20; Lt. Desbarats, Victoria Rifles, 57, $15.

The team matches resulted as follows.

Prize	Team	Points.
$45 & Cup	6th Fusiliers	169
30	Sherbrook Rifle Association	157
20	Royal Grenadiers	153
24	Nineteenth of Hamilton	151

15	12 Battalion	149

MONTAGUE AND CAPULET.

THE MEDIÆVAL FEUD RIVALLED IN HALDIMAND

Cayuga Again the Scene of a Judicial Battle—The Proceedings to Unseat Mr. Colter Commenced.

CAYUGA, Sept. 3.—Once again have the factions of Montague and Colter assembled in judicial battle array, and bid fair, by the stubborn hostility displayed on this and previous occasions, to form a date in the political history of Canada rivaling the mediæval feud which existed between the Montagues and Capulets. During the ebb and flow in the tide of battle, twice has the doughty doctor been elected and unseated; his opponent at the final innings played securing sufficient runs, by fair means or foul, to enable him to represent Haldimand at the last session of parliament. This anomalous state of affairs seems to indicate that this coy constituency is either partial to the one whose favors are most liberally distributed, or else in the distracting condition of the maiden who exclaimed: "How happy could I be with either, were t'other dear charmer away!" However that may be, the Conservative party in Haldimand is determined to sift the whole business to the bottom, and for that purpose the present proceedings are instituted. This modest little country town is all agog with excitement, the champions of Dr. Montague being out in strong force to watch the course of events.

Court opened at 10 a.m. sharp, with His Honour Judge Falconbridge on the bench; registrar for the judge, H. J. Wickham. The legal talent consists of Dalton McCarthy, Q.C., assisted by C. G. Snider, counsel for the appellant; while A. B. Aylesworth and A. K. Goodman uphold the cause of C. W. Colter, respondent.

The first witness called was Wm. Parker, ex-secretary of the Reform association and at present registrar of the county of Haldimand, who was examined by Dalton McCarthy, Q.C., and questioned regarding the usual method of procedure at the association in selecting candidates and conducting elections, and particulars as to the different meetings held for the purpose of promoting the interest of the party. He testified that Mr. Colter had been connected with the organization since 1879 or 1880, and was always very active in connection with its workings. He spoke of the duties of the treasurer and of the disposition of the fund collected. Witness was also secretary of the Walpole Reform association. Asked regarding the destruction of the minutes of the meetings at which he officiated as secretary, he said the reason was because preceding officials had "disguised the proceedings of previous meetings," and he was determined to follow the same laudable course by destroying those under his control—some forty pages.

Witness did not now take The Globe, counsel facetiously remarking that quite a number of Reformers were as present travelling the same road. He gave evidence regarding visits made by him to meetings at different subdivisions throughout the county previous to last election in the interest of the association—all a "labor of love," no compensation being received therefor, witness modestly disclaiming that he had earned the registrarship of the county by such action.

In relation to charge 55, which was to the effect that the male witnesses following had received the sum of $100 to absent themselves from the polling both on election day, Counsel McCarthy called for Sol Hurst, Mrs. Hurst and John Hurst, sr. Mrs Solomon Hurst was the first witness. She lived in Selkirk, in the township of Walpole, her husband keeping hotel there. The counsel asked the lady in regard to the sum of $100 said to have mysteriously come into the possession of her husband during the last election, but she disclaimed any knowledge of the same. Her husband, father-in-law and son found it convenient to visit Buffalo on the day of the election. She knew of no stranger tapping on the window and saying, "Don't fail to get the parcel I left in your cutter;" but admitted that there was one left in the drive house. She displayed a state of blissful ignorance in connection with the boodle.

Charges No. 69 and 5 were then taken up. These charges were to the effect that John Rowe, Chas. Hansberger and others offered Charles Sevenpiper $10 or its equivalent as an inducement for refraining from voting against Mr. Colter. Charles Sevenpiper was then called and testified that before the election he was told to call upon John Rowe, a merchant at Dunnville. He called as desired and was offered $10 to vote for Colter, and he agreed to accept it at that time. Afterwards Sevenpiper changed his mind and informed Rowe that he would not accept the offer, whereupon Rowe offered him $10 if he would keep away from the polling place. Sevenpiper said he also declined this offer.

Some further evidence was taken relative to Mr. R. Honsberger endeavoring to induce witness to vote for Colter and to write to a brother of his in the United States to remain away on election day. Mr. Aylesworth then subjected the witness to a very severe cross-examination, but his evidence was not shaken. A large number of witnesses will be called upon to testify re this charge.

The court adjourned at 5 o'clock this evening and will resume at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

THE GREAT CANOE MEET.

Summary of Incidents of the Stave Island Gathering.

How the Canoeists Spent the Time from Daylight Until Retiring Hour—Prize Winners in the Various Classes—Next Year's Meet and What It Promises.

The reports of the proceedings of the canoe meet at Stave Island, Thousand Islands, having appeared in the daily papers in a necessarily fragmentary form, canoeists will be glad to have a complete summary of the events of the meet. Such a summary is extracted from the Boston Sunday Herald as follows:—

STAVE ISLAND, near Gananoque Ont., Aug. 22, 1889. The annual meet of the American Canoe Association is a thing of the past, and to-morrow the last man will strike his tent and paddle away from Stave Island with a feeling of extreme satisfaction with the way he has spent his vacation. Few more beautiful spots than Stave Island could be found for a large camp of enthusiastic canoeists. The praises of the Thousand Islands have been sung by poets, and their beauties have been painted by artists, yet it needs the hand of a great master indeed to impress one, who has not had the good fortune to see for himself, with the wild beauty of the great cliffs the pine-covered points, the water pure and clear as crystal, and the ever-varying landscape. Here, 400 years ago, the Hurons and Algonquins glided over the cool waters in their birch canoes. Here the French explorers pushed their way and fought bloody battles with the possessors of the soil. Here, also, in 1884, came a party of canoeists from New York and New England to meet their Canadian brothers, and smoke the pipe of peace and everlasting good fellowship. The first camp was established on Grindstone Island, about two miles south of the present camp. For three years the meet was held there, but it was deemed best to move where there was more shade. Consequently the members of the site committee came to Stave Island three weeks ago, and located the site of the camp, staked out the avenues and started men at work building landings and floats for the canoes and a wharf for the steamboat "Deseronto," which was to make trips between the camp and Clayton and Gananoque. The location of the camp being in the territory of the northern division, the Canadians made all the preparations, and to them is due in a large degree the credit of the perfect success that the meet has met from beginning to end. Commodore Rogers, of Peterborough, has been indefatigable in endeavoring to make the time pass pleasantly, and never was there better discipline in even a military camp than has been here. Every morning the jaunty little bugler from the British artillery at Kingston sounded the reveille, and at the gun fire all the flags went up, and presently might be seen shivering figures emerging from the tents to take a morning plunge in the St. Lawrence. Then the path toward the mess tent was beset by the first hungry campers, rushing to answer the welcome call of

THE STEWARD'S FISH HORN.

After breakfast the racing men got out their canoes for a few hours' practice, and the young braves who felt confident of their success in the races, or cared more for bright eyes than a mail, wandered over to Squaw Point, where the tinkle of the guitar or mandoline made merry the morning hours. Or, perhaps, some cruise was in order for the day. If so, the bugle sounded the "assembly" at 10 o'clock, and a fleet of paddling and sailing canoes assembled at the headquarters landing, and, led by the pilot, skirted the shore of the islands or indulged in scratch races up the bay till lunch time. In the evening, unless some special attraction in the big tent drew the people there, a glorious big camp fire was held at headquarters, and around on the benches and on shawls and blankets sat the lads and lassies until 10 o'clock, when the ladies departed for Squaw Point. At 11 p.m. all carousing was expected to stop, and if any jolly individuals forgot themselves and the hour, a word from Commodore Rogers was sufficient to send them to their blankets, and the stillness of the night was broken only by the shrill cry of the loon echoing against the cliffs.

Last Monday evening the camp was given a great treat in the shape of a circus under the management of Mr. Seavey. Bills had been posted around camp and in Gananoque announcing that "Rogers' great triple monster aggregation" would be present "for one night only." The affair turned out to be a success, far beyond anybody's expectations. The big marquee was crowded, and when the procession entered and marched twice around the ring such applause arose that the howls of the grizzly bear and the wild shouts of the Apache Indians were drowned. The first performance was an exhibition of tumbling by Gage H. Rogers, Vaux, Sherwood and Douglas. They also performed some good feats on the horizontal bar, after which Mlle. Jabberwock (Mr. George Warder), as a beautiful equestrienne, rode around the ring on the only prancing steed to be found on the island (a sedate and aged farm horse,) and certainly Barnum's best riders were never more heartily applauded than was "Jabber."

The "Wild West" was an important feature of the show. Two Indians captured a whole stage coach (a pair of wheels,) and were disastrously repulsed by a cowboy. The total receipts of the circus were $29.25, which will be given to the treasury of the A.C.A.

On Thursday afternoon

THE PRIZES WERE PRESENTED

as follows by Commodore Rogers For record races, pennants—First, W. G. Mackendrick, Mac, Ubique club; second J. A. Gage, Owl, Vesper club; third, K. F. Brazer, Kilda, Vesper club; fourth, H. L. Quick, Kanagrine, Yonkers club; fifth, Colin Fraser, Usa, Ubique club.

The "decked paddling" race, pennant—Class 2 and 3, R. Masten, Yonkers club; class 4, first, W. G. Mackendrick, Ubique club; class 4, second, J. W. Cartwright, Jr., Puritan club.

Open paddling, pennants—Class 2 and 3, first A. Torrence, Brockville club; class 2 and 3, second, J. Smillie, Brockville club H. Wright, Toronto club.

Combined paddling and sailing pennants—First H. L. Quick, Yonkers club; second W. G. Mackendrick, Ubique club.

Unlimited sailing race, pennants—First, J. A. Gage, Owl, Vesper club; second Ford Jones, Canuck, Brockville club.

The A. C. A. trophy race, prize, a large silver cup, was an important event. Twice Englishmen have raced for it, but like their brethren who tried to get the America's cup, they have failed. The cup has been twice won by R. W. Gibson, who won it in the Vesper in 1886 and in 1887 in the Notus, and by M. V. Brokaw, who won it last year with the Eclipse. This year for the first time a Canadian, Mr. Ford Jones of Brockville, Ont. holds it. A similar cup is being made for the paddling trophy race. This year it was won by A. Torrance of Brockville.

The other pennants were awarded as follows:—Paddling tandem pennants—First, W. G. Mackendrick and H. Wright; second, J. W. Cartwright, Jr., and A. L. Putnam.

Club 4, paddling pennants—Mr. Mackendrick and his three sons.

Upset paddling race pennant—First, F. F. Andrews, Rochester; second, W. G. Mackendrick.

Ubique, Hurry-scurry, penant—First, A. Torrence, Brockville; second, G. B. Douglass, Ianthe.

Upset sailing race, pennant—First, D. S. Goddard, Vesper; second, F. F. Andrews, Rochester.

Novice sailing race, pennant—George Dempsey, Drift, Vesper club.

Gymnastics, pennant—G. C. Forest, Dimple, Hartford. Prize for camp kit—J. W. Cartwright, Puritan club.

Cruising race—First, H. L. Quick, Yonkers (pennant); second, D.B. Jaques, Toronto (camp kit.)

The first race not on the regular programme was the Barney, or Pecowsic, club race. It was won by Dr. Gage of Lowell in the canoe Owl.

The commodore for '89 '90 is to be Mr. Stanton of the New York club. The next meet is to be held at Huntington bay, Long Island, and will be the first salt-water meet of the association.

describes the condition of those persons who are said to be "going down hill," or "going into a decline." There is an indescribable weakness of the system, a general lack of vitality. They cannot tell what the matter is with them. They only know that they feel miserable in mind and body. They are gloomy and despondent. They have this and that remedy prescribed by their friends or the doctors. They have failed to receive any benefit from them. They reach the conclusion that there is no help for them and that they must die. Now the fact is that the trouble originates, in nine cases out of ten, in impure blood. There is poisonous, effete matter in it that ought to be got rid of. But how can this be done? Simply by taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which acts on the blood and various organs of the body in such a way that the man or woman using it seems to be made over,—reconstructed. It is guaranteed to benefit or cure all cases of disease for which it is recommended, or money paid for it will be refunded. b

STARTLING EVIDENCE

Of the Cure of Skin Diseases When all Other Methods Fail.

Psoriasis 5 years, Covering Face, Head and Entire Body with white scabs. Skin red, itchy, and Bleeding. Hair all gone. Spent hundreds of Dollars. Pronounced Incurable. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

My disease (psoriasis) first broke out on my left cheek, spreading across my nose, and almost covering my face. It ran into my eyes, and the physician was afraid I would lose my eyesight altogether. It spread all over my head, and my hair all fell out, until I was entirely bald-headed; it then broke out on my arms and shoulders, until my arms were just one sore. It covered my entire body, my face, head and shoulders being the worst. The white scabs fell constantly from my head, shoulders and arms; the skin would thicken and be red and very itchy, and would crack and bleed if scratched. After spending many hundreds of dollars, I was pronounced incurable. I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using two bottles CUTICURA RESOLVENT, I could see a change; and after I had taken four bottles I was almost cured; and when I had used six bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT and one box of CUTICURA, and one cake of CUTICURA SOAP, I was cured of the dreadful disease from which I had suffered for five years. I thought the disease would leave a very deep scar, but the CUTICURA REMEDIES cure it without any scars. I cannot express with a pen what I suffered before using the CUTICURA REMEDIES. They saved my life, and I feel it my duty to recommend them. My hair is restored as good as ever, and so is my eyesight. I know of a number of different persons who have used the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and all have received great benefit from their use.

A HAUNTED SPOT.

The Mysterious Spirit of Myrtle Pond in Georgia: The Story.

There is a lonely and sequestered spot in the woods near Brunswick, where no negro man, woman or child will dare be found.

In what is generally known as Fulton's pasture, near Dixville and facing the boulevard, is a pond of stagnant water, the surroundings of which are all suggestive of quiet and solitude. The surface of the pond is dotted with small clumps of sand, upon which a myrtle bush grows. The pond itself is about 800 yards in circumference, with an average depth of one and a half feet.

It is said that no negro will go near this pond at any hour of the day, and investigation has proven this statement to be true. Upon questioning one of these prejudiced darkies, a reporter learned the following cause for shunning it by the colored people.

Way back yonder in the early part of the year 1869, a young negro girl was sent by her mother to gather wood in the neighborhood of the pond and she never returned. Search was made for her, but nothing was found except her wide brimmed hat, which was found floating on the stagnant water. The community was aroused and turned out en masse to find the missing child. They failed to find her.

One dark night, about one year after this strange disappearance, a lone negro fisherman landed at the bluff, near where the boulevard bridge now stands, and gathering up his oars, oarlocks and the few fish he had been fortunate enough to catch, proceeded on his way home. It being considerably nearer for him to "cut" through these woods, he did so and had to pass directly by the pond in question. As he picked his way carefully through the underbrush, his keen sighted eyes peering eagerly through the darkness, a strange sound met his ears. It was the voice of a child, singing some weird and discordant notes of a well known plantation air. The fisherman paused and listened. It seemed as if the source of the song was drawing nearer. At last, almost paralyzed with fear, the old negro called out:

"Who's there?"

The song suddenly ceased and an answering voice was heard:

"The spirit of Myrtle pond."

So weird and unearthly was the answer that the old negro turned and ran in the direction from which he came, while the ghostly music was resumed.

The fisherman reached his cottage by a more roundabout way that night, and his family, in their humble cot, listened to his recital of the thrilling experience he had passed through. The story spread until it was general talk among the superstitious negroes, and not one dared approach the pond.—Atlanta Constitution.

Relations of the Senses.

Dr. Urbanschitsch, of Vienna, has for some time past been engaged in a series of experiments on the mutual action of the sense organs, and the results he has obtained are most curious. The senses of sight and hearing were shown by these experiments to be to some extent dependent on each other. Colored plates were placed at a distance where the colors could scarcely be distinguished, but on the production of various sounds the colors were more readily recognized, the colors becoming the more distinct the higher the pitch of the same. Printed matter could also be read in a dimly lighted room much better if the ears were simultaneously employed in receiving sounds than in complete silence. In like manner the activity of the eyes aid in the recognition of sounds. The ticking of a watch was found to be more easily heard in the light with the eyes open than in the dark with the eyes closed.

Various colors of light were found to vary in their effects upon the auditory organs, red and green strengthening and blue and green weakening them. In the case of taste and smell corresponding effects were observed. Light in general, and particularly red and green, heightens their sensitiveness, while blue and yellow, and still more darkness, reduce it. If a person is exposed to red or green light he can taste, not merely with the anterior edges of the tongue, but with its whole surface. There is a curious reciprocal action between the sense of touch and the heat sense, which, though they have not distinct organs, are certainly not identical. If the skin is tickled with a hair and the hand is then plunged into hot water the sensation ceases. If, on the other hand, any part of the body is tickled, and the hand or foot is thrust into cold water, the chilly feeling is intensified.—Boston Herald.

Yellow Shoes.

Dr. Weyl also described the case of a young man in Munich who had been poisoned by the yellow dyeing matter used in coloring russet shoes. After wearing these shoes for one week the young man's feet were covered with small yellow blisters, which, in the middle of the second week, began to spread to his ankles. His doctor had him give up the shoes and cured the eruptions in ten days. The yellow leather was subsequently examined at the Munich Hygienic Institute, and was found to be saturated with a dangerous yellow die. Dr. Weyl's advice to his colleagues was: "Don't wear russet shoes."—Chicago Tribune.

Shoe Shops Closed by a Strike.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., Sept. 3.—The strike at the shoe shops has now affected all employes, the doors of all the shops in town except H. T. Cady's are closed and 1,500 employes are out of work.

"Five years ago I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and had been given up by my physicians. I began to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after using two bottles of this medicine, was completely cured."—Anga A. Lewis, Ricard, N.Y.

The Appetite

May be increased, the Digestive organs strengthened, and the Bowels regulated, by using Ayer's Pills. These Pills are purely vegetable in their composition. They contain neither calomel nor any other dangerous drug, and may be taken with perfect safety by persons of all ages.

I was a great sufferer from Dyspepsia and Constipation. I had no appetite, became greatly debilitated, and was constantly afflicted with Headache and Dizziness. I consulted our family doctor, who prescribed for me, at various times, without affording more than temporary relief. I finally commenced taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time my digestion and appetite my bowels were regulated, and, by the time I finished two boxes of these Pills my tendency to headaches had disappeared, and I became strong and well.—Darius M. Logan, Wilmington, Del.

IMPROVED

I was troubled, for over a year, with Loss of Appetite, and General Debility. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and, before finishing half a box of this medicine, my appetite and strength were restored. —C. O. Clark, Danbury, Conn.

Ayer's Pills are the best medicine known to me for regulating the bowels, and for all diseases caused by a disordered Stomach and Liver. I suffered for over three years with Headache, Indigestion, and Constipation. I had no appetite, and was weak and nervous most of the time.

BY USING

three boxes of Ayer's Pills, and, at the same time dieting myself, I was completely cured. My digestive organs are now in good order, and I am in perfect health.—Philip Lockwood, Topeka, Kans.

Ayer's Pills have benefited me wonderfully. For months I suffered from indigestion and Headache, was restless at night, and had a bad taste in my mouth every morning. After taking one box of Ayer's Pills, all these troubles disappeared, my food digested well, and my sleep was refreshing.—Henry C. Hennemeway, Rockport, Mass.

I was cured of the Piles by the use of Ayer's Pills. They not only relieved me of that painful disorder, but gave me increased vigor, and restored my health.—John Lazarus, St. John, N. B.

SPLENDID BUILDING SITES

I have placed on the market

That Desirable and Well Situated Property

in the western part of the Town, and offer it in lots as per plan annexed. This affords a splendid opportunity to secure a location for your home in a rapidly improving and in every respect the best part of the town. The properties are situated on Cedar and Halton streets and within a stone's throw of the West Ward School and a short distance of the principal Churches and the Hamilton Co'y. Works.

"ERIN COTTAGE," late the residence of Mr. Elias Thompson, is situated in the centre of the block. This property is for sale or can be had at a bargain. It is a desirable suburban residence.

The lots have good frontages on streets of the standard width and are splendidly located. From the upper lots is afforded one of the best views of the town with ample facilities for drainage.

Several fine dwellings are already contracted for to be built on these lots during this season.

Tradesmen and merchants should inspect this property as it offers the best sites available and convenient to the business part of the town.

The promenade concert by the band in the evening will be an additional pleasure.

No Disappointment.

Barnum's train was wrecked on Thursday night last. A broken axle was the cause. Six cars were derailed and two completely telescoped so that everything in them were crushed—except D. Whiting's pound cake and mixed cakes, which are all right yet. So you will not be disappointed at his picnic as the people of Montreal were with Barnum's circus. Wa hoo! Big Injun me! Mr. Beattie's garden contains potatoes, lettuce, radishes, tomatoes, etc., which would be hard to beat in the lower altitudes. So far the frost has not hurt them—So says the Calgary Tribune.

The Col. William's Memorial.

A detachment of volunteers went to Port Hope to-day to attend the Col. William's memorial celebration Mayor Stevenson was also aboard the train. There was a very small turn-out of redcoats, not over 15, the officers being Col. J. Z. Rogers, Capt. Brennan, and Lieuts. Mason and Loch. The 57th Battalion Band accompanied the volunteers. The Peterborough wing of the Durham Field Battery went down to join the main body at Port Hope. The unveiling of the monument took place this forenoon. A report of the demonstration will appear to-morrow. It appears after all from a letter received yesterday by Col. J. Z. Rogers, from Col. Benson, Port Hope, that it was not the intention of the committee in any way to slight the Peterborough Volunteers. It was decided not to invite the volunteers from outside places, and as a matter of fact no invitations of the sort were sent out. This seems to be a pity, because it was naturally expected that as Col. Williams had commanded a battalion composed of representative companies from each regiment in the Midland district, so a formal invitation would we sent to those regiments to participate in the ceremony and a place of honor assigned to them. Had such an invitation been sent a fortnight ago, the Peterborough Battalion would have gladly turned out. As it is, owing to drill having been suspended during the hot weather, and owing also to the evident fact that the Port Hope people did not contemplate making it more than a local affair, the 57th has only sent a small contingent.

Circus Day.

Barnum's circus has come and gone once more. The show attracted thousands of visitors to town from all parts of the district. The exhibition itself gave general satisfaction. The street parade was not long, but it was all of a good character. The two performances were well attended, the big tent in the afternoon being well filled, while, of course, the crowd at night was not so large. The performances were good indeed. There were many new features, and the only difficulty was in watching the three rings at once. The immense show was all safely aboard the cars by midnight, and the trains left at once for Harrie. Everything works like machinery at Barnum's circus. The discipline is something extraordinary. Spectators watching the loading and unloading, as well as the work at the grounds, saw not the least bit of trouble anywhere. There was no drunkenness, profanity nor fighting such as usually accompanies a circus. The police say they were the most orderly lot of circus men that ever came to town. The proprietors aim to run their show on business principles. They allowed no fakirs on the ground, and the police had no trouble in keeping these gentry from plying their nefarious trades. Not an arrest was made yesterday. Of course there were a good many drunks, but the circus employes were so well subordinated that no trouble ensued. At the station last night a man nearly lost his life. He was drunk and fell alongside the track just as an engine passed by. He was rescued by a circus hand.

Re-opening the Schools.

The Fall Term Began To-day—The Improvements to the Collegiate Institute Building.

This morning the school children gathered up their books and regretfully left their homes to begin work again after the long summer vacation. They have been allowed over a week's extra holidays on account of the improvements being made in the schools not being completed. Classes were once more resumed at the central and west ward schools and the Collegiate Institute this morning. The attendance was good in schools. After the roll call promotions were made and the schools dismissed for the day. The pupils of the south ward are still exempt from work, the building not yet being ready for occupation. It is believed the improvements will not be sufficiently advanced to allow of school being resumed, till the end of next week.

The repairs to the Collegiate Institute building have been finished, and now the town can congratulate itself on having a finely equipped Collegiate Institute. The chief improvement is the widening of the main hall to twelve feet. This has been done by moving in the walls. A wide staircase leads from the hall to the upper story, while a smaller one affords a passage downstairs to the common school rooms. In all the halls hat and cloak racks have been put up, and better light secured by placing large transoms over the doors. At either side of the main hall are wide entrances, the east side for the girls and the west for the boys. This is a great improvement, as formerly, when the front entrance was used also, the pupils came in together. The front entrances in the tower have been closed up, and the small hall space there converted into teachers' rooms. But the greatest alteration is in the chemistry department, which has been enlarged by the addition of the small library which was formerly partitioned off the end of the room. There has also been a great improvement in the appliances. Around two sides of the room are ranged long experimenting tables, supplied at close intervals with a number of water taps, sinks and gas jets for chemical purposes. From the sinks are water escapes leading to the sewer which has been placed underneath the building. The waterworks have also been added, the chemistry room being well supplied, and a couple of taps have been placed in the hall for drinking purposes. The room has also been furnished with a couple of large glass cases for the reception of chemical apparatus and books.

The whole building has been retouched, the renewed portions being repainted throughout. Altogether the Collegiate Institute is now in good condition, and the credit for it is largely due to Mr. Wm. English, the capable Chairman of the Property Committee. The work was done by Mr. James Montgomery, who finished the job only last night. Janitor Tighe has the building well cleaned up, and to day everything appeared in excellent condition.

A MOTION TO SEPARATE

The High and Public School Boards.

Mr. Dumble Urges the Division of the Two Boards—His Remarks About the Condition of the High School—Other School Affairs Discussed.

At the regular meeting of the School Board Tuesday evening there were present Mr. Jas. Stevenson, chairman, and Messrs. Boucher, Burnham, English, Weir, Hamilton, Denne and Dumble.

The chairman stated that the improvements to the Collegiate Institute were about completed, and the building was now in good condition. It was a credit to Mr. English, under whose supervision the work was performed. The South Ward school was not yet ready, and perhaps would not be for a week or ten days.

Mr. English stated that if the contractor had tried he could have had it ready.

The chairman further stated that he had found they would require $18.000 to complete the schools, and the Secretary had made the request of the town council for that amount.

Mr. STEVENSON also said he thought waterworks had better be put into the South Ward school, as there was great complaint against the well water in that vicinity.

Mr. ENGLISH, Chairman of the Property Committee, reported that they had inspected the different styles of school desks and the one the Committee favored was called the "Acme." An agent would be here this week to give the committee an estimate of the cost of supplying the desks for the schools.

The accounts of the Review Printing Company, $6.30; Adam Hall, $3, and Geo. Stethem, $15, were ordered to be paid when certified to.

Mr. Dumble moved, seconded by Mr. Burnham, that this Board make a requisition upon the town council for the sum of $18,000 to meet the expenditure for the land and building for the new North Ward School, the improvements on the Central School and the additions to the South Ward School, including the heating apparatus and new school furniture.—Carried.

Mr. ENGLISH, in reply to a question concerning the gymnasium apparatus, said he had priced material in Toronto and found it could be made cheaper here. The Committee intended to get the apparatus made in town.

SEPARATION OF THE BOARDS.

Mr. DUMBLE then rose and said:—Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, at a former meeting of the Board I gave notice that I would move a motion to divide the Public and High School Boards. At the last meeting, as it was not largely attended, I did not press the motion, but it has been on the table ever since, and I think it cannot be carried out too soon. It must be patent to you as well as everyone else that our High School is not a credit to us. It does not occupy the position amongst the High Schools of the country it should occupy, in consideration of the fact that we are situated in the centre of a good country and in a town of 10,000 people, also taking into consideration that we have a large staff and that our expenses in connection with the High School, independent of all resources, is $4,300 a year. Now, what is the result? How many pupils have, by reason of the education they have here received and by reason of the inspiration, which is the best part of the education, how many of them have accomplished results of which we are proud? How many of them have passed good examinations for teachers' certificates, or entered the Universities with honors? The results are such as to make us pause and examine what the trouble is. I believe the trouble largely arises from the union of the boards—a board having under its control the public and high schools, and none of the work being well done. Now there has been a recent examination and we naturally ask, where does Peterborough stand? There are about 109 high schools in this country. There were 125 schools competed at these examinations, so that there were a number of public schools competed as well as high schools—the difference between 109 and 125. It is said in answer to complaints about our school that we have an average standard. Well, when you take into consideration the fact that some public schools competed, and then tell us that our school if we reckon by cost should stand fifteenth and by attendance sixteenth on the list—it is not very gratifying to be told we are up to the average. We are

BELOW THE MEDIUM.

At the last examination Norwood high school passed 22—11 thirds, 6 seconds and 5 matriculants. We did not pass one to the University. Three are said to have gone up from Peterborough—one never studied in our school but took private lessons; the two who studied here failed. Lindsay passed 18 thirds, 14 seconds, 1 first and 5 matriculants, a total of 38. Campbellford passed 23 thirds and 14 seconds. Peterborough passed 11 altogether—6 thirds and 5 seconds. Now, are we proud of a record of that kind after such a staff as we have, to be beaten altogether by these and dozens of other schools. Bobcaygeon passed 5 from its common school and Millbrook passed 3 out of her common school. Ours is a lofty position! But it is not the result of chance or accident. It is an old story. It is the common state of things. Since Mr. Jeffers was here, how many boys have gone up and taken University honors? How many have received inspiration to go ahead and take these honors? What is the spirit of the institution? Parents come to me and ask what is to be done, saying I came here to educate my boys, from a town where there is a high school not half as big but better than yours. What can you say to them? Not one, not two, I am told of a great many, name after name is given me, who say they are not coming back here any more, and some are going away to other schools. And the complaint is that the atmosphere of the school is not such as to help them. They don't say all our teachers are bad, we have good teachers, but the whole atmosphere is such that these good teachers cannot do good work, for there is demoralization in the school. Now, as business men, with a terrible responsibility on our hands, have we been doing our duty to let this state of things continue. We have kept teachers in this school and we have known their frailities, and we know it is not simply a weakness in otherwise able men; but we know teachers have not done their duty. The other teachers say, that part of the work is not well done and it kills their work. The spirit of the work there is such that it demoralizes the pupils in their department. The scholars say, we come to school and we are asked, how many of you have your lessons. Some stand up and it is all rights for them. If they don't stand up they are told by their teachers that they are not going to teach pupils who

DON'T KNOW THEIR LESSONS.

Perhaps they lie when they stand up and say they have their lessons, but its all the same. That same teacher was found cramming his pupils for a coming examination. He was caught in it and could not deny it. But that is a single instance of the system of training pursued by this one teacher, and when the inspector comes around he finds the school crammed; and the inspectors report is such as to delude us into the belief that it is all right. The best report we can get is to take what the scholars tell you. There is demoralization in the school, and I make the statement and take all the responsibility for it, that the head of the school is unfit for his place. A gentleman every inch of him, a manly man, but unfit to be principal of this school. With a bad teacher and a weak principal, the demoralization in other parts of the school is the result. What is the result? You have in these recent examinations attained to seventieth place by merit among the schools of the country. How long is this going on? Are we not going to take into consideration the demands of the people upon us? I have suffered, others have suffered. I say, gentlemen, I am not personal. There is not a man in this town will give Mr. Long more credit than myself for being a manly, straightforward, honorable man. But gentlemen in making him principal we do wrong, and keeping him there we are doing wrong, and we have got a duty to perform. They got into the same kind of a fix in Lindsay, and they dismissed every one of their teachers. They got rid of their weakness and now they have fine schools. Why should we not have a fine school with our good town and county? We should have, and could if we tried. The biggest crime is committed by this board. We have got to do our duty or there will be more exposures. I cannot justify myself in hearing people complain that they can't get here the education they can elsewhere. Lindsay, Norwood, Campbellford—any school you name is better than yours. Now, in view of that I think the result comes largely from the character of our Board. If we had a High School Board that would take particular knowledge of high school matters and feel the responsibility on them, there would be a different state of things. But as it is, school affairs are so broadly distributed that the responsibility is not properly felt. I don't know of any union school board that has maintained its position. The best authorities tell us they DON'T WORK WELL.

Therefore, in view of this, I am going to move the separation of the Boards. But whether it carries or not I am going to advocate the other measure. Apply the pruning knife without mercy, so that if it costs a limb, the tree may be saved. I move:—

That inasmuch as the taking into consideration the number of teachers employed, and the cost of maintaining the Collegiate Institute and the uniformly unsatisfactory results attained, this Board hereby resolves that the Board will accomplish better results by separation. That it be no longer a union Board, but that it resolve itself into two Boards—one for the Public Schools and one for the Collegiate Institute.

SOME DISCUSSION.

DR. BURNHAM called attention to the fact that when Mr. Dumble had brought this matter up last spring it had been referred to a committee composed of Messrs. English, O'Meara, Hamilton, Dumble and McWilliams.

Mr. DUMBLE replied that this was such an important matter that referring it to a committee was trifling with it. The Board should deal with it, they all knew what was the right course to take. The High School Inspector says the school is running smoothly, but he (Mr. Dumble) paid little attention to it, for he affirmed that the Inspector was himself deceived by the terribly immoral system of cramming practiced in the school.

The CHAIRMAN suggested that Mr. Dumble had better not press his motion, as there was a smaller attendance at this meeting than the last.

Mr. WEIR inquired if it was Mr. Earle's department that was particularly complained of.

Mr. DUMBLE—I believe his teaching shows up worse than the others. The pupils tell us of things that happen in his room. I could name dozens of pupils who say they won't go back again to the school with this kind of teaching going on.

Mr. DENNE—What is the effect of that resolution?

Mr. DUMBLE—It separates the Boards.

Mr. DENNE—Can this Board dissolve itself.

Mr. DUMBLE—Yes.

After some further desultory discussion Mr. Dumble said he would withdraw his motion in order that the committe appointed previously to investigate the condition of the school might report.

This was followed by a general talk around the board about the teaching staffs of the different schools in town, and one of the members proposed that the whole lot of teachers be discharged and the schools rejuvenated.

After some further talk about desks for the schools and the repairs to the South Ward school, the Board adjourned.

Sproule's New Photographic Premises.

Commodious, Convenient and Complete in Every Respect.

Sproule, the photographer is not the man to take second place, either in an artistic or other sense. He has long held a leading position in the first respect and now in the matter of premises he can certainly take the lead. His new studio is situated on Charlotte street, in the Harper block, No. —. One of its most attractive features is its situation on the ground floor, rendering it easy of access, a condition which, especially, elderly or infirm persons, and mothers of children will appreciate. The reception room and picture gallery is the first room entered. It is 13x60 feet in area, lighted with plate glass windows, floored with oiled maple and fitted up in first class style in every respect. Next in rear of this is the dressing room screened off with wood, glazed with ornamental glass. Passing through an ante-chamber the studio proper is reached. This is 13x45, one storey in height, with coved ceiling, and both ceiling and walls are artistically papered in tints suitable for the purposes to which the room is devoted. The carpet, supplied by Messrs. Hall, Innes & Co., is a rich Brussels of a warm brown tone. The chief feature of this room is, however, in the lighting. The light is a north-eastern one, one of the best possible for operating purposes. It may be a little difficult for inefficient operators to work, but in capable hands, such as Mr. Sproule's, it in the photographic art. The arrangement of screens and curtains is elaborate and ingenious, admitting of the most delicate gradations of light. The light of this studio is perfect, and is just what Mr. Sproule has been aiming at for twenty-five years. If he produced such superb work with an inferior light, the public will know what to expect from a perfect light under perfect control. Opening off this is the usual dark room. In fine the new studio is an ideal one in every respect. The furniture accessories and back grounds, (Seavey's and others) is of the best. The new Dalmarger camera has a direct negative capacity of 18x22 inches, while the Rose lens, after ample experiments with others, is found to be the best in the world. The papering and painting of this room was done in his usual artistic manner by Mr. H. W. Watson, the paper and decorations being supplied by the Peterborough Bookstore. The developing and toning rooms are situated in the basement which is elaborately fitted up for the purpose and the air is just what is required for manipulating photographic paper.

PRODUCES THE BEST EFFECTS POSSIBLE

In fine Sproule's new studio, is complete in every respect, and with Mr. Sproule's extensive experience, covering a quarter of a century and his artistic taste and skill, there is no other establishment in Canada capable of producing more high class work. The EXAMINER wishes Mr. Sproule every success in his new premises and feels quite certain that the public will duly appreciate the privileges he presents of securing the best of photograph work.

That Baseball Game.

Sporting Editor Examiner:

Having noticed in your report of the baseball game yesterday, between the P.A.A.A. and Athletic nines, that you say the game was given by default to the P.A.A.A. nine, on the Athletic's refusing to play after sundown, I wish to say that no such decision was given while we were on the grounds, and could not be given without my consent, which I refused to give, as the sun had gone down when the six innings were completed, and any person who understands the game knows it is not customary to play after that time. Hoping you will publish the above and oblige, I remain,

Yours, etc.
WM. CHAMBERS,
Umpire on the field.

[NOTE.—The statement was made on the authority of the captain of the Association team, who assured the EXAMINER that the decision objected to was given to him before he left the grounds by one umpire, but the other declined to endorse it. It is, of course, a matter of opinion which umpire had the right to declare the game. Our humble judgment is that the man calling strikes was the proper person. If he could see the ball well enough to give decisions, it certainly should be light enough to see in the field.—SPORTING ED.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

THEIR HERO OF BATOCHE.

THE HEROIC STATUE OF COL. WILLIAMS UNVEILED.

A Gala Day at Port Hope—Sir John Macdonald, Sir Adolphe Caron and all the Military Officers of the District Present.

PORT HOPE, Sept. 4.—This picturesque little town had such a gathering to-day as is well nigh unprecedented in its history. The streets were decorated with evergreens, flags and banting were displayed in profusion, and everyone was attired in holiday garb and a pleasant exterior. The town was full of visitors, to all of whom hearty words of welcome were extended. The occasion of these unusual festivities was the unveiling of the memorial statue of the late Col. Williams by Sir John Macdonald and the formal opening by the same honorable gentleman of the Port Hope Industrial Exhibition. The veteran Premier, accompanied by Sir Adolphe Caron and Mr. Fred White, arrived from River du Loup after a tedious ride of nearly two days. The party went at first to the residence of Mr. Harry Ward, M.P., and the first thing that the Old Man asked for were the services of a barber.

At 10.30 the proceedings opened. Long before that hour a great crowd had gathered in Queen-street in front of the Town Hall, where the statue is erected. There were present among others these officers of the William's Memorial Association: W. Craig, sr., president; R. H. Holland, secretary; R. A. Mulholland, treasurer; Judge Benson, D. Chisholm, J. F. Clark, J. Craick, J. H. Helm, Rev. Dr. Bethune, Mayor E. Peplow, councillors J. McMullen, R. C. Smith, T. Long, T. A. Thompson, J. H. Rosevear, W. Craig, jr., S. Paterson; Town Clerk H. V. Sanders; Town Treasurer Henry; Harbor Commissioners, E. S. Virdin, P. Robertson, W. Williamson; Mayor James Stevenson, M.P. of Peterboro, and Clerk James Macdonald; James Masson, M.P., Owen Sound; Dr. Willoughby, M.L.A., East Northumberland; Mr. Field, M.L.A., West Northumberland; Robert Mulholland, ex-M. L. A., Cobourg; E. Guillet, M.P., West Northumberland, E. Cochrane, M.P., East Northumberland; Capt. Howard of Gatling gun fame. The officers of the 46th Battalion were represented by Col. Gravely, Capt. Givins, Major Bonnycastle, Capt. Birdsall, Capt. McGaughey, Lieut. Richardson, Capt. Snelgrove, Capt. Greer. Capt. Butler, Capt. Duncan, Lieut. Campbell, Lieut. Floyd. The officers of the 45th present were: Col. Deacon and Col. Cubitt. Of the 57th there were: Col. Rogers, Capt. Brennan, Lieut. Mason. The Durham Field Battery officers were: Major McLean, Lieut. Snyder. The 3rd regiment of cavalry officers were: Col. Boulton, Capt. Sutton, Lieut. Kent, Lieut. Strickland, Major Smith, who was second in command of the Welland Battalion under Col. Williams; Lieut. Cartwright, late of the Midland Battalion. There were also present a large gathering of prominent gentlemen from the Midland district and elsewhere, friends of the lamented officer.

Over 5000 persons were present during the unveiling ceremonies.

The proceedings opened with an address of welcome from the corporation to Sir John Macdonald. Sir John, wreathed in smiles, a Prince Albert and the ever present red tie, stepped forward amid applause and testified to his appreciation of his reception and his gratification to be present on so notable an occasion. The speech closed with many sincere wishes for the prosperity of Port Hope and the promise to aid the town as far as lay in his power.

After prayer by Rev. C. J. S. Bethune, Judge Benson, an intimate friend of the late Col., uttered a few words. R. H. Holland, secretary of the association, then read the address, which reviewed the many noble qualities of the late Col. Williams, the hearty support received from the Government towards the now accomplished work. It also reviewed the history of the work since it inception, the loyal spirit shown in its consummation and concluded by recognizing the ability and skill of the sculptor, Hamilton McCarthy, R. C. A., who had indeed ably performed his task. The address was signed by W. Craig and R. H. Holland.

Sir John then, while the bands of the 57th and 46th battalion played "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Sweet Bye and Bye," removed the Union Jack that had previously veiled the statue. A hush fell upon the audiance. After a momentary pause the Premier proceeded to address the concourse. His remarks in laudation of the "Hero of Batoche" aroused the enthusiasm of the audience, who cheered him to the echo. The sentiments expressed were exactly in accord with the feelings of the multitude and all were fired with renewed loyalty.

The Old Man in his most happy style referred to the gallant deeds of the late departed soldier, so well known and which are now matters of history. His gentlemanly character, his administrative ability were al eulegised in glowing terms.

Sir Adolphe Caron, in warm terms, referred to the late colonel, eulogising his many brave and statesmanlike qualities. He took occasion to refer to the happy relations that always existed between the deceased and the French population with whom he was associated. At Major-General Middleton's request the speaker conveyed to the audience the former's sincere regrets at his absence owing to pressure of business. In conclusion he was happy to be able to state that all over the Dominion loyal citizens had vied with each other in their efforts to swell the contribution list. The speaker concluded amid renewed applause.

The Old Man was on hand to formally open the exhibition at 2.30. In the course of a speech, in response to an address of welcome from the company, Sir John replied in effect that he was more than pleased with the cordial reception and expressed great hopes for the future of Port Hope as a grain producing centre. His remarks met with frequent applause.

The Premier paid a visit to Trinity College School, and attended a garden party given by Mrs. Fraser. In the evening a torchlight procession promenaded the principal streets. Sir John and party left for Ottawa at 11 p.m.

Sir John expects to be in Toronto Tuesday next, to open the big fair.

EXCUSED FOR CAUSE.

Why Talesman Turner Was Not Allowed to Sit on the Cronin Jury

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—The work of securing a jury on the Cronin case was resumed this morning. The only matter of interest developed thus far was a ruling by Judge McConnell excusing Talesman W. P. Turner for cause. Mr. Turner testified that he was a member of the American League or Independent Order of Deputies, whose object is to prevent members of the Roman Catholic Church from holding or controlling political offices in this country. The talesman thought this would not influence his action and that he could give the defendants a fair trial, even if it were shown that they were members of the Clan-na-Gael. The defence challenged him.

THE ADVENTURESS WEEPS.

Mrs. Hamilton Informed of the Arrest of Her Confederates.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Sept. 4.—Mrs. Hamilton was informed by Sheriff Johnston to-day of the arrest of Mrs. Swinton and Mann in New York. She broke down entirely under the stock of the disclosure and wept bitter tears. She seemed to find some consolation in hugging little Beatrice Ray and said again and again that it was her own dear child. Her condition was most pitiful, and it is feared she will commit suicide should opportunity offer.

A Fatal Fall.

BRANTFORD, Sept. 3.—For the past two weeks the city has been building a bridge over the canal in South Market st. Last midnight John Middleton, driver for the Waddington Cartage Co., walked off the north end of the bridge, falling to the ground 22 feet, and was killed.

The London Strike

LONDON, Sept. 4.—One hundred thousand strikers' relief tickets of the value of one shilling each were issued yesterday. It is suggested the Lord Mayor, the Governor of the Bank of England and the President of the Chamber of Commerce might succeed in settling the dispute between the men and the employers. The dock directors have again issued a statement of the terms they are willing to concede. The Strike Committee contemplate issuing a manifesto setting forth the conditions on which they will permit the dock men to resume work.

The Strike Committee sat until 2 o'clock this morning. It was agreed that the committee would consent to the men resuming work at any wharf paying 6d. an hour ordinary time, and 8d. over time, the "plus" in piece work to be equally divided between journey men and foremen.

The Southampton dock-men are not disposed to strike, work being plentiful.

Mr. Laforce a large wharfinger, has conceded an advance to his employes, and they will resume work tomorrow.

Mr. Laforce who has advanced the wages at his wharf employs 700 men. It is expected that a number of other wharfingers and the Millwards and Albert Dock Co's. will agree upon terms to-day.

KINGSTON CAPTURED.

The Limestone City Surrenders to the Delegates to the I. C. B. U. Convention.

KINGSTON, Sept. 4.—The Young Irishmen captured the city to-day. Right royally did the young men of the Catholic societies welcome the coming of the delegates to the twenty-first annual convention of the Irish Catholic Benevolent Union of America. It was about 10 o'clock when the parade passed through the streets. In the procession were the following organizations: Toronto I. C. B. U., and band, Kingston C. M. B. A., with band, Kingston and Portsmouth St. Patrick's Society and band, Kingston I. C. B. U. and band and delegates to the I. C. B. U. convention. Altogether 800 were in line.

At St. Mary's cathedral the visitors, in the absence of Archbishop Cleary, were welcomed by Rev. Father Kelly.

The delegates were taken down the river this afternoon, and to-night W. P. Kilcauley, president of the local I.C.B.U., read an address of welcome.

The annual report of the secretary shows that $2247 has been given in aid of the Johnstown sufferers, $65,125 for the relief of the sick members of the society and $23,115 contributed towards the widows' and orphans' fund.

THE DEMANDS OF LABOR.

Resolutions Adopted Yesterday by the Congress at Montreal.

MONTREAL, Sept. 4.—The Labor Congress to-day adopted these resolutions:

That the system of subsidising railways by land and money grants is detrimental to the interests of the country, and that this Congress request the Government to discontinue the said practice, but that when need arises the Government shall provide facilities to the citizens of this country so exchange their products with each other and not delegate this important duty to private corporations.

That any terms or stipulations other than the rendering of an equivalent for wages insisted upon or demanded by employers in the engagement of employes should be declared by law null and void, and that any attempt at this exaction be declared a criminal offence, punishable by imprisonment for a specific period on proof and conviction of any court of competent jurisdiction. Be it therefore resolved that both the Dominion and Provincial Governments be respectfully petitioned to introduce and pass into law measures to that effect.

That all wage earners should in all cases be paid weekly, and the power to call out the militia in case of riots be vested only in the Governor of the Province and the Mayors of cities.

A PUZZLE FOR THE DOCTORS.

Havens' Heart was on the Right Side and all His Other Organs Wrong.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Sept. 4.—Frank Havens, aged 38, dropped dead last evening. A post-mortem disclosed an abnormal arrangement of the vital organs. The heart was on the right side. A coagula amounting to about two quarts of blood surrounding his heart. The liver was on the left side of the abdomen and the stomach on the right. The lungs were only one-third the regular size and were pressed upwards. How the man could have lived any length of time after birth seems a mystery to the surgeon.

THE D. R. A. MEET.

Winners in the Dominion of Canada Match—The Prizes to be Presented To-night.

OTTAWA, Sept. 4.—The weather at the Dominion Rifle Association meet to-day was terribly hot. The night was excellent but a nasty "fishtail" wind made the shooting hard. Some excellent scores were made in the Dominion of Canada match. The winning teams were:

Prize	Team	Points
$50	62nd Fusiliers	394
40	71st Batt	393
30	Queen's Own Rifles	391
25	13th Batt	383

10	Pte. Foreman, 12th	83
10	Staff.-Sergt. McWittie, 10th R. G.	83

The presentation of prizes will take place in the Rideau Rink to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock.

A WITNESS SENT TO JAIL.

BECAUSE HIS ANSWERS WERE NOT SATISFACTORY.

Another Chapter in the Haldimand Contested Election Case—The Trial Not Yet Concluded.

CAYUGA, Sept. 4.—When the court opened at 9.30 this morning, the auditorium was fairly well filled with interested listeners to the proceedings in the contested election case. Counsel for the appellant called Philip Sevenpiper, brother of the last witness, in continuation of the charge that Charles Sevenpip r had been offered $10 by Ralph Honsberger and William Mowat to spoil his vote. Witness testified to the effect that he knew Ralph Honsberger, Mowat and Miller. He recollected the conversation he had heard between his brother and Ralph Honsberger, and corroborated his brother's statement as to what took place between them.

Mr. Aylesworth cross-examined the witness and elicited the opinion that the conversation that took place between Honsberger and his brother occurred while they were on the floor of the barn, and not while Charles was throwing down fodder, as stated in his evidence. Witness said his brother told him that Honsberger had offered him $10 to spoil his vote. He told his brother Charles to vote either one way or the other and to have nothing to do with the money. With the exception of the conversation episode there was no difference between witness' evidence and that of his brother's.

Ralph Honsberger, sworn, was examined by counsel for appellant. Witness was twenty years old; had Reform sympathies and attended many meetings; witness stated that Robert Miller and Elliot Overholt were prominent Reform politicians in his locality, Rainham Center; didn't know whether John Miller took an active interest or not, but knew that Wm. Mowat did; remember Mowat calling at his father's place last January. He came to buy timber and also to talk about the election; he asked witness how Charles Sevenpiper was and witness said he wanted $10; Mowat said the next time Sevenpiper said anything about it to ask him if he would take the money; witness spoke of Nicholas Sevenpiper, brother of Charles and Philip, who resided at a distance, but had voted in the former election; in the last one he had remained away, presumably because his Conservative friends had not paid his expenses. Witness thought, in consequence, that the Sevenpipers might be converted into Reformers, and told Mowat so, who told witness to ask Chas. Sevenpiper if $10 would buy him. He expected to get the money from Mowat. The particulars of his visit to Charles Sevenpiper in the latter's barn—as already narrated by previous witnesses—were drawn from the witness at a snail's gallop.

Witness was then cross-examined by Mr. Aylesworth, who elicited nothing further.

Several witnesses were then called to prove the agency of Wm. Mowat but their evidence did not go to show he attended any committee meetings.

Timothy Wardell was next sworn. He proved so unsatisfactory in the manner in which he answered questions and insisted upon making rambling statements that the Judge committed him to jail until to-morrow morning. On account of this it was found necessary to abandon charges No. 69 and 5 for the present.

Charge No. 82 was then gone into. It alleges that James Haslett and others, agent of respondent, gave Henry Brydges $5 to enable him to absent himself from the polling place. After some evidence had been taken James Haslett was called and denied that he had offered Brydges $5.

Chase Wins the Rich Futurity Stakes—Yesterday's Ball Games.

SHEEPSHEAD BAY, L. I, Sept 4—Not since Suburban Day has such a crowd been seen at the Coney Island Jockey Club course as was present to-day to witness the second running of the Futurity Stakes, which was worth over $80,000 to the winner. It was one surging mass of humanity over, 20,000 people being present and every available nook and corner was taken up to get a peep at the race, which was the fourth on the card. On the lawn in front of the grandstand it was impossible to move and the stands were packed to their uttermost capacity.

It was the largest field that has started in a race in America this year, no less than twenty three youngsters facing the flag. The race, however, resulted somewhat unsatisfactorily by being run in slow time and the downfall of the favorite, St. Carlo, who it is thought should have won but for Garrison's confidence, allowing Chase to steal a march on him and win by a neck. The other races were all well contested and the finishers were close. Results:

First race—Sweepstakes for 3-year-olds at $25 each with $1000 added; ¾ mile. D. A. Honig's brown colt Carbuncle, 104, won; Oregon, 104, 2; Seymour, 104, 3. Time 1.11.

Second race—Sweepstakes for 3-year-olds and upwards, at $25 each with $1000 added; 1 mile. T. Bryan's chesnut colt Cracksman, 102, won; Climax, 107, 2; Leo H. 104, 3. Time, 1.46.

Third race—Handicap sweepstakes for all ages, at $25 each with $1000 added; 1 1-8 miles. D. T. Pulsifer's chesnut horse Brother Ban, 117, won; Wary, 108, 2; Brandolette, 104, 3. Time, 1.45 2-5.

Fourth race—Futurity sweepstakes for 2-year-olds, $250 each for starters, $10,000 added; colts to carry 115 lbs., fillies and geldings 112 lbs.; penalties and allowances; ½ mile straight.

Gossip From Guelph.

GUELPH, Sept. 4.—The continued absence of a widely known real estate dealer, who has been also one of our leading municipal men, is the cause of much comment on the street just now. It is current talk that the affairs of some estates of which he has been agent are muchly mixed, and there are several writs out against him. His liabilities are said to be in the neighborhood of $35,000.

The Heffernan boys, who live in Aberfoyle, had an unpleasant experience on Tuesday evening. Three armed men appeared at their domicile and fired several shots in the air. The Heffernans got scared and ran to a neighbor's house. The housewife took after her liege lord, and made good time in crossing the fields. The affrighted family soon returned with a couple of neighbors, but the intruders had by this time departed. A search of the house was made, when it was learned that three rings and some small trinkets had been stolen.

CONSTRUCTION AND MAINTENANCE OF WAGON ROADS.

At the meetings of the Farmers' Institutes the subject of statute labour was somewhat discussed, but not so thoroughly as to conduce to any approach to unanimity of opinion on the subject. Assuming, therefore, that any contribution on the subject will be of interest, the following from the Hamilton Times is submitted as worthy of study:—

"There will never be good country roads while dependence is placed on pathmasters and statute labor, or on companies collecting as much toll and spending as little as possible. The condition of a road depends not only upon the manner in which it is constructed, but upon the manner in which it is maintained. The best of roads are being constantly worn by traffic, and if they are not quickly repaired whenever any defects appear they are soon destroyed. Macadam's reputation was made not in building new roads, but in repairing old roads and keeping them always in good order. In order to accomplish this result incessant attention is necessary, so as to fill up any rute or holes the moment they appear, and prevent them from being enlarged by travel and rain. The road thus gradually wears down, but always presents a uniform and smooth surface; and when its thickness is reduced to about five inches it is necessary to make general repairs by covering it with a new coating of stone. The amount of wear is proportional to the volume of traffic. On some of the heavily travelled macadam streets of London and Paris it has been as much as four inches in a year, but on high roads between cities it is often as low as one-half inch in a year.

Nowhere is the art of road-making and maintenance carried on to such perfection as in France, where the necessity of constant supervision and prompt repairs is fully appreciated. Her roads have a length of about 200,000 miles, of which more than 130,000 miles are macadamized. The Canadian plan is to let a road run down until its patrons will not stand it any longer, and then to dump some stones upon the middle of it, for the wagon wheels to pack into place. In France there is the same constant inspection and repair to the wagon roads that Canadians apply to their railroads. The fundamental principles of maintenance, as laid down in the French Manual of Instruction, are only two in number, viz.: 1. The removal of the daily wear of the road, whether in the form of mud or dust; 2. The prompt replacement of this wear by new materials.

Each road is divided into sections called cantons: on heavily travelled roads a canton may be only 100 yards long, on light roads it may be a mile; and to each canton there is a workman known as a cantonnier, who is responsible for the condition of the road in his canton. He lives in the immediate vicinity, and is obliged to be on the road from 5 a.m. to 7 p.m. in summer, and from sunrise to sunset in winter; he can rest two hours for his noonday meal, but with this exception, he must be always at work between the hours above stated. He has the following tools, viz., wheelbarrow, iron shovel, wooden shovel, pick, iron scraper, wooden scraper, broom, iron rake, crowbar, hammer and tape-line. His duties are: 1. To keep the gutters clear so that the water can run off freely. 2. To scrape off the mud in wet weather and sweep off the dust in dry weather, so as to keep his canton always clean. 3. To clean off the snow as far as possible, and break up the ice on the surface of the road and in the gutters during the winter. 4. To pick up all loose stones, break them and pile them in regularly shaped piles on the side of the road, ready for use in repairing ruts and holes. 5. To keep the mile-posts in good order. 6. To take care of the trees bordering the road.

The six adjacent cantonniers form a squad called a brigade, which is under a foreman known as a cantonnier chef, and forms the unit of working force. Several brigades are placed under the charge of a conducteur, or superintendent, who has charge of a section of forty or fifty miles of road, for the good order of which he is responsible, and every part of which he must inspect and report upon twice a month. Several sections are placed under an engineer, who has charge of all the roads in an arrondissement, or township, and must inspect every part of them once in three months. Finally, the engineer in chief has charge of all the roads in the department, or province, eighty-seven of which constitute the territory of France. During the winter, when the repairs are heavy, and whenever a general resurfacing of the road is undertaken, the regular cantonniers are assisted by auxiliary labor hired for the time being. The broken stone required for each work is furnished by contract.

It should be borne in mind that this is not a mere paper organization, or code of forgotten statutes, but an actual working system in full operation to-day. It is the result of 120 years of thought and labor devoted to an important subject by some of the best minds in France, and the result is the most superb system of roads to be found anywhere in the world. The cost is surprisingly small, considering what is accomplished. The actual cost per mile of maintaining the national roads (all macadamized) is given in Debauve's Manual for each of the eighty-seven departments. It varies from $80 to $300 per mile, with an average of $150, of which about half is for labor and half for materials. For maintaining less important roads the average cost per mile is as follows: Departmental roads, $135; important local roads, $92; ordinary local roads, $67; by-roads, $42. Good roads mean a great saving in horseflesh, in repairs to vehicles and in time. Perhaps Canada is not yet ready to adopt so thorough and effective a system as that which is maintained in thickly populated France, but this much might be done; repairs might be made more pulp, before the little hole becomes a big one. The "stitch-in-time-saves-nine" principle applies with full force to road maintenance."

WHAT KILLED KELLY?

A Sudden Death at Hamilton—Funeral of Father Lennon.

HAMILTON, Sept. 4.—The death of F. B. Kelly in a boarding house in Hughson-street north, at an early hour on Monday morning, presents features which make it of unusual interest. Mr. Kelly was a middle-aged English gentleman, affable and well liked, who came to Canada a number of years ago and settled at Ancaster in a comfortable residence called "Fairview." He lived there several years. One way and another Mr. Kelly lost what money he had—he had been very well-to-do—and domestic differences arose which resulted in the sale of the Ancaster property and the practical, if not formal, separation of husband and wife. For some time past Mrs. Kelly has been stopping at the American Hotel here. Through the summer Mr. Kelly has been at Grimsby Park and a fortnight since he came to Hamilton, taking up his quarters at the house of Mrs. Windesmersmer, 295 Hughson-street north, a few doors from Barton-street. Mr. Kelly has not been in the best of health since being there, though nothing serious appeared to be the matter with him. On Sunday night he retired about 10 o'clock, that was the last he was seen alive. At 4 o'clock on Monday afternoon the landlady became alarmed and entered his room. He was cold in death. The indications were that he had been dead for some time. The remains were interred yesterday afternoon. Dr. Malcolson gave a certificate of death from apoplexy, but the story is going the rounds that Kelly committed suicide.

The remains of the late Rev. Father James Lennon of Galt, formerly assistant priest at St. Mary's and St. Patrick's churches of this city, and of Dundas, arrived last night and were conveyed to St. Mary's Cathedral, where the funeral services took place this morning in the presence of a large assemblage.

Bishop Dowling returned last night from his trip to Ireland.

Frank Cavanagh, the runaway lad who fell into the hands of the police here about ten days ago, was this morning sentenced by the Police Magistrate to three years in Penetanguishene reformatory.

George Aikin, a young man employed by J. M. Lottridge, disappeared from his house, corner of Bay and Sheaffe-streets, on Sunday, and has not since been seen. He is 25 years old, five feet five inches in height, weighs 130 pounds, wears a small light mustache and is of fair complexion.

A meeting of the veterans in and around Hamilton has been called for next Saturday evening at the Gore Coffee Tavern. Steps will be taken to form an association here similar to the one in Toronto.

Weary, worn and discouraged,
Heartsick and hopeless and sad:
Longing for help and comfort
When none can be had,— describes the condition of those persons who are said to be "going down hill," or "going into a decline." There is an indescribable weakness of the system, a general lack of vitality. They cannot tell what the matter is with them. They only know that they feel miserable in mind and body. They are gloomy and despondent. They have this and that remedy prescribed by their friends or the doctors. They have failed to receive any benefit from them. They reach the conclusion that there is no help for them and that they must die. Now the fact is that the trouble originates, in nine cases out of ten, in impure blood. There is poisonous, effete matter in it that ought to be got rid of. But how can this be done? Simply by taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which acts on the blood and various organs of the body in such a way that the man or woman using it seems to be made over,—reconstructed. It is guaranteed to benefit or cure all cases of disease for which it is recommended, or money paid for it will be refunded. b

25 REASONS
FOR DRINKING ROYAL DANDELION
COFFEE

Some drink because they are hungry,
And some because they're dry,
Some drink to keep them in good health,
And some that they may thrive.

Some drink because they are too hot,
And some because they're too cold,
Some drink to strengthen them when young
And some when they are old.

Some drink to keep them wide awake,
And some that they may sleep,
Some drink because they merry are,
And some because they weep.

Some drink when they do money gain,
And some because of loss;
Some drink when they are pleased,
And some when they are cross.

Some drink when they are hard at work,
And some when they do play;
Some think it right to drink at night,
While others drink by day.

Some drink for sake of company,
While others drink on the sly;
And many drink but never think,
About the reason why.

Some say they drink for pleasure,
And some they drink for pain,
Some say 'tis good, some very bad,
But never once refrain.

Yet all mustown the proverb true:
"When iron's hot to strike it"—
I've just found out the reason why—
All drink because they like it!

in the western part of the Town, and offer it in lots as per plan annexed. This affords a splendid opportunity to secure a location for your home in a rapidly improving and in every respect the best part of the town. The properties are situated on Cedar and Hallen streets and within a stone's throw of the West Ward School and a short distance of the principal Churches and the Hamilton Cey. Works.

"ERIN COTTAGE," late the residence of Mr. Miles Thompson, is situated in the centre of the block. This property is for sale or can be had at a bargain. It is a desirable suburban residence.

The lots have good frontages on streets of the standard width and are splendidly located. From the upper lots is afforded one of the best views of the town with ample facilities for drainage.

Several fine dwellings are already contracted for to be built on these lots during this season.

Tradesmen and merchants should inspect this property as it offers the best sites available and convenient to the business part of the town.

ANOTHER CHICAGO INCIDENT.

Worshippers Drive Their Pastor From the Church During Mass

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—Trouble has broke out again among the members of Holy Trinity church in Noble-street. The church has been divided over the deed of the building being made to the Archbishop. When Father Kobrzynski started to speak some of the worshippers began to stamp the floor with their feet; others threw their rituals over their heads. In the midst of all this the pastor began to say mass.

When in the midst of mass, however, the worshippers left their seats and scrambled pell-mell over the sides of the inclosed pews. Father Kobrzynski, fearing mob violence, rushed from the altar and out through the parsonage way. He was secreted for several hours by personal friends, who feared the excited people would use him roughly if they laid hands on him. It is expected that the Archbishop will deal severely with the offending parishioners and further trouble is anticipated.

FIRES OF A DAY.

Gilmour & Co's. Shingle Mill at Trenton Goes up in Smoke.

TRENTON, Sept. 4.—About 3 o'clock this morning a fire broke out in the shingle mill of Gilmour & Co., which was completely destroyed. Loss about $20,000, insured for $13,000. The origin of the fire is a mystery. The mill had been partly shut down for some time.

URIAH, Cal., Sept. 4.—An incendiary fire at the Palace Hotel yesterday destroyed it, with the Wells-Fargo Express office, Western Union Telegraph office, Reed's Theatre and Oddfellows' Hall. Loss heavy.

BLUE SPRINGS, Neb., Sept. 4.—Two children of David Guys, while playing with matches in Mr. Andrews' barn yesterday, set fire to it and were burned to death.

Arrested for Conspiracy.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Mrs. Swinton and her son are under arrest, the prisoners are charged with conspiracy. At the request of Elihu Root, Attorney for Robert Ray, Hamilton Inspector Byrnes last week hunted up the history of the wife of the Murray Hill assembly man. The facts unearthed reveal the details of a conspiracy at the bottom is Mrs. Hamilton whose object was to force money from Hamilton and to become possessor of the family riches. The investigations of the detectives have proven her a disreputable character. The fact had also been established beyond doubt that the child which Mr. Hamilton believes he is the father of has not a drop of Hamilton blood in its body.

Joshua Mann says he met Mrs. Hamilton eight years ago in a disreputable house here. They have been living as man and wife on and off ever since. During the past year she has given him $3000 to live on.

An Opportune Snowfall.

HELENA, MONT., Sept. 3.—The forest fires which have been raging in the mountains for the last six weeks are now supposed to have been extinguished by the heavy rain and snow which fell last night. In the vicinity of Elliston snow four to six inches deep covers the ground. The fires raged fiercely Saturday and Sunday. Fifteen hundred people turned out at Elliston and other places to fight the fire.

He Stole His Old Mother's Savings.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Fourteen-year-old James Thatcher, of No. 234 East Fifty-ninth-street broke open his widowed mother's trunk Friday and stole $385, the amount of her savings for six years. Then he went off with two young companions, H. Whittock and Thomas Milligan, to "have a good time." After buying new suits of clothes and revolvers with some of the money, they went down the Bowtry to see some of its sights. Thatcher was found by the police in a low resort near Hester-street, deserted by his companions and with but five dollars in his pockets. He was held yesterday at the Yorkville Court.

A Ten-Mile Wave of Fire

LAC QUI PARLE, Minn., Sept. 2.—A prairie fire ten miles wide is sweeping the Minnesota bottom lands, and the town of Big Stone City is threatened. Hundreds of farmers have lost all their stock, and the fire, which was started two days ago by a party of hunters, is beyond control.

Takes the Differentials.

BOSTON, Sept 2.—The Fitchburg gives notice of $1 reduction in its passenger fares to Chicago via the Erie and Boston line, making the first-class rate Boston to Chicago $19. And $2 reduction via West Shore route, making the rate by that route $20. The Fitchburg thus takes the differentials it has long been claiming of $3 via the Erie and $2 by the way of the West Shore.

A Difference in Opinion

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 2.—Dr. T. W. Ferrie, a prominent physician, was found dead in his office yesterday. Some of his professional friends think he died from heart disease, others think he was murdered, and many are of the opinion, which is shared by the coroner, that he killed himself.

In English Only.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 2.—It announced by The Sun that the next issue of the Manitoba official Gazette will be printed in English only.

Ex-Provincial Secretaro Prendergast has left the Government buildings and is practicing law in Winnipeg.

The car of Manitoba exhibits left for Ontario to-night.

Funeral of Father Rousselot.

MONTREAL, Sept. 3.—The funeral rites of the late Father Rousselot at the Church of Notre Dame this morning were attended by at least 8000 people. Rev. Father Deguire, the deceased's successor as parish priest in St. James' Church, officiated at the requiem and Rev. Messrs. Pelletier and Guyot acted as deacons and subdeacons. Grand Vicaire Marechal presided over the 150 priests attending in the sanctuary.

C. P. R. Earnings.

MONTREAL, Sept 4.—The traffic earnings of the Canadian Pacific Railway from Aug. 25 to Aug. 31 were:

1889	$455,000
1888	372,000
Increase for 1889	$ 83,000

Above does not include earnings on the South-Eastern Railway.

"Five years ago I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and had been given up by my physicians. I began to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after using two bottles of this medicine, was completely cured."—Angs A. Lewis, Ricard, N.Y.

MILBURN'S AROMATIC QUININE WINE is distinctly superior to any other as an appetising tonic and fortifier. dw

The Appetite

May be increased, the Digestive organs strengthened, and the Bowels regulated, by taking Ayer's Pills. These Pills are purely vegetable in their composition. They contain neither calomel nor any other dangerous drug, and may be taken with perfect safety by persons of all ages.

I was a great sufferer from Dyspepsia and Constipation. I had no appetite, became greatly debilitated, and was constantly afflicted with Headache and Dizziness. I consulted our family doctor, who prescribed for me, at various times, without affording more than temporary relief. I finally commenced taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time my digestion and appetite my bowels were regulated, and, by the time I finished two boxes of these Pills my tendency to headaches had disappeared, and I became strong and well.—Darius M. Logan, Wilmington, Del.

IMPROVED

I was troubled, for over a year, with Loss of Appetite, and General Debility. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and, before finishing half a box of this medicine, my appetite and strength were restored. —C. O. Clark, Danbury, Conn.

Ayer's Pills are the best medicine known to me for regulating the bowels, and for all diseases caused by a disordered Stomach and Liver. I suffered for over three years with Headache, Indigestion, and Constipation. I had no appetite, and was weak and nervous most of the time.

BY USING

three boxes of Ayer's Pills, and, at the same time dieting myself, I was completely cured. My digestive organs are now in good order, and I am in perfect health.—Philip Lockwood, Topeka, Kans.

Ayer's Pills have benefited me wonderfully. For months I suffered from Indigestion and Headache, was restless at night, and had a bad taste in my mouth every morning. After taking one box of Ayer's Pills, all these troubles disappeared, my food digested well, and my sleep was refreshing.—Henry C. Hemenway, Rockport, Mass.

I was cured of the Piles by the use of Ayer's Pills. They not only relieved me of that painful disorder, but gave me increased vigor, and restored my health.—John Lazarus, St. John, N. B.

Frauds on Fall Exhibitions.

At every exhibition of the dozens that are to come off soon there will be scores of people defrauded—that is in their own estimation, their stuff should have had a prize and didn't get it. But there is no such disappointment to those who purchase their teas from the splendid and varied stock of Hawley Bros.' tea-store, where the finest stock is always kept at the lowest prices. Also fine coffee and fine glassware.

A New Novel by Justin McCarthy.

The EXAMINER has received from Mr. Wm. Bryce, publisher, Toronto, a new novel by that graceful writer Justin McCarthy, entitled "Roland Oliver." Any person who has read other works of fiction by this author will form some idea of the interest which attaches. Price 25 cents—to be had at the Peterborough Book Store.

SUPERIOR Tea, 5 lbs for $1, at M. R. KIDD'S.

Campers Supplies.

A large assortment of canned meats, fish, vegetables and fruit. Lowry's smoked and spiced meats. The finest brands of ginger ale's, sodas, lager's, ale's, wines, clarets, champagnes, in fact everything you need to be supplied with in camp. The largest stock in Peterborough and best assortment at the Palace Grocery, Elliott & Tierney, George street, Peterborough.

We Go One Better.

Other grocers are greatly excited about the prices of some of their goods. But Geo. Carton keeps quite cool, and goes one better every time. See the crashing value he is offering:—8½ lbs. R.os, for 25c. 8 bars of Electric Soap, for 25c. 8 lbs. of Tea, for $1. Push right through to Geo. Carton's red tea store, where you can carry away more goods for a $2 bill than you can get for $3 in other stores. Corner George and Charlotte streets. dw

From Lakefield to Lindsay.

An excursion per steamer Mary Ellen will be run from Lakefield to Lindsay on Monday and Tuesday September 9th and 10th. The steamer leaves Lakefield at 8 o'clock, and proceeds through the lake to Lindsay, stopping two hours at Bobcaygeon en route both going and returning. The steamer remaining over night, will leave Lindsay at 8 o'clock on Tuesday morning. This is a delightful trip and cheap also, the round trip tickets (good for two days) being placed at $1.00. dtf

PICKLING vinegar at M. R. KIDD'S.

A Lucky Victim.

Monday night a rural looking stranger who had imbibed too freely during the day, lay down in a fence corner at the show grounds to sleep. When he wakened up he found that all his money, some $4, had been stolen from his pocket and his boots removed from his feet. It was, no doubt, an unpleasant wakening, but this indiscreet countryman has reason to be thankful that he was victimized by such a considerate thief. His socks might have been stolen too.

Board of Trade.

There was no meeting of the Board of Trade held last night, only five members being present, viz., Mr. R. Innes, Vice-President; Mr. J. H. Burnham, Secretary; Messrs. W. H. Meldrum, J. Polly and Robt. Fair. Another meeting will be called next Tuesday evening, when the principal business will be the reception of the Secretary's report of the proceedings of the recent Merchants' Convention at Hamilton.

"Every Day Folk."

Is considered the best of all John R Clarke's lectures. It is entirely new and will be heard for the first time in Peterborough, on Monday evening next, in Charlotte street Methodist church. Hear what the American press says:—"What an avalanche of thought. How like an actor such as he has been, and yet how pleasing in spots; How full of information, oddly told and dotted with sparkles of wit; No other person on earth ever delivered a lecture like that." Proceeds for the piano fund. Refreshments at the Chemong Club Boat House.

Work on this structure on Solitaire Island, Chemong Lake, is progressing rapidly, and and building will be completed next week, when it is probable it will be taken possession of in some formal manner.

Missionary Entertainment.

The Young People's Association of the George street Methodist church purpose holding a missionary entertainment next Monday evening. The programme will consist of readings, recitations, addresses, etc., and music by the Y. M. C. A. band.

Sir John Can't be Here.

At Port Hope on Wednesday Sir John Macdonald was visited by Mayor Stevenson and asked, on behalf of the directors of the Central Exhibition, to formally open the exhibition on Sept. 25th. Sir John replied that owing to previous engagements he could not accept the invitation.

Too Much Whistle.

A subscriber complains of the excess of enterprise shown by the man who blows the whistle of Baptie's planing mills at 7 o'clock. His sleep is broken, and he as well as other persons in the vicinity are considerably disturbed. "Subscriber" advises the whistler to "pull it mild and shorten his pull besides."

Local Indignation.

The residents in the vicinity of the west ward school are highly indignant at the action of the town council on Monday night in refusing an electric light for this neighborhood. Their displeasure is all the greater because other parts of the town less important and less thickly populated are blazing with electric lights. It is probable that the matter will not be allowed to rest.

The New Route.

The Campbellford Herald says:—Work on the new route of the Grand Trunk Railway through Campbellford may be said to have commenced. A "pontoon" has been floated in the river to ascertain the formation of the bed for the construction of piers for the bridge. Mr. Somerville, the engineer, in company with Mr. Graham, came here on Monday last to purchase the right of way for the new track.

CHICAGO Electric Soap at M. R. KIDD'S, 6 bars for 25c.

Domestic Broils.

At the police court this morning a young man was charged with abusing his wife. He was discharged with a warning.

There was war in the Farley household again last night. "Jimmy" and his spouse had a "falling out," and a row ensued. Mrs. Farley appeared at the police station shortly after with an eye enveloped in deep morning. These family jars have become so frequent with the Farley's that no notice is taken of them by the police.

Had no License.

Mr. J. Trombly was before the magistrate Wednesday morning for running a refreshment stand without a license. It seems a number of townspeople on Tuesday, with a view to turning over a few dollars, started small lemonade stands on the route to the circus ground. They did not take out licenses, and a test case is to be made of Mr. Trombly's. The others will probably be dealt with as he is. The case was enlarged till Friday so that the town solicitor might be present.

Peterborough Protestant Home.

The committee of management of the Peterborough Protestant Home desire to acknowledge with thanks the following donations for August:—Meldrum, Davidson & Co., 100 lbs oatmeal; Mr. Greenhow, 6 boxes berries; Mrs. Hazlitt, chickens, pickles etc.; Miss Nicholls, black currant preserves; Mrs. Payton, jelly; A friend, oranges, cake, etc.; Miss Johnston, basket of apples and cakes; Mrs. Ranney, boots; Mrs. Batten, apples, oranges, preserves; Mrs. D. Moore, milk daily; Mr. Minore, biscuits weekly; 25 loaves of bread from the police station: Mr. Robert Fife, basket of apples and pail of blue plums; Mrs. Chas. McGill, basket of apples; Mr. G. Hodge, woollen scarf.

GEO. A. MORRISON

is leaving town for the States and offers for sale his beautiful brick residence with frame stable situated corner of Park and Weller streets 92 feet frontage. A desirable property for a retired farmer. Terms reasonable.

A Clever Girl.

Miss Mary S. Holden, of St. John's, Newfoundland, a cousin of Mr. John Canning, of town, is a clever girl. Though only sixteen years of age she is filling a position as governess and has won prizes in the literary field. The Montreal Witness, in order to encourage literary pursuits among young people, every year offers valuable prizes for competition, and Miss Holden has carried off the best of these, winning the school, county and provincial prizes, and lastly the Dominion prize for the best written short story. Her prize story was entitled "Adele," and it has been commended by the Marquis of Lorne, who was judge of the books, as one of rare merit. The Dominion prize was a $125 type-writer. The Witness will print "Adele" next week.

The New Line to the Ottawa.

The Toronto World says:—John C Bailey, C. E., has returned from surveying the country between Haliburton and Mattawa on the Ontawa river, a distance of some 100 miles, through which it is proposed to extend the Midland system. It is understood that Mr. Bailey's report will demonstrate the wonderful richness of this country in timber, arable land, lakes teeming with fish and woods abounding with game. The party was out 3 weeks and never had a day without seeing two or more moose and any number of deer. the lakes were full of trout. As for the timber, Mr. Bailey says it is away beyond his expectations, and will more than warrant the immediate construction of the line, which, according to his authority, will be a matter of very little difficulty, as he found an exceptionally good line from one end to the other. By the construction of this road Toronto will gain access to an entirely new and rich territory, any supplies for which now come in by the Ottawa.

The Cantonment.

The following officers of Peterborough Canton No. 10, Patriarchs Militant, were installed last night by Past Commandant A. McNeil, assisted by Chevalier W. Smith, A. A.G., and Aide-de-camp T. Workman:—

Captain	D H Moore
Lieutenant	Jos Mills
Ensign	A McFarlane
Accountant	W H Dayman
Clerk	W C Springer
Standard Bearer	J C Davidson

A communication was read from General Woodward, Commandant of the Atlantic division, extending the Peterborough Canton a special invitation to be their guests during the great Oddfellows' demonstration to be held at Binghampton, N.Y., Sept. 26 and 27. A committee was appointed to ascertain if a sufficient number of the Canton could avail themselves of the invitation to make a good showing, and if enough promised to go, to accept.

Labor Day.

The labor unions of the town do not intend to allow the season to pass without a due celebration of "Labor Day." It was intended to hold a big demonstration Sept. 3rd, but the affair fell through, and now the date has been fixed for Sept. 16th. The Mayor will be asked to make it a public holiday. The celebration will take the form of a pic-nic and gathering of workingmen. A joint committee of the Knight's of Labor and the Carpenters' and Bricklayers' Unions met in Labor Hall last night for the purpose of arranging for the pic nic. It was not decided whether it should take place at Peterborough, Hastings or Campbellford, but another meeting is to be held to-night, and the question will probably be settled. The Belleville workingmen have expressed a wish to co-operate with the Peterborough labor unions this year, and they prefer to come here. Anyway the pic-nic is sure to take place and Labor Day will Flower and Fruit Show and Promenade Concert.

The annual exhibition opened this afternoon in the Charlotte street skating rink. It is in all respects, but perhaps one, the best ever held. There is a gratifying increase in the number of entries, which, this year, amounts to over 500, more than a hundred in advance of last year, and about double those of two or three years ago. And the display of exhibits is magnificent, especially the flowers. The whole rear half of the rink is a bower of beauty and bloom, and perfume of thousands of flowers rises like incense in the air. No lover of flowers should miss this beautiful sight. The vegetables are also splendid both in extent and quality. The fruit is rather deficient in quantity but the quality is excellent. The fancy work and fine arts departments are very handsomely filled. The display of ladies' work is superb, extensive and varied. Everybody should attend the exhibition to night and witness the best display, by all odds, ever made under the auspices of the Society. In conjunction with to-night's exhibition, a promenade concert will be given, the Fire Brigade Band performing a fine programme of selections. Don't forget to visit the Rink to-night. Admission tickets, 10 cents.

The Port Hope Times publishes the following:—By a much more direct route than the heroes of the following adventure took to reach the scene of their exploit, comes the news of a rather funny thing that happened a few days ago to a couple of Peterborough citizens of note. A prominent furniture man of the town had a load of goods to deliver at Fraserville, and invited a friend, another well-known business man, to accompany him on the trip. To add more interest and pleasure to the elevated ride they were about to take into the country, the friend came well supplied with pipe and tobacco, and also a deadly shot-gun, with which latter he no doubt expected to slaughter a quantity of game before returning. But the gun was destined to play a very small part in the excitement of the day, the pipe and tobacco taking first place in the havoc that followed. After enjoying a good smoke, the friend laid his brier down on a mattress to cool off before placing it in his pocket, and the enjoyment of the situation was apparently so great that the pipe was entirely forgotten for the time being. It seemed to resent, however, the indignity offered it by the balmy southern breeze which caromed off the broad faces of the furniture man and his friend and struck it in the mouth, for it turned over, stood on its head and fairly burned with anger. The occupants of the caravan very soon became impressed with the idea that another rig was approaching from the rear owing to the noise in that direction, and on turning their heads they were more than surprised at what they beheld. The Myrtle Navy had got in its work so effectually that it seemed as if the whole back part of the load was ablaze. For a short time our heroes tumbled with the flames, and although the former conquered, it cannot be said they came out of the affair on top—at least not so much on top as before the combat. An inventory of the loss sustained disclosed the fact that the mattress on which lay the pipe and gun was a $7 wreck, while the murderous "weapon" that was to have annihilated the timid wild rabbit and sich, had the stock burned from it, and wasn't feeling exactly well itself. And the pipe—oh yes, the pipe—well, our excursionists on the way home took turns at a new clay and smoked in silence, thankful to have at last found a pipe of peace.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The monthly meeting of the Executive Committee was held Tuesday night; President G. M. Roger occupied the chair.

The general secretary read his report of the past two month's work, which was deemed very encouraging. Our young men's meetings and visits at the rooms have kept up well in attendance and interest, and the study of God's word is becoming an attractive power among our members, which is a sure sign of progress. The lecture committee have arranged for four "Star course" entertainments, which will include the celebrated Schubert Quartette, Chicago, Hon. G. R. Wendling and others of equal merit. Tickets for the course will be sold to subscribers at a very low figure, and if we get the encouragement the course merits we shall give our patrons a treat for the coming winter months. We propose giving one a month, on the first Tuesday of each month. We shall hold a members reception the third Tuesday. Practical talks will be given through the kindness of Mr. Bean. We are able to offer to our members' the great privilege of attending the evening classes in penmanship and arithmetic at the Business College. Mr. Seward has offered to teach a class in vocal music and classes in mechanical drawing, and "Help at Hand" will be formed if sufficient hand in their names to commence. We trust many of our young men will avail themselves of these valuable opportunities and unite with the Association at once. Any wishing to take up any or more of these classes will see the general secretary at once so we can commence work early in October.

With the help of our Ladies Auxiliary and other interested friends we purpose refurnishing and renovating our rooms and will make them very attractive and homelike for young men, where they can spend a pleasant evening free from all evil companions. We hope to be able to secure Bishop Baldwin, of London, for an anniversary in October.

We thank Miss Alberta White for cut flowers for the parlor.

Personal.

Mr. Jas. R. Roaf, barrister of Toronto, is in town on business to-day.

Mr. and Mrs. Losey, of Brantford, are in town for a few weeks, the guest of Mr. John McKee.

The Williams' Memorial.

A Big Day at Port Hope—The Monument Unveiled.

Yesterday the handsome monument to the memory of the late Col. Williams, Port Hope, was formally unveiled by Sir John Macdonald in the presence of a large concourse of people. All Canada, and the Midland district in particular, was interested in the ceremony of paying deserved tribute to the memory of such a brave and loyal man. The arrangements for the celebration were, however, rather imperfect. There appeared to be no system nor organization in connection with the whole affair, beginning with the invitations, and the smaller details regarding the unveiling of the monument seemed to have been altogether neglected. The result was confusion and some dissatisfaction.

The Peterborough representation, for reasons stated, was small. Mayor Stevenson, and Town Clerk Macdonald represented the civic interests, while the military contingent consisted of Col. Rogers, Capt. Brennan, Lieut. Mason and about 15 men of the 57th Batt; about 14 members of the Peterborough wing of the Durham Field Battery, under command of Lieut. Snyder; Lients. Kent and Strickland and Capt. Sutton, of the Third Cavalry; Capt. Birdsall of the 40th, and Capt. Howard, of Gatling gun fame. Other officers of the district were also present. The only Battalion representation was that of the 46th, Port Hope. Mayor Stevenson also took down the 57th Batt. band, paying all the expenses of the trip. Our band and the band of the 46th were the only two present.

Among those who attended the ceremony were Sir John Macdonald and Sir Adolph Caron, and Hamilton Macarthy, R.C.A., the sculptor. Mr. Macarthy has every reason to be proud of his work. The statue stands about 30 feet high, and shows the late Colonel in fatigue uniform, his head bare and his left hand resting on his hat, which hangs at his belt, while in the other hand is the uplifted sword. The pose is most natural and the likeness perfect. It is a splendid work of art.

The unveiling ceremony took place about eleven o'clock in the presence of five thousand people. Previous to this there was a short military parade. Sir John Macdonald performed the ceremony of unveiling the monument.

A full report of the proceedings appears in our telegraphic despatches.

After the ceremony the militia again paraded and disbanded for dinner, which was served in the drill shed.

The Peterborough contingent returned to town last night.

Young's Point.

From Our Own Correspondent.

VISITORS.—Our village was enlivened last week by the presence of Rev. Father Lynch accompanied by Rev. Father Brown, of Port Hope, and O'Connell, of Fenismore. These gentlemen were the guests of Mr. McFarlane, and not a day passed in which they did not succeed in capturing many of the finest bass taken from these waters this season. On Thursday, while one of these gentlemen was fishing from a pier above the dam he hooked a large bass, and in the struggle to land it became overbalanced and was precipitated into the swiftly running water. But for the timely assistance rendered by Mr. C. Young a serious accident might have occurred. As it was, however, he escaped with a wetting, and hauled in the fractious bass which turned the scale at five and a half pounds.

On Friday morning a party of six gentlemen from town arrived en route for Burleigh. They were persuaded to try their luck at the Point until dinner was served, and so successful were they that they decided to stay for the remainder of the day. In the afternoon they split up into two parties—one under the able guidance of Mr. T. E. Fitzgerald, the other being captained by their genial host, Mr. Wm. McFarlance. Both parties were about equally successful. The total catch amounting to 204 fine bass.

THE RIFLE.—Mr. P. P. Young, proprietor of the "Mary Ellen," made two very fine shots recently. The first to fall a victim to his unerring aim was a large fish hawk which was struck while flying at the height of about 400 yards, and which measured seven feet from tip to tip. The other was a chicken hawk which was laid low at a still great distance.

WEDDING BELLS.—On August 15th, a happy event took place in the English church at Lakefield, being the marriage of Mr. Manly Godfrey of this place, to Mary, daughter of the late William Young. The ceremony was performed by Rev Mr. Warren. About a week later the villagers were treated to another surprise when Mr. John Godfrey took unto himself a wife. The bride in this case was Miss Carrie Ross, formerly of Apsley. Rev. F. Johnston tied the knot in the Methodist church here. We beg to offer our congratulations and hope that the happy couples may long live to enjoy their wedded lives.

CROPS.—The farmers have almost finished harvesting, and the threshers have been busily engaged for the last few weeks, in order to make room for the unusually heavy crops. The yield will be above the average, but the grain is inferior in quality to last year's yield, owing in some degree to the wet season. Mr F. A. Kearney proudly exhibits a head of oats 22 inches in length. Another single head was plucked from the fields of Mr. A. Millar, on which was counted 900 kernels.

FOR THE WOODS.—A party of 27 stalwart woodsmen passed through this place on Monday, en route for the timber limits of the Dickson Company, with Geo. Long as foreman, and Archie Johnston, clerk. They were a sober and quiet lot of men, their conduct being a marked improvement on that of some who passed through here in previous years.

Omemee.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The farmers in this section are very nearly through harvesting and express themselves well pleased. It has been an unusually heavy harvest to save. The steam thrashers are taking the lead and a large demand is in store for their services.

A large number went from here to the circus in Peterborough.

Omemee Cricket club defeated the Millbrook club by an innings and 38 runs, on the grounds of the former last Friday. The attendance was large and the Millbrook club made themselves favorites here. T. Stephenson, of Omemee, carried his bat, making 34 runs.

The Presbyterians are making great preparations to have their new church opened here on or about 15th October.

Mr. Arnoott, formerly of Lakefield, has opened up a store, tinware and housefurnishing business, and promises to do well.

Flour and Wheat.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 4.—The Northwestern Miller says: The aggregate flour output for the week ending Aug. 31, was 133,380 barrels, against 16,200 the previous week and 102,100 for the corresponding week of last year. The figures for last week are the largest since the middle of November. The proportion of new wheat used in the mills runs from 25 to 100 per cent., the average being about one-half. It is said the new wheat makes a better flour than the old. The flour market is still comparatively inactive and comes short of the expectation of manufacturers. Prices are somewhat lower, patents being quoted mostly at $4.60 to $4.75. The foreign demand has fallen off and in light, ocean rates continuing high. The exports last week were 48,230 barrels, against 31,240 the preceding week, but part of this was on back sales.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

VOL. IX. NO. 57. PETERBOROUGH, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1889. PRICE TWO CENTS

A STAGE STRUCK GIRL

MR. JUSTICE FERGUSON'S DAUGHTER DISAPPEARS.

The Latest Society Sensation in Toronto—Four Alleged Wife Beaters in Col. Denison's Court.

TORONTO, Sept. 6.—Mr. Justice Ferguson's 13-year-old daughter Fanny has always been her father's pet and a favorite of the whole household. Intense consternation in the handsome family residence at Wilton-avenue and Sherbourne-street yesterday morning when it was learned that Miss Ferguson had disappeared, leaving nothing but a note saying that she would not return and that she had run away to go on the stage. For many months past Miss Ferguson has been under the glamour of the footlights and of the green room; in short, she has been stage struck, and has frequently avowed her determination to adopt the life of an actress. This idea was strenuously opposed by her parents and friends, who at the same time always laughed at the notion when she alluded to it. Their efforts, however, were unavailing as the occurrence of yesterday has proven. No clue to her whereabouts could be found until yesterday, when it was learned that the young lady was staying with friends at Buffalo. Mr. Justice Ferguson left for the Bison City yesterday and will probably return with his wayward daughter to-day. The Vice-Chancellor was not present at Osgoode Hall yesterday when his court opened, and as it was known that he was not in well there was a good deal of speculation as to His Lordship's absence. About this time he was in close consultation with Chief Detective Stark concerning his daughter's nocturnal flight.

"Professor" John Williams, a fakir from Montreal, was arrested yesterday at Union Station by Detectives Burrows and Slemin on suspicion of being a crook. In the package he carried was found a wheel of fortune. The "Professor" had come to Toronto to operate at the exhibition. He was liberated on the condition that he leave the city.

Detective Davis arrested "Gus" Burns as a vagrant yesterday and took him to Police Headquarters. He was permitted to go on condition that he keeps away from Toronto during the fair.

Henry Parry, sr., who was arrested on Wednesday charged with being concerned in the abortion performed on Mrs. Sarah Elliott, appeared in the Police Court yesterday. He was defended by Mr. N. Gordon Burelow, who elected to have the prisoner tried by a jury. The two charges against him are, first that he caused oil of cloves to be administered to Mrs. Elliott in order to bring about a miscarriage, and secondly that he used instruments with the same object. The crown was not ready to proceed and the prisoner was remanded until the 9th inst.

In conversation with Inspector Stark last night that officer stated that in his opinion Parry was implicated in the case. A deposition from the woman herself would be of most value in sifting the matter out.

Mrs. Elliott still lies at the Hospital in a precarious condition. At midnight, however, hopes of her recovery were held out.

Col. Denison's court continues to be the trial scene of innumerable wife-beaters. Yesterday there were four of them before His Worship. Joseph Maderow got his case left over till to-day. John Whalen of 111 Terauley-street, charged with brutally thrashing his wife and her baby, got 30 days in jail, which the Magistrate reduced to 20 days at the request of the outraged wife. James Merriam of 36 Lippincott-street, who was charged with slapping his wife's face, was discharged. William Johnson of 11 Trafalgar-avenue also got off.

William H. Dean, the young typo arrested in Newmarket Wednesday under the Charlton Act, charged with seducing and abducting 15-year old Marion Atkinson, was in the Police Court yesterday and plead not guilty. He asked for a jury trial. The Magistrate postponed the case until Monday and fixed Dean's bail at two sureties of $300 each.

The Charlton Act has been pretty freely taken advantage of in Toronto since its passage three years ago. This Act makes it a penitentiary offence (two years or less) for any person to seduce or attempt to seduce a girl of instinctly chaste character between the ages of 12 and 16 years. This is the section under which Dean was arrested.

The Atlantic City Sensation.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The midwife who gave the baby known as Beatrice Hamilton to Mrs. Swinton and Eva to be palmed off on Mr. Hamilton as his own offspring was taken to Atlantic City to-day, where they identified both the baby and Mrs. Hamilton. The midwife's name is kept secret. Joshua Mann stated to-day that during the four or five years he and Eva had lived together he had never been absent from her more than two or three days at a time. During that time she had never been in a delicate condition. The child in question was born some time between November and January last and Mann swears positively no such event occurred within that period. Inspector Byrnes said he had no evidence that the conspirators proposed to get rid of Hamilton to secure his property.

Natalie Warned Away From Belgrade.

BELGRADE, Sept. 5.—The regents have warned Ex-Queen Natalie not to attempt to carry out her scheme of establishing a residence here as a private person.

The betting is 3 to 2 in favor of Searle.

$300,000 Wanidn't Buy It.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—J. J. Coogan to-day offered $300,000 for the New York base ball franchise. President Day refused the offer.

Beaverton Wins the Pennant.

NORWOOD, Sept. 5.—The last lacrosse match in the Eastern District championship series between the Riverside Lacrosse Club of Peterboro and the Norwoods was to have been played here to-day, but did not come off owing to the form.r not putting in an appearance, thus giving the game to Norwood by default. This practically ends lacrosse here for the season, Beaverton winning the pennant, having won 8 and lost 0, Norwood being second with 5 won and 1 lost.

Hanley Knocks out Farrell.

BUFFALO, Sept. 5.—The Hanley-Farrell fight for $200, Queensberry rules, so have taken place a week ago, but which was prevented by the sheriff, was fought at 1 o'clock this afternoon at Checktowaga before about forty of Buffalo's swell sporting fraternity. Hanley stripped at 134 pounds and Farrell at 136. There were but two rounds fought and the duration of the fight was 5½ minutes. Farrell was knocked senseless in the second round and failed to come to time.

Fatal Dynamite Explosion.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 5.—Captain R Ross, in charge of Government Jety work at St. John's bar, has been for several days blowing up the submerged wreck of the Dutch brig Neva which has for years obstructed the channel off Mayport. He had in his employ a lighter commanded by C. Moore with a crew of 12 men. Two of the men, R. T. Moore, son of the Captain, and G. Powell, colored, were soldering a 25-pound can of dynamite to-day when it exploded and blew both men to atoms. Only one toe of Moore was found.

West Lambton Conservatives Choice.

BRIGDEN, Sept. 5.—The Liberal-Conservatives convention to select a candidate to contest West Lambton for the Ontario Assembly was held here to-day and Robert Fleck, ex-reeve of Moore, was unanimously chosen as the candidate.

Safe Blowers Make a Haul

OTTAWA, Sept. 5.—The store of D. J. McIntosh, St. Justine de Newton, on the Canada Atlantic railway, was broken into this morning. The safe was blown open and considerable cash and valuable papers extracted. There is no clue.

MONTAGUE V. COLTER.

Another Batch of Evidence and Argument in the Haldimand Election Trial

CAYUGA, Sept. 5.—The first business to occupy the attention of the court in the Haldimand election trial to-day was the resumption of the charge in which James Haslitt was accused of giving Henry Brydges $5 for the purpose of enabling him to go to Petrolia before election day, and thus excluding him from voting. Dalton McCarthy, Q.C., addressed his lordship, reviewing the case and arguing that he could not, as a judge of facts, take any other view than that the money had been paid, and that it was paid for the purpose indicated in the charge. A. B. Aylesworth, counsel for the respondent, argued contra that there was no evidence to substantiate the charge that the money had been given with any corrupt intent. Moreover, he contested the claim that James Has itt was any agent in the matter or in any way culpable, and cited various instances from the evidence, ingeniously put, in support of his assertion. He also denied the assumption that Haslitt could be classed as an agent of the respondent, as he was merely a scrutineer on the day of polling.

Mr. McCarthy, in reply, scouted the idea of his learned friend that because Brydges had sufficient money to make his visit without the $5 there was no ground for the assumption of corrupt practice. There was no doubt the money had been given, and that it had been given by the brother of the man who had offered it. As to his agency Haslitt was an active Reformer, so on this occasion he was selected as a scrutineer—an all important position for securing the outside vote. He claimed that the fact of Haslitt having attended committee meetings, independent of his holding the above offices, constituted him an agent. His lordship reserved judgment on the charge.

The charge which was postponed at a previous sitting of the court and which accuses William Mowatt of giving Timothy Wardell a sum of money and of driving him away so that he could not record his vote, was then gone into. Evidence was taken from Wardell, Absalom Kendrick and others relative to this charge and was still in progress when the court adjourned until 1.30 p.m.

At the afternoon session several witnesses were examined at length upon charges Nos. 69, 19 and 132, and upon the conclusion of the evidence it was decided, owing to the lateness of the hour, to defer further argument until to-morrow, and in the meantime charge No. 14 was proceeded with. Mr. J S. Patterson and Dr. Campbell were examined in reference to this charge and the evidence was unfinished when the court adjourned until to-morrow morning.

THE IRISH WON'T GO.

The I. C. B. U. Decide to Retain the "First Letter of Their Name"—Officers Elected.

KINGSTON, Sept. 5.—The I. C. B. U. of American stock to business last night, and to-day committees were ordered on credentials, constitution, resolutions and auditing. The Executive Committee's report showed that the premium badges offered by the president at the last convention, one for the organizer who organized the most branches during the year, and another for the society that made the largest increase in membership, were won by Angus McDonald of Toronto and the Toledo Union respectively.

The secretary's report showed that since the Columbus convention seven new societies had been formed and fourteen were disbanded, while thirteen had not reported. There are 182 in existence, two new ones were instituted in Canada. The societies of the union paid for sick and funeral relief from July, 1888, to July, 1889, $66,103.

The appointment of honorary organizers was then entered into. The Toronto societies chose Angus McDonald of No. 451 and Kingston appointed W. P. Kinsley.

Archbishop Cleary reached home this afternoon and tendered a reception to the delegates in the Palace at 6.30 p.m. These officers of the union for the ensuing year have been elected:

President—Hon. M. Gleeman, Norfolk, Va.
First Vice-President—J. J. Behan, Kingston.
Second Vice-President—Thos. McHarland, Philadelphia. Secretary—Martin J. J. Griffin, Philadelphia.
Treasurer—Rev. F. C. O'Leary, St. Louis, Mo.
Executive Committee—Branigan, Worcester, Mass.; P. E. Walsh, jr., Columbus, O.; W. Drafton, Richmond, Va.

The amendment to strike out the word "Irish" from the society's name was unanimously defeated.

NEWS OF THE OLD WORLD.

MR CHAPLIN MADE SECRETARY FOR AGRICULTURE.

With a Seat in the Imperial Cabinet—The Dockmen's Strike—Bismarck's Inflamed Veins—The War Cloud.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—There was a slight break in the ranks of the employers this morning. Five wharfingers agreed to the men's terms, and upon their wharves work went on to the full capacity. At the other wharves men congregated in large numbers ready to go to work at a moment's notice, the wharfingers being also, it is reported, ready to make term with the strikers.

The dock Companies have again called upon the police to protect the men at work. The ship owners made another appeal for permission to unload ships themselves and met with a refusal. It is estimated that 2000 men are now at work on the wharves.

Burns in a speech to the dockmen to-day predicting success of the strike announced that the demands now made were by no means final and that when the dock companies were beaten it would not be a question of sixpence an hour for ordinary day work and eightpence an hour for over time but of sevenpence and ninepence respectively.

An attempt which was made to organize a general strike of builders, engineers and other mechanics in South London has collapsed.

Sir Donald Currie has announced his intention to ask Parliment to deal with the privileges of dock proprietors and shipowners and settle disputed rights regarding the unloading of vessels.

The overtures made for a resumption of work in the Milwall and Commerce docks proved fruitless. The Bishop of London conferred with Burns on the subject of mediation.

Steelworkers Demand an Advance.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Five thousand steel workers in Wales threaten to strike. They demand an advance of 10 per cent. in wages.

A New Cabinet Minister.

PARIS, Sept. 5.—Shocks of earthquake were felt to-day throughout Western France. The oscillations were especially strong at Angers and Nantes. No damage was done.

THE G. O. M. INTERVIEWED.

What He Thinks About the Proposed Irish Catholic University.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—A reporter had a most interesting conversation with Gladstone, immediately before his departure for Paris, on the proposed Catholic university. Gladstone was in high spirits and very outspoken He feared nothing and ridiculed the idea of Balfour's tentative suggestion that the endowment of the Catholic university would endanger the Liberal alliance with the Home Rulers. He had read and sympathized with Davitt's protest against the scheme but believed it would die before it was born. He recalled the Earl of Carnarvon's suggestion to Mr. Parnell and Lord Mayo's announcement in 1868 that Disraeli's Government would grant a charter and endowment to a Catholic university. He recalled a speech he made in reply to Lord Mayo, quoting with a characteristic particularity the very pages in Hansard where the passages could be found in which he declared that all such schemes were dead before they were born. The demand of the Irish bishops for absolute control of the university endowed by the imperial funds couldn't, he thought, be tolerated for a moment by the English nonconformists, who constitute a great bulk of the Liberal party. The nonconformists would never agree to that. They would, however, raise no objections to a Home Rule scheme which allowed the Irish to endow their own university with their own funds on their own responsibility.

Gladstone evidently thinks that Home Rule capital can be made out of the Balfour suggestion. He is confident that nonconformist and Protestant prejudice will render a Catholic endowment impossible. The ministerial recognition of the need for a Catholic university will lend another argument to the case for Home Rule, which is an indispensable sine qua non.

Gladstone considers himself bound hand and foot by his declarations against Lord Mayo, and he urged that Balfour should be invited to show his hand and come out into the open. The Irish members, he said, had been rather precipitate, but would ultimately prove themselves very reasonable.

Against Balfour's Scheme.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Mr. Badenock, D.G.C., of Orangemen of England, has issued a manifesto inviting Orangemen throughout the kingdom to unite in opposing Balfour's scheme for establishing a Catholic university in Ireland.

THE WAR CLOUD.

Austrian Arms Imported Into Bulgaria—100,000 Rifles Ordered for Turkey.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Crete is becoming quiet. There are now only 3000 insurgents under arms. The director of the Danube Shipping Co. asserts Austrian arms are being largely imported into Bulgaria and that the Austrian army instructors are also arriving.

Ordered 100,000 Repeating Rifles.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—The Turkish Ministry of War has ordered 100,000 Mauser repeating rifles to be ready in a month for distribution among troops.

It Would Mean War

VIENNA, Sept. 5.—The News Freie Presse says: Should the Czarewitch visit Paris the whole world would believe Europe was on the eve of a general war.

Boulanger Demands Trial by Court-Martial.

PARIS, Sept. 5.—General Boulanger has written to Prime Minister Tirard, claiming the right to be tried by court-martial, and pledging himself to appear before such tribunal. The refusal of a trial by court-martial, the General says, will be equivalent to an admission on the part of the Government that it fears the impartiality of a military court. In the event of a refusal the general says he will submit himself to the judgment of the people at the polls.

LOTS OF NO. 1 HARD.

The Wheat Crop of the Great Northwest Safely Harvested.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 5.—The wheat crop of the great Northwest has been safely harvested. Reports received here from various sections indicate that it will all grade No. 1 hard. Farmers and business men are happy and confident on account of the large yield and excellent quality of the grain. There are 70 elevators in course of construction in Manitoba alone.

Escaped From the Penitentiary

MONTREAL, Sept. 5.—Warden Ouimet of the St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary came to this city to-day to notify the police that a prisoner had escaped. His name is James Adams of Cayuga, N.Y., and three years ago he was sentenced to 10 years for burglary at St. Johns, Que. He was at work outside the walls during the day and managed to secrete himself. He had previously placed a dummy figure in the bed of his cell, so that he was not missed when the prisoners were counted.

Cottons Go Up.

MONTREAL, Sept. 4.—The Canada Cotton Company has issued a circular to the bondholders to the effect that the old 7 per cent bonds which matures on Oct. 1 will be redeemed on that day.

THE LABOR CONGRESS.

A LONG SERIES OF RESOLUTIONS PASSED AT MONTREAL.

Labor M. P. Lepine, Censured for Lack of Interest, Says He is not Responsible to Walking Delegates.

MONTREAL, Sept. 5.—The Labor Congress resumed its sitting this morning. Three resolutions were carried:

That the Government establish offices where workingmen out of employment could go and enquire to obtain employment.

That in conformity with the principle of equity the laborer should have a first lein to the extent of his wages on all his labor creates irrespective of ownership.

That in the opinion of this congress the interests of female workers require that female inspectors of factories and workshops should be appointed by the government, and that in order that the duties of such female inspectors when appointed shall not be performed in a merely perfunctory manner the wishes of the various labor bodies should be consulted in making such appointments.

That whenever tenders are called for by either federal or provincial governments or by any municipality for the building of any public work or the performance of any public service, workmen will be employed belonging to a trade or calling in which there is a usual and commonly recognized scale of wages, none shall be allowed to tender who have at any time during the previous twelve months paid less than the standard rate of wages in such trade or calling.

That this congress approves of the use of union labels, and hereby recommends to the subordinate bodies represented to see that such labels are on all manufactured goods which they may purchase, and in which calling labels are in use by labor.

That as the violation of any law with impunity tends to bring the government into disrepute and to make our judiciary system ridiculous, this Congress demands the appointment of one or more officers in each judicial district, whose duty it would be to prosecute all parties violating or evading any law either local or federate.

This congress calls upon the Quebec Legislature to enact a law for the protection of working men in the port of Quebec and Levis, that all proprietors of floating booms be compelled to keep such booms in proper order so as to prevent accidents and that the wharves be kept in good order, and that all persons neglecting such means of prevention shall be held liable for compensation in case of accident.

That this congress petition the Provincial Governments, to pass stringent Employers' Liabilities Acts.

That in the opinion of this congress the provincial governments should take steps to establish printing offices in which all legal government printing and the publication of school books should be done.

That the Provincial Governments be asked to what extent the allowance now enjoyed by the transfer and colleges to the public schools for the purpose of further promoting their efficiency and providing the pupils of such schools with books free of charge.

Mr. Carey was re-elected president, Mr. Lafontaine was elected vice-president, and Mr. Dower was re-elected secretary-treasurer. A. T. Lepine, M. P., was severely taken to task for the lack of interest he displayed during the last session of Parliament but he replied he was answerable to the electors of Montreal and not to travelling delegates.

Legitime in New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Ex-President Legitime of Hayti arrived here to-day.

In an interview he said: "My people called me and I came: They deposed me and I left—not because I was compelled to but to avoid further bloodshed, On Saturday I shall go to France, where I will remain a short time. I may return to Hayti as a private citizen or I may go to Cienfuegos and establish myself in business." Legitime is accompanied by his wife and children.

Good Evening!

"Had any photos taken yet?"
"No."
"Why don't you? Everybody is taking advantage of the present low prices."
"Oh, well, you don't get good pictures for a dollar a dozen."
"Yes you do. Just look at this one! What better would you want than that?"
"That is good. Who took it?"
"Mr. Sproule. I got a dozen just as good as that for a dollar."
"Why, that's as well taken as the cabinets they used to charge us $3.00 a dozen for."
"Every bit. Oh, Mr. Sproule has woke up he town. You see his new instruments are so perfect that one sitting is all that he requires from you now, so that he makes them ever so much quicker.

THE EXHIBITION.

We are sure the officials of the Peterborough and Ashburnham Horticultural Society have reason to be greatly gratified by the success of their annual exhibition, held on Thursday afternoon and evening. And we are sure the public who are interested in floriculture and horticulture were equally pleased with the splendid exhibit which rewarded their visit. The attendance indicated the growth of public interest in these subjects. Year by year there is pleasant evidence that this interest increases. Persons who have been known as destitute of interest in the objects of the Society, or at the least, indifferent, have gradually become interested and then enthusiastic. One gratifying feature is the increased interest taken by amateurs, and the splendid exhibits of collections of flowers by amateurs shows what results can be accomplished with care and attention. The success of these should incite others. Many persons who cultivate flowers and vegetables are deterred from exhibiting by the fear that they would not take a respectable position; but this fear is unwarranted; there is no collection of flowers, however humble, but contains specimens that would be a credit to the exhibitors, if placed on display. Besides, there is much to be learned by becoming an exhibitor. The very fact of being a competitor develops a more active interest and opportunities of comparison are presented; shortcomings are thus emphasized and valuable hints are gained which tend to give more successful results in the succeeding year's operations. The society deserves great credit for the perseverance it has shown in the face of no little discouragement. For years the society was merely struggling for an existence, but it has now overcome that stage and its standing and progress are assured. At first it had only its internal resources to depend upon; no external support or encouragement, worth mentioning came to its assistance. Now, however, public sympathy has been enlisted and, backed by this sentiment, and personal public encouragement, the society is flourishing. The public are beginning to see that the scope of the society is not confined to a mere exhibition; it has broader objects—to stimulate popular culture, to refine the public taste, to encourage the study of the beautiful and by general enlistment of the popular sympathy to add to the beauty and attractiveness of the town. How successful the society has been in the development of a taste for floriculture is shown by the fact, that whereas a few years ago, one greenhouse had a precarious struggle for existence, the town now gives patronage to two greenhouses taxing, their combined capacities to the utmost, so that annual additions to their capacity is rendered imperative. The culture of flowers, both house and garden, has become general and the Horticultural Society is chiefly chargeable with responsibility for so desirable a condition of things. For several years the Society has been gaining strength. Every year has added to the intensity of the crescendo movement and the last exhibition was the best ever given under its auspices. In some departments the exhibits were more extensive, while in others, where this condition did not obtain, there was a decided improvement in quality. Taking it altogether the exhibition was a great success and, we trust, only an earnest of greater things to come. The directorate cannot but regard the success last achieved as an incentive to persevere in the course they have so persistently and successfully pursued.

Four billion five hundred and eighty million gallons of beer and ale are consumed annually in Europe, according to the Jewish Messenger. Less of this is consumed in England than on the continent. Germany alone consumes 1,128,000,000, while Austria-Hungary makes way with 354,000,000 gallons. In Bosnia and Roumania the amount consumed per head yearly is little more than a quart, while in Bavaria 65½ gallons are consumed yearly on the average by every man, woman and child in the country.

The Philadelphia Record speaks words of soberness and truth when it says:—It is the "protected" wool growers who find that sheep husbandry doesn't pay. It is the "protected" woollen manufacturers who are trembling on the edge of insolvency. It is the "protected" coal-miners who are starving on the Illinois prairies. The unprotected industries thrive. They are not embarrassed by the excesses that spring from coddling. They are dependent upon individual exertion applied to natural resources and opportunities.

A Ridiculous Question.

"Do you enjoy good health?" asked Brown of his friend Jones. The reply of Jones was short, sharp and to the point. "Why of course I do, what fool doesn't?" Everyone enjoys good health when he has it. But some people do not have it to enjoy. Sick headache, biliousness, constipation, deranged liver, and a host of ills, real and imaginary, are their heritage. Thousands of persons are and prevent these distressing complaints by taking Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative [illegible] sugar-coated and easy to

THE DYING POPE.

Father Phelan Says His Holiness Looks a Hundred Years Old.

St. Louis, Sept. 3.—The Rev. D. S. Phelan, editor of The Western Watchman, the Catholic paper published in this city, is traveling in Europe. Father Phelan sends to his paper an account of an audience he had with the Pope. He thus describes the Pope:

"What struck me most forcibly was his very great apparent age and feeble mess. He fairly looked 100 years old if he looked a day. His face is almost inhumanly white. He looked too old and gone to impress one only as a relic might impress. I was very much struck and disappointed. I had hoped to see a stirring face and an eye full of life and fire. Leo had both once, but they are now gone. When I knelt at his feet his look was very feeble and paternal. I noticed the play of his features as he spoke, for there was not enough life in that blessed face to dazzle. The Pope has a full set of pearly white teeth, well preserved. His lips are heavy and very purple, in striking contrast to the white face. The holy father drawls very heavily when he speaks, but seems able to conduct a conversation without any fatigue.

"After about a quarter of an hour of a very one-sided conversation, for the holy father talks almost without ceasing, I introduced my traveling companion, for whom I had obtained the honor, informing his Holiness that he was a Protestant, but very well disposed to the church. He immediately reached out his hand and bade him advance. He took his hand in his and placed the other on his head and blessed him. He turned to me and asked me if he had any children, evidently intending to bless them also. When I answered in the negative he repeated his first benediction and bade us both depart with his blessing on us and ours. I left feeling that I had spoken to the greatest man of this century, and one of the greatest popes who ever occupied the chair of Peter, but a man ready to close his eyes forever. We may have a few more fitful flashes from that once great light, but it must soon go out forever.

THE FIRES OF A DAY.

The Tannery at Tiverton Burnt With All Its Contents—A $30,000 Loss.

Tiverton, Sept. 5.—About 2.30 this morning a fire was discovered in the tannery. A strong wind blowing at the time and the fire having gained considerable headway nothing could be done to save the main building, which was destroyed with all the contents. The fire is supposed to have originated from the smoke stack. Loss about $30,000, partly insured.

SPLENDID BUILDING SITES

I have placed on the market
That Desirable and Well Situated Property

in the western part of the Town, and offer it in lots as per plan annexed. This affords a splendid opportunity to secure a location for your house in a rapidly improving and in every respect the best part of the town. The properties are situated on Cedar and Hatton streets and within a stone's throw of the West Ward School and a short distance of the principal Churches and the Hamilton Co'y. Works.

"ERIN COTTAGE," late the residence of Mr. Elias Thompson, is situated in the centre of the block. This property is for sale or can be had at a bargain. It is a desirable suburban residence.

The lots have good frontages on streets of the standard width and are splendidly located. From the upper lots is afforded one of the best views of the town with ample facilities for drainage.

Several fine dwellings are already contracted for to be built on these lots during this season.

Tradesmen and merchants should inspect this property as it offers the best sites available and convenient to the business part of the town.

A Widow's Misfortune - Diopers Brought Back as Prisoners - A Baseball Roller

TORONTO, Sept. 5.—Henry Parry, carpenter, English, 52 years of age, was brought into headquarters last night by Acting Detective Watson on a warrant charging him with having committed a criminal operation on Sarah Elliott, a widow at present lying dying in the General Hospital from its effects. Mrs Elliott was the wife of Watchman Wm. Elliott, who up to the day of his death some three years ago guarded the block of stores running easterly on the south side of King-street between Yonge and Church-streets.

On his death the widow removed to a small store across the Don, Parry being her landlord, and having been a member of the Orange and Masonic bodies these societies contributed in She had a family of small children, and her husband degree to their support. The story goes that Mrs. Elliott got behind hand in her rent, and her landlord allowed her to live rent free as his mistress. The woman was removed to the Hospital about a month ago suffering from the results of the operation. Her condition becoming serious the authorities were informed, and she was closely questioned. While confessing the fact that she had made a false step she stoutly denied that anyone except herself was to blame in the matter, alleging that whatever had been done was done by herself. Acting-detective Watson, under orders from Inspector Stark, however, was detailed to work up the case, with the result that the woman's alleged paramour was arrested last night as above stated as the one who performed the operation. Parry, who is a leading light in church circles over the Don, was badly shaken up by his arrest, but refused to speak about his case.

Meanwhile Mrs. Elliott's condition is precarious, and she may die at any moment. At an early hour this morning she was still alive, and although the hospital authorities could hold out no hopes of her recovery it was believed that there might be a slight chance, a very slight one, of her ultimate recovery.

Hebrew circles in Queen-street west have been excited for the past week over the alleged elopement of pretty Mrs. Lena Cohen, wife of Mr. Jacob Cohen, doing business on that thoroughfare, with Louis Levi, a seller of flash jewelry at fall fairs and country gatherings. The couple were traced to Detroit, and yesterday Mr. Cohen proceeded to the Plankinton House in that city and found his wife, whom he took back to his bosom and Toronto.

William H. Dean, a young printer, was arrested in Newmarket yesterday afternoon, charged with the abduction and seduction under promise of marriage of Marian E. Atkinson, a girl under the age of 18. The prosecution is under the Charlton Act and Staff Inspector Archibold has the case in hand. Dean, while hard up and friendless, it is alleged, was taken into the Atkinson household in Oliford-street more out of charity than anything else, and he repaid the kindness accorded him in the above fashion.

The couple were captured in a hotel in Newmarket and resented the interference of the law very determinedly. They were brought down to Toronto last night, and showed much decided desire to escape that the officer had nothing for it but to handcuff them together. Arrived at Police Headquarters the girl for a long time refused to go home, saying she preferred to remain where she was. Dean was taken down stairs to a cell and after the matron had talked to the girl for a short time she consented to go back to her parents.

Charles Walters, a recently imported English sport with great baseball proclivities, has taken out a summons against William McPherson, a director of the Toronto Baseball Association, for assault. It is charged that Walters while talking to a friend in the grand stand was struck in the jaw by McPherson who slanged him with batting. The dispute will be heard to-morrow.

The Supreme Court, I. O. F., met again yesterday morning in Temperance Hall. A discussion arose as to whether ladies should be received as members and it was decided to refuse them admittance. During the session a deputation was received from the City Council, consisting of the Mayor, Ald. Hodds and Roath, who welcomed the courtiers to the city.

The afternoon's session was devoted to making changes in the constitution. The chief of these was that the bonds of the secretary and the treasurer were fixed at $10,000.

The election of officers took place in the evening and resulted:

S. C. R.—Dr. Oronhyatekha, Toronto.
S. P. C. R.—E. Botterell, Ottawa.
S. V. R.—William Griffith, Hamilton.
S. Sec.—John A. McGillivray, Uxbridge.
S. Treas.—T. G. Lawer, London.
S. Phys.—Thomas Millman, M.D., Toronto.
S. Coun.—F. W. Emerson, Petitcodiac, N.B.
Auditors—T. Lawless, Hamilton, and B. W. Greer, London.
Medical Board.—Drs. Oronhyatekha and Thomas Millman.

The report of the Committee on the State of the Order was made, which was a resume of the Supreme Secretary's report.

SHELBURNE, Sept. 4—Twelve thousand dollars of 5 per cent. waterworks debentures were sold to-day to R. I. Hann, manager of the Bank of Hamilton, Orangeville, at 106.

SUICIDE AT THE FALLS.

An Unknown Woman Plunges into the River and is Swept over the Precipice.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Sept. 5.—A most determined suicide took place here this morning. About 9 o'clock two ladies were sitting in a summer-house on the American side just above the Falls. Suddenly the younger of the two jumped up, walked to the edge of the bank, threw her parasol into the river and then plunged in herself. Strangely enough she floated face upwards to the brink of the falls, then turning her face to the horrified spectators she sank and was carried far down the river. The woman was not known by any one standing by. She was about 22 years old, had red hair and wore dark cloth s. The body has not been recovered yet.

It Wasn't Vitriol.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 5.—The charge against J. T. Diamond, D. G. M. of the True Blues, of being accessory to an assault upon J. T. Howe on Aug. 11 was resumed to-day in the Police Court. Henry Canning, the principal in the affair, swore that the stuff was mahogany stain and that he did not tell Diamond what he intended to do. Judgment was reserved until to-morrow. Canning pleaded guilty to damaging Howe's clothing to an amount of less than $20. Sentence will be pronounced to-morrow.

Two beautiful black bass were hooked at Sharbot Lake yesterday by John Lynes of New York. One weighed 5 lbs 2 oz., the ther 6 lbs. 2 oz.

Belleville News.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 4.—Rev. W. H. Anderson of Beachburg and Miss Jeannette Glass of this city were married at St. Thomas' Church this morning, Rev. J. W. Burke officiating.

Albert College opening has been postponed until Sept. 12.

A party of American anglers captured 80 pounds of pik- and 22 fine bass in Mosquite Bay yesterday.

"Five years ago I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and had been given up by my physicians. I began to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after using two bottles of this medicine, was completely cured."—Angs A. Lewis, Ricard, N.Y.

Dame Experience

Has convinced many that to use any of the substitutes offered for the only sure pop and painless corn cure is attended with danger. Get always and use none other than Putnams Painless Corn Extractor, at druggists. 6d w35

IF YOUR WATCH OR CLOCK needs repairing take it to Wyatt's jewellery store. d

"It goes right to the spot," said an old gentleman, who found great benefit in Ayer's Sarsaparilla. He was right. Derangements of the stomach, liver, and kidneys are more speedily remedied by this medicine than by any other. It reaches the trouble directly.

The Loss of the Hair

Is a great misfortune and the sight of a bald head should be a warning to you to take the best possible care of your hair. A little of Dr. Dorenwend's "Hair Magic" used occasionally will prevent all chances of its falling out or turning gray, and will remove all traces of dandruff. Every druggist has it in stock. Ask for it. dw

The Oklahoma Boom

FORMS an instance of a wild rush for an uncertainty, which is just the opposite of the steady boom enjoyed by Burdock Blood Bitters. Buyers of this medicine get a certainty—an unequalled remedy for all diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels, kidneys and the blood. 2w34d

The Four Cardinal Points

The stomach, the liver, the bowels and the blood are the four cardinal points of health. These Burdock Blood Bitters acts upon to strengthen, regulate, cleanse and purify, thus restoring and maintaining perfect health. B. B. B. is nature's true tonic and enovator. 2w34d

Timely Wisdom.

TIMELY wisdom is shown by those who keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry on hand. It has no equal for cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhoea, dysentery, colic, cramps and all summer complaints or looseness of the bowels. 2w34

TO THE DEAF.—A person cured of deafness and noises in the head of 23 years' standing by a simple remedy, will send a description of it FREE to any person who applies to NICHOLSON, 30 St. John street, Montreal.

Indigestion can be effectually cured by the use of Dyer's Quinine and Iron Wine, this admirable tonic is invaluable in cases of appetite and general debility. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal. 6d53

MILBURN'S AROMATIC QUININE WINE is distinctly superior to any other as an appetising tonic and fortifier. dw

The Appetite

May be increased, the Digestive organs strengthened, and the Bowels regulated, by taking Ayer's Pills. These Pills are purely vegetable in their composition. They contain neither calomel nor any other dangerous drug, and may be taken with perfect safety by persons of all ages.

I was a great sufferer from Dyspepsia and Constipation. I had no appetite, became greatly debilitated, and was constantly afflicted with Headache and Dizziness. I consulted our family doctor, who prescribed for me, at various times, without affording more than temporary relief. I finally commenced taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time my digestion and appetite my bowels were regulated, and, by the time I finished two boxes of these Pills my tendency to headaches had disappeared, and I became strong and well.—Darius M. Logan, Wilmington, Del.

IMPROVED

I was troubled, for over a year, with Loss of Appetite, and General Debility. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and, before finishing half a box of this medicine, my appetite and strength were restored. —C. O. Clark, Danbury, Conn.

Ayer's Pills are the best medicine known to me for regulating the bowels, and for all diseases caused by a disordered Stomach and Liver. I suffered for over three years with Headache, Indigestion, and Constipation. I had no appetite, and was weak and nervous most of the time.

BY USING

three boxes of Ayer's Pills, and, at the same time dieting myself, I was completely cured. My digestive organs are now in good order, and I am in perfect health.—Philip Lockwood, Topeka, Kans.

Ayer's Pills have benefited me wonderfully. For months I suffered from Indigestion and Headache, was restless at night, and had a bad taste in my mouth every morning. After taking one box of Ayer's Pills, all these troubles disappeared, my food digested well, and my sleep was refreshing.—Henry C. Hemmeway, Rockport, Mass.

I was cured of the Piles by the use of Ayer's Pills. They not only relieved me of that painful disorder, but gave me increased vigor, and restored my health.—John Lazarus, St. John, N. B.

We Go One Better.

Other grocers are greatly excited about the prices of some of their goods. But Geo. Carlton keeps quite cool, and goes one better every time. See the crashing value he is offering:—8½ lbs. Rice, for 25c. 8 bars of Electric Soap, for 25c. 8 lbs. of Tea, for $1. Push right through to Geo. Carlton's red tea store, where you can carry away more goods for a $2 bill than you can get for $3 in other stores. Corner George and Charlotte streets. dw

To-morrow's Ball Game.

To-morrow afternoon the Peterborough and Markham baseball teams will meet on the diamond on the P.A.A.A. grounds. The Markham club accompanies an excursion from that town on Saturday, and it is fully expected there will be a big crowd on board. The visitors are reported to have one of the strongest amateur nines in the province, and a good game may be expected. Game will be called at 2:30 sharp, as the Markham men have to leave the grounds at half past four.

From Lakefield to Lindsay.

An excursion per steamer Mary Ellen will be run from Lakefield to Lindsay on Monday and Tuesday September 9th and 10th. The steamer leaves Lakefield at 8 o'clock, and proceeds through the lakes to Lindsay, stopping two hours at Bobcaygeon en route both going and returning. The steamer remaining over night, will leave Lindsay at 8 o'clock on Tuesday morning. This is a delightful trip and cheap also, the round trip tickets (good for two days) being placed at $1 00. dtf

Harvest Home Festival.

The members of the Smith Line church intend holding a harvest home festival, on Thursday, September 12th, at 2:30 o'clock, p.m. A special sermon will be preached by Rev. Ira B. Smith, Toronto, Secretary Mission Board. Tea will be served from 5 to 7. At 7:30 o'clock p.m. addresses will be delivered by Rev. Messrs Ira Smith, of Toronto; P. C. Parker, Peterborough; W. Peer, Norwood; D. S. Houck, Bridgenorth; R. Baldwin, Bellaboon and T. J. Bennett, Lakefield. Choice music will be furnished by the choir and Y.M.C.A. Band, Peterborough. Proceeds in aid of the building fund. Admission tickets 25 cents.

CHICAGO Electric Soap at M. R. KIDD'S, 6 bars for 25c.

A Band Question

The members of the Citizen's Band are making arrangements to go camping out for a week or more early in September, and they intend to take their instruments and a lot of new music, which they will no doubt be able to play perfectly by the time they return.—Fenelon Falls Gazette. A splendid idea and one which might be followed by the members of the band here. A trip of this nature to Stony Lake at the height of the camping season, apart from being enjoyable, might be made a success financially. Keep it in view for next year boys!—Norwood Register. This looks like a conspiracy to get the band boys to do their practising out of town. Of course it would be a tremendous relief to the people, but then think of the good fishing that would be spoiled in the neighborhood of the band boys camp.

The Burleigh Falls Hotel for Sale.

Mrs. Holmes, Burleigh, is in town to-day, making arrangements for the sale of the Burleigh Falls hotel, she having decided leaving Burleigh. The situation, size, and eminent suitability of this place for a summer resort hotel are well known, and parties desiring to embark in the business in a large comfortable and well-equipped hotel, cheapest possession on reasonable terms. See advertisement in another column.

Range and Rifle.

The Peterborough contingent of riflemen at the D. R. A. matches in Ottawa, have returned home, with the exception of Mr. W. A. Mason, who shoots in the Governor-Generals' match to-day. He is one of the 60 best shots of the Dominion from whom are to be selected the Wimbledon team for next year. The Peterborough riflemen did some good shooting, carrying off some fifteen prizes, a record not equalled by any other battalion there represented. Mr. Mason returns to-morrow. On the result of to-day's shooting the Wimbledon team is chosen.

A Determined Runaway.

A sister of Mrs. Jos. Robertson, Stewart street, was seriously injured in a runaway accident last evening. The young lady lives in Emily and was delivering butter at Mr. R. R. Hamilton's restaurant. The horse took fright and started to run away. The buggy was upset and the young woman dragged under it for a considerable distance before the animal was stopped. The buggy was righted, and a young man undertook to drive her home, when the horse again bolted and upset the buggy, throwing her out again adding other injuries, fortunately not of a dangerous character. The young lady was taken to her sisters' residence.

Bible Class Excursion.

The Bible classes of St. John and the Mission Sunday schools had a very pleasant excursion to Faucher's Point yesterday. The young men of the Bible classes chartered the steamer Golden Eye and the young ladies were their guests. A very pleasant sail down the river; owing to the rain tea was taken on the steamer. On the return trip there were songs and choruses and general enjoyment. After landing the excursionists concluded the day by singing, God Save the Queen, and the Doxology. Rev. Messrs. Davidson and Kenrick accompanied the party.

An Unfounded Rumor.

For some time past a rumor has been steadily growing in circulation, to the effect that Holly Lasher, a young man who left Peterborough about three years ago, was languishing in Sing Sing prison at New York, where he was sent for life on a charge of murdering a girl. The young man was well know in town, and his friends were anxious to learn the truth of the matter. The EXAMINER has been asked to state that the rumor is entirely without foundation, as a letter was received from him by a young man in town only the other day. Holly Lasher is working in Detroit and getting along nicely. He would no doubt be surprised and pained to learn of the report about him in Peterborough.

Cheap Excursion.

A harvest home dinner will be held in the beautiful grove at Reaboro station (6 miles this side of Lindsay) on Wednesday next, Sept 11th. Tickets from Peterborough and return, 55 cents. A first class programme has been prepared, which will be given from an elevated platform in the afternoon. Music by brass octette, and a choir of fifty voices with band accompaniment; also addresses will be delivered by the Revs. C. H. Marsh, H. Thomas and Dr. Williams. Dinner will be served in the grove from 12 to 2 o'clock. Tickets, dinner included, 25c. Rev. Geo. W. Dewey, who is so very popular in Peterborough, has arranged for the above excursion, and no doubt would be glad to have a great many of his friends present. 2eod

The Late Mrs. Wrighton.

Maria J. Haselwood, relict of the Late W. H. Wrighton, died at her residence, 45 McDonel street, yesterday, at an advanced age. The deceased lady has been a resident of Peterborough for over forty years. She was born in England, and after her marriage to her late husband, removed with him to Demarara, West Indies. After a few years they came to Peterborough, in 1836. The late Mr. Wrighton was appointed clerk of the Peace and Deputy Clerk of the Crown at the time the court house was built, and held the position till his death, which occurred 34 years ago. He was also engaged on the side of the loyalists in the rebellion of '37, acting as paymaster. The late Mrs. Wrighton was the last of a family of seven children. The ones to immediately precede her to the grave were Major Haselwood, who died after long service in India, and Capt. Nathan Haselwood, of the navy. A sister, Mrs. Fredrick Ferguson, died in Peterborough, some time ago, and the mother of the deceased, who came to this country after her husband's death, died in Ashburnham about 15 years ago. The late Mrs. Wrighton leaves a considerable family and large circles of relatives and friends to mourn her loss. The family is composed of one son and two daughters—Mr. W. H. Wrighton, produce merchant, Mrs. R. W. Grubbe, and Miss Wrighton, all living in Peterborough. Deceased lady was a staunch member of the church of England, and died as she had lived, firm in the faith and ready to meet her Master. Her end was peaceful in the extreme. The silver cord was gently loosed and she passed quietly away to the reward of the righteous.

The funeral takes place Saturday afternoon at 3:30 to Little Lake Cemetery.

Police Court.

FRIDAY, Sept. 6.

The adjourned case against John Tremblay, charged with keeping a refreshment stand circus day without a license, came up again this morning. Mr. E. B. Edwards, town solicitor, conducted the prosecution. The magistrate said he thought the present case did not come within the by-law, as the "victualling houses" and "places for the reception, refreshment and entertainment of the public," referred to in the by-law, did not include street stands. Mr. Edwards argued that as a large number of keepers of eating and refreshment houses paid their licenses it would be unreasonable to allow their rights to be infringed upon by others. The magistrate took this view of the case also, and administered a fine of $2.

"WALK UP THE CREEK"

"Long Billy" Bateman, of Otonabee dubbed "walk up the creek" by the boys, was arrested last night by the Chief. He was very drunk, and when placed in the cells a bottle of whiskey was taken from him. Billy didn't tell the police he had another full flask hidden in his coat, and after being locked up had a big time all to himself. This morning he was drunk as ever, a few drops only remaining in the two-quart bottle with which he had wrestled all night. "Billy" cut quite a figure in court. He is a long, lanky individual with a face like an Egyptian mummy, and hands and feet that he appears at a loss what to do with. When the charge was read to him, Bill replied, "naw, I ain't guilty: I didn't kill no one." When the magistrate asked him if he was drunk, he said, "well, guess I'm 'bout half 'n half." He was fined $2, and as he left the court for the cells below he stammered, "I won't pay nuthin." He didn't, and now he is serving 10 days in gaol.

Peterborough Private School.

MR. EWARD DUFF, PRINCIPAL.

It might be inferred from a statement which appeared in Wednesday's papers that a candidate, sent from this school for matriculation, had failed, it may be well to state that no one was sent from this institution for any examination except Miss Amy Bennett, of Springville, who wrote on several subjects for Queen's College, Kingston. Information has been received from the College to the effect that Miss Bennett passed in all the subjects on which she wrote, viz:—History, Geography, Mathematics and French.

FRUITS AND FLOWERS.

The Best Exhibition of the Series.

Magnificent Display of Flowers, Both Growing and Gathered—Splendid Collection of Vegetables—Ladies' Work Very Creditably Represented — A Large Attendance of Visitors.

Thursday afternoon and evening the Annual Exhibition of the Peterborough and Ashburnham Agricultural Society was held in the Charlotte street skating rink, and, it is a pleasure to record, was a most gratifying success in every respect—number of entries—beauty and extent of display and attendance of the public. The entries were over five hundred, something like a hundred in excess of last year. Many persons expressed the opinion that the rink was two large for the purpose—that the exhibits would be lost in an ocean of space, but the visitor was delighted to see the entire floor space occupied, and at times in the evening when the visitors thronged the exhibition hall, even the lack of space was felt. In the afternoon the judges performed their rather difficult duties, for the extent of exhibits made competition very keen in many articles. The exhibits of flowers was simply magnificent in every way—cut flowers, especially, showing up in splendid form. A better display could not reasonably be expected. Of course the professional florists made a large part of its display but several amateurs were competitors not to be despised. There were several private collections of great extent and merit, a fact which shows what great results can be accomplished in flower growing within the range of the capacity afforded by an ordinary private residence. The splendid exhibits of amateurs indicates that the object of the society—extending and intensifying, the popular taste for the culture of flowers is being speedily reached.

The display of vegetables, as was to be expected from the phenomenal growth of the season, was extensive and the quality very high.

Fruits were not equal in excellence to the other exhibits the season in some respects not being favorable. There were, however, some very fine specimens.

Ladies' work was very creditably represented. The quantity shown was not very large, a fact much owing, no doubt, to the elision from the prize list of antiquated form of ladies work and substituting the more modern kinds

In fine arts there was a somewhat limited display, but there was a gratifying improvement in the quality of the exhibits. There was also a pleasing absence of the more excruciating kinds of daubs.

In the evening the spacious hall was thronged with visitors. The management had made excellent arrangements for good views of the several exhibits—they were well placed and the light was all that could be desired. The band of the Fire Brigade occupied the gallery and at frequent intervals lent the charm of music to the other attractions of the exhibition. Below is given the—

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The Ladies' Auxiliary held their monthly meeting yesterday and planned for the furnishing of the parlor. They have decided to hold a garden party on Tuesday evening, 17th inst. Final arrangements will be made at an adjourned meeting to be held on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Our young men are going to show their appreciation of the interest taken for their welfare by seating the large hall with chairs. It was Mr. W. Green, Dublin street, who so kindly re-lettered and frosted the windows in our hall, and he and Mr. W. Maunder have this week painted the floor and woodwork of the reading room. Mr. George Burley has roped the windows in the hall and parlor. For all these kind tokens of interest we return sincere thanks. We shall soon have the cosiest quarters in town when all our furnishing is done. We do thank God and take courage.

Personal.

Rev. P. C. Parker and Mr. C. B. Routley were out shooting yesterday and bagged a nice lot of game.

Mr. John Wood, village clerk, Ashburnham, returned home last night from a three weeks visit to Bruce county, where he spent his pleasant days on the banks of the romantic Saugeen. Mr. Wood had a delightful visit.

Mr. Fred Cocks, who took the first prize for penmanship for boy under 15 years, is a pupil of the Peterborough Business College, and his success is a good criterion of the excellence of the instruction in penmanship.

Block B.

The adjourned sale of these lots will be held on Wednesday next at 3 p.m., on the ground.

The lots on Romaine street will be offered by public auction at 5 p.m., on Saturday night on the ground.

Mr. Flavelle's lot at the creek, Dalhousie street, opposite C. P. R. station, will be offered by public auction, on Saturday night at 5 p.m. Terms easy.

Brought Home for Burial.

The body of John V. Henry, who died recently at Cleveland, was brought to town on the C.P.R. noon train to-day for interment in the Roman Catholic Cemetery. Deceased was about 18 years of age and left town a few years ago. His parents lived here until a short time ago, when they moved to Toronto. The young man's death was caused by fever.

Choice, Fresh and Cheap.

Another supply of choice, fresh and cheap groceries, provisions, etc., with a few special lines of teas at unusually low prices now being received and offered for sale at R. H. Green's grocery and provision store, corner Hunter and Aylmer streets, Peterborough. Also fresh butter and eggs, with apples, potatoes and other farmers' produce always on hand, which will be sold at the lowest market prices and delivered to any part of the town. tufw

VOL. IX NO. 58. PETERBOROUGH, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1889. PRICE TWO CENTS

THREE HUNDRED KILLED.

TERRIBLE DYNAMITE EXPLOSION AT ANTWERP.

Over 1,000 Injured—The Victims Mostly Factory Girls—Terrible Scenes at the Hospitals—An Extensive Conflagration.

ANTWERP, Sept. 6.—Dynamite exploded today in a cartridge factory in the vicinity of the bourse, killing 300 persons and doing much damage to property. Portions of the bourse were struck by burning fragments and set on fire, causing a panic in that building, which was at the time crowded.

The cartridge factory was situated behind the docks, upon which millions of cartridges were being loaded. It was adjacent to the petroleum stores and two large Russian petroleum warehouses were set on fire. Police, gendarmes and troops are assisting in the work of extinguishing the flames, while priests and sisters of charity are looking after the injured. The city is enveloped in a dense smoke.

Eighty thousand barrels of oil are burning. Several soldiers have received injuries.

The explosion occurred in a workshop where old cartridges were being taken to pieces. Men and women were actively at work breaking them up and 25,000,000 had been partly broken.

The fire at 7 p.m., covered two acres. The flames shot up to an immense height. Amid the roar of flames there was a continuous succession of loud reports, supposed to be from the ignition and explosion of packets of cartridges. Beyond the Russian tanks and Nobel's sheds numerous houses were burnt.

The number of deaths will probably reach 200. About 500 persons were injured. The loss will be many million francs. It will be impossible to extinguish the flames in less than 24 hours. Several vessels have been burned. Owing to the intense heat the firemen were unable to approach nearer than 100 yards of the flames.

The explosion occurred in the Corvilean cartridge factory. The establishment had been condemned by the Communal Council but the Deputation Permanente had allowed work to continue.

The victims are mostly factory girls. Windows three miles distant were shattered by the explosion.

MIDNIGHT.—The latest estimate is that there are 300 dead and 1000 injured.

The explosions continue. At the American docks all the ships have been saved owing to the favorable direction of the wind. The stained windows of the Cathedral are smashed and it is feared the steeple will collapse.

The whole vicinity is strewn with debris. The dock sheds and hydraulic cranes are greatly damaged.

Soldiers and a large number of citizens are assisting the firemen.

The scenes at the hospitals are heart rending.

King Leopold has sent a telegram expressing sympathy and asking for particulars.

The people are incensed at the Deputation Permanente for allowing work to continue in the cartridge factory.

GHOSTLY FIRE FIENDS

They Drive a Family Terror-Stricken From Their Homes.

FINDLAY, O., Sept. 6.—Six miles northwest of this city and two miles east of McComb, on the road leading from that village to Findlay, is a farm house from which the family have been driven by a series of fires as strange as they were unaccountable. The house was occupied by Samuel Miller and family. The trouble began last week, Wednesday, when a bed in one of the upper rooms caught fire, and in a few moments was completely consumed, without the flames communicating with a single other object in the apartment.

No one had been in the chamber since morning and there was no fire or light from which the bed could have caught. There was nothing left of the bed and its belongings but a little heap of ashes, but the floor where the piece of furniture stood was not even scorched. The next day, at about the same hour, a chest of clothing in another part of the house from the bedroom was discovered to be in flames, and despite all efforts to extinguish the fire the chest was soon a pile of ashes. Not another thing in the room was injured.

Friday afternoon at the usual hour the spirit of the fire fiend took possession of another bedroom and destroyed a bed and bedding as quickly and completely as on the occasion of its first visit, and with as little damage to the surroundings. This was too much for the Miller family, and they began preparations to remove Monday to other quarters, but Saturday afternoon a dress hanging in a closet full of clothing was burned in the same mysterious manner as the two beds and the chest, and not even the smell of smoke left upon the other garments.

This decided the Millers upon an immediate removal, and bright and early Sunday morning they vacated the fire-haunted premises, which have since been in the hands of the spirit incendiaries and the curious multitude which this strange story has drawn to the spot.

A SMART YOUNG WOMAN.

Miss Pier Argues a Case Before the Wisconsin Supreme Court.

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 6.—The first lady who ever argued a case before the Supreme Court of Wisconsin made an argument this week in the person of Miss Kate L. Pier of Milwaukee, a beautiful young brunette with magnificent raven hair, which hung in a prodigious braid to within a foot of the floor. Her opponent was John J. Sutton of Columbus, one of the biggest and gruffest lawyers in the State, but who on this occasion wore a singularly subdued mien. The case argued involves several hundred dollars and a decision in it was reserved. Miss Pier graduated from the law department of Wisconsin University a year ago. Both her mother and father are lawyers, and the trio practice together in Milwaukee. Another girl in the family is now studying for the bar. The argument created much interest, the court-room being crowded.

A G. T. R. Brakeman Killed

GUELPH, Sept. 6.—David Von Valkenberg, a G. T. R. brakeman from Point Edward, was found dead at the G. T. R. Dublin-street crossing at daylight this morning. It is supposed he fell between the cars of a freight train going east about 4 or 5 o'clock. One arm and his head were almost severed from the body.

A Maybrick Case in Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kas., Sept. 6.—Thirteen years ago Mrs. Henrietta Cook was convicted of the murder of her husband, by poison, and sent to prison for life. Recently it became known that Cook was addicted to the use of arsenic. The governor has been investigating the cause and is of the opinion that the woman is innocent. Yesterday he issued an unconditional pardon to her.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—A gang of dockmen yesterday attacked the third officer of the steamer Clan Graham, kicked him until he was insensible and then rifled his pockets. The outrage was committed out of revenge, the vessel having been loaded by Lascars.

Lord Randolph Churchill, speaking at Newtown, said that the strike was the natural outcome of the excesses into which employers had fallen in the effort to extract an undue amount of labor and an inadequate rate of wages.

It is confidently expected that the dock directors will concede the terms of the ship owners to-morrow.

The Clergy Warned.

PARIS, Sept. 6.—M. Thevenet, Minister of Justice, has sent a circular to the bishops of France reminding them that the clergy are prohibited by law from taking part in the elections. The circular says the government will unhesitatingly and vigorously proceed against ecclesiastics who may overstep the lines enjoined under all governments since the concordat. Thevenet has instructed public prosecutors to take measures to punish severely the commission by the clergy of offences against the common law.

For a Year Only.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Sept. 6.—The Legislative Assembly has approved the continuance for one year of the San Francisco mail contract.

Will Sack the General

PARIS, Sept. 6.—The Temps says the Government will not reply to Gen. Boulanger's demand for a trial by court martial.

HALDIMAND, WHOSE HALDIMAND?

A Lot of Evidence About a Bogus Telegram—An Octogenarian's Story.

CAYUGA, Aug. 6.—The fourth day's proceedings in the Haldimand protested election trial opened at 9.30 this morning. The consideration of charge 14, relating to the sending of a bogus telegram, was continued, the examination of Daniel McMullen, the telegraph operator at Caledonia, who received the message, being resumed. Witness explained to petitioner's counsel the various marks on the telegram and swore that the mark purporting to be the initial of the sender at Simcoe was authentic to the best of his belief. On his oath he had known nothing at the time of the trick that had been played. He went to the office a little after that morning. They kept two books, one of which was called the day book. In it a record was shown of the receipting of the telegram, but not on the day it was received, being entered a day or two later. His check book was then examined, in which every office sent to or received from must be marked. In entering the bogus telegram a mistake was noticed in the calculation. His brother John, who assisted in the office, received word to destroy the message the same day, and communicated the same to witness, who knew by that the message was a bogus one. His hours were from 7 in the morning until 8 at night. Through carelessness they seldom numbered the messages received; they are copied and filed and so kept for the whole month, when they are entered into the day-book according to the dates on which they were received. At the time he entered the messages for the thirtieth he did not enter this bogus message because he wished to see his brother before doing so. The message alleged to have been received early in the morning from Jarvis for Hines, the witness swore, did not actually arrive at the early hour stated. He couldn't explain the strange coincidence that the Simcoe office was also doing business before office hours that morning. His own opinion was that the bogus letter came from Jarvis. Hines, the receiver of the first message from Jarvis, was a Reformer, as was also witness and his father. Hines was an active partisan. Couldn't say whether the message had been concocted between Hines in Caledonia and his brother Dan in Jarvis.

Cross-examination revealed nothing of a very material nature.

Re-direct, by petitioner's counsel: His brother John was now in Colorado. Had started there within the past three weeks for his health. Witness never heard of an error sheet having been received at Simcoe in connection with the message.

Peter McMullen, father of the last witness, sworn: Had heard about the telegram. Was the responsible telegraph agent at Caledonia. He had heard of the message the same night by Patterson coming to the office and demanding a copy of the telegram. Took no means to ascertain the origin of the telegram. Had no excuse to offer for so doing. Knew nothing of his son John receiving a message to destroy the bogus message. Witness, notwithstanding being agent in charge, was not an operator, but left the management of the office and the books to his two sons. His son had told him about the telegram. Had no idea where the telegram came from.

Petitioner's counsel hereupon asked for an order from the court for the attendance of E. E. Haines, Daniel Haines and the telegraph operator at Jarvis, which was granted. Pending their appearance this charge was held over.

Charge 64 was to the effect that Wm. Best of Cayuga and Patrick McMullen of Oneida falsely told E. Walsh that his daughter was dying and induced him to absent himself at the polling place on election day and was taken up next.

E. Walsh, an old man of eighty, narrated that he had been induced to visit his daughter early on the morning of election day, with the understanding that he was to be brought back in time to record his vote. But his son-in-law, Patrick McMullen, who came for him, failed to carry out the latter part of his program. The charge was dropped by petitioner's counsel.

The Court arose at 10.40 this evening to sit at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, Saturday at 2 p.m.

DR. ANDERSON'S PATIENT.

A Sudden Death at Millgrove—An Inquest Ordered on Barrister Kelly.

HAMILTON, Sept. 6.—Coroner White and a jury began an inquest this afternoon into the death of John B. Kelly, the English barrister who was found dead in bed on Monday. The body of the deceased will be exhumed and taken to the morgue, where an autopsy will be held.

Clara Sovereign, 13 years old, who resided in this city with her widowed mother, went to visit friends in Millgrove on Saturday last. On Tuesday morning she complained of cramps in her stomach, attributing the cause to some plums she had eaten. On Wednesday morning she was suffering slightly and Dr. Anderson of Millgrove was sent for. He attended her all through that day. Shortly after 10 o'clock at night she died. Until within a few minutes before her death there was no apparent change in her condition. Dr. Anderson had not thought her seriously ill. It is more than probable that nothing would have been thought of it had it not been that the girl had been a patient of Dr. Anderson. Unfortunately for the doctor, a couple of years ago two children named Nicholson died unexpectedly while under his care, and the circumstances were such that an inquest was held on them. At that inquest it was shown that the children had died through poisonous medicine administered by Dr. Anderson. Clara's relatives were averse to holding an inquest and her funeral took place this afternoon. There is great excitement in the village over the occurrence.

The police commissioners yesterday decided to raise the salaries of the force as follows:

Third class, first three years, $1.40 per day.
Second class, three to seven years, $1.75 per day.
First class, after seven years, $1.85 per day.
Patrol sergeants, $2 per day.
Detectives, for first three years, $800 a year. After three years, $850.
Sergeants, for first three years, $800. After three years, $850.
Sergeant-major, $1100, and his present house rent free.

This schedule will come into effect on Oct. 1.

At a meeting of the free library board last evening, tenders for the new library building were opened. The lowest tender amounted to $23,287 and as this was $11,702 more than the sum granted by the City Council for this purpose, it was decided to ask the City Council to grant a larger sum for the erection of the library building.

Believed to be a Binghamton Girl.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Sept. 6.—The young woman who suicided at Niagara Falls yesterday morning is believed to be Annie Mead of this city. Miss Mead left her home at 32 South Water-street, Wednesday morning, at 9 o'clock, ostensibly to take a walk. That was the last time she was seen by her parents. The description of the suicide tallies with that of the missing girl.

Owing to the rise in raw cottons the mills have issued circulars to the trade announcing a rise of from 1-8 to 1-4 cent per yard.

Close of the I. C. B. U. Convention.

KINGSTON, Sept. 6.—At midnight the I.C.B.U. Convention concluded. St. Louis was named as the meeting place in August, 1890. A resolution pledging aid and support to Parnell was passed. Archbishop Cleary delivered an address.

Burglary at Oshawa.

OSHAWA, Sept. 6.—Burglars entered the store of Hillyard & Co. here last night or early this morning and stole a quantity of dry goods, boots and shoes and other articles. No arrests have been made yet.

WAS IT DR. CRONIN'S BLOOD

THE PETITION PRESENTED BY COUGHLIN'S ATTORNEY.

An Examination of the Articles in Possession of the State by Experts Chosen by the Defendant Demanded.

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—In the Cronin murder case this morning William S. Forest, attorney for Daniel Coughlin, presented this petition:

Your petitioner, William S. Forrest, respectfully represents to this honorable court that he is one of the counsel for the defence in the above entitled case; that he is credibly informed that on the trial of this case the prosecution will claim, and will introduce evidence tending to support said claim:

1. That blood stains were found on the floor and the walls of the cottage adjacent to the 4th day of May, A.D. 1889, that blood stains were also found on certain articles of furniture in said cottage, and that said blood stains were not on said floor and walls of said cottage prior to said 4th day of May; and also that certain pieces of cotton batting were found in said cottage subsequent to the 4th day of May, 1889, containing blood stains.

2. That in the trunk which was found on the Evanston-road on the 5th day of May, 1889, and which has been referred to in other petitions and affidavits filed in this case on behalf of the defendants, there was found considerable cotton batting, which it is claimed was stained with blood, and that there were also found blood stains on different portions of said trunk.

3. That in the catch-basin where the supposed remains of Dr. Cronin were found there was discovered at or about the same time of the discovery of his said supposed remains certain cotton batting and a certain towel, which said cotton batting and towel, it is claimed by the prosecution, were stained with blood.

Your petitioner further represents to this honorable court that he is credibly informed that certain specimens of the blood stains on the floor, on the walls, on the articles of furniture, and cotton batting and the cotton batting in said trunk; and also on the towel and cotton batting taken from said catch-basin, have been by the prosecution in this case given to certain gentlemen who profess to be experts in the matter of distinguishing one kind of blood from another; and that said experts have been examining said blood stains under the microscope, and are prepared to swear to certain facts which your petitioner is informed will be claimed to be criminating evidence against the defendants in this case.

Your petitioner further represents that he and other counsel for the defendants in this case have also retained three experts who profess to be able to state what the scientific truth is with reference to blood stains; that said three experts so retained by the counsel for the defendants are: Marshall D. Ewell, a member of the Chicago bar and also professor of medical jurisprudence in some Eastern college; Harold N. Moyer, M. D., and Lester Curtis, M. D., the last two named gentlemen being professors in certain medical colleges in the city of Chicago, in the county aforesaid.

Your petitioner further represents that on behalf of the other counsel for the defendants in this case as well as on behalf of himself, he has frequently asked the State's Attorney of this county to let said experts have portions of said specimens, which your petitioner is informed are in the possession of the said State's Attorney, or of the experts retained by the prosecution, but that said State's Attorney has refused and still refuses to permit the expert retained on behalf of the defendants herein to have said specimens, so requested, or all or any one of said specimens.

Your petitioner, therefore, prays this honorable court to order the State's Attorney to give to the experts retained on behalf of the defendants certain portions of the specimens of said blood stains in and about said cottage, on the furniture in said cottage, on the cotton batting in said trunk and in and about said trunk, on the towel and cotton batting taken from said catch-basin under such restrictions, if any, as the court may impose.

The court decided that it might be done if the State were represented by its experts at the time of the experiments.

The Conspirators in Court.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Mrs. Swinton and her son Joshua Mann were arraigned this afternoon charged with grand larceny in the second degree. Robert Ray Hamilton was the complainant. He told the story of how he had been duped by the pair and the woman whom he afterwards made his wife. The story is quite lengthy and interesting. The witness at times reddened and was visibly embarrassed when asked about the details of the deception practiced upon him. Inspector Byrnes then took the stand and gave the history of the case as already published. During this testimony the wretched old woman in the prisoners' dock was a pitiable object. The justice stated he would give a decision to-morrow morning.

Boarded By the Rush.

VICTORIA, B. C., Sept. 6.—The schooner Lilly, which arrived here last night, reports she was boarded Aug. 6 by the United States revenue cutter Rush and 333 seal skins were confiscated. She was ordered to Sitka but no prize crew was put aboard and she came here. She spoke the schooner Kate, which had 550 skins aboard. The Kate reported the Rush had ordered her out of Behring Sea but owing to the gale was unable to board her. The Rush has thus far seized seven schooners.

A $160,000 Blaze.

LINKVILLE, Ore., Sept. 6.—Fire broke out back of a saloon here early this morning and in two hours the whole business part of the town was in ashes, loss $160,000.

THE LABOR CONGRESS.

More Resolutions—The Next Meeting to be Held at Ottawa.

MONTREAL, Sept. 6.—At the Labor Congress to-day there was a long discussion on the alleged impropriety of giving government grants to institutions in which the work of the inmates comes into competition with free labor. The labor question was taken up, and the opinion was embodied in this resolution:

That this congress, representative of Canadian workmen, does hereby express its approval of the Henry George land reform, resolves to take all lawful measures for the promotion of land nationalization by means of the taxation of land to its full annual rental value, irrespective of improvements.

It was also resolved to ask for a law compelling all cigar dealers to destroy the union labels and for a law increasing the pay of petit jurors from 50 cents to $2.

The safety of vessels carrying a sufficient crew, inspection of hulls and the prevention of overloading were all dealt with. A resolution was passed in favor of 8 hours being considered a day's work.

The Congress approved of the appointment of a compulsory board of arbitration for settling all disputes between labor and employer.

Temperance was encouraged and day labor for bakers was recommended.

Female typesetters, it was declared, should receive the same wages as men or be prevented from working.

Ottawa was agreed upon as the next place of meeting.

A Port Hope Schooner Wrecked.

BLENHEIM, Sept. 6.—Yesterday during the heavy blow the schooner Lewis Rose of Port Hope, Captain John Philp, loaded with stone for Toronto, was driven ashore at Rondeau harbor and is a total loss. The crew were rescued by men on shore.

National Perfidy Rebuked.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—All the American nations have accepted the invitation to participate in the American International Congress here next month except San Domingo. The latter declines because a treaty negotiated by representatives of the two countries several years ago failed of ratification by the United States Senate.

The Week's Failures.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Business failures reported to Bradstreet's number 143 in the United States this week, against 176 last week and 157 this week last year. Canada had 25 this week against 21 last week. The total failures in the United States Jan. 21 to date, is 7746, against 6676 in 1888.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Justice Ferguson Receives His Stage Struck Daughter in Buffalo.

TORONTO, Sept. 7.—Justice Ferguson returned yesterday afternoon from Buffalo bringing with him his 13 year old daughter Fanny. She had been staying with friends in Buffalo and was easily found. The Toronto police yesterday received a despatch stating that the stage struck girl had been discovered. The Justice and his daughter at once drove to the family residence. A neighbor who was present describes the re-union as most affecting. Friends of the family look upon the matter as little more than a childish escapade. The young girl was a pupil at Loretto Abbey.

Henry Job, 119 Clinton street, a carpenter employed on a new building in course of erection at 41 Harbord-street, fell from the roof yesterday afternoon to the ground, receiving such serious injuries as to necessitate his removal to the hospital.

Mrs. Lena Cohen will not come back to her husband Jacob, preferring to remain in Detroit. The bereaved husband returned yesterday to the city with his eldest boy, whom his erring wife had carried away with her. As a slight solace to his grief he succeeded in recovering $7000 which in a moment of marital fondness he had turned over to Mrs. Cohen.

At a meeting of the Coal Section of the Board of Trade last evening it was decided to make a reduction of 50 cents per ton on all kinds of coal, for spot cash and present delivery. The cause of the reduction, the coal dealers say, is due to the overloaded condition of the United States market. At a meeting of the coal barons in New York on Sept. 1 it was decided to make no present advance, and the reduction in Toronto is an action on the same line.

The Pine River Cheese and Butter Company has had its capital increased from $3000 to $4000.

These companies have been incorporated: The Caledon Light Company, Toronto, capital $1240; the William H. Bell Manufacturing Company, Toronto, capital $25,000; the C. F. Smith Manufacturing Company, Belleville, capital $50,000.

George Parker, Niagara-on-the-Lake, reported to the police, yesterday, that he had been robbed of a gold watch while visiting Toronto Sept. 4.

Mrs. Elliott, the widow from Oser-the-Don, in the General Hospital suffering from the result of a criminal operation, is still alive, and the doctors hold out a slight hope of her recovery. She did not make a statement last night and if she continues to improve she will not be asked to make one except in the witness box.

Selby Grundy Allan, the old-time bookkeeper of the now defunct firm of Charlesworth & Co., and until within the last three months employed in H. E. Hamilton's manufactory, has been arrested on complaint of the latter gentleman, charging him with embezzlement. The warrant, which is sworn to by Mr. Hamilton, sets forth that between Jan. 3, 1888, and April 1, 1889, Selby Grundy Allan did feloniously steal the sum of $1600 from H. E. Hamilton. Mr. Allan was arrested last night at his residence, 290 Major-street, by Detective Alfred Cuddy and taken to Police Headquarters, where he remained over night.

Mr. Allan took his arrest very hard and professes entire ignorance of the cause. He immediately sent for Mr. Morson and gave over his case to him. As far as can be learned the arrest is the outcome of the financial troubles in which Charlesworth & Co. were involved some time ago. Mr. Allan is well known in town, where he had resided for a number of years, and he has always borne an upright character. He came to Toronto from Newfoundland.

The Foresters spent yesterday morning in amending and codifying their constitution. One of the changes made was that the fee for medical examination of applicants for $1000 policies is to be $1.50. A pleasing event of the session was the presentation of a past high chief ranger's jewel to Bro. Gen. H. H. Aplin. It was the gift of the High Court of Michigan, for which he has rendered long and valuable service.

At the afternoon sitting the question of insurance was taken up. It was decided to place on the "hazardous" list the names of those who lost an arm, leg or eye, and those who work on oyster dredges.

Hon. Fred Dunn nominated Detroit as the next place of meeting, stating in the course of his remarks that the delegates would have at that place a warm welcome and a good time.

At the evening session the S. C. R., after consultation with the Executive Committee, made these appointments:

S. Chaplin—Rev. W. B. Carey, Kingston.
S. J. R.—David Miller, Toronto.
S. S. W.—Gen. H. Aplin, Lansing, Mich.
S. J. W.—G. A. Harper, Cleveland, O.
S. S. B.—E. H. Allan, Newark, N. J.
S. J. C.—Thos. Clark, Wolfville, N. S.
S. Marshal—N. F. Patterson, Port Perry.
S. Councillor—J. W. Frost, Owen Sound.
S. Messenger—Jas. Slater, Hamilton.
S. St. B.—D. Rose, Toronto.
S. Sw. B.—Thos. Bird, Stratford.
S. Sw. B.—H. Watters, Quebec.
S. Supt of Juvenile Foresters—James Crawford, London.

The elected and appointed officers were then duly installed by Bro. Ed. Botterell, Past Supreme Chief Ranger.

This completed the business of the court.

We have to report the arrival of large importations of AUTUMN GOODS;

3 cases of GERMAN and FRENCH NOVELTIES in Dress Goods.

In Black Dress Goods ask to be shown the HAMBURG INVISIBLE STRIPE, the very latest and only to be seen with us.

1 large case containing nothing else but DRESS TRIMMINGS and ORNAMENTS. Every design new, never before produced. They are admired by all who have seen them.

While the goods look elegant and inviting, they are only of very moderate price.

On Thursday we open up over 400 German PATTERN MANTLES and DOLMANS made specially to our own order.

Our Store is fast filling up with new Fall Goods of every description.

The stock last season was sold very low. We commence this season with a clean sweep.

For spot cash we were enabled to pick up many job lots direct from manufacturers. We will astonish you how low we are selling some Lines. In many cases lower than some dealers have to pay wholesale for.

Our last purchase was 100 doz of high class Linen Towels which will arrive in a day or two. They were bought low. They will be sold cheap. Inspection will convince you of this.

Turnbull's Column

Not another day is left of the 1889 Summer if we go by the almanac. Its unparalled storms, floods, freshets and singular wetness with us, and extreme dryness in the west, pass into history as part of the record of a remarkable year. It was a strange summer. It was a strangely active summer for us notwithstanding the general feeling of shortness of money and depression. Standing on the edge of autumn, the holidays behind us we now look ahead. Next Saturday, Sept. 7th, we commence the fall cannonade. The troops are passing from all quarters, the sound of the bargain guns will be heard all along the line. What shall be done with the balance of our summer things? Sell them at prices that will pay housekeepers to invest in them! All the while during the spring and summer we've been laying in and laying away autumn things. The time has come to show some of them. Our Dress Goods Department is groaning under the weight of the quantity of beautiful goods we have opened out from all lands where choice goods are made. Next week we shall endeavor to describe some of the different makes. The Mantle Department is more than usually attractive this year. We have full ranges of Ladies' Short and Long Mantles in a variety of Black and Colored cloths.

Our stock of Children's Mantles is so varied the only way to form a correct idea of what we show is to see them.

We hope to largely increase our Tailoring trade this season. Those we have been making for have been well pleased. Our Tailor is hard to beat. Our stock of Imported Tweeds and Overcoatings is very choice, and are sure to find a ready sale as the prices are right. Call early and see the new mantle cloths.

Our Mantle Cutter is always on hand to cut and fit on short notice. With brightened prospects to farmers, and an extensive

THE BRAIN (From a photograph)
In Healthy Condition. With Paresis Lesions.

There are many well known men confined in our Asylums who but a short time ago were prominent among our business and social circles.

Why are they there?

Paresis!

Did it come on at once?

Not at all. It was a gradual but positive growth. They overtaxed nature. The drain on their vitality, their nerve powers, their brain tissue, was too great, and they gradually but surely sank under it. The things they did to bring this sad end about are precisely the same things that are being done by thousands of men and women to-day. It is not necessary to name them. They all end disastrously unless checked or regulated.

Prof. Phelps, of Dartmouth College, knew this fully when he began his experiments which resulted in the discovery of the wonderful Paine's Celery Compound. He realized that paresis (consumption of the brain) was our great National weakness. He knew that the brain and nervous system must be fortified to meet the great strains which modern life bring upon it. He saw that men were becoming debilitated and women weakened by the pressure and demands of life, and he sought and discovered the remedy Paine's Celery Compound, if rightly taken, will renew the brain and build up nerve tissues as fast as they become exhausted. It is not a narcotic. It contains no drugs, no nostrums. It is perfectly pure. It is absolutely harmless. The high character of its discoverer guarantees this, and the indorsement of the medical and chemical professions prove it.

THE LIFE BOAT.

Sermon By Layman.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Everyone knows the meaning of the life boat, as it exists all along the coasts of the lakes and seas, that when the storm rages and the waters of the great deep are lashed to fury, and the people on board the sinking ship see nothing but death before them, the life boat, manned by strong men, puts out to sea to rescue the drowning passengers. But I intend to use these words, the life boat, as typical of another and a better and safer life boat, a life boat that saves the souls of dying men from destruction; a life boat that is all powerful and that never fails. If you ask what this life boat is, I will tell you that it is the God, your Savior, who came into the world and endured privation and suffering and finally death, in order that He might drive away the storm and save you from the storms and tempests of this life and from endless destruction and misery in the life to come. His boat is always ready. It is manned and guarded by our heavenly Father, who sees the dangers afar off and who waits upon the shore ready to receive all who are willing to come. And though your pathway through this world may be filled with thorns and troubles, and though you may sometimes despair and become discouraged, yet your heavenly Life Boat is waiting on the shore of your sea of dangers, waiting and beckoning to you to come and be saved. And he will take you where there are no storms, no more sorrows, and no more pain. This Life Boat never fails. At its presence the storms cease to rage, the winds become calm, for the Great Captain of the ship can still the waves and bring you to the port in safety. Early a vessel laden with merchandise left port for a distant shore. It had a pleasant passage and it arrived at night within two miles of its destination, where the weather being so calm and the water so calm, the captain thought he would cast anchor and wait the return of morning. But during the night a great storm of wind and snow came on and the captain saw that his vessel would be lost. He was only a short distance from the shore, but the boiling waters prevented all escape. As day dawned the people saw the ship and they ran to the shore, but all their efforts to save the crew failed. They called to the crew to try and save themselves by jumping into the water, but they appeared afraid to do so. So in a little while the vessel went to pieces and all hands were lost. No life boat provided by man could save them. But there was another life boat ready to save, and which never fails. It is always waiting to rescue lost souls, and all those who will can enter it and be saved.

ONE BEAUTIFUL SPRING MORNING,

There is a land that is fairer than day.
And by faith we can see it afar.
For the Father waits over the way
To prepare us a dwelling place there.

In the sweet by and by we shall meet on that beautiful shore.

We shall sing on that beautiful shore
The melodious songs of the blest,
And our spirits shall sorrow no more,
Not a sigh for the blessing of rest.

To our bountiful Father above
We will offer the tribute of praise
For the glorious gift of His love,
And the blessings that hallow our days.
In the sweet by and by, etc.

But most people prefer trusting the human life boat, although they know it is frail and is easily destroyed. They PREFER TRUSTING TO THEIR OWN INCLINATIONS.

While in health they never look beyond human means of safety, but when health and strength are gone and the once strong man is laid upon a bed of sickness, when all human means of preservation are gone and the things of this world are fast disappearing, and soon will be altogether gone. Then it is that he looks far away, over mountain and sea, looking for another life boat, the only one that can save him now. And as his spirit stands upon the river bank and looks across the broad waters, it sees the life boat upon the other shore. And it takes the spirit in and the waters become still and calm, and now all storms and troubles are over, and the sun of righteousness forever shines down upon all those who have put their trust in the Lord and all danger is over. The life boat has saved them and brought them to the beautiful city where all is peace and calmness and joy for evermore. There once lived in a pleasant part of a country a man and his wife and little child. They came there from another land and they were comparative strangers. They lived in peace and happiness and they lived for each other. They were just and honest and they were an example of good to others, and they were respected and honored, and their future prospects, both for time, and eternity, were of the best. The Lord was their guide and master, and to Him they looked for help. He had blest them in the world and they felt that whenever death came he would find them ready. At last the mother's time had come, she sickened and died, and left husband and baby behind. She was buried in the quiet grave-yard, and every day the husband, with baby in his arms, visited her grave and brought flowers and laid them softly over the remains of the dead mother below. When the mother felt that she had to go

SHE HAD BABY BROUGHT TO HER

and laid by her side. And she kissed it as long as she had strength to do so and then she took its little hand and held it until her spirit had fled and was carried by Jesus' Life Boat to the heavenly realms above. Then the child was taken away, and when it cried for mother, mother never came. And mother's kind voice was heard no more. But she was not for long to be separated from her little baby. The Lord knew what was best and so He let mother call baby home.

Gather round the baby's cradle.
At the closing of the day,
Tenderly we watch our darling,
While the sunset fades away.
First the summer land she's nearing
Angels beckon her to come,
Where her mother waits to meet her
Mother's calling baby home.

Mother's calling her darling
To her arms she bids her come.
At the pearly gates she's waiting
Mother's calling baby home.

Mother could not leave her baby
But a helpless little one,
Motherless she could not leave it
In this wide, wide, world alone.

So she calls it to her bosom.
Calls in tenderest accents "come,"
To the land where mother's waiting
Mother's calling baby home.
Mother's calling to her darling, etc.

Better is it that our darling
To her mother's arms should go,
Tho a home of light and gladness
Leave a world of grief and woe.

There no sorrow e'er can enter
There no grief can ever come,
To its light and love and beauty
Mother's calling baby home
Mother calling to her darling, etc.

And now the father is left all alone. And although he knows that both mother and child have gone to a better and happier home, yet who can wonder that his grief is great. Everywhere through the house he sees things that painfully remind of the former presence of those whom he justly held so dear. Sometimes it is one thing and sometime it is another. And there stands baby's cradle, but it is empty now. And at night when the darkness and solitude settle down he sits alone in the room where they once sat together and talked together, but no familiar voice comes to him any more. His sleep is fretful and broken, and when daylight comes again he rises and visits two graves now, the mother and child, lying so quietly side by side. And the gentle wind cools his burning brow, and the birds sing their sweet lullaby, and the flowers spring up and the grass is green, and the bright warm sun shines down upon the earth, and the lonely man feels that he too would like to go home and be with mother and baby, a home where there would be no more separation and no more sorrow.

A Ridiculous Question.

"Do you enjoy good health?" asked Brown of his friend Jones. The reply of Jones was short, sharp and to the point. "Why of course I do, what fool does it?" Everyone enjoys good health when he has it. But some people do not have it to enjoy. Sick headache, biliousness, constipation, deranged liver, and a host of ills, real and imaginary, are their heritage. Thousands of persons cure and prevent these distressing complaints by taking Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. Small, sugar-coated and easy to take; one a dose. c

STARTLING EVIDENCE

Of the Cure of Skin Diseases When all Other Methods Fail.

Psoriasis 5 years, Covering Face, Head and Entire Body with white scabs. Skin red, itchy, and Bleeding. Hair all gone. Spent hundreds of Dollars. Pronounced Incurable. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

My disease (psoriasis) first broke out on my left cheek, spreading across my nose, and almost covering my face. It ran into my eyes, and the physician was afraid I would lose my eyesight altogether. It spread all over my head, and my hair all fell out, until I was entirely bald-headed; it then broke out on my arms and shoulders, until my arms were just one sore. It covered my entire body, my face, head and shoulders being the worst. The white scabs fell constantly from my head, shoulders and arms; the skin would thicken and be red and very itchy, and would crack and bleed if scratched. After spending many hundreds of dollars, I was pronounced incurable. I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using two bottles CUTICURA RESOLVENT, I could see a change; and after I had taken four bottles I was almost cured; and when I had used six bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT and one box of CUTICURA, and one cake of CUTICURA SOAP, I was cured of the dreadful disease from which I had suffered for five years. I thought the disease would leave a very deep scar, but the CUTICURA REMEDIES cured it without any scars. I cannot express with a pen what I suffered before using the CUTICURA REMEDIES. They saved my life, and I feel it my duty to recommend them. My hair is restored as good as ever, and so is my eyesight. I know of a number of different persons who have used the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and all have received great benefit from their use

Improved "Common Sense"
• SASH BALANCE.
LOCKS AND LIFTS.

This only practical substitute for weights invented. The most durable, the cheapest and best device for all ordinary windows. Balances when in position are entirely out of sight. No rivets, bolts or screws are used in putting it together so that nothing can get out of order or need repairing. No cutting, boring or marring of the sash, as the Balances are let into the jamb. Especially valuable for repairing old buildings as they can be put in at a trifling expense, as easily put in old buildings as new ones. Sash can be removed from frame in a moment for cleaning or repairing broken glass. Can be used where it is impossible to use weights or other fixtures. No unsightly cord wearing paint off side of frame. No rattling of sash as pressure against sash prevents it. No rattling of weights or pulleys when Sash is raised or lowered. No sticking of weights in frame. No cords to rust off, wear out and break. No rubber rollers to become flattened by standing in one position for some time. No flimsy coil spring or delicate mechanism to break, wear out or get out of order. Its simplicity of construction and operation is the wonder of all.

Byam's Automatic Sash Locks (self fastening) and Sash Lifts for upper and lower sash are the best and cheapest in the market.

SPLENDID BUILDING SITES

I have placed on the market

That Desirable and Well Situated Property

to the western part of the Town, and offer it in lots as per plan annexed. This affords a splendid opportunity to secure a location for your home in a rapidly improving and in every respect the best part of the town. The properties are situated on Cedar and Hatton streets and within a stone's throw of the West Ward School and a short distance of the principal Churches and the Hamilton Co'y. Works.

"ERIN COTTAGE," late the residence of Mr. Elias Thompson, is situated in the centre of the lots. This property is for sale or can be had as a bargain. It is a desirable suburban residence.

The lots have good frontages on streets of the standard width and are splendidly located. From the upper lots is afforded one of the best views of the town with ample facilities for drainage.

Several fine dwellings are already contracted for to be built on these lots during this season.

Tradesmen and merchants should inspect this property as it offers the best sites available and convenient to the business part of the town.

QUEER CHARACTERS WHO HAUNT NEW YORK'S LIBRARIES.

Three That Act Alike, Yet Do Not Know Each Other—An Old Man Who Never Takes Anything but Anthon's Classical Dictionary—A Student of Longevity.

In many public libraries of this city there are daily to be seen some decidedly eccentric characters. Their faces are familiar to all the attaches of the place they frequent, and every occasional visitor has speculated at one time or other about them.

In the Mercantile library, for instance, there are three men who spend the entire day there reading anything and everything, and this they have been doing for years. One is an elderly man and both the others are middle aged. They are at the door of the room when it opens in the morning at 9 o'clock. They take their seats in the most methodical fashion and begin. One of them occasionally goes down stairs, gets a book from the library, and returning in a few moments, settles himself in his corner with a grunt of satisfaction and then appears oblivious to his surroundings for hours.

At noon, or thereabouts, this trio goes out to luncheon. Not together, as each seems to be unaware of the similarity of the other's habits. Sometimes one comes back in twenty minutes, sometimes in thirty, but none would presume to remain away longer than an hour.

In the afternoon their pastime is again resumed, and it is continued until the doors close at night, when they go away reluctantly.

When the library made a rule to close at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoons, these people and several others protested against the early closing movement as an outrage.

Over at the Astor library there was formerly a peculiar looking German who wore waxed ringlets and a tremendous necktie. He studied Goethe entirely, and made notes by the bushelful on dirty scraps of paper that he picked from the floor or fished from his pockets. He has been missed for some time.

There is one nice looking, white haired old gentleman who comes to the Cooper union reading room in the neighborhood of 2 o'clock every day and calls for "Anthon's Classical Dictionary," which is a sort of biography of eminent ancient characters.

He never asks for anything else, and when he is seen to enter, the librarians, if not busy, goes to the case and brings that work to the desk.

The peculiar thing about this character is that he has been pursuing this custom ever since 1883. The reading room was closed during the extensive alterations to the building during '85 and '86. When it reopened almost the first visitor was this same white haired old gentleman, and Mr. Curtiss, the librarian, could not repress a broad smile as the old gentleman stepped before his desk and, laying down his check, said, "How d'ye do? Glad you're open again," and then added, unconcernedly, "Anthon's Classical Dictionary, please."

There is another queer fellow who comes into the same reading room and follows the attendants around as they file newspapers and periodicals. As soon as the attendant places one of these in its proper place the queer individual takes it up and rapidly turns and scans the pages. When the next one is placed he drops the first and skims over the second. This he does with each and every one. He seems to have no definite object in doing this, as he cares not what the publication may be.

At first the library assistants did not know what to make of him, but they are used to him now and would miss his companionship were he to leave off.

There is a third man who is also a daily visitor, and he must have information enough stored away in his breast to run the world.

He is probably between 55 and 60 years old. He has an air of comfort about him, and might be taken for a one time workingman who had amassed a competence upon which he proposed to live at his ease for the rest of his days. He has been coming to the library for several years and began his reading on volume 1 of the American Encyclopaedia. That book he called for every day for goodness knows how long, and when he had presumably exhausted its contents he began on volume 2, and so he continued until he came to the last volume.

Then he began on volume 1 again and went over the entire ground. It is thought that he has read the Encyclopaedia at least a dozen times, and he is still at it.

Up at the Mechanics' library on West Sixteenth street an old man had been a frequent visitor. He was fully 85 years old and feeble at that. He had a mania for reading books on longevity, and bored for hours over "Inman's Preservation of Life," "Collins' Secret of Long Life," and books of the kind.

"Look at that old man," said the librarian one day to his assistant. "I don't think his deep study on the preservation of life will keep him from the grave much longer. He has been looking badly for a week or two, and appears to be at the edge of the precipice now." The prophecy proved correct, for the next thing heard of the old man was that he had been called from this weary world, and the knowledge gleaned from Collins or Inman did not suffice to keep him.

Another character at the Mechanics' library is an old lady who revels in the most sentimental love stories. Then there are several misses who draw out books of the deepest philosophy "just to show the high taste they have," the man at the desk says, and there are a number of old men who delight in reading tales of adventures for boys.

The ubiquitous tramp is a frequent caller at the Mechanics' and other free reading rooms, especially during cold or rainy weather.

The only peculiar thing about him, though, is his aversion to reading and his ability to sleep behind a newspaper without a quiver of the hand.—New York News.

"Cotleus Coffee."

If you want a good cup of PURE coffee go to the Falcon grocery. The best blends, fresh roasted and ground by water power, try it. dw

"It goes right to the spot," said an old gentleman, who found great benefit in Ayer's Sarsaparilla. He was right. Derangements of the stomach, liver, and kidneys are more speedily remedied by this medicine than by any other. It reaches the trouble directly.

The Loss of the Hair

Is a great misfortune and the sight of a bald head should be a warning to you to take the best possible care of your hair. A little of Dr. Dorenwend's "Hair Magic" used occasionally will prevent all chances of its falling out or turning gray, and will remove all traces of dandruff. Every druggist has it in stock. Ask for it. dw

The Oklahoma Boom

FORMS an instance of a wild rush for an uncertainty, which is just the opposite of the steady boom enjoyed by Burdock Blood Bitters. Buyers of this medicine get a certainty—an unequalled remedy for all diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels, kidneys and the blood. 2w34d

The Four Cardinal Points

The stomach, the liver, the bowels and the blood are the four cardinal points of health. These Burdock Blood Bitters acts upon to strengthen, regulate, cleanse and purify, thus restoring and maintaining perfect health. B. B. B. is nature's true tonic and enevator. 2w34d

Timely Wisdom.

TIMELY wisdom is shown by those who keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry on hand. It has no equal for cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhoea, dysentery, colic, cramps and all summer complaints or looseness of the bowels. 2w34

TO THE DEAF.—A person cured of deafness and noises in the head of 23 years' standing by a simple remedy, will send a description of it FREE to any person who applies to NICHOLSON, 30 St. John street, Montreal.

Indigestion can be effectually cured by the use of Dyer's Quinine and Iron Wine, this admirable tonic is invaluable in cases of appetite and general debility. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal. 5d53

AS A HEALING, SOOTHING application for cuts, wounds, bruises and sores, there is nothing better than Victoria Carbolic Salve. dw

MILBURN'S AROMATIC QUININE WINE is distinctly superior to any other as an appetising tonic and fortifier. dw

The Appetite

May be increased, the Digestive organs strengthened, and the Bowels regulated, by taking Ayer's Pills. These Pills are purely vegetable in their composition. They contain neither calomel nor any other dangerous drug, and may be taken with perfect safety by persons of all ages.

I was a great sufferer from Dyspepsia and Constipation. I had no appetite, became greatly debilitated, and was constantly afflicted with Headache and Dizziness. I consulted our family doctor, who prescribed for me, at various times, without affording more than temporary relief. I finally commenced taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time my digestion and appetite my bowels were regulated, and, by the time I finished two boxes of these Pills my tendency to headaches had disappeared, and I became strong and well.—Darius M. Logan, Wilmington, Del.

IMPROVED

I was troubled, for over a year, with Loss of Appetite, and General Debility. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and, before finishing half a box of this medicine, my appetite and strength were restored. —C. O. Clark, Danbury, Conn.

Ayer's Pills are the best medicine known to me for regulating the bowels, and for all diseases caused by a disordered Stomach and Liver. I suffered for over three years with Headache, Indigestion, and Constipation. I had no appetite, and was weak and nervous most of the time.

BY USING

three boxes of Ayer's Pills, and, at the same time dieting myself, I was completely cured. My digestive organs are now in good order, and I am in perfect health.—Philip Lockwood, Topeka, Kans.

Ayer's Pills have benefited me wonderfully. For months I suffered from ludigestion and Headache, was restless at night, and had a bad taste in my mouth every morning. After taking one box of Ayer's Pills, all these troubles disappeared, my food digested well, and my sleep was refreshing.—Henry C. Hemmenway, Rockport, Mass.

I was cured of the Piles by the use of Ayer's Pills. They not only relieved me of that painful disorder, but gave me increased vigor, and restored my health.—John Lazarus, St. John, N. B.

Open Air Gospel Meeting.

Do not fail to attend the last of the series of gospel meetings held in Campbell's Grove North Monaghan. Several speakers have promised to be present and address the meeting. North Monaghan orchestra and choir will furnish the music. A large gathering is expected. Be sure and go and enjoy the meeting.

Markham Visitors.

An excursion under the auspices of the Markham Farmers' Club arrived in town today per G.T.R. The train was half an hour late. There were about 600 aboard, including the Elimere band and the baseball club. The visitors headquarters is at the Grand Central Hotel. They return home by the regular 5:15 train.

A Smith Case.

Police Magistrate Edmison adjudicated upon a case at the court house this morning. Henry Donnelly, of Smith, charged Arthur R. Fitzgerald, a neighbor, with damaging trees growing on the highway in front of his farm by girdling them with an axe. Defendant was fined $2 and ordered to pay the plaintiff $10 damages.

Crossley and Hunter.

The noted evangelists, Revs. Crossley and Hunter, will open a campaign of five or six weeks in Kingston, on Sunday, Sept. 22nd. The meetings will be held in the Sydenham street Methodist church, the largest edifice in the city. The evangelists have made no limit to their stay, they will remain as long as the meetings are successful.

Lawn Social in Smith

A lawn social will be held at the residence of Mr. Geo. E. Elliott, Smith, on Wednesday evening Sept. 11th, to commence at 6.30. The Y.M.C.A. band will be in attendance, also an interesting programme of local talent. Refreshments will be served. Admission 15 cents. 1d

Seasonable and Fashionable.

J. J. Sheehy has just received a splendid lot of ladies' waterproof cloaks. The styles are the Connemara, Edinburgh and Sling Sleeve, and are worth inspection. 57 patterns to select from, in any length from 54 to 66. A call solicited. No trouble to show the goods.

Frauds on Fall Exhibitions.

At every exhibition of the doings that are to come off soon there will be scores of people defrauded—that is in their own estimation, their stuff should have had a prize and didn't get it. But there is no such disappointment to those who purchase their teas from the splendid and varied stock of Hawley Bros.' tea-store, where the finest stock is always kept at the lowest prices. Also fine coffee and fine glassware.

Superior Tea, 5 lbs for $1, at M. R. Kidd's.

For the Fall Trade.

Miss Delaney has returned from a visit to the Montreal and Toronto wholesale houses. During her visit she secured the finest stock of the latest styles in millinery, mantles and mantle clothe ever purchased for the Peterborough trade. Miss Delaney's stock of autumn bonnets has been selected with unusual care, and will be found to contain the choicest specimens of millinery art in all respects. Her new fall stock throughout will be found the most extensive, varied and complete ever presented by her.

Missionary Entertainment.

A Missionary entertainment will be given Monday night next, in the George street Methodist church by the Young People. A fine programme has been provided, consisting of readings, recitations, solos, etc. The Y.M.C.A. band has kindly consented to take part, and will add to the evening's entertainment by vocal selections as well as instrumental music. All are invited; no charges at the door. Collections at the close. To commence at 8 o'clock sharp. 3d

Funeral Services.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Wrighton were conducted at St. John's church at 3.30 o'clock this afternoon, by Rev. C. B. Kenrick. The choir was present. Rev. Mr. Davidson conducted the burial services. A large funeral cortege followed the remains to the cemetery.

Another Rock Ahead.

Now that the dog-days are over, the fall bonnet is the rock in which the family pocket book will split. This season need be no dread to the family that has patronized Hawley Bros. for teas and coffees. They will have saved enough of money, and get so much comfort from the use of these goods, that fall bonnets will have no fear for them. Remember when you want to get the best of teas at the best of prices, or coffees, ditto, that Hawley Bros. is the best place and only place in town.

Gun Accident.

On Saturday last George Hall, a young lad of 11 or 12 years of age, son of Mr. T. R. Hall, of Burleigh, met with a painful and serious accident. The Lakefield Chronicle says that after firing a shot he was unable to to extract the empty shell from the barrel, and, to do so made use of the wiping rod by the muzzle of the barrel, which caused the other cartridges in the chamber to explode, shattering the lock and stock of the rifle and seriously lacerating the right hand.

Com. Coombs and His Successor.

Commissioner and Mrs. Coombs, after over five years service in Canada, will farewell for Australia in Toronto week after next. The commissioner and his wife are now making a farewell tour of Canada, and will say his last good-bye at Toronto. Colonel Adams, his successor, is a Scotchman. He will arrive in Toronto Sept. 19th, and the welcome to the new commander will be begun after the farewell has been said to Commissioner Coombs.

District Lacrosse

The Empire says:—The last lacrosse match in the eastern district championship series, between the Riverside Lacrosse Club, of Peterborough, and the Norwoods, was to have been played at Norwood yesterday, but did not come off owing to the former not putting in an appearance, thus giving the game to Norwood by default. This practically ends lacrosse at Norwood for the season. Beaverton has won the district pennant, having won six games and lost none, Norwood being second with five won and one lost.

Absentee Representatives.

East Durham is represented in the local house by way of California, the Municipal Government of Port Hope is represented by way of Peterborough, and school section No. 11, Millbrook, is represented by way of Toronto. Funny isn't it?—Millbrook Reporter.

In reference to the above, especially as regards its municipal representation, Port Hope should be proud to be represented by a Peterborough citizen. If in a personal sense Port Hope has lost its mayor, Peterborough has gained a substantial and worthy citizen. It is rather hard on Port Hope that she should have to build up Peterborough at the cost of losing one of her best citizens.

Busy Bellegham.

You won't find a busier man in three counties than Bellegham the furniture King. The cares of state press heavily upon him, his customers keep him on the jump. But he has no person but himself to blame. He will insist on manufacturing and keeping on hand the best of furniture and on selling it at the lowest prices. This of course attracts customers to him in myriads and it keeps him on the move to supply their wants. His stock is so large, comprised in three extensive flats of his warerooms, that they know they will find what they require, and that the price will be made right These are the reasons for Bellegham having such a large and daily increasing constituency of customers, and these are the reasons why those wanting first class furniture should turn neither to the right nor the left but make a bee line for Bellegham's, the furniture shop furthest west on Hunter street Peterborough.

Passing a Counterfeit.

Francis Winter, a sign painter by trade, came to town Monday last from somewhere across the lines, and boarded till week at the Queen's Hotel. Last night he became involved in a quarrel and was arrested by P. C. Adams for assaulting the proprietor Mr. Becket. This morning the latter was too ill to appear in court, but gave information of uttering a counterfeit bill against Winter. The assault case was dropped for the present and the other charge taken up Mr R. E. Wood C.C.A., conducted the prosecution and Mr. R. B. Stone defended the prisoner. It seems that Friday night Winter paid his board bill and gave the proprietor a $5 bill. It had all the appearance of a genuine note, but was drawn on the "Bank of British Canada." There is no such bank in existence. Though the crime is not strictly "counterfeiting," yet the statutes cover the case. The prisoner was remanded till Monday to allow the prosecution time to gather evidence,

Personal.

Mr. John R. Clarke, the ever popular Chautauqua entertainer, who gives his inimitable lecture, "Everyday Talk" in Charlotte street Methodist church next Monday evening. Commenced his career as an actor and spent ten years on the stage. Then came a great change in his life and for the past fifteen years he has occupied the platform and has spoken to delighted thousands in all parts of the United States and Canada. A man of two countries, England and America; twice a brightener of the understanding, having been formally a boot black, twice a man of letters, newsboy and lecturer. Mr. Clark is at once a delight and marvel to all who hear him. His versatility is truly wonderful. In each and every lecture he thrills you by his eloquence, he convulses you by his varied and dialectic humor, he moves you to tears by his pathos poetry and song and above all he woos and wins you toward a loftier life as he reasons of righteousness, temperance and judgment to come. Behind all he says and does one sees the background of his own honest and industrious life. We congratulate the Endeavor Society of Charlotte street Methodist Sunday school on gaining securing Mr. Clark and bespeak for the talented orator a very large audience.

Ashburnham Brevities.

Mr. Jacob Doupe took about twenty first and second prizes at the Horticultural show on Thursday. This is very high recommendation for Mr. Doupe's gardening.

For want of hands the brick-work of the town hall is progressing slowly, but it is expected to have a reinforcement next week when things will be made more lively.

The Rev. J. J. Wright, B.A., will occupy the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church, Port Hope, Sunday.

The water in Little Lake is as high now as it was at any time during the past spring.

A gang of men are at work putting in a pier to support the new platform to take the place of the one which fell in opposite the sawmill a few days ago.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The subject for the young men's meeting to-night at 8 o'clock will be "Christ, our Counsellor." All young men invited. Hearty singing led by Y.M.C.A. orchestra.

At the Dominion Rifle Meet.

Record of the Peterborough Representatives—They Take a Creditable Position

The following is a summary of the standing taken by the seven Peterborough representatives of the Range and Rifle who took part in the competition in the matches of the Dominion Rifle Association held at Ottawa the past week. The standing they gained is very creditable, especially when it is borne in mind that they had to compete with between four or five hundred of the crack shots of the Dominion, including the Wimbledon team of the present year and about two hundred who had previously shot at Wimbledon.

Besides nearly every volunteer regiment in Canada sent a strong team, those from Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Manitoba being particularly formidable. Besides there was team from H.M.S. Bellerophon now at Montreal and a team from the West Riding Regt. of the regular army, stationed at Halifax. It is to be noticed that in nearly all the matches in which they entered the members of the 57th took prizes, and the scores, as will be seen, were exceptionally high and the competition keen, as some men who scored 23 out of a possible 25 were counted out. The Ottawa range is a very difficult range to shoot upon, especially to any person not familiar with it. The larger number of competitors had had practice on these ranges, while many of the Peterborough men never saw them before. And the fact that most of them have had very little practice this summer on their own range, shows that our boys are "on the shoot," and able to strike the Hythe position in the best company. It is a pleasure to call attention to the record of Col. Sergt. W. A. Mason, who took a place among the sixty honour men in the grand aggregate. Captains Dennistoun and Hill only lacked a very few points of getting into the same coveted company. On the whole the Peterborough men have no reason to be ashamed of their Ottawa record, and we may expect some extra good shooting at the coming fall matches of the local Association.

Another Brakesman Killed.

He Walks off the End of a Moving Car—Death After Several Hours' Agony.

Another fatal railway accident occured on the line of the C. P. R. about four miles east of the town early this morning. Conductor Peeks' special freight train left the Peterborough station at 3:30 a.m., eastward bound. When about four miles out the van and one car broke loose from the train. It is supposed that the engineer on the breaking of the bell rope whistled "down brakes," and Thos. Everest, who was in the van, ran out to perform his duty. In the darkness he did not notice that the train had broken and rushed on to his death. He fell off the end of the car between the rails, and the brake beams catching his clothes he was dragged about 100 feet. As soon as possible the cars were stopped and the unfortunate man picked up. The train returned with him to town and he was at once taken to the hospital, where he lingered in agony till 11.30 o'clock. The only serious injuries he received were several fractures of the skull. His body was not mangled.

The young man lives in Toronto. The C. P. R. company have prepared the remains for interment, and the corpse will be taken west on the 5 50 train this evening.

A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT'S EXPOSITION GOSSIP.

Feeding the Provincial Mayors—The London Strikers on the Eve of Victory—A Warning to the French Clergy.

Paris, Sept. 6.—Paris has never been more thoroughly Paris than during the last few weeks. The elite of every country is within its walls. Edison, Gladstone, Churchill, Owen and all the chiefs of science are there. It would be hard to enumerate the possible and impossible questions that these learned societies have come together to discuss; they range from the land question and hygienics to the establishment of the meridian at Jerusalem, and the members of congress manage to get a good deal of pleasure out of their visit. To add to the attractiveness of Paris we have had the visit of 13,000 provincial mayors who were invited to town by the government. The presence of all these strangers in Paris led the authorities to make an informal census on a given night, when it was found that in hotels and registered lodging-houses in the city there were about 59,000 foreigners and 174,000 provincials sleeping in these places. This quarter of a million visitors is independent of the very large number of persons staying with friends or in the vicinity of the capital.

Your correspondent paid a visit to the Eiffel tower a few days ago when the wind was blowing a gale. Tiles, slates and chimney pots had been tumbling about all the day, and the flag of the tower and others on elevated buildings had been blown to shreds. It occurred to me, therefore, that it was a favorable moment to mount the tower and judge of the effect of the oscillation. It was scarcely perceptible even during the most furious gusts, and as a swaying of more than one yard is allowed for in the construction the safety of the tower in a gale must be considered as absolute.

It has been struck by lightning, but no unpleasant effects were experienced by the several hundred persons on the various platforms. The man in charge of the revolving light was momentarily blinded, and, of course, considerably alarmed; but he soon recovered from both blindness and fright, and if he hadn't told his story few people would have known that the tower had been struck. As it was, the conductors carried the current harmlessly down to the ground beneath the foundations of the tower. The mysteries of the foundation are now hidden beneath the masonry basement, but I recollect being very much interested in examining the large tube that carries the conducting wires right away down to the water which was found under the tower.

Everything has been done this year on a scale which keeps pace with prices in Paris. We have had the two largest balls on record, and the feeding of 13,000 mayors was probably another record performance. The Palais de L'Industrie, in which the dinner was served, was the principal building of the exhibition in 1867. It is generally a cold draughty place, and for the last few years it has been devoted to the salon upstairs for a week or two, and to the horse show down stairs for another few weeks. During the remaining ten months of the year the only attraction has been its fine exterior proportions, but all this has been changed, for the exhibitors' hall furniture was brought out from the state rooms at Fontainebleau, Compiegne, and Versailles. Choicest gobelins were hung around the walls and galleries, and 5000 electric lights transformed the cold, draughty halls into as inviting a salon as can be imagined. So delighted was the fete committee with its work that the decorations have remained up all the summer in the Palais de L'Industrie, and whenever room is required for an exceptionally large gathering it has been at the disposal of the organizers.

It was here that the government and the city of Paris entertained the provincial mayors. No inquiries should be made as to what was eaten and drunk by these 13,000 provincial dignitaries. The plates on which their food was served would, if placed one on the other in one pile, reach to a height of eight times that of the Eiffel tower, and another interesting fact that has just been made public, is that 18,000 empty champagne bottles were counted after the departure of the 13,000 mayors. If we consider that the champagne was only brought into action late in the feast, that several other growths had been earlier approved, and that there were certainly some abstainers among the guests, we shall have further food for thought and calculation.

A touching appeal is being circulated for the present and prospective support of Hyacinthe. It is indeed passing strange that one of the most eloquent divines of the age should not know where to find his daily bread. Hyacinthe's efforts are now concentrated in the establishment of a Gallican church which rejects the idea of a papal infallibility, calls for the election of bishops by the church members, the performance of rites and services in the language of the country, the liberty of marriage for the priests and the option of confession; but he has not this world's riches, and one of his greatest cares is for his temporal necessities. Under the auspices of Bishop Cove, a committee of ladies has been formed in Paris with the two-fold object of raising an annuity fund for the priest and of building a church, from the pulpit of which Catholic reform will be advocated. The man whose voice once made the roofs of Notre Dame echo is now prosecuting his work in a very insufficient room in the Rue D'Asas.

News Nuggets.

—Lakefield ratepayers are surprised. They will this year be called upon to pay a rate of only 11½ mills.

—Grain buyers are warning farmers against mixing last year's barley with this season's grain.

—An Ashburnham ratepayer writes:—"I think it would be a good stroke of business if the council had the stones scraped off the street and a few more electric lights added before the dark winter nights set in."

Norwood.

Mrs. J. C. McConkey is visiting friends in Peterborough and Lakefield.

The other day Mr. John Baskin purchased the old "Elliott" farm about a mile south of the village. Two houses and lots on Spring street, and $700 in cash was the consideration.

The captain of the Norwood detachment of the Salvation Army has severed his connection with the army and joined the Baptist church. He was baptised last Sunday evening.

Some seven or eight brethren of Keene Masonic Lodge paid a fraternal visit to Norwood Lodge on Tuesday evening. They were accompanied by P. M's. Jas. McNeill and Dr. Shew and were tendered a supper at the Drain House before leaving for home.

Mr. H. G. Buck, of Norwood, is busily engaged in superintending the rafting of 50,000 feet of square timber at Belleville. It will be taken to Quebec and on the arrival of the fall fleet will be shipped to Great Britain. This is the fourth raft Mr. Buck has shipped this year, making in all over 200,000 feet of square timber.

Mr. Ed. Reynolds, who has for a number of years been in the employ of Mr. P. W. Reynolds here, left on Monday for Alliston where he has purchased one of the leading general stores of that town.

Mr. R. Patterson, son of Mr. W. G. Patterson, of Dummer, is home on a visit. He is studying for the ministry, and for the past two years has been attending the Nashotah Theological Seminary (Episcopal), Wis., and has succeeded in passing his first and second years' exams, in a very creditable manner. During July and August he had charge of a church in Hudson, Mich. On Sunday afternoon he conducted service in the church of England at Norwood.

A number of young men were fined $5 and costs each in the Norwood police court the other day for disorderly conduct. The Register complains that rowdyism is rampant in the village. The constable was assaulted while in the discharge of his duty, and at trial the court room was crowded with sympathizers of the accused, who cheered their defiant and disgusting language. The Register demands more summary measures be taken to suppress the rowdyism.

They play ball at Norwood with a vengeance. In a seven-innings game the other day Norwood defeated Weanwood by a score of 32 to 27. A few days later Tweed beat Norwood in a five-innings game, the record being 60 to 12. The Register says it was a "ragged" game. The Tweed boys must have been tired running bases. They made 26 runs in one inning.

NEWS OF THE OLD WORLD.

THE RESULT OF THE LONDON STRIKE STILL IN DOUBT.

Burns and His Leader—The Antwerp Horror—Famine Stricken Peasants in Alabania—Chicago's Bomb Thrower in London

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The Tribune's London special says: The companies believe that they can yet break down the laborers' patience. They assert that there are not more than four or five thousand strikers; that the number of the employed varies from five to sixteen thousand, and that the newspaper reports set down the number now employed at 3000. Every day adds to these and cargoes are discharging at an increasing ratio. Many of the riverside wharves have come to terms with the men, and the pressure all round is diminishing. There is no doubt whatever that if the pickets and intimidators were removed the docks would find plenty of labor. Mr. Burns has lost much public sympathy since his speech, in which he assailed the dock directors personally, and since his personal intervention stopped 3000 men from entering the river wharves, after they had accepted new terms, on the trivial ground that the agreement had been signed by middlemen and not by the directors. For the present the dock directors are more concerned about the attitude of the shipowners than of the laborers.

The companies will not yield to their "bête noire," Mr. Burns, nor is Mr. Burns popular with the leaders of the trades-unionists. Otherwise his cause would have received a more generous support in that quarter. The Trades-Union Congress now sitting at Dundee has been the scene of a standup fight between the Socialists and the moderates on the policy of the committee of the sections. Only eleven of the former were present; nevertheless, the Congress voted sympathy with the dockers, and sent round the hat. But the whole of the delegates did not raise over £10 for Mr. Burns' fund. Some of the unions contributed, though none very liberally, and they have not made the dockers' case their own. The most substantial help came from Australia. There has been some sympathy, but no money, from Canada and the United States, while Australia sent the promised 47000. Australia, however, is the happy hunting-ground of the workingman. Every trade there is well or organized. There are only eight hours in a working day, and the commonest laborers, even road-menders, are paid six shillings, while artizans get from twelve to fourteen shillings. Unionism is federated into a solid, compact machine, and the help was sent to England, not only for sympathy, but to secure higher wages at home, and thereby prevent emigration of the labor class to Australia.

The coal merchants have recouped their advance to the coal wharf laborers by promptly raising the price to the consumer by a shilling a ton. Building and wood-yard lat'orers are also receiving concessions. The whole movement has been among the lower-paid class of workmen, and speaking generally, the employers conceded all round, excepting in the case of the Last and slop tailors. These are mostly Poles, Germans and Jews, whose grievances were recently inquired into by a Sweating Committee, but unfortunately they have to deal with Pole, German and Jew middlemen, whose hearts are more case hardened than those of the English employers. The processions of these poor tailors are a far more melancholy spectacle than the noisy bands, flaunting banners and importunate collectors, with big cash boxes, of the dock-hands.

The Dock Companies' Offer Refused.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Burns and Fillett, after consulting with the Strike Committee, announced that they could not guarantee that the men would resume work on Monday. They explained that before giving a final reply they would have to consult with the sectional committees of the strikers.

The Strike Committee has issued a manifesto stating that the strikers will not accept the dock companies' terms, namely, an increase of wages from Jan. 1, 1890, on condition that the men return to work Monday next. The situation is therefore unchanged.

A Compromise Hoped For.

LONDON, Sept. 8.—The Lord Mayor of London, Bishop Temple and Cardinal Manning have written a joint letter in which they recount the negotiations conducted by them with the dock companies with a view to the settlement of the strike. They express surprise at the strikers' repudiation of the terms agreed to by the dock companies and declare their opinion that if the men continue the strike they will forfeit the sympathy hitherto accorded them.

The strikers held another large meeting in Hyde Park to-day. The proceedings were orderly. Mr. Burns in a speech declared it was a mistake to suppose that he had agreed to the proposal of the arbitrators. He invited the strikers to declare whether or not they would accept the proposal. A loud shout of "No" went up from the crowd. Mr. Burns continuing said the strike committee were prepared to hold out for three weeks more, but he believed the directors of the dock companies would concede the strikers' terms before another week had passed.

Mr. Tillet visited the Lord Mayor this evening, and proposed new terms, to commence in October. The Lord Mayor demurred but promised to use his best endeavors to persuade the dock directors to agree to the terms. It is probable a compromise will soon be arranged on the basis of increased wages beginning in November.

Burns and His Leader.

LONDON, Sept. 8.—Mr. John Burns, the workingman whose name has become prominent in connection with the strike, is a somewhat remarkable personage. He is self-educated, and his neatly furnished house in Battersea has a large library of books, chiefly on political economy and works of reference. He has been a lifelong teetotaler and non-smoker and his chief hobbies are books and Socialism. It is not many years since he was prosecuted by Sir Charles Russell for street riots, and more recently he was imprisoned for six months for resisting the police in Trafalgar square. Notwithstanding his present prestige, he cannot be called a leader of men. In his street rioting he only followed that wild person, Mr. Hyndman; in Trafalgar square he was under the leadership of Mr. Cunningham Grahame; and now, in the East End riots, his leader and instigator is Mr. Champion, an ex-artillery officer and a well-known Socialist. Mr. Champion is a remarkable personage, of magical persuasive influence over every one he approaches. He hates the Gladstonian party, for which quality he has received a large private support from the Liberal-Unionists toward his newspaper, The Labor Elector. This is one of the smartest organs in London, and one of the bitterest against the trades-unionists. It is a remarkable feature of the present strike that Mr. Burns' most useful ally is Mr. John Lafone, the Tory wharfinger.

Bismarck's Policy.

BERLIN, Sept. 8.—The approach of the opening of the final session of the Reichstag is causing all parties to ask what form of policy the government is likely to take on which to go before the country. The semi-official press affords no special indication. Prince Bismarck is obviously awaiting the results of the French elections. If the present government is so materially weakened as to make Boulangerism an important factor of the French policy we are certain to hear the war drum beat as in 1887, and there will be renewed appeals to the patriotic to support further military burdens, even if Carnot be secured in power.

Prince Bismarck appears to be preparing to give prominence to social reforms, bills dealing with strikes and measures aiming to protect the poorer classes against undue interest on loans. Legislation generally in favor of the working classes will play a leading part in the coming session of both the Reichstag and the Landtag as a preliminary to forming a plank in the election platform. Meanwhile the military expansion involves a demand in the Reichstag for a credit of 60,000,000 marks, including expenditures involved in the formation of two new army corps by dividing the corps now designated as the fifteenth. The measure is to organize rather than to increase the army. Still it implies a substantial numerical addition to the cavalry and artillery.

The temper of the Foreign Office towards Russia is growing worse. The rumor of the visit of the Czarewitch to Paris is not credited unless he goes in the strictest incognito. The Czar's treatment of Emperor William continues to embitter the relations between the two countries. The semi-official press is permitted or instructed to speak with notable frankness and severity. The Cologne Gazette declares that the first line of chancery is not Paris but St. Petersburg. The Hamburg Correspondence, in an undoubtedly inspired article, says: "Germany must accept the fact of the permanent hostility of the Czar. Persistence in the Russian policy is more dangerous to the peace of Europe than French chauvinism. The Chancellor, being convinced of the Czar's lasting enmity, will cease his delicate and cautious treatment of Russia and henceforth frankly treat St. Petersburg as he treats Paris." The paper approves an entente with England and disapproves the idea of giving free scope to Russia outside of Europe.

Tuffy for the Tars.

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—The crews of the German [illegible] Adler and Blue, which were wrecked in the Samoa hurricane in march last, have arrived at Kiel. Prince Henry, in an address, told them they had nobly performed their duty in Samoa, showing themselves brave sons of the Fatherland. He welcomed them in the name of the Emperor, who, he said, loved every truly brave man as his own son. The Prince afterward gave a dinner in honor of the men.

Famine Stricken Peasants.

LONDON, Sept. 8.—The famine-stricken peasantry of Albania are raiding villages in search of food. Thus far they have refrained from any further violence than has been necessary to render their victims as destitute as themselves, but it is feared that their desperation will soon lead them to acts beside which pillage would be praiseworthy. A similar condition of affairs exists in some parts of Montenegro. Prince Nicholas, with a view of allaying the sufferings of his people, recently proposed to borrow 2,000,000 florins from German and Austrian bankers as a relief fund. The bankers declined to grant the loan; so Nicholas turned to Russia for assistance, and a fund is being raised there for the starving subjects of the Czar's "best friend in Europe."

Anarchist Schnaubelt.

LONDON, Sept. 8.—For the last 15 months Rudolph Schnaubelt, the Chicago Anarchist who is supposed to have thrown the fatal bomb in the Haymarket riot, has been living in London under the protection of an Anarchist named Penkert. The utmost secrecy has been observed with regard to Schnaubelt's presence here, but recently his identity was discovered and his patron changed his quarters. It is now learned that Schnaubelt has fled the city, fearing he would be arrested and extradited to Chicago. It is thought that he has gone to Copenhagen.

Gladstone Banqueted.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Mr. Gladstone ascended the Eiffel tower to-day under the escort of M. Eiffel. Premier Tirard, Jules Simon, Leon Say and a number of other distinguished men gave a banquet this evening in honor of Mr. Gladstone.

The Antwerp Horror.

ANTWERP, Sept. 7.—The Minister of the Interior has visited the scene of the explosion. The King and Queen have telegraphed expressing sympathy with the sufferers. Subscriptions have been opened for the relief of those rendered destitute by the disaster.

The fire has at last been extinguished. Several more corpses have been found, and the number of the dead will certainly reach 200. The arrest of M. Carvillian, the proprietor of the cartridge factory, has been ordered.

FIRES OF A DAY.

An Explosion in a Sugar Refinery Kindles a $2,000,000 Conflagration.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—One of the most disastrous fires that have ever struck Williamsburgh occurred this afternoon in the mammoth sugar plant of Dick, Meyer & Co. The fire started with an explosion supposed to have been caused by the explosive nature of finely powdered particles of sugar, which permeated the air in the mills where the granulated sugar was being reduced to the powdered product. There were three mills at work reducing granulated sugar at the time. The entire establishment was reduced to a mass of ruins. It was filled with very valuable machinery and the loss on the buildings and machinery is estimated at $1,500,000. Within the building were 17,000 barrels of sugar valued at about 500,000 dollars, making the total loss $2,000,000. There were a number of men injured by the explosion all burned by the fire. The mills employed 200 men, who will be thrown out of employment. The capacity of the refinery was 1,000,000 pounds daily. The injured men were: Martin Schmidt, burned about the face; John Keller, burned about the head; George Swallen, arm fractured. Three others were slightly injured.

DUNVILLE, Ont., Sept. 7.—A disastrous conflagration occurred about 10 o'clock to-day, Mr. McMillon, who lives about a half a mile from the village of Canfield on the Canboro road, discovered his barn in flames. After the building had been almost entirely consumed and the flames had subsided, McMahon effected an entrance to ascertain the cause of fire and found the charred remains of a man. This individual had been seen in the village early in the morning with a revolver and threatened to shoot himself. It is supposed he set the barn on fire and then shot himself. The man is not known here and is supposed to be a tramp. The season's crops were destroyed and the building partly covered by insurance.

LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 8.—Wrightsville, a small town on the Susquehanna River opposite Columbia, this county, was a scene of fierce conflagration, the police station and five barns being destroyed by incendiary fires. After the first fire, a vigilance committee patrolled the place but failed to prevent the other fires. The last occurred early this morning. James Fiester was seized on suspicion of being the incendiary and locked up in the burning building, from which he succeeded in escaping. He was afterward arrested on the charge of arson and jailed.

OSHAWA, Sept. 8.—About 10 o'clock last night fire was discovered in the barn of Bernard Smith, one mile east of Harmony, and the building, 60 tons of hay, a quantity of oats, barley and agricultural implements were burnt. Loss $15,000. Partially insured.

TROY, N.Y., Sept 7.—A fire this afternoon in the Florence Institute, Mechanicsville, caused a loss of $8000.

STOCK CITY, Sept. 7.—Hodge's livery stables with about 25 head of horses and mules were totally consumed by fire last night. Loss $12,000.

CLINTON JUNCTION, Wis., Sept. 7.—A large hay warehouse containing 200 tons of hay and 2000 bushels of unthreshed wheat together with valuable outbuildings were burned here yesterday. Loss $5500.

RICHMOND, Ind., Sept. 7.—The Central Telephone Company's exchange was burned out yesterday by one or more of the wires coming in contact with the cable of the electric street railway. All the mass of wires between the operating room and tower were burnt out.

Drowned in Lake Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 8. — A West Selkirk special says: During a storm on Lake Winnipeg Sunday night last a boat containing a number of mill hands and Rev. Mr. McHaffie was swamped, and it is supposed all were drowned. Two bodies have been washed ashore.

AMBITIOUS CITY NEWS.

A Boy Fatally Hurt. Bishop Dowling on Home Rule.

HAMILTON, Sept. 8.—A 15 year-old boy named John Douglass was engaged in harnessing a horse yesterday afternoon when the animal kicked him on the head, fracturing his skull. It is feared his injuries will prove fatal.

A Spectator reporter interviewed Bishop Dowling on Home Rule yesterday. His Lordship said: "If the same measure of self-government was granted Ireland that we enjoy in Canada the result would be a loyal, industrious, prosperous people. English and American capital would flow in to establish new industries, for which as great facilities exist as anywhere else, and the tide of prosperity would overflow the now impoverished land."

ON FOR THE SASKATCHEWAN.

The Northern Pacific and the Canadian Pacific Building That Way.

DULUTH, Sept. 8.—The Northern Pacific Railway is heading through Montana and the Northwest Territory for the Saskatchewan River and it is expected to reach there next year. The Canadian Pacific, it is said, has just let a contract to build 700 miles of new road. It will build this from Regina to Prince Albert on the Saskatchawan, to which place the Northern Pacific is heading. Next spring the line will be extended westward through Edmonton and Yellowhead Pass of the Rocky Mountains to Vancouver. Thirty thousand tons of steel rails are now on the way from England for new lines.

Murdered For Money.

NORFOLK, Va. Sept. 8.—C. S. Walker, who kept a grocery at Sewell's Point, was found murdered in his bedroom this morning. It is supposed that early this morning parties called at the store and woke up Walker, and as he opened the door he was struck senseless with a club and then beaten to death. His skull was fractured and his face mangled. The murderers then robbed the store of $180 and a lot of merchandise. After that the body of Walker was placed between two mattresses which were set on fire. The fire burned slowly and when the body was found one arm and a portion of the face only was burned off. Two negroes who acted suspiciously in a boat near Sewell's Point were arrested. Both had prints of blood on their clothing.

They Didn't Fight.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 9. — W. A. Fateson of the Georgia duelists was here yesterday with his second and Huff's second and Dr. Westmoreland. They have been at Sulphur Springs, Ala., a few miles from the Georgia line. They say that was the appointed place, and after waiting there 36 hours they gave him up and left for Atlanta. Huff was at Columbus, Ga., dodging the officers apparently trying to make his way [illegible] beast.

AND NOW IT IS PROVED.

WHO IS SAID TO HAVE JUMPED NIAGARA FALLS.

Arrested for Attempted Suicide—He Tells a Queer and Contradictory Story in Court—The Magistrate Binds Him Over.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Sept. 7.—Steve Prodie claims to have gone over the Horseshoe Falls at 5.30 this morning in a rubber suit. He was dropped in above the Falls and passed over hardly touching the water. He was interviewed and stated that he had to go over or become a maniac, as it had worked on his brain. He went under the water for two minutes and came to the surface and was pulled out by a rope being tied to him by a life-saver. In speaking of the trip he said it was an easy matter to perform the feat. W. H. Harding of The Police Gazette vouches for the truth of the statement. Soon after being put in the water Brodie lost his nerve and asked for a rope to be pulled out but passed over in the centre of the falls. He was picked up and taken to the Waverly House, where he was seen. He complains of a sore back and says a man is crazy to go over, but will do it again for money. The suit is of rubber, the shape of a man, inflated and lined with soft material.

Brodie went this afternoon to the Grand Trunk ticket office and purchased a ticket via New York Central to New York by the 4 p.m. train. Shortly afterwards Chief MacDougald of the Ontario police arrested him on the strength of this warrant:

That Stephen Brodie of the city of New York did, on the 7th day of September, 1889, unlawfully go into the current of the river above Niagara Falls with the intention of being carried over the said falls of Niagara and allow himself to be carried over the said falls to the great danger of losing his life and in so doing he did thereby attempt to commit suicide.

(Signed), A. G. HILL,
Police Magistrate.

Brodie was taken to the council chamber and brought before Police Magistrate Hill. He answered questions put to him as follows:

I am saloon keeper in New York city; born in New York; married, have wife and three children; have common school education and am a printer by trade; only arrested once before; am a Catholic; did not attempt to commit suicide by going over the falls, but to show the world that the trip could be made, and also the usefulness of the rubber suit for life saving.

The police magistrate told him he himself did not believe he went over the falls at all, and the whole thing was gotten up by himself and his friends to humbug the people. If he persisted in saying he went over he would go on with the suit against him.

Brodie said: "If I tell you I did not go over will you let me go?" The police magistrate said: "Yes." Brodie said: "Well, then, I did not go over and I am off." The magistrate then wrote this declaration and asked Brodie to sign it:

I, Stephen Brodie, the party within charged, hereby declare I did not go over Niagara Falls as within charged, and that the story of having gone over was all for the purpose of speculation and untrue.

Brodie asked the police magistrate if that was an oath.

The police magistrate answered him in the affirmative.

Brodie then replied: "I cannot perjure myself. I am a Catholic and cannot sign that."

Brodie asked for counsel and Alexander Fraser watched the case for him. The first witness called was Chief of Police McDougald, who swore as follows: "I knew the prisoner and that his name is Brodie by his own statement. At the Waverly House to-day a little after 9 a.m. I saw the prisoner. He was in bed and had a rubber suit in the room with him, in which he stated he had come over the falls in the morning. He did not complain of being hurt."

George Phemister said he was the representative of the Canadian associated press and interviewed prisoner this morning in his room at the Waverly. He told him he had gone over the falls this morning clothed in his rubber suit. He claimed he took to the water about 500 or 600 feet above the falls. He said although fright he became unconscious. He did not complain of being shaken up any. He did not say how long he was in the water. He said the shock when striking the water at the base of the falls partly restored him to his senses and afterwards he knew nothing until he was on the rocks with his friends. He also said from his experience this morning he believed persons meeting with an accident in the river if they kept cool could go over the centre of the Horse Shoe Falls and come out all right if they kept to the keel of their boat. The rubber suit was at the Waverly House when last seen by witness.

Thomas Emery said he drove the party from the falls to the hotel this morning. Louis Ledger, the young man who, it was said, swam out and rescued Brodie, said he was not at the falls with Brodie. He met Brodie and newspaper men at the hotel afterwards and heard what they said about prisoner going over the falls. Little truth could be placed in Ledger's evidence, he being so frightened that he did not know what he was saying. James S. McDonaugh and others were called and corroborated the story.

The police magistrate summed up the evidence. He bound the prisoner over in $500 bonds on his own recognizance to keep the laws of the Dominion, especially that of not attempting going over the falls, for one year.

After the prisoner had signed the documents he immediately left for the American side. He seemed very nervous and frightened throughout the whole proceedings. His friends, Harding, Gerold and McCarthy of New York, as soon as they heard Brodie was arrested made themselves scarce, no doubt fearing arrest for aiding and abetting an attempted suicide.

Old Masters Not Not Antiquities.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The Treasury Department has declined to grant the request of H. Marquand of New York for a modification of the decision relative to the importation of collections of antiquities. The correspondents wished the decision, which defined such works as those produced before the year 1700, modified so as to admit free paintings of Reynolds, Gainsborough and other artists who lived about the year 1800 and recognized by the British Museum as "old Masters." The Department holds that these works are not antiquities in any proper sense of the term and that such a radical modification as that sought can be made only by act of Congress.

A.C.P.R. Brakeman Killed.

PETERBORO, Sept. 7.—Another fatal railway accident occurred on the line of the C.P.R. about four miles east of Peterboro early this morning. Conductor Peck's special freight train left the Peterboro station at 3.30 a.m. eastward bound. When about four miles out the van and one car broke loose from the train. It is supposed that the engineer on the breaking of the bell rope whistled down brakes and Thomas Everest, who was in the van, ran out to perform his duty. In the darkness he did not notice that the train had broken and rushed on to his death. He fell off the end of the car between the rails and the brake beams catching his clothes; he was dragged about 100 feet. He was taken to the hospital, where he lingered in agony till 11.30 o'clock. The young man lived in Toronto.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN, M. C.

In the Way the Champion Pug Wishes to Write His Name—His Manifesto.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—John L. Sullivan publishes a letter here announcing that he will be a candidate for the nomination to Congress on the Democratic ticket in Boston at the next election. He says:

I have always supported the party and have always voted for it. I am second as far as my political record is concerned and I feel I deserve the support of the party on that score. Then I have personal friends and general admirers enough in Boston to elect me anyhow. Any man who doubts my popularity with the American people has only got to travel about with me to get rid of that notion. Some may criticise my occupation in life. They don't know what they are talking about. My business is, and always has been ever since I came before the public, to encourage physical culture. Many a young man to-day is bigger and stronger because my example has set him to work. Then, besides, with my matches and exhibitions I have entertained hundreds of thousands all over the country. Also I have furnished through the newspapers interesting reading to millions. People have got to feel grateful to those who entertain them.

As for my methods of carrying on business and my dealings with other men, who can criticise them? If I make a promise I keep it. I have always looked after my friends and no one can accuse me of not acting fairly by him. A Sunday-school teacher can't say more than that.

But what I feel to be more important than all else is the work which I have done to keep up the reputation of America among other nations. The best men from everywhere have tried to beat me but failed, and since I first began I have kept the pugilist championship of the world in this country. There isn't a self-respecting American, no matter what tom-fool ideas he may have about boxing in general, who does not feel patriotic pride at the thought that a native born American, a countryman of his, can lick any man on the face of the earth. It is human nature and this feeling of patriotism applies especially to Boston, where I was born and where I shall appear as a candidate.

As to my fitness for the place I can prove that in few words: A man is elected to Congress to look out for the interests of those who sent him there; that will be my motto, and living up to it will be my business. Now what is wanted by my friends and the citizens of Boston generally and I'll try to get it. In my travels about this country and Europe I have had as much experience in public speaking as most people. I'll have no trouble about getting a hearing in Congress or in making people pay attention to what I say.

In an interview this afternoon Sullivan referred to the death of his mother, and said he did not feel like living as he had done up to the present time. He intends to give up boxing. He will go through his six weeks' exhibition, put his money away carefully and then attend to his political career exclusively.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The long heralded reception to John L. Sullivan was held at the Academy of Music to-night. Fourteenth-street from Third to Fourth-avenues was filled with a motley crowd of Sullivan's admirers and when the champion's carriage appeared it was almost impossible for the driver to bring it to the curb-stone. When the champion alighted the cheering was tremendous and crowds of people, well dressed and otherwise, tried to shake his hand. The audience inside the academy was not nearly as large as had been expected. Long rows of empty chairs stretched along on either side. The reason for this presumably was the high price charged for admission. The program was a comparatively tame one, the only real good contest being the wrestling match between Muldoon and Greek George. It took Muldoon nine minutes of the liveliest kind of work to throw his opponent. Sullivan appeared in a bout with Mike Cleary. His appearance on the stage was the signal for tumultuous applause. The big fellow stepped to the footlights and made one of his characteristic speeches. He they turned and shook hands with Cleary and the audience were treated to a fine exhibition of scientific boxing. Sullivan showed no disposition to administer any knock out blows. He carried from the stage a handsome floral basket.

A Priest's Fatal Illness.

MARLBORO, Mass., Sept. 7.—The Rev. J. P. Dumontier, aged 60, senior rector of St. Mary's Church, and one of the best known French Catholic priests in New England, has received a paralytic shock and cannot live. He held pastorates at St. Hyacinthe and St. Anne, Canada, and was connected with the French parish at Salem.

An Air Ship Ablaze.

BUFFALO, Sept. 8.—The balloon in which William Thomas was to make an ascension at the fair grounds here yesterday caught fire almost as soon as it started on its skyward journey. The aeronaut hung on until his air ship had attained a height of 700 feet and descended safely by the aid of his parachute.

Midland Millers' Meeting.

Summary of the Minutes of Their Meeting in Belleville — A Schedule of Prices Agreed Upon.

The following summary of the minutes of the recent meeting of the Midland Millers' Association is kindly furnished by the Secretary, Mr. W. H. Meldrum :—

The Midland Millers' Association met in Belleville on the 3rd of Sept., there being a large attendance of millers of the district which comprises the following counties :—Peterborough, Hastings, Northumberland, eastern part of Ontario, north-eastern part of Simcoe and Prince Edward. There were present :—Messrs. W. H. Lingham, Belleville; S. M. Billings, Trenton; J. C. Vanstone, Bowmanville; W. Bensley, Bensley; G. Esterbrook, Tweed; C. Smith, Campbellford; F. Fowlds, Hastings; —— Raeburn, of Rathbun Co., Deseronto; E. McKenzie, Kirkfield; Sills Bros., Moyersburg; F. Rollins, Madoc; J. D. Fiavelle, Lindsay; H. Barrett, Port Hope; R. B. Cooper, Belleville; W. H. Meldrum, Peterborough; J. Hull, Lakefield; W. B. Kinsman, Canton, and David Plowes, Secretary of the Dominion Millers' Association. Letters of regret at not being able to be present were read from Mr. Hilliard, Mr. Peplow and Mr. Mulhern, Peterborough; Messrs. Dobson & Campbell, and others. The meeting was a most harmonious one throughout and subjects suggested by the following resolutions were very fully discussed.

Moved by C. Smith, seconded by F. W. Fowlds, that the schedule for buying wheat and for the exchange of wheat and flour recommended by the Secretary of the Dominion Millers' Association be adopted by this Association, and that the Secretary have the same printed and distributed among the members of this Association, this rule to be carried out as far as practicable; and that rules be printed and distributed at the same time.

Bank discounts was another subject brought up for discussion. Also interest on credits, proper modes of milling, a greater unity amongst millers and a better use of the telephone where reports are heard detrimental to our business or brother millers and concerted action where it is necessary to remedy a grievance. That in the case of any wheat or grain dealer who refuses to make good any lawful shortage either in quality or weight, the secretary shall be notified and concerted action taken to compel a list of all delinquints to be furnished all members by the secretary. The object of the association is not to drive the farmers away from the mill but the very opposite, to strive by straightforward, honest dealing to win the confidence of the farmers and support of the farmers; to remedy the present evils, believing that both interests are identical and that open discussion either at millers' meetings or at Farmers' institute meetings, which the secretary of the millers association would be happy to attend; and explain the objects of the association and their bearing upon the interests of the farmers.

Moved by Geo Easterbrook, seconded by H. Barrett, that the next meeting of the Midland Millers' Association be held at Campbellford on the first Tuesday in December next.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Barrett seconded by B. McKenzie that the thanks of this association be tendered the mayor and council of Belleville for the use of council chamber at present meeting.—Carried.

Moved by C Smith and seconded by F. W. Fowlds that W. H. Lingham be vice President for the remainder of this year—Carried.

Such meetings cannot help but be both beneficial and profitable to this large manufacturing industry. The aim of this Association is for the associating of all persons engaged in the manufacturing of flour and meal, for their mutual protection, improvement, benefit, information, co operation and success. To use every legitimate means in their power to get the duty on flour increased from 50c per barrel to $1.00 the same as the American government levies on Canadian flour, and, instead of the American millers shipping over 300,000 barrels of flour into our markets, displacing in our markets and our mills nearly a million and a half bushels of wheat, as they did last year, to keep our markets for our taxpayers. The millers certainly have a grievance. Government has been again and again sustained by the votes of the people in granting protection to our manufacturers and farmers in their business. And yet if this flour had come in as wheat it would have given employment to our mills and cheap offal to farmers which is the very key note of the National Policy. The farmers and merchants are or should be as much interested in this agitation throughout Ontario as the millers because when the millers have a good market they can afford to pay a good price to the farmer for his wheat and the farmer has sufficient and to spare to pay the merchant. The secretary of the Dominion Association has now organized local or district association all over Ontario with something over 600 members which are continually being added to. This represents an investment of over $6,000,000. Six millions of dollars in plant and machinery. There is a large number of small mills which have not yet come into the associations, but they are daily growing smaller in number and from present feeling among the millers their membership will be in their different associations over 1000 in the near future. There has been unanimously adopted all over the province the buying both of street and car wheat by taster, in the belief that the farmer who cleans his wheat is entitled to a premium and the following schedule has been adopted both for buying and exchanging, being based on wholesale values of flour and offal and market price of wheat which by a little arithmetic any one can figure for himself. Another advantage of this system will be a more uniform cleaning of wheat. Farmers who go to church on Sunday and think the golden rule a grand theme do—to your neighbor as you would he should do to you—think it not a very grevious sin to beat the miller by leaving a lot of chess or tailings in his wheat, a though he knows the miller can not make it ur out of the same. There is no question that gristing or exchanging should be abolished altogether, as all bartering of one article for another has long [illegible] in every other business.

Buy the wheat and sell the flour. It would do away with a good deal of friction between farmer and miller and in the end be more profitable to both, as one of our millers proposed to sell flour to farmers at wholesale prices, buying his wheat, giving the highest market price. A great many of our best farmers now sell their wheat and buy their flour and acknowledge the advantage. The above proposal would do away with the retailer's profit, the farmer getting the benefit. The advantage to the miller is evidenced in this way; the farmer brings his own bags, takes it away with his own team, gets cash for his wheat and pays the miller cash for his flour, no bad debts and a clean transaction.

RULES AND REGULATIONS.

A code of rules and regulations for the governance of the Association was adopted, as well as the following schedule for buying wheat and exchanging :—

Some think it right to drink at night,
While others drink by day.

Some drink for sake of company,
While others drink on the sly;
And many drink but never think,
About the reason why.

Some say they drink for pleasure,
And some they drink for pain,
Some say 'tis good, some very bad,
But never once refrain.

MAKING MY LADY'S MUFF.

THE BUSY FURRIERS IN AN OLD QUARTER OF NEW YORK CITY.

Cutter, Sewer, Blocker and Finisher Turn Out Three Dozen Muffs in a Day—Curious Details of the Business—The Native Hare and the Foreign Ermine.

Furs in summer? Yes, they're not so uncommon as to attract undue attention, but these are not worn over fair shoulders clad in lawn. They are heaped in various shapes of manufacture in the shop of a furrier down in the French quarter. At least one thousand men and women in New York are busied in making fur garments. There are factories employing many scores of workmen, and there are dingy little shops where a few journeymen work together, with small capital, low rent and moderate profits. In this particular shop there are only four men at work—just the number required to complete a garment under the division of labor usual in the fur business.

One man stands at a counter with a pile of muskrat skins at his left hand, and in his right a keen little knife, shaped almost exactly like the outstretched wing of a bird. The skin of the furs has been dampened so that it is pliant. The cutter, as he is called, seizes a skin, turns the fur down and rapidly cuts out defects with his bird's wing knife.

SCARCITY OF PERFECT SKINS.

Scarcely one skin in a hundred is perfect. There are shot holes, scars from bites and scratches, tears and other damage, the result of careless curing. By the time all defects have been cut out it may have been necessary to divide the skin into twenty strips and squares. About 20 per cent. of the fur is lost by the process of cutting, though the smallest pieces, even those not more than an inch square, are carefully saved, so long as they are well covered with hair.

As the knife slips through the leather you notice that the under side of the fur is a rich, golden brown, while the outer surface is black. The fur has been dyed, but the dye has not penetrated to the skin. The dyeing and curing are done elsewhere at factories which receive the raw skins by the thousand from the west and south. They come turned wrong side out and looking like great Japanese slippers from having been stretched and dried by the trapper on pointed shingles.

From the cutter's table the skins go to the sewer. He sits in a corner and works a strong sewing machine, whose needle is easily driven through the skin. Ordinary, stout thread is used, and the sewer manages to piece together the various scraps in such a way that no seam shows on the hairy side. The seams on the under side appear like straight ridges or cords. The skin comes from the sewer a patchwork of leather almost as strongly held together as an uncut pelt.

From the sewer the material goes to the blocker. In this instance it is a muff that they are making. The "block" is in seven pieces that fit together and form an implement that looks almost exactly like a big wheel hub. The skin, which has been sewn end to end so as to form a hollow cylinder, is placed on the block form. It extends a little beyond the block, and a little wooden disk is placed in each end of the latter. To these disks the ends of the skin are nailed, and the whole thing is then placed in the window to dry.

When the skin is partly dried it is removed from the block and turned over to the finisher. He puts in wadding and lining and sews on the cord and tassels, if the muff is to be thus ornamented. Finally the fur is carefully brushed until it is smooth and glossy. Then it is put into a round pasteboard box, ready to be shipped to the merchant, through whom it is distributed to the retail dealers here and elsewhere.

WAGES OF THE WORKERS.

Four men working together thus ten hours a day can make three dozen muffs. Cutters earn from $15 to $18 a week and blockers and finishers from $10 to $12 a week. Women are sometimes employed as finishers at about the same wages. The busy season is from June to December. September, October and November are perhaps the most active months of the season. In the spring and winter business is dull, and the few men employed are at work upon inferior material, which cannot be worked profitably in the busy season.

Fashion in furs changes slightly from year to year, and the growing taste for summer furs now has to be taken into account. Boas, capes and muffs are now being made for next winter. The cheapest and most abundant skin is that of the hare; the costliest are those of the beaver, sable, seal, black fox and ermine. The last named is extremely rare. The dispised polecat contributes fur to the comfort and ornamentation of beauty, and nobody turns up their nose at him.

His unpleasant characteristics disappear in the curing. Pretty boas are made of the hare's skin, and costly capes of lynx, sable and beaver fur. Some of the costliest furs are imported, but the great mass of fur garments are made from native skins.

Foreigners have been pioneers in the fancy fur business of New York, and there are still many Frenchmen, Germans and Italians employed in the work; but native Americans are taking to the trade more and more. It requires from one to five years to become an expert cutter, but other branches of the trade are more quickly learned. The costliest furs are made up in large factories, because it takes considerable capital to keep a stock of raw material on hand. The business is rather dirty, but it is not specially unwholesome.—New York Star.

Has convinced many that to use any of the substitutes offered for the only sure pop and painless corn cure is attended with danger. Get always and use none other than Putnams Painless Corn Extractor, at druggists.

The Loss of the Hair

Is a great misfortune and the sight of a bald head should be a warning to you to take the best possible care of your hair. A little of Dr. Dorenwend's "Hair Magic" used occasionally will prevent all chances of its falling out or turning gray, and will remove all traces of dandruff. Every druggist has it in stock. Ask for it. dw

The Oklahoma Boom

FOR IS an instance of a wild rush for an uncertainty, which is just the opposite of the steady boom enjoyed by Burdock Blood Bitters. Buyers of this medicine get a certainty—an unequalled remedy for all diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels, kidneys and the blood. 2w34d

The Four Cardinal Points

The stomach, the liver, the bowels and the blood are the four cardinal points of health. These Burdock Blood Bitters acts upon to strengthen, regulate, cleanse and purify, thus restoring and maintaining perfect health. B. B. B. is nature's true tonic and enovator. 2w34d

Timely Wisdom.

TIMELY wisdom is shown by those who keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry on hand. It has no equal for cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhoea, dysentery, colic, cramps and all summer complaints or looseness of the bowels. 2w34

The Appetite

May be increased, the Digestive organs strengthened, and the Bowels regulated, by taking Ayer's Pills. These Pills are purely vegetable in their composition. They contain neither calomel nor any other dangerous drug, and may be taken with perfect safety by persons of all ages.

I was a great sufferer from Dyspepsia and Constipation. I had no appetite, became greatly debilitated, and was constantly afflicted with Headache and Dizziness. I consulted our family doctor, who prescribed for me, at various times, without affording more than temporary relief. I finally commenced taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time my digestion and appetite my bowels were regulated, and, by the time I finished two boxes of these Pills my tendency to headaches had disappeared, and I became strong and well.—Darius M. Logan, Wilmington, Del.

IMPROVED

I was troubled, for over a year, with Loss of Appetite, and General Debility. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and, before finishing half a box of this medicine, my appetite and strength were restored. —C. O. Clark, Danbury, Conn.

Ayer's Pills are the best medicine known to me for regulating the bowels, and for all diseases caused by a disordered Stomach and Liver. I suffered for over three years with Headache, Indigestion, and Constipation. I had no appetite, and was weak and nervous most of the time.

BY USING

three boxes of Ayer's Pills, and, at the same time dieting myself, I was completely cured. My digestive organs are now in good order, and I am in perfect health.—Philip Lockwood, Topeka, Kans.

Ayer's Pills have benefited me wonderfully. For months I suffered from Indigestion and Headache, was restless at night, and had a bad taste in my mouth every morning. After taking one box of Ayer's Pills, all these troubles disappeared, my food digested well, and my sleep was refreshing.—Henry C. Hemenway, Rockport, Mass.

I was cured of the Piles by the use of Ayer's Pills. They not only relieved me of that painful disorder, but gave me increased vigor, and restored my health.—John Lazarus, St. John, N. B.

Moral reformers will attend Mrs. Bradley's meeting in the Mark street Methodist church.

Those having the interests of the heathen at heart will drop a coin on the plate at the missionary entertainment in the George street church.

Struck by a Train.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Johnston, of Otonabee, had a narrow escape from death Saturday evening at Leary's crossing on the C. P. R. track. They were returning home after having spent the day in town, and just as they reached the crossing the evening express train came rushing along. Mr. Johnston says he saw the train coming but could not control his horse, a big, strong animal, which kept on its course and reached the track only a few yards in advance of the train. The buggy had nearly cleared the rails, a moment more and they would have been safe, when the engine struck the end of the vehicle and threw it up in the air. It turned completely over and fell on the horse, Mr. and Mrs. Johnston falling with it. Fortunately the horse did not run away, and the accident had no more serious results than some severe cuts and bruises upon the occupants of the buggy. Mr. George Bennett, who happened to be passing at the time, ran to the assistance of the couple and extricated them from their dangerous position. The engineer also backed his train down to the scene of the accident to see what damage had been done, but finding nothing serious had resulted at once started off again to make up his time. Mr. and Mrs. Johnston secured another buggy, their own being broken, and continued on their way homeward. Their's was a very narrow escape. Had they been a few inches more on the track the engine would have struck the buggy fairly and they would probably have been killed. As it was Mrs. Johnston sustained painful injuries about the head and face and Mr. Johnston had his leg hurt.

Church Chimes.

A Lady Preacher in the George Street Church.

In the absence of the pastor, the pulpit of the George street Methodist church was supplied on Sunday from outside sources. In the morning Rev. Mr. Leitch preached an able sermon, and in the evening Mrs. Elizabeth Haney Bradley, of England, addressed a large congregation upon the aims and growth of the White Cross movement. It was the organized outcome of an effort to suppress an iniquitous law which came into force in England over twenty years ago—a law which legalized licentiousness and made sin safe. Mrs. Josephine Butler originated this movement for the elevation of fallen women, and ever since it had been growing. Their chief object was to do away with the double standard of morality which existed throughout Christendom, which tolerated the violation of the seventh commandment by man, but frowned upon it in woman. They wanted to see an equal standard of morals adopted for man and woman alike, and the nation saved from the fate which befel Greece and Rome through their licentiousness. France was pointed out as an example of the degredation to which a low standard of morals will drag a nation down. The first result of this movement was the establishment in 1873 of the "Social Purity Society," from which other similar organizations originated, the last being the White Cross and White Shield societies, started in 1883 by Miss Alice Hopkins. The Society has grown until its pledges were known throughout Christendom. Mrs. Bradley read over the pledges of the two Societies, one for men and the other for women, and announced that she would this evening speak in the Mark street Methodist church upon the same subject, explaining the movement more in detail. Meetings will also be held during the week in different churches.

Police Court.

MONDAY, Sept. 9.

One of the Markham excursionists took too much whisky on board on Saturday and was locked up by the police. This morning he was allowed to go by the magistrate.

Mr. T. Cavanagh was arraigned on a charge of violating the liquor license act by selling liquor after hours on Saturday, August 31st. One of the witnesses was absent, and the case was enlarged till to-morrow. A warrant was issued for the arrest of the negligent witness, who will be kept in the cells till wanted to give his evidence.

The enlarged case against Francis Winter, accused of uttering a counterfeit note, was taken up, County Crown Attorney Wood prosecuting and Mr. K. B. Stone defending the prisoner. P.C. Adams testified to arresting the prisoner and receiving the $5 British Canadian bank bill from Mr. Becket. The latter said he got it from his wife, but was not personally aware of any value having been given for it, nor that Winter paid for his board with it. Mrs. Becket said the prisoner showed her the bill as a curiosity, telling her it was counterfeit. Mrs. Becket then showed it to her husband, who kept it and nothing more was said about the bill at that time. As there was no intent to defraud shown the prisoner was discharged.

A charge of keeping a disorderly house on Friday night last was next brought up against Mr. Becket, but the magistrate dismissed the case as he held the statutes did not cover it. He however, told the proprietor of the Queen's Hotel that this should act as a warning to him.

News Nuggets.

Mr. Harry Rush's New Home.

Description of a Delightful Family Residence—Its Beautiful Grounds and Surroundings.

"Hello, Tom! How are you getting on with Mr. Harry Rush's house?"

"Very well; it's almost ready for him to move into. Come on up till I show you through."

"All right, but Harry is such a modest, unassuming sort of fellow, he won't care to have any said about it in the papers."

"Yes, I know he's that kind of a man; but it's worth while seeing the place, and the improvements he has made upon it. You can suit yourself about putting anything in the EXAMINER about it."

Such is the substance of a conversation one of our staff had with Mr. T. C. Irwin, builder and contractor, the other morning, as both strolled up Court House hill.

Some four or five month's ago, when the widow of the late Lieut.-Col. Haultain decided to remove to England, the splendid homestead and grounds, situated on the extreme eastern crest of Sheridan Hill, was offered for sale. Mr. Harry Rush purchased the property at a lucky figure. So "taken" was he with the premises and its delightful situation, that he at once decided to make it his future home; and it was not long before a gang of carpenters, plumbers, painters, paper hangers and decorators were busily employed making such alterations and improvements as Mr. Rush's tastes suggested, in order to comport with the improvements of the day.

The site is of the most picturesque character, surmounting the high bluff at the eastern terminus of Brock street. From its elevated position a commanding view is obtained of the eastern and southern valleys of Peterborough and Ashburnham, the river Otonabee, and the blue hillsides beyond. Its environments of ample breathing space afford abundance of pure air, and cheerful outlook.

The building is a commodious three-story structure, with two story verandahs on the south side and a one story verandah on the north side. The main entrance is on Brock street, the frontage being lined with a row of healthy well matured shade trees. Entering through the broad vestibule the hall is reached, opening out from which is the drawing room, parlour and sitting room. The drawing room is the finest in the house, for capaciousness and situation, being large, cheerful and well lighted, with a delightful southern view away over the lawn and grounds and down over the Otonabee valley to the blue hills of Rice Lake. An arch divides the sitting room from the drawing room, permitting both rooms to be thrown into one when desired. To the right is the library, with a western outlook, conveniently connected with a hall at each end leading on to the verandahs. To the left of the drawing room is the large family dining room with open fireplace, bright and airy, and possessing the same cheerful view to the south as the drawing room. It is flanked by a convenient pantry, into which the dumb waiter arises from the kitchen below. Off the dining room is the "spare bed room" a cosy corner of the house, with ample area and light and connecting with the verandah on the south. Across a hall is the family bathroom, situated immediately over the kitchen. It contains one full-sized copper bath, planished, supplied with the latest improved fixtures for hot and cold water and shower bath. Conveniently placed is an improved flush closet, with taps, cocks and handles nickel plated and well finished. There is also a wash basin with marble top, supplied with taps for hot and cold water. The plumbing in this room has been executed with care, and practical attention bestowed upon it for assuring the best sanitary results. The bed-rooms are situated in the third story. They are all large apartments, well lighted and ventilated, and give a fine view of the surrounding country. Above the bed-rooms is the observatory with its glass sides, tinted walls and snow-white ceiling, from which a still better and more extended view is obtainable.

The basement story constitutes the culinary laboratory and warehouse for the establishment. In the eastern corner is situated the kitchen, containing the large range which is connected by iron pipes for conducting hot water from a "Monitor" hot water boiler for the use of bathroom, sinks, etc. Adjoining the kitchen is the furnace and wood room. The furnace has been supplied with gallows pipe and is used for heating the building throughout with hot air, which is conducted through radiators and controlled by registers in the different rooms. Next come the fruit room, fowl racks, ice refrigerator, etc., complete. A large cistern is located in the south-west corner, built of brick and plastered with cement, capable of holding 75 barrels of water. It has one of Powell's large force pumps, also a very useful syphon arrangement which causes the old water at the bottom to be displaced as the fresh water rushes in at the top. There is also a tool house adjoining convenient to the grounds. The summer kitchen is on the south east side, where another large cistern is built of same material and syphoned in same way capable of holding 100 barrels of water. Adjoining is the servant's bath room and closet, with water tank and force pump for supplying the upper bath room and other purposes. A commodious summer dining room faces the lawn to the south, capable of seating a large family, and admirably adapted for a "house warming."

The whole building has been retouched, inside and out. All the rooms (except in the basement) have been papered, repainted and decorated. Striking and harmonious wall paper effects are produced—the patterns and designs being selected from the wall paper department of the Peterborough Bookstore. The painting, graining and paper hanging were done by Mr. H. W. Watson, the versatile decorator, the pleasing combinations brought out in the different rooms being creditable to his taste and skill.

The drainage has also received important attention. All the escapes empty into a large sewer leading from underneath the building which follows a gradual incline until it reaches the open side of the hill about fifty yards away where it discharges into the race-way below. The house pipes and sewer are properly trapped, and every precaution taken to insure purity of atmosphere. The closets, baths, water tanks and boiler, were supplied by Messrs. J. E. Noble & Co., plumbers of this town, who also had charge of the plumbing and drainage. The house is also conveniently fitted up throughout with gas. All the details have been carried out with good judgment by the overseer, Mr. T. C. Irwin.

The grounds are specially deserving of description, and form a handsome complement to a complete and charming residence. A large portion is designed for a lawn and croquet grounds, while the terraced walks and rolling green sward give variety and grace to the picture. The garden is stocked with a variety of choice bearing fruit trees, including the damson plum, green gages, crab apple, russets, grapes, etc.; also a selection of well matured ornamental trees, such as the cut-leaf maple, horse chestnut, willow, etc. Here, too, is room for a prolific vegetable garden capable of yielding sufficient for the annual supply of the family. There is a ventilated well of splendid drinking water, 44 feet deep with 8 feet of water. The outhouses attached to the premises consist of stable, carriage house, poultry house, ice house, general store room, woodshed, root house, smoke and ash houses. These have yet to undergo improvements to suit Mr. Rush's requirements.

The firm of Hall, Innes & Co. have been intrusted with the order for supplying new carpeting for the house, and Mr. Robt. Hall is now engaged in selecting and fitting suitable patterns for the respective apartments.

The EXAMINER as well as Mr. Rush's host of friends will wish him long life and happiness to enjoy the comforts of his new home.

THE GREAT BOAT RACE.

Searle Succeeds in Conquering the Canadian.

The Australian Leads at the Finish by Six Boat Lengths.

The great sculling race for the championship of the world was settled on the Thames to-day. A great deal of interest was felt over the event in all parts of the world, and Canadians were anxious to see their man win. O'Connor had lots of backers, and an immense amount of money was put up. Searle was the favorite. In Peterborough considerable betting was done, the majority being anxious to place their money on O'Connor, but demanding odds. Following are the messages as received at the EXAMINER office.

THE FIRST REPORT.

LONDON, Sept, 9th.—The Searle-O'Connor race was rowed here to day, Searle winning handily. At the Hammer-smith bridge one mile and three quarters from the start, Searle led by two lengths. He won by six lengths. Searle's time was 22 minutes, 42 seconds for the four miles.

DETAILS OF THE RACE.

LONDON Reg, Sept 9th.—There were occasional squalls of wind during the progress of the race, and off Surrey the water was slightly lumpy, otherwise the conditions were good. The sun was shining. Betting during the forenoon was virtually even, at 21 to 20 on Searle, and bets at these figures were taken readily. Finally odds changed to 5 to 4 against Searle. Start was made by mutual consent at 1.23, with O'Connor rowing at terrific rate. Soon after start O'Connor caught a "crab," and Searle overtook him and gained the lead. Searle was rowing splendidly but slowed up beyond Walden's. Searle apparently without effort and rowing 29 strokes per minute gained half a length, which he gradually increased. O'Connor frequently and anxiously looked over his shoulder at his opponent. When Hammersmith bridge was reached O'Connor appeared distressed. At the Thorny Croft iron works both men were pulling in good form. A nasty head wind was blowing but the water in Chesiwick Reach was not affected.

Here Searle was three lengths ahead. From Chesiwick Point the race was a procession. O'Connor rowed splendidly throughout the race. He seemed to have been overtrained, for after the first mile had been rowed, he tired quickly. The course was well kept. The attendance of spectators was large for a professional sculling race.

A Good Ball Game.

The Markham Team Defeated After an Exciting Game.

The baseball game on the P. A. A. A. grounds Saturday afternoon between the Markham club and the Association team was one of the best of the season. There were two or three hundred spectators in attendance, principally Markham people, who enjoyed it immensely. The visitors have the reputation of being one of the strongest amateur teams in the province, having this year defeated the Athletics of Toronto. At first it looked as if they would win Saturday's game, but the Association nine by sharp play pulled the game out of the fire and scored a victory.

McCabe, the one-armed twirler of the Athletics, pitched for the home team, and though wild at times did splendid work. The Markham sluggers could not touch his drops at all. Only one safe hit was made off his delivery. Malcolmson caught for three innings, when he retired with a hurt finger and O'Brien took his place. The battery work on the other side was good. Milne throws a remarkably fast ball, and he was not hit more than two or three times. In the field the Markham team were steadier than their opponents, who in the third innings by a series of wild throws allowed the visitors to score six runs, none of which were earned. After that they steadied down and shut the visitors out.

The last innings was very exciting. The Association team scored a run in advance of the Markhams, and the latter, in their half, came within an ace of tieing the score, but a fine throw from centre field to the home plate nipped the runner and saved the game.

The umpire, W. Harper, of Markham, plainly showed favoritism, particularly in calling balls and strikes, and several of his base decisions drew strong expressions of disapproval from the spectators. In one instance, at a very critical moment, he called a third strike on an Association batter when the catcher had to jump in the air after the ball. However, the home team won in spite of the umpire. The score is:—

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The young men's meeting Saturday evening was a bright and helpful service, and much enjoyed by all present. The singing was led by the Y.M.C.A. orchestra, who are doing much to make these services very attractive to our young men. At the Gospel and song service last night, owing to the detention of Mrs. Bradley, the general secretary gave a short talk until the arrival of Mrs. Bradley, who gave a brief outline of her work. It was a profitable service and we would urge all young men to make it a point to attend these lectures, for they are of great benefit to all.

Mrs. Bradley speaks in Mark street church Ashburnham to-night at 8 o'clock.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

SEARLE'S VICTORY.

THE GREAT RACE AS SEEN FROM THE UMPIRE'S BOAT.

A Desperate Struggle for the First Half Mile—A Good Race Fairly Won—The Times and the Betting.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—The betting ring for the championship of the world sculling match between the Australian Searle and the Canadian O'Connor was pitched on board the umpire's boat, and here wagering on the men was almost even, though slightly in favor of the Australian, when Mr. "Chippy" Norton, an eminent bookmaker, arrived alongside in a wherry at Putney, pulled himself aboard ily seizing the coattails of Sir George Chetwynd and the Marquis of Allesbury, and proceeded to offer £105 to £100 on O'Connor. Searle had been the favorite all along, but the powerful lungs of Norton produced a revulsion of feeling, and soon any kind of a bet might be had either way. As much as £150 to £100 was laid on O'Connor, and five minutes later the same odds were in Searle's favor. Indeed, the betting veered so often that several clever financiers were winners before the start by taking large odds on both, though the betting ended with Searle the favorite. The day was fine, and the water was perfect. The course was effectively policed, and some 50,000 spectators lined both banks of the Thames and occupied a flotilla of small craft that reached from London to Kew. The race was timed to begin at 1.15 o'clock, and not five minutes after that hour both contestants appeared on the river. Searle's backer won the toss for choice of position, and chose the Surrey side of the river, furthest from the bank. The course was the regular Thames championship course, straight away from the Bridge at Putney to Mortlake, just beyond Barnes Bridge, a distance of a little over four and a quarter miles. Singularly enough, since both combatants are Colonials, Searle was the sentimental favorite, and all eyes were turned upon him as the two contestants rowed slowly down to the starting point. Both were in perfect form, and the opinion of the profession may be gathered from the fact that while the racers were waiting for the word half a dozen sports offered to sell even choice on either for a guinea. Twenty thousand people were at Putney, on the bridge, on the roofs of houses, on the banks of the river and in boats on the water. When word to go was given, like the wings of two great birds the oars flashed and the men were away, O'Connor gaining half a boat's length at the start. The water was smooth and the tide just at the ebb. For a hundred yards the nose of Searle's boat was only even with the Canadian's body. Then a great roar rose from the crowd as the Australian was seen to be creeping slowly up on the other. O'Connor realized it and put forth his best efforts, but in vain. In another hundred yards his young antagonist was even with him, and then for twice that distance both strained every nerve. The pace was the most rapid ever rowed, as was proved by the circumstance that the Australian beat the record at Hammersmith Bridge, half the distance, by four seconds, when he led O'Connor by a length and a half. It was Searle's race after that. The knowing ones feared that the Canadian had lost his nerve, when, as Searle began to draw away from him at the end of the first mile, he kept glancing across at his opponent, and when he missed a stroke with his right oar and caught a crab the spectators delightedly applauded Searle, who rowed steadily from start to finish without the slightest indication of nervousness. From Hammersmith Bridge the Australian continued to increase the distance between the two boats, and O'Connor could be seen to be nearly spent. A great many of the spectators did not expect to see him finish the race, but he stuck to his oars pluckily, though his strokes were uneven and his strength mostsentarily failing. At the bridge at Barnes the Australian was six lengths in the lead, and O'Connor was so nearly played that before the line was crossed his opponent had increased the distance to 10 lengths. The opinion of professional and non professional spectators was that it was a good race fairly won.

THE DEFEATED CANADIAN.

The first mile was done in 4.53, Searle then rowing 32 strokes to O'Connor's 33. At Hammersmith Bridge Searl's time was 8.38 and O'Connor's 8.44, when the pace told on both, and O'Connor slackened down to 28 strokes to the other's 30. Searle's time at the finish was 22 minutes 42 seconds, and O'Conno's 25 minutes 23 seconds.

More than £15,000 is said to have changed hands on the result.

A Sudden Death.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—James McInerney, Supreme Trustee of the Catholic Knights of America, dropped dead at Coney Island last night.

McGuffie's Good Pistol.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 9.—John McGuffie killed his divorced wife at San Pedro yesterday. He then shot himself, probably fatally.

A Tug Burned.

COCHRYWRIGHT, Sept. 9.—About one mile below here, at 7 this morning, the tug Edgar took fire and burned to the water's edge. The flames spread so rapidly that the crew had a narrow escape, although the boat headed for the shore immediately on the fire being discovered. The boat was insured for half her value.

Robbed on a Train.

OTTAWA, Sept. 9.—This morning Mrs. Law, daughter of the late Hon. Mr. Crawford, ex-Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, was robbed of her purse containing a considerable sum of money on the Montreal express between Calumet station and this city. There is no clue to the thief.

Mr Batcheller's Mission.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—It is stated that Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Batcheller will this week go to Ogdensburg, Cape Vincent, Oswego and Buffalo to investigate the alleged violation of the coasting laws by Canadian lumbermen.

Yielding to the Strikers.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—In addition to the dock companies, which have already acceded to the terms of the strikers, a number of other companies to-day signified their willingness to grant the demands of the men. The fund for the benefit of the striking workmen was augmented to-day by subscriptions amounting to £800. Leaders of the strike conferred with BURGLARY AT WOODSTOCK.

The Thieves Secure $450 in Cash and a Big Bundle of Notes.

WOODSTOCK, Sept. 9.—Some time between Saturday night and Sunday morning burglars entered the store of W. C. McLeod, hardware merchant, and ransacked the vault which was a poor one and easily opened. The burglars secured $150 in cash and notes amounting to $35,000 or $36,000.

Ambrose Hayward was fined $100 this morning for violation of the Crooks Act.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL.

Opening of the Canada Central Exhibition—The Copyright Bill.

OTTAWA, Sept. 9.—The city is full of visitors to-day, the occasion being the opening of the Canada Central Exhibition. At 2 o'clock this afternoon it was formally opened by Hon. John Carling, assisted by the Commissioners of Agriculture from Ontario and Quebec.

Sir John Macdonald leaves to-night for Toronto to open the exhibition there.

Hon. G. E. Foster and wife have returned from their bridal tour.

It is said that there is great likelihood of the Imperial Parliament rejecting the Copyright Bill passed by the Canadian Parliament last session.

Elliott, the farmer who was hurt yesterday by a mad bull, will recover. His condition is improving.

BAD BOB M'CULLOUGH.

Stabs James Whiteley at Hamilton—A Brakeman Seriously Injured.

HAMILTON, Sept. 9.—Bob McCullough, who has an unenviable police record and was released only last month from a three years' term in the penitentiary, last night went to the house of James Whiteley, where "Dublin Jane," Bob's mistress, was living and demanded to see the woman. Whiteley refused and angered at his resistance Bob drew his knife and stabbed him below the shoulder blade. The knife glanced upwards and pierced one of the lungs. McCullough did not make any effort to shake the dust of the city from off his feet, but calmly laid himself down to rest in a vacant lot in Burlington-street, where he was found at 4.30 this morning. The prisoner was brought before the magistrate this morning, and in the absence of Whiteley was remanded for eight days. Whiteley will probably recover.

James Houghton, G.T.R. fireman, while shunting in the yard yesterday morning slipped on the step and fell on the roadbed, his left leg going under the wheels of the engine. His foot was terribly crushed. The young man was picked up and conveyed to the hospital, where it was found necessary to amputate the foot above the ankle.

The boy John Douglas, who had his skull fractured by being kicked by a horse on Saturday afternoon, is lying at the city hospital in a critical condition and the medical men have little hope of his recovery.

Dr. Miles O'Reilly, youngest son of Judge O'Reilly of this city, died last evening in Paris, Ont., aged 52. The interment will take place here to-morrow afternoon.

Gibbo's Hard Luck.

GUELPH, Sept. 9.—Charles Gibbo, a Frenchman, who is living with Mr. Oakes, near the Centre Inn, met with two serious accidents last week. On Tuesday he was assisting with the threshing, when he had the misfortune to get his hand caught in the machine and his fingers were horribly lacerated. Two days later a couple of cats disturbed his slumbers, when he secured the old musket which had not been discharged by one of the present generation, and attempted to kill the felines. They escaped injury, but Gibbo didn't. Half of his right cheek was carried away.

The colored man Jackson, who is alleged to have attempted to commit a criminal assault on Mrs. Johnson of Maryboro', was arraigned before His Honor Judge Chadwick this morning and the date of his trial was fixed for Friday next.

A Singular Upheaval.

APPLETON, Wis., Sept. 9.—There was a remarkable occurrence at the mills of the paper company at the combined locks Saturday. From some cause there was an upheaval of rock upon which the mills are located, throwing the mill walls out of plumb, cracking a great wall of stone and cement 20 feet thick and making a saddle-back several hundred feet long and six inches higher. In the bedrock beneath the mill an artisian well 200 feet away has dried up.

Ten Miners Drowned.

DENVER, Col., Sept. 9.—An abandoned mine adjoining the White Ash coal mine near here has for months been full of water. To-day the water burst through into the White Ash mine, filling it with mud and water. Ten miners are known to have been in the White Ash at the time and not one could have lived five minutes afterwards. It will take nearly three weeks to reach their bodies.

Nine of the Baltic's Crew Arrested.

OWEN SOUND, Sept. 9.—Detective Murray of Toronto has been here for the past week looking up the Baltic case in company with Detective Pearce, and the result was the arrest on Friday evening of nine more of the Baltic's crew. The prisoners were brought before the magistrates this morning but were remanded for a week, the Crown not being prepared to proceed with the case. The name of the victim of the alleged outrage is said to be Charles Lambley, not Owens as previously reported.

Kindles a Big Fire in an Albany Rag Warehouse—Employes Fatally Burnt.

ALBANY, Sept. 9.—P. J. McArdle's large rag and general paper stock warehouse was totally destroyed by fire this afternoon, the origin of which was the spontaneous combustion of a pile of rags on the third story. So quickly did the fire spread through the grease saturated building that the employes, consisting of some 14 women and girls at work in the sorting room and 10 men and boys in the office or about the building, were forced to jump for their lives. The majority leaped to the roof of a neighboring house and escaped.

Carrie Swartz, who weighs over 200 pounds, jumped through into the yard and crashed through the roof of an outhouse, breaking her arm, several ribs and sustaining internal injuries.

Mrs. Ellen Mack jumped from the fourth story, a distance of 60 feet, and fell upon a pile of scrap iron. She fractured her left wrist and received numerous cuts about the face and head besides several burns. Her condition is critical.

Richard Gamble, a bookkeeper, went to the top of the building just before the fire began and his escape was cut off. In his endeavor to avoid the flames he fell through the shaft and was badly cut and bruised, but the inhalation of the flame was the direct cause of his death at 6.30.

Mrs. Ellen Frank, who jumped from the fourth floor, and Mrs. Ellen McShane, who fell through the elevator shaft, sustained fractures of the limbs and severe bruises but not necessarily fatal injuries. Several others received severe injuries. Loss about $80,000, insured.

Other Fires.

HAMILTON, Sept. 9.—The barn of Arthur Hildreth of Binbrook, together with the whole of his this season's crop and a part of last year's, were burnt Saturday afternoon. A spark from the engine of a threshing machine kindled the blaze. Loss $3,500, insured for $2000 in the Saltfleet and Binbrook Mutual.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 9.—The barns and sheds of W. H. Ketchabaw, front of Sydney, were burnt to-day.

TORONTO TOPICS.

How two Bodies Came to the Morgue Last Night—Hired in the Patrol Wagon.

TORONTO, Sept. 10.—Two dead bodies lie in the City Morgue. The first to enter the house of the friendless dead was that of Patrick Brophy, for many years one of the best known characters around St. Lawrence Market. Until Pat Boylan's hotel was closed up he did the odd chores around the bar, sleeping in the cellar at nights. Between times he earned many a quarter assisting Weighmaster Dunn to keep the farmers from weighing in their horses with their loads of hay, and in other respects was a generally useful man to the butchers.

Yesterday morning about 8 30 a man came over to Headquarters from the Model Lodging House and reported to the police that there was a man lying on a cot in that resort and the proprietor wanted him removed. The messenger was sent across to the health office for a hospital pass, but it appears did not go. At 7 o'clock in the evening business led Detective Slemin to visit the Model, and he there found Pat Brophy in all appearance dying. He hurried to Headquarters and got the ambulance sent up to have him removed to the Hospital. When the ambulance arrived, however, Brophy was found not in the house but in the yard, where Proprietor Nelson had flung him to die. The death rattle was in his throat when Policeman Fyfe, the driver of the ambulance, bent over him, and before he could be lifted into it Pat Brophy was dead.

The officer took the ambulance back to Headquarters and the patrol wagon drove to the Model and conveyed the remains to the Morgue, where Coroner Johnson will hold an inquest at 3 o'clock this afternoon. A searching inquiry will be made as to the circumstances surrounding the unfortunate man's death, and Nelson will be asked to explain why he allowed him to die like a dog in his yard. As 10 80 two half brothers of the deceased called at the Morgue and identified the body, which they will claim for burial after the inquest.

It was just 10 o'clock when a man named David McCleary dropped into Headquarters to report that there was a drunken woman lying on Jarvis-street, near Richmond. A gang of loafers were trying to hustle her into a lane but he had chased them off, and came down to tell the police. Policeman Phillips was sent up, and he found the woman as stated. He signalled for the patrol wagon and it was speedily on the scene. The insensible bundle of human flesh was tossed into the vehicle and a few minutes later lay on the floor at Headquarters without sense or motion. There were present Acting-Inspector Somerville, Sergeant Hales, Policeman Phillips and Matron Webb. It took but a few moments for them to see that the woman, if not actually dead, was so far gone as to render medical assistance a pressing necessity. Dr. Sweetman was telephoned for but he was out, and after a short delay Dr. King's services were secured.

Meanwhile the matron had forced open the mouth of the woman and poured a few drops of whisky down her throat, but with no result. A mirror was held to the nostrils and mouth, but no moisture dimmed the surface. A shadowed the surface of the glass. In fact before Dr. King arrived it was the unanimous opinion of all that the woman was a corpse. Dr. King, as soon as he saw the body and had felt the pulse, pronounced the woman dead, but could of course assign no reason for her death. The patrol wagon was once more summoned and for a second time that night started on its melancholy journey to the Morgue.

There was considerable doubt as to the identity of the woman whose body lies in the Morgue. Her age was apparently about 35, her hair black, features fairly regular, and face rather dissipated. The figure was small, well shaped and clad in the poorest description of garments. It was not until 12.30 last night that Patrol Sergeant Johnston identified the remains as those of Alice Tinning. Coroner Johnson will hold an inquest at 3 o'clock to-night.

The Chancery Divisional Court yesterday set aside the verdict in favor of the plaintiff in the case of Jane McNinch of Grimsby against William M. Merrits, a farmer of the township of Mersey, in Essex, given at the last Hamilton Assizes for $1000 damages. The action was brought for damages for breach of promise of marriage and seduction, but the claim on the latter count was abandoned before trial. The court held there was not sufficient corroborative evidence to warrant the verdict.

Argument in the Haldimand election case began at 10 o'clock yesterday morning in Cagoode Hall before Mr. Justice Falconbridge and lasted to 1.30 p.m. Mr. D'Alton McCarthy, Q.C., appeared for Dr. Montague and Mr. A. B. Aylesworth for Mr. Colter. Judgment will be given this morning as the opening of the Civil Assizes.

The steamer Canopus, a cattle boat, which reached Montreal on Saturday, was the scene of a suicide while en route, the victim being James Ready, a Toronto man. Some three weeks ago he had shipped for London with a cargo of cattle for the English market. On Saturday two weeks ago, as the Canopus, on which he was returning home, was breasting the Irish coast he threw himself overboard. The steamer stopped and every effort was made to save the unfortunate man, but before he could be reached he had sunk for the last time. Ready's widow and two children reside in Toronto.

A BOGUS LORD.

Fools the Dakota People and Turns Out to Be a Common Forger.

FARGO, N. D., Sept. 9.—A sensation was caused here yesterday by the arrest of a young man who for two weeks or more has been supposed to be a brother of the Duke of Durham. On his arrival he registered as Robert Morris of London, but soon avowed his noble origin, stating that owing to family troubles he was taking a tour of the world. His income he stated to be $50,000 a year and spent money lavishly. He first appeared at Mayville and exhibited letters of introduction from Cornelius Vanderbilt and other eastern gentlemen to the Dalrymples and other wealthy families. He speedily got into the best society and lived high. A week ago he left for the west, announcing his departure for Japan. However, he stopped at Jamestown, and on Friday night returned. As he was about to board the west bound train yesterday morning he was arrested by Inspector Mitchell of the London police for the forgery of £1500. His real name is Oswal Riddale. Of the money he had barely £40. He is 23 years old, and it is said his father is in an English prison for forgery.

Sunset Cox Seriously Ill.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Congressman Cox's physicians say he is in a very critical condition but he will at least live through the night.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—In the Nagle habeas corpus proceedings to-day Justice Field described the tragedy at Lathrop and expressed the opinion that if Nagle had not shot Terry he (Field) would have been dead within the next five seconds. He said the expression of Terry's face when he raised his hand to strike a second time was full of malice and murder. The Justice had no difficulty with Terry prior to rendering judgment in the Sharon case a year ago. In fact they had always been on friendly terms.

Several witnesses stated that when Terry fell to the floor in the depot at Lathrop Mrs. Terry threw herself upon her husband's body and remained there a minute or two. When she arose she declared Terry was unarmed. A pistol was produced which was found in Mrs. Terry's satchel.

A JERSEY BRUTE'S CRIME

SHOCKING MURDER OF MILLER LECONEY'S NIECE.

The Woman Found Lying in a Pool of Blood With Her Throat Cut from Ear to Ear—Evidences of a Desperate Struggle.

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 9.—This morning at Leconey's mill two miles from Merchantville, Annie Elizabeth Leconey, the 28-year-old niece and housekeeper of Chalkley Leconey, the miller, was murdered by a brute, who first attempted to outrage her and who also committed robbery. This morning Annie prepared breakfast for her uncle and a colored farm hand. They ate about 6 o'clock and went out into a field to work. The niece remained alone in the house waiting for another colored farm hand, Frank Lingo, to come for breakfast. Lingo did not appear in the field, but shortly after 7 o'clock a girl residing on a neighboring her back on the floor between an old-fashioned settee and the stove was Annie, her head on the settee cushion, which had been dragged off on the floor. Her throat was cut from ear to ear and by the side of her head was a keen edged butcher knife with a sharp point with which the crime had evidently been committed. The knife had been taken from a lot of table and kitchen knives farm ran to the field announcing that she had been at the house and had seen Annie lying on the floor with her throat cut. The miller hastened to the house. Lying on on a dresser in the room. The cushion and the carpet were saturated with blood and the life fluid had soaked through the floor seams and trickled down in a pool on the cellar floor.

It was evident that Miss Leconey had fought desperately with the murderer. Her clothing was nearly torn off. Her resistance to the brute's attempts probably caused him to take her life. After committing the crime the murderer went up-stairs and ransacked the bedrooms for money. From Mr. Leconey's room a box containing $200 in bills was taken; underneath the box was a wallet containing $240 and two bags of silver and currency, but these were not disturbed. The murdered woman had all her savings amounting to $426, in a trunk in Mr. Leconey's room, but the money was not stolen.

Frank Lingo was arrested this afternoon while at work on the Harn farm, a mile from the scene of the murder. He made no resistance. He was searched but nothing criminating was found. He is known to have left his home at 5 o'clock this morning to go to work on the Harn farm. He arrived at the farm at 6.15 o'clock and did not leave there until his arrest. Detective Burr thinks Lingo is not guilty. Lingo is 30 years old, married and resides at Homesteadville. He has worked on the Leconey farm at intervals since June.

The murdered woman was of exemplary habits and very popular among her neighbors. Her parents reside at Waverly, O. She acted as housekeeper for her uncle, Henry Leconey, who ran the mills until his death last spring. He left an estate of $25,000 and she had a claim against it for 7 years' service as housekeeper. It is said Chalkley Leconey disputed this claim, but so far as known they never quarrelled.

Johns Hopkins University in Distress.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 9.—Johns Hopkins University, the pride of the city and State, is in want and distress. From the proud position which a magnificent endowment and a princely income gave it, the university has fallen to a place where the salaries of its teachers must be cut and its trustees must pass the hat and beg for money, hoping against hope that no further cuts may become necessary, hopeless of widening its usefulness over the broad fields contemplated by its founder. Johns Hopkins gave to this university almost £4,000,000, and an income amounting to hundreds of thousands. He had earned this money honestly, and he bestowed it nobly. Out of it all there can now be found a pile of school buildings, a breadth of farm land that is worth no more than when he died and a pile of worthless paper representing shares in a bankrupt railroad. The munificent endowment and the princely income have melted away under the hand of a railroad wrecker.

A Verdict Against a Priest.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 8.—The jury in the case of Dr. Louis Morasse of South Boston against Rev. Father O. Ely Brochu, priest of Notre Dame Church, brought in a verdict to-day giving damages for plaintiff of $1500 with interest, or a total of $1720. Dr. Morasse was a parishioner of Father Brochu. He was divorced from his first wife and was married to a second wife by a Justice of the Peace. For this he was denounced from the pulpit by Father Brochu, which caused Dr. Morisse to bring suit for damages.

Not another day is left of the 1889 Summer if we go by the almanac. Its unparalled storms, floods, freshets and singular wetness with us, and extreme dryness in the west pass into history as part of the record of a remarkable year. It was a strange summer. It was a strangely active summer for us notwithstanding the general feeling of shortness of money and depression. Standing on the edge of autumn, the holidays behind us we now look ahead. Next Saturday, Sept. 7th, we commence the fall cannonade. The troops are passing from all quarters, the sound of the bargain guns will be heard all along the line. What shall be done with the balance of our summer things? Sell them at prices that will pay housekeepers to invest in them! All the while during the spring and summer we've been laying in and laying away autumn things. The time has come to show some of them. Our Dress Goods Department is groaning under the weight of the quantity of beautiful goods we have opened out from all lands where choice goods are made. Next week we shall endeavor to describe some of the different makes. The Mantle Department is more than usually attractive this year. We have full ranges of Ladies' Short and Long Mantles in a vari

In Healthy Condition. With Paresis Lesions.

There are many well known men confined in our Asylums who but a short time ago were prominent among our business and social circles.

Why are they there?

Paresis!

Did it come on at once?

Not at all. It was a gradual but positive growth. They overtaxed nature. The drain on their vitality, their nerve powers, their brain tissue, was too great, and they gradually but surely sank under it. The things they did to bring this sad end about are precisely the same things that are being done by thousands of men and women to-day. It is not necessary to name them. They all end disastrously unless checked or regulated.

Prof. Phelps, of Dartmouth College, knew this fully when he began his experiments which resulted in the discovery of the wonderful Paine's Celery Compound. He realized that paresis (consumption of the brain) was our great National weakness. He knew that the brain and nervous system must be fortified to meet the great strains which modern life bring upon it. He saw that men were becoming debilitated and women weakened by the pressure and demands of life, and he sought and discovered the remedy Paine's Celery Compound, if rightly taken, will renew the brain and build up nerve tissues as fast as they become exhausted. It is not a narcotic. It contains no drugs, no nostrums. It is perfectly pure. It is absolutely harmless. The high character of its discoverer guarantees this, and the indorsement of the medical and chemical Professions prove it.

EDUCATIONAL LETTERS.

Mr Earle Replies to Mr. Dumble's Charges.

To the Editor of the Examiner:—

DEAR SIR.—I intend, with your permission, to publish a series of letters on educational subjects, with special reference to the persistent efforts of a prominent member of the Board of Education to injure the reputation of our Schools, and to defame the characters of the teaching staff.

I have been often attacked; I have never replied. I have been for more than sixteen years a teacher in the Collegiate Institute; and cannot, therefore, be accused of ignorance of the subjects on which I propose to speak. I am a citizen of Peterborough, with a living to make and a family to educate, and have a right to be heard.

I have long borne, with more or less equanimity, Mr. Dumble's cowardly and malicious attacks on my character as a man, and as a teacher. The time has now come for me to reply. Should it be my misfortune, in this discussion, to wound the feelings of one worthy person, I would deeply regret it. My only desire is to counteract, so far as I can, the evil effects on our Schools of Mr. Dumble's malicious misrepresentations, and to defend my own conduct insofar as it is defensible. I shall strictly adhere to what I believe to be the truth; and, while I shall nothing extenuate, I shall set down naught in malice. Were the intellectual and moral well-being of the community the real object which Mr. Dumble has in view, the means which he makes use of to accomplish his purpose would still be such as no man who had any regard for justice or humanity, would resort to. I think it is Dickens who says that "all good ends may be worked out by good means."

It is always unpleasant for one to speak of his own short-comings; but my desire to do full justice to Mr. Dumble makes it necessary that I should do so. I never denied that there was truth in some of Mr. Dumble's statements with regard to me in the past. If I have never before undertaken a public defence of my conduct, it was because I knew that, in some respects, it was indefensible. Mr. Dumble's charges against me in the past, though greatly exaggerated, were to some extent true. Nor is it necessary to accuse him of wilful misrepresentation. Reports against the characters of men in public positions, seldom lose in transmission; and the information, as it reached Mr. Dumble's ears, may have been such as to justify so. rigid a conservator of the public morals in making the statements he did. My friends, with a desire of saving me from the effects of a habit which has mastered some of the strongest minds, frequently assured me that Mr. Dumble's attacks would cease if this one cause were removed. I did not think so at the time, and Mr. Dumble's last attack proves that I was right.

The character of a teacher should be, as nearly as possible, above reproach; and, had Mr. Dumble taken the steps which Christianity, or even humanity would dictate, to secure my removal from the position of English Master, he might have satisfied his own conscience that he was doing his duty as a good citizen and a Christian. The course he has taken has, I believe, convinced any who were previously in doubt, that his pretended motives were not his real ones.

I must ask your indulgence here, Mr. Editor, for a slight digression. I wish to take this public opportunity of expressing my gratitude to my friends, both members of the Board and others, who refused, in my dark hour, to listen to Mr. Dumble's persuasions, and who so kindly assisted me with their counsel and support. I believe that the general public will now agree that they were justified in the course which they took in their efforts to save me, if not for the good of the community at large, at least, for the sake of my wife and children.

Mr. Dumble's opposition to me is of long standing. It began with the publication, in the Review, of a series of letters, signed "Dark Shade," during the principalship of the late Mr. J. B. Dixon. I happened at the time to be boarding with the supposed author of these letters, and was accused of having had some part in their production. I do not expect, nor do I care, to satisfy Mr. Dumble that I am guiltless of having knowingly assisted in attacking a gentleman, for whom I entertained the highest respect, and, I can truly say, brotherly affection; but those who know me best, and whose good opinion I value, will believe me when I most solemnly assert, as I do now, that I had no knowledge of the letters before their appearance in the Review, nor did I know, though I suspected, the name of the author, until some time after they appeared.

I do not blame Mr. Dumble, nay I commend him, for defending his friends. I admit that there were circumstances that pointed somewhat strongly against me; but, in the absence of proof, I think that my solemn disavowal of any voluntary connection with the "Dark Shade" letters should have been accepted. I say voluntary connection, for it is more than possible that information unwittingly supplied by me was made use of by the author. I do not claim that Mr. Dumble's opposition to me has always been as active as it has been for the last six years; but I assert, without fear of contradiction, that since the time referred to he has, as he once virtually admitted to me, been generally opposed to me.

Mr. Dumble's more active opposition began with a series of disputes among teachers, in which I became involved, much against my will, and of which I was nearly as guiltless as I was of the letters. I have already stated that there was another reason which might at this time, have justified Mr. Dumble in taking proper steps to secure my dismissal; but he was not satisfied with simply getting me out of my situation; he was determined at the same time to inflict upon me an irreparable injury. Regardless of the consequences to myself, to my wife, and to my helpless children, he made a furious and brutal assault on my character, and insisted on having the whole of his speech published in the papers. Some members of the Board will perhaps recognize that he tried, at this time, to get me appointed as head master of one of the ward schools, thus proving that the moral question was not the real one.

I may here mention a circumstance which will show how little admiration was paid to Mr. Dumble's statements at this time. Only a few months after the appearance of these charges, the late Mr. Jas. F. Dunnistoun sent me a note requesting me to give his daughters instruction in English literature. After an interview with Mr. and Mrs. Dunnistoun, a class was formed, composed of ladies married and single, representing most of the leading families in Peterborough and vicinity. A similar class has been formed and largely attended every winter since. That Mr. Dumble did not believe his own statements is shown by the fact that, not two months after making them, he assured me that he had tried, unsuccessfully, to get his daughter to attend this private class.

I do not propose, Mr. Editor, to enter into any defence of Mr. Long. He is quite capable of taking care of himself, and will, I have no doubt, at the proper time, give Mr. Dumble the castigation he so richly deserves; but there is one circumstance in his attacks on Mr. Long which confirms what I wish to establish in this letter. Mr. Dumble admits that Mr. Long is a scholar and a gentleman: that his character is irreproachable; and asserts that, in his case also, he is influenced by the highest motives. Can any reasonable man believe that, if Mr. Dumble were influenced solely by what he believes to be best for the educational interests of the community, he would make a public attack on Mr Long, thereby rendering it difficult for him to secure another situation? Knowing Mr. Dumble as most of us do, is it not more reasonable to suppose that there is some personal matter—some private pique—which induces him to take this cowardly and unmanly course? There are many points of difference between the two men; in fact, it would be difficult to mention any characteristics which they have in common.

There is another matter which bears upon the fact which I wish to establish in this communication.

After the late Dr. Tassie was appointed Principal, he received a letter from Peterborough, stating that if I was re-appointed English Master, an immediate attack would be made on the School through the public press. I do not know that Mr. Dumble was the author of this letter; but his subsequent course points in that direction. The attack was made and has been pretty steadily persisted in.

Mr. Dumble has generally been an advocate for a free school, or at least for a low fee; and, I may say here that I believe he would be more liberal, not to say lavish, in the expenditure of money for educational purposes, provided he could have his own way in the engagement of teachers and in the general management of school affairs. How does it happen that, since Mr. Long's appointment, Mr. Dumble has been not only in favor of keeping up the present high fee, but of increasing it?

Mr. Dumble was appointed as a delegate to wait on the County Council for the purpose of obtaining a county grant to the Collegiate Institute. If he had really desired to get a grant, would he, at the time of asking it, have charged the members of that body with ignorance and dishonesty?

Mr. Dumble's one desire is to make the school a failure, so long as the present principal is at the head of it. With this object in view he lets no opportunity pass of endeavoring to injure our schools both at home and abroad. Is there a member of the Board of Education who will give Mr. Dumble credit for honesty of purpose? Does any sane man believe that Mr. Dumble was honest in the question of the market building? In short, is there anyone in Peterborough who believes that there is any honesty in the man?

It is this man, Dumble, who has done most to injure the institution, for the welfare of which he pretends so much solicitude. It is he who insisted upon having a lady teacher engaged, in order that a refining influence might be exerted on the young ladies attending the Institute. By his usual chicanery, he succeeded in getting three ladies appointed one after another. Two of them were young girls who had never done an hour's public teaching, and not one of the three possessed the necessary legal qualifications.

This is the man whom the town council persists in appointing on the High School Board, though they well know he could not be elected pound-keeper for any ward in Peterborough.

It is this man who deliberately falsified a report to secure the appointment of a teacher whom he favored, and who has done his best to thwart the efforts of the ablest and most successful teachers.

This is the man who uses his official position to vent his petty spite upon men who are immeasurably his superiors.

It is this man, for whose character I can think of no parallel outside the pages of "Old Curiosity Shop," who sets himself up as the guardian of the public morals.

In my next letter, Mr. Editor, which will contain an analysis of the results of the last Departmental Examinations, I propose to deal particularly with Mr. Dumble's last charges.

I have marked out the course which I intend to pursue in these letters. I have suffered much; I have waited long; I have counted the probable cost. I shall not permit myself to be drawn off, at present, to the discussion of any side issues; but shall pursue my course steadily to the end. I have never written an article for a newspaper before, and should not have done so now had I not been forced into it.

While I do not court a newspaper controversy, I do not fear one; and if Mr. Dumble, or any of his friends, wishes to take up the discussion I shall, after the completion of my present task, be very much at their service.

I am, Mr. Editor,
Your much obliged servant,

And some because they're too cold,
Some drink to strengthen them when young
And some when they are old.

SPLENDID BUILDING SITES

I have placed on the market

That Desirable and Well Situated Property

in the western part of the Town, and offer it in lots as per plan annexed. This affords a splendid opportunity to secure a location for your home in a rapidly improving and in every respect the best part of the town. The properties are situated on Cedar and Hatton streets and within a stone's throw of the West Ward School and a short distance of the principal Churches and the Hamilton Co'y. Works.

"ERIN COTTAGE," late the residence of Mr. Elias Thompson, is situated in the centre of the block. This property is for sale or can be had at a bargain. It is a desirable suburban residence.

The lots have good frontages on streets of the standard width and are splendidly located. From the upper lots is afforded one of the best views of the town with ample facilities for drainage.

Several fine dwellings are already contracted for to be built on these lots during this season.

Tradesmen and merchants should inspect this property as it offers the best sites available and convenient to the business part of the town.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Engineer Wellington's Report on the Esplanade Question.

TORONTO, Sept. 9.—A Mr. Wellington, the expert employed by the Board of Trade, has submitted a report on the Esplanade question. He favors a viaduct for the railroads from York-street to the East End and a public park on the water front.

Chief Justice Sir Thomas Galt delivered judgment Saturday in the now celebrated case of the Town of Cobourg against Victoria University, an action brought to prevent the university from uniting with the University of Toronto. Some time ago the court granted an injunction restraining the defendants, the Victoria University and its senate, who are co-plaintiffs, from taking any steps towards federation with Toronto. Subsequent to this injunction being granted the Senate of Victoria met in Toronto and passed a resolution in favor of federation. They then made the motion upon which judgment is now delivered, asking the court to dismiss the action and to dissolve the injunction as against them, declaring that their resolution showed that their interests were identical with the defendant university and they should no longer be held as co-plaintiffs.

His Lordship refused to grant either of their requests, holding that the resolution having been passed in Toronto instead of Cobourg is illegal and ineffective and that the injunction must be continued.

Argument in the Haldimand election case was fixed for Saturday afternoon at Osgoode Hall, but at the request of Mr. Dalton McCarthy it was postponed till this morning at 10 o'clock.

A young man named George Mitchell of 7 Northcote-avenue was drowned while boating in Humber Bay yesterday afternoon. He had just reached a point opposite the Bolt Works when his boat capsized, throwing him into the water, where he sank for the third time before any assistance could arrive. The deceased was only 20 years of age.

Fought to Drown Herself.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—There was an exciting rescue of a pretty young woman in the East River, at Grand-street, early yesterday. Lena Henzog, age 17, jumped overboard there and fought like a tigress to drown herself. She refused to tell the police why she had tried to drown herself, but her father, who was summoned from Brooklyn, said he thought she was in love.

Run Down by a Train and Killed.

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 7.—King Gatts, one of the most prominent and wealthiest citizens of Moundsville, and his wife were run down by a train near that place to-night and killed.

Ohio's Bad Cheese.

TIFFIN, Ohio, Sept. 7.—Fifty people were seriously poisoned by eating cheese at the village of Bettsville to-day, and it is feared some may die. This is the third lot of people poisoned in like manner within a week, and the matter will be investigated.

No Extra Session of Congress Likely.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—After a long discussion on the subject to-day it is understood the Cabinet decided that at present there was nothing making it either desirable or necessary to call an extra session of Congress.

It Will Take a Long Time at This Rate.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—The week closed without a single juror being selected in the Cronin trial.

No Chance for Mr. Webb.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Warden Osborne of the Tombs to-day received a letter from Mr. Webb of Bellevidere, Kent, Eng., setting forth that as the English newspapers have stated that it is difficult to obtain a hangman in this country he will take the position. Mr. Webb said his character will bear the strictest investigation and he feels confident he can give ample satisfaction. The Warden replied that after this year there would be no more hanging, electricity taking its place, and that ten days ago at an execution he had no more to do with the hanging than the man in the moon.

A Gas Explosion in Gotham.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—An explosion of gas occurred in the 16th-street sewer this afternoon. Two workmen were seriously burned.

Dismissed for Want of Evidence.

OSHAWA, Sept. 7.—Thomas Sheridan of Oshawa was brought before Police Magistrate Grierson to-day charged with a criminal assault on a girl named Davis of the Five Points. The case was dismissed for want of sufficient evidence.

Pleuro-Pneumonia in New Jersey.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 8.—Contagious pleuro-pneumonia has been discovered in dairy stables just outside this city in Clinton township.

A Test Case.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 7.—The Bell Telephone Company will file a suit Monday asking heavy damages from two electric street railroad companies in this city and that they be compelled to so change their electric plant as not to injure the Bell Company. This will be a test case, as the same complaints exist in other cities. Telephonic communication with many points near here is said to have been almost ruined by the induction of the powerful wires of the electric railway.

Probable Lynching.

PANA, Ill., Sept. 9.—L. S. Tate was arrested at Mattoon yesterday on suspicion of having stolen a horse here. A constable left Mattoon to-day with the prisoner for this city. At Tower Hill the train was boarded by an excited crowd of men who overpowered the constable and took Tate away.

An Insult Avenged.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 9.—A Greenville, Miss., special reports the killing of two negroes by another negro, who se sister they insulted.

A Race Trouble.

SAVANAH, Ga., Sept. 9.—H. T. Castleberry, Mr. Marshal of Pelham was shot and killed last night while trying to arrest a negro for inciting a riot. After Castleberry was shot he returned the negro's fire and a general shooting began between whites and blacks in which the negro was fatally wounded. A race trouble seemed imminent for a time but was averted.

The Appetite

May be increased, the Digestive organs strengthened, and the Bowels regulated, by taking Ayer's Pills. These Pills are purely vegetable in their composition. They contain neither calomel nor any other dangerous drug, and may be taken with perfect safety by persons of all ages.

I was a great sufferer from Dyspepsia and Constipation. I had no appetite, became greatly debilitated, and was constantly afflicted with Headache and Dizziness. I consulted our family doctor, who prescribed for me, at various times, without affording more than temporary relief. I finally commenced taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time my digestion and appetite my bowels were regulated, and, by the time I finished two boxes of these Pills my tendency to headaches had disappeared, and I became strong and well.—Darius M. Logan, Wilmington, Del.

I was troubled, for over a year, with Loss of Appetite, and General Debility. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and, before finishing half a box of this medicine, my appetite and strength were restored.—C. O. Clark, Danbury, Conn.

Ayer's Pills are the best medicine known to me for regulating the bowels, and for all diseases caused by a disordered Stomach and Liver. I suffered for over three years with Headache, Indigestion, and Constipation. I had no appetite, and was weak and nervous most of the time.

BY USING

three boxes of Ayer's Pills, and, at the same time dieting myself, I was completely cured. My digestive organs are now in good order, and I am in perfect health.—Philip Lockwood, Topeka, Kans.

Ayer's Pills have benefited me wonderfully. For months I suffered from Indigestion and Headache, was restless at night, and had a bad taste in my mouth every morning. After taking one box of Ayer's Pills, all these troubles disappeared, my food digested well, and my sleep was refreshing.—Henry C. Hemmenway, Rockport, Mass.

I was cured of the Piles by the use of Ayer's Pills. They not only relieved me of that painful disorder, but gave me increased vigor, and restored my health.—John Lazarus, St. John, N. B.

Sporting Notes.

The Colts and Veterans are billed to play again this afternoon.

To-morrow's cricket match between Napanee and Peterborough will likely be close and interesting.

The Athletic baseball club will play in Campbellford next Monday.

The Moral Reform Movement.

The meeting of the Mark street Methodist church last night was well attended. In the absence of Rev. A. C. Wilson, Mr. R. J. Collville presided. Mrs. Bradley gave a detailed description of the White Cross and White Shield movements, and for the better illustration of her subject used a couple of charts. Her address to night will be delivered at the Baptist church.

A Sudden Death.

Monday forenoon Mr. Greenbanks, an old and well-known resident of Norwood, died very suddenly. He was loading peas on a wagon at his farm near the village, when he suddenly fell backwards on the ground and expired before the man on the load could come to his assistance. Death is supposed to have been caused by a stoppage in the blood vessel leading from heart. Deceased was 70 years of age and in good circumstances. He leaves a large family and an extensive circle of friends to mourn his loss.

Labor Day.

Final arrangements have been made for the celebration of Labor Day, next Monday, 16th inst., by the trades and labor unions of the town. The day has been proclaimed a public holiday, and the workingmen and their friends will hold their annual picnic. This year they go to Campbellford, where there is more accommodation. Coaches enough will be procured to accommodate a large crowd. There will be a platform meeting on the picnic grounds, at which address will be delivered by prominent local speakers.

John R. Clarke's Lecture.

The Charlotte street Methodist church was well filled last night with an appreciative audience. Mr. John R. Clarke, the well known lecturer, delivered his famous address on "Everyday Folk," and needless to say his hearers were highly satisfied. Rev. S. J. Shorey acted as chairman of the meeting. After the lecture the audience adjourned to the school room where refreshments were served. The proceeds of the entertainment go to swell the Sunday School fund. Mr. Clarke still retains his old form and brilliancy which have made him a favorite with Peterborough audiences.

Home from India.

Rev. Jas. Smith, a former resident of Peterborough, has returned on a visit after ten years absence in India. Mr. Smith is a brother-in-law of Mr. John Nugent, and was born near Lindsay. Most of his early life in Canada was spent in Toronto. Ten years ago he left Canada for India in the educational missionary cause, and became principal of a college at Ahmednagar, in the Bombay Presidency. In this district there are only twelve persons engaged in the educational work amongst a population of 300,000 souls. The college trains young men from infancy up, and educates them as high as the B. A. degree. Mr. Smith is home on furlough for the benefit of his health, and will probably remain a year in Canada. He will also endeavor to secure recruits for the work, of

THE BOROUGH BUDGET.

In presenting his annual statement Mr. DAVIDSON said that the council regretted that it was impossible to keep the rate down to 12½ mills. The increase arose from causes beyond the control of the council. The increased demand from the schools amounted to 7-10 ths of a mill, which nearly accounted for the increase. Besides there was a falling off in the revenue from the Police Court and the amount receivable from liquor licenses was at present problematical. The present $180 for shops, but if the present appeal re the high license was successful, though there would be no lessening of the rate this year there would be a large surplus to carry over to the next fiscal year which would greatly reduce the rate. There was a slight increase also in the debenture account due to building bridges. It was the intention of the council to ask power from the legislature to extend the currency of debentures from twenty years—the present limit—to thirty years. This would bring better prices for debentures and keep down the interest account. This year there was a large amount spent on streets and bridges,—services that could not be neglected. The Nicholls hospital demand would be decreased by a government grant. He closed his remarks by moving the first reading of a by-law to levy a rate.

In reply to Mr. Rutherford, Mr. DAVIDSON said that $72,000 of debentures would be wiped out in 1893, a saving of 6 per cent. interest on that amount.

MR RUTHERFORD congratulated the chairman of the finance committee, the clerk and the treasurer for the care taken in preparing the statement that had been presented. He thought the people would approve of the statement. There was only an increase of 1 1 10, accounted for by increased expenditure and lessening of revenue. There were necessary increases in several departments—$10,300 on streets as against $9,500 last year. These must be kept up. He referred to the several increases, and pointed out what saving could be effected in the future. He considered the standing of Peterborough would compare favorably with any town in Canada. He seconded the first reading of the by-law which passed its several readings.

SCHOOL DEBENTURES BY-LAW.

A by-law to raise $18,000 for school purposes received its second reading, and the date for the popular vote was fixed for Oct. 14th, the polling places and returning officers being as usual.

A motion of Mr. Rutherford, seconded by Mr. Baptie, to place electric lights on the corners of McDonel and Park streets and McDonel and Bethune was referred, to the Fire, Water and Light Committee, and the council adjourned.

Ashburnham Council.

Passing the Pay-sheets and Accounts—Striking the Rate for the year—Public School Supporters to Pay 14 Mills—Separate School Supporters 14½ mills on the Dollar.

A regular meeting of the village council was held on Monday, 9th instant, for the purpose of passing the estimates of the year.

Present—John Barnham, Esq., Reeve, and Messrs. Calcutt, Craig, Marshall and Tivey.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

PAYMENT OF ACCOUNTS.

Moved by Mr. Tivey, seconded by Mr. Marshall, that the following accounts be paid:—

ASKING FOR RELIEF.

Mrs. Joseph Graham, jr., appeared before the council, asking for assistance, as her husband had left her.

After hearing her statements, the Council proposed a certain measure of relief, which she refused to accept, and left the room.

ESTIMATES FOR THE YEAR.

The following estimates of the expenditures and receipts of the year were laid before the council by the treasurer. Mr. A. H. Peck, necessitating the levy of a rate of 14 mills on Public school supporters, and 14½ mills on Separate school supporters.

EXPENDITURES.

FOR THE SCHOOLS.

The public school board require $1,106 ($906 00 for school purposes, and $200 00 for debentures). The public school assessment is $368,874, 3 mills on the $ will produce $1,106.02.

The separate school board require $225.45 Its assessment is $60,235. A rate of 3¾ mills will produce $226.06.

A by-law was prepared and passed in accordance with above statement,

The council then adjourned.

Police Court.

TUESDAY, Sept. 10.

The liquor case against T. Cavanagh was taken up, Mr. Edwards, town solicitor, for the prosecution and Mr. A. P. Poussette for the defence. Two witnesses were examined, one swearing he and his companion got liquor from Mr. Cavanagh himself in the billiard room after hours on Saturday, 31st ult.; the other stating that they got it from Mr. Cavanagh's son in the office. The magistrate said he considered the offence proven, and intended that this law which the hotel-keepers were so anxious to get and which was such a good law, should be respected. He fined the defendant $80 and costs, the highest limit for a second offence.

The sawdust cases came up again. There were half a dozen new charges laid against Messrs. Hazlitt and Irwin by Inspector Gilchrist, making 26 cases in all—15 against Mr. Hazlitt and 11 against Mr. Irwin. Mr. Poussette was counsel for the defendants and Mr. A. Stevenson for the plaintiff. A plea of not guilty was entered. Evidence in only one case was taken, the same evidence applying to all the others. The inspector gave the usual testimony about the quantity of sawdust he saw coming from the mills. In reply to a question Mr. Gilchrist said he had received fresh instructions from the department only last Friday, notwithstanding the Deputy Minister's recent letter to Mayor Stevenson, to proceed until he was satisfied bona fide efforts were being made to abate the nuisance. Mr. George Cochrane, Fishery Inspector of the waters north of the locks, produced the agreement of 1886 between the mill-owners and the Department, which it is claimed they are now violating. He contended that they are fully carrying out the agreement. All the cases were further enlarged for one week, as it was announced the mill-owners were arranging an interview with the Minister. Mr. Hazlitt also said he wanted to show what he had done to improve the condition of his mill.

Personal.

Mr. John R. Clarke was the guest of Mr. A. L. Davis while in town.

The Port Hope Guide says:—W. H. J. Hewitt, of Whitewater, Wisconsin, made us a call to-day on his way to Peterborough, where he was called to see his father, who died on Sunday night.

Mrs. T. Barrie and Miss Barrie, of Gilmour street, leave this evening on a trip to Stirling, State of Kansas. On the return trip they will stop at Kalamazoo, Mich., and other places to visit friends and relatives. They will be away from town about a month.

For the Missionary Cause.

An entertainment was held in the George street church last night under the auspices of the Young People's Association, the proceeds of which were devoted to the missionary fund. Mr. A. E. Scott, President occupied the chair. There was a good attendance, principally of ladies. The programme consisted of opening hymns and prayers and Scripture reading, music by the Y. M. C. A. band, a solo by Miss Lizzie Rutherford, an address by Rev. Mr. Payton, a vocal selection by the Y.M.C.A. glee club, a recitation entitled "Is it ignorance?" by Miss Lillie Ford, and closing exercises. The address by Rev. Mr. Payton was particularly interesting. He is a young divine connected with the Presbyterian church, and has been for two years in the North-west. He is now visiting his parents in town, and purposes finishing up his education before resuming work. His address was on "Indian Missions." Mr W. H. Dingle was pianist for entertainment. A good collection was taken up in behalf of the missionary fund.

GRAND MASTER R.W. BELL.

Congratulated by Otonabee Lodge of Oddfellows.

And Presented With an Address and Handsome Walking Stick—Copies of the Address and Reply—A Pleasant Feature of a Regular Lodge Meeting.

Otonabee lodge rooms last night were the scene of a very pleasant event. There was an unusually large attendance of the members, it being pretty well known that Dr. R. W. Bell, the newly elected Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Oddfellows of Ontario, was to be present and receive some token of congratulation from the brethren of the lodge. It was the occasion of his first official visit, and the members of the lodge took advantage of it to do honor to one of their number who has just been elevated to the highest position in the order in Ontario.

The Grand Master was received with honors by the lodge. He was accompanied by District Deputy Grand Master Thos. Workman, and occupied a seat at the right of the Noble Grand, Bro. R. M. Roy, the District Deputy sitting on the left. Before the presentation took place Bro. Workman read a lengthy report of the proceedings of the last Grand Lodge meeting, which was listened to with interest by all present. Then the secretary stepped out and read the following address to the Grand Master:—

THE ADDRESS:

To R. W. Bell, M. D., Grand Master of Ontario, of the Independent Order of Oddfellows:

DEAR SIR AND BRO.—We desire to take advantage of the opportunity afforded by your first visit to this lodge, in your official capacity, to tender you our heartiest congratulations on having been unanimously chosen by the Oddfellows of Ontario, to fill the highest office in the Order in the province.

We are pleased that a member of the Order in Peterborough, and one who is connected with Otonabee Lodge, and who has done so much for the Order in this town, has been chosen to fill this high position during the present year. We feel that in having won the confidence and esteem of the brethren of the province you have brought honor upon the Order in Peterborough and the town.

It is an honor you have earned, it is a dignity you will worthily uphold, and we are sure, judging from your steadfastness in the past in upholding the principles of Oddfellowship, and the zeal you have manifested in behalf of the advancement of the order, that it is an office, though of high and onerous duties, that you will fill with advantage and benefit to the Order in the province.

We believe the brethren of the province stand ready to lighten the performance of your duties by their sympathy and hearty co-operation, and we hope that during your term as Grand Master you may see the Order grow and prosper even more than in past years.

Signed on behalf of Otonabee Lodge No. 13, I.O.O.F.,

W.F. GREEN, P.G. C. J. TABER, R.S.
Peterborough, September 9th, 1889.

The address was handsomely illuminated, the work of the Peterborough Business College, and neatly framed. Bro. Roy, Noble Grand, presented the address and the accompanying cane, a beautiful ebony stick surmounted with a gold head-piece, 14 karat fine, elegantly chased and inscribed as follows:—

PRESENTED TO
BRO. R. W. BELL,
GRAND MASTER, I.O.O.F.

OTONABEE LODGE.
PETERBOROUGH, SEPT. 9TH, 1889.

The handsome walking stick was procured by the committee through Mr. Jos. McClelland, jeweler.

The Noble Grand in presenting the gift added a few well-timed remarks, referring to the cane as a support for the Worthy Grand Master in days to come, when he might find his duties too onerous to bear unsupported,

THE REPLY.

Grand Master BELL returned his sincere thanks for the gift and for the gratifying sentiments expressed in the address. He felt at a loss how to suitably reply, and felt also quite unworthy of the handsome present and the kind words accompanying it. He had, certainly, in his fifteen years connection with the Order worked for its interests, but never directly or indirectly, for his own interest. He had never asked a vote in seeking for high positions in the Order, and it was gratifying to him that the recent honor had been tendered him unsolicited. It was gratifying to him personally, of course, but more so on account of the Lodge to which he belonged. His new duties would be onerous; he was just finding out that they would be greater than he supposed. And he asked the assistance of his brethren in aiding him to properly fulfil the duties which lay before him. With their hearty support he had no doubt of being able to fill the position creditably. He would have a life long remembrance and appreciation of this gift. There were a few events in his life of which he had felt proud, but never had he felt as he did that night, proud of his high position in the Order and in the hearts of the brethren. His relations with his brother Oddfellows had always been most amicable, and he had tried and always would try to be a true Oddfellow. He would endeavor to maintain the honor of his position but at the same time he would also endeavor to maintain his cordial relations with the individual members of the Order. He said he could not find words to thank the brethren for their gift and kind words, but he would perhaps on a future occasion endeavor to do justice to his feelings. On resuming his seat the Grand Master receiving a storm of applause.

CONGRATULATORY.

Bro. Thos. Workman, on behalf of the Otonabee Lodge, volunteered the assistance requested by the Grand Master, and also his own personal aid whenever called upon.

Bro. Dack, N G., of Canada Lodge, Toronto, said a few words, and Bro. Cowie, P. G., of Peterborough Lodge, remarked that Otonabee Lodge was to be congratulated upon having the Grand Master among its members. He felt sure the worthy doctor would fill the position ably, and assured him that he had many warm friends outside the lodge who would wish him every success. He added his own congratulations, and said he always felt as much at home in Otonabee lodge as among his own brethren.

Bros. Geo. I. Rouzel, J. J. Turner, Jno. Nugent, V.G., and Dench of Lakefield also made a few remarks.

After the lodge was closed the Grand Master received the congratulations of all those present. Then an adjournment was made to the dining-room, where lunch was partaken of, and the evening was brought to a pleasant termination by an impromptu musical programme in the lodge room. The brethren broke up with cheers for the Grand Master and the singing of the national anthem.

The committee in charge of the presentation, Messrs. Jos. McClelland, S. R. Armstrong and W. J. Green, deserve a word of praise for the successful termination of their efforts. They were tendered a vote of thanks by the lodge.

News Nuggets.

—A general meeting of the Board of Trade will be held to night in the council chamber.

—The first battalion drill of the 57th Rangers after the summer holidays, takes place at the drill shed to-night. Let there be a good turn-out of the volunteers.

To-night's Address.

Mrs. Bradley will speak to-night at 8 o'clock in the Murray street Baptist church. Christians of all grades are urged to be present, and to come early. Subject:—"How to adapt the White Cross and White Shield to existing organizations." "Is it nothing to you?" is a question asked of all who call themselves Christians.

Another Rock Ahead.

Now that the dog-days are over, the fall bonnet is the rock in which the family pocket book will split. This season need be no dread to the family that has patronized Hawley Bros. for teas and coffees. They will have saved enough of money, and got so much comfort from the use of these goods, that fall bonnets will have no fear for them. Remember when you want to get the best of teas at the best of prices, or coffees, ditto, that Hawley Bros. is the best place and only place in town.

Another Whitechapel Horror This Morning.

An Abandoned Woman Murdered and Mutilated.

(Special Cable to Examiner.)

LONDON, Eng., Sept. 10.—At 5.35 o'clock this morning a policeman found the body of a fallen woman lying at the corner of the railway arch on Cable street, Whitechapel. An examination of the remains showed that the head and arms had been cut off and carried away and the stomach ripped open, the intestines lying on the ground. A cordon of police instantly surrounded the spot, but no arrests have been made up to this hour, 8 a.m. The physicians who examined the body state in their opinion the murder occurred an hour previous. The manner in which the limbs were severed shows that the murderer was possessed of some surgical skill. The woman was about 30 years old. The most intense excitement again prevails in Whitechapel.

Unhappy Haldimand.

Another Dominion Election Ahead—The Election of Mr. Colter Voided—Indiscreet Zeal of Agents. Mr. Colter Unconnected With the Corrupt Acts.

TORONTO Oct 10.—Judge Falconbridge this morning gave judgment at the Court house in the Haldimand election case. After referring at considerable length to the evidence he decided that the election was voided, through corrupt practices of agents but without knowledge or consent of respondents. Question of cost left in abeyance.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

At the meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary held yesterday, the attendance was good and much interest was displayed by the ladies in our work; it was resolved to hold a promenade concert in the Charlotte street rink, on Thursday evening, September 27th, (last day of the fair), Energetic committees were appointed to carry out the details, and our ladies' are going to give us an evening of real enjoyment and pleasure. A committee was appointed to refurnish the parlor at once. We are getting our rooms in shape, and when all is completed we shall have a very cosy home for our young men. The lecture committee will meet at 5 p. m. Wednesday. We have about completed arrangements for the best talent available in America, and if we receive the encouragement we should, we shall give entertainments second to none this season to our people.

A Fish Story.

A sea serpent was said to have been seen in Little Lake Sunday. Several boating parties and a number of bathers were startled by seeing what appeared to be an immense serpent's head wriggling along the surface of the water, while a fin on the beast's back gave it the appearance of being a monstrous reptile. It was swimming around the lake, and some of the canoeists and bathers fled for dear life when they saw it approach. If they had all acted this way Peterborough would now be convulsed with a genuine sea serpent scare; but alas for the sensation it was exploded when a close examination by some adventurous spirits, revealed the fact that the supposed snake was simply a ten pound lunge, which was swimming with its head out of water, supposably on account of some sore in its mouth or neck that it wished to keep above water. A fish of this size with its head and fin out of water would easily appear like a big snake to an imaginative person, hence their fright. The fish was not caught, and soon disappeared. Probably the greater number of the sea serpent mysteries one hears of every season could be explained in some similar way if the men who see them would drink a better quality of whiskey or do a little courageous investigation instead of running away in fright.
